

This is a place where the simplicity of life is fully enjoyed and its complexities are dealt with one day at a time.

While still facing economic and social challenges in its development, the Bahamas remain a popular tourist attraction which enjoys excellent relations with the U.S. The country and its government have worked diligently to uplift itself and move towards prosperity. The islands offer a rich diversity of geography, history, and beauty that attracts visitors and guests from around the world. Tourism alone provides an estimated 60 percent of the gross domestic product and employs about half the Bahamian work force. In 2000, more than 4 million tourists visited the Bahamas, 83 percent of them from the U.S. With help and assistance from its friends, the Bahamas will continue to grow in prosperity, peace, and beauty.

I congratulate the people of the Bahamas on their 32nd Independence Day and know that many more years of successful growth and economic development are ahead of them. I also wish our friends in the Bahamas years of peace and tranquility, independence and justice, and a robust and prosperous economy.

BAHAMAS IS BLESSED—DAME IVY

Governor-General Ivy Dumont reminded Bahamians of how blessed the country has been over the years, as celebrations to mark 32 years of independent nationhood unfolded at Clifford Park on Saturday night.

In her Independence Day message, Mrs. Dumont said since 1973, Bahamians have made much progress in national economic and political life. She challenged all political, spiritual and civic leaders to continue to adopt the fundamental doctrine upon which the country's independence was declared. That principle, she said, is a national commitment to self-discipline, industry, loyalty, unity and an abiding respect for Christian values and the rule of law.

"As a people we have many reasons to celebrate, not least being the blessings upon our nation flowing from our godly heritage. It is to this rich spiritual legacy that we, as Bahamians, attribute our orderly and sustained economic, social and political development. Accordingly, respect for and service to God must remain the centerpiece of our national life."

Prime Minister Perry Christie also noted the importance of observing the founding of the nation in his Independence Day message.

He pointed out that while other nations were forged out of war, revolution and bloodshed, The Bahamas emerged out of a peaceful transition from colonial rule to an independent state.

"For those of us who were witnesses to this momentous occasion—the birth of a nation—the enthusiasm, pride and reverence for this day will forever remain fresh in our minds," Mr. Christie said.

"It is important therefore, that we seek to pass on these same sentiments to the many who view the 10th July, 1973 as merely an historical date, so that the sense of patriotism and national pride will forever burn bright in the hearts and minds of all Bahamians."

He recalled that Independence Day has always been a time of great festivity throughout the country. Mr. Christie expressed that every nation should celebrate its founding and development, because nationhood embodies, among other attributes, the culture, ethnicity, values, history and the collective strength of a people.

Thirty-two years ago, under the watchful gaze of thousands of Bahamians, the Union

Jack was lowered and the black, aquamarine, and gold-coloured flag of an independent Bahamas was hoisted for the first time on Clifford Park.

The Bahamas was now a sovereign nation, having been a colony of Great Britain for 250 years.

THE WATER RESOURCES DEVELOPMENT ACT OF 2005

SPEECH OF

HON. STEVEN R. ROTHMAN

OF NEW JERSEY

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, July 14, 2005

Mr. ROTHMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in strong support of H.R. 2864, the Water Resources Development Act. I want to thank and commend Subcommittee Chairman JOHN DUNCAN and Ranking Member EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON and Committee Chairman DON YOUNG and Ranking Member JAMES OBERSTAR for reporting this bill.

This is a very important bill for the American public. The bill reauthorizes the funding for the Army Corps of Engineers for studies and for the development of projects vital to our nation's water resources. This bill will result in better flood control, improved water navigation, the prevention of beach erosion, and environmental restoration.

I have personally seen the positive effects of some of the environment restoration projects funded by the bill. The Hackensack Meadowlands in my district, which is one of the most densely populated areas in the State, is a beautiful, natural wetlands area. But unfortunately, for decades it had been used as a place to dump garbage and toxic waste. Since the remediation authorized by the Water Resources Development Act began in the Meadowlands 10 years ago, water quality has improved and wildlife has been thriving. In this 8,400-acre environmental park just minutes outside of Manhattan, there are more than 50 species of fish and shellfish in the Meadowlands, and there have been notable increases in populations of white perch, Atlantic silverside, and gizzard shad. Two hundred fifty species of birds can be seen in the Meadowlands, and more than 65 species of birds nest there. Migratory birds are in the Meadowlands during their migration cycle in growing numbers, which has made the area an important part of the American ecosystem.

The improvements that the reauthorization of the Water Resources Development Act have made possible are truly amazing. The remediation that has taken place so far in the Meadowlands is a wonderful example of what can be accomplished when concerned citizens, environmental advocates, the Fish and Wildlife Service, and the Army Corps of Engineers work together. But there is still much work to be done. This important bill will reauthorize the funds to continue the vital efforts to clean up the Meadowlands, as well as to fund numerous other projects that will improve our nation's water resources.

I urge my colleagues to support this important bill.

DR. KENNETH B. CLARK: FOUNDER OF THE JOINT CENTER FOR PO-LITICAL AND ECONOMIC STUD-IES

HON. CHARLES B. RANGEL

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, July 19, 2005

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to talk about the importance of service, contribution, and dedication. Most Americans recognize these attributes of great leaders and humanitarians. They give of their time, their energy, and their life in the pursuit of the uplift of their people, their generation, and their cause. They see problems, challenges, and struggles and do not wander aimlessly, but head directly, for a solution. They do not wait for others to take the lead of change; they implement the change themselves.

Most Americans would readily acknowledge the true leaders and humanitarians of our time. Few however strive and achieve that recognition though. Dr. Kenneth Bancroft Clark is one of those who had in his life worked for the uplift of all people and particularly African-Americans in this country. He saw the educational problems, the employment challenges, and the academic struggles that faced the African-American community.

Instead of waiting for others to investigate the impact of racism and segregation on Black America, Dr. Clark conducted his own psychological studies of the negative perceptions of black children in their lives. He provided testimony to the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in their case against school segregation. His study, which showed how segregation had fostered negative self-perceptions and feelings of inferiority among Black youth, was cited by the Supreme Court in their Brown v. Board of Education decision ending the practice.

When Black leaders—then beginning to become elected public officials as a result of the Voting Rights Act of 1965—saw the need for a national organization to create and implement programs to train the newly elected representatives to public office and create a network for their mutual support, Dr. Clark proposed the establishment of a Black-led think tank that would advance strategies to hasten desegregation and eliminate discrimination. Dr. Clark outlined the structure and objectives of that organization and wrote publicly about the significance that such an organization would have. He placed the plan for the organization in historical, contemporary, and advanced terms. Dr. Clark worked to amass a body of scholars, activists, and community leaders to endow the organization and move it to play an important role in the community. He then selected the perfect leader for the Joint Center in Eddie N. Williams, an educator and former State Department official with whom Dr. Clark had worked to increase the number of African-Americans in the Foreign Service. The team of Kenneth Clark and Eddie Williams determined the direction and mission of the Joint Center for Political and Economic Studies.

As the challenges of integrating local school systems increasingly became apparent to the American public, Dr. Clark proposed educational reforms and innovative ideas for addressing these challenges. He served on the New York Board of Regents for two decades, faithfully working to improve the schools, the educational facilities and the curriculum for our future generations of leaders.

When this country and Black America needed someone to stand up for the important issues and causes of the day, Dr. Kenneth Clark was there to fight for our interests. He was a great humanitarian, a powerful champion, and a superb pioneer for the uplift of Black Americans, the American public, and the world community. Dr. Clark passed away on May 1, 2005. He will long be remembered for his service, dedication, and contribution to building a better America.

I submit to the RECORD the following article, written by the Joint Center's new retired leader Eddie N. Williams the current edition of Focus, the magazine of the Joint Center for Political and Economic Studies about the life and times of Dr. Kenneth Bancroft Clark.
