

House of Representatives and fined $300,000, calling Joe Wilson, who President George Bush the first called a great patriot for standing up to Saddam Hussein; here was a convicted liar Newt Gingrich calling Joe Wilson a liar. Something is terribly wrong with that picture.

The question of Karl Rove's continuation in the White House is not a question just of a legal matter. It is of ethical and moral consequences. Does the President continue to rely on the advice and keep employed in the White House a man who sought to destroy the reputations and perhaps put in danger a CIA agent and her contacts and her fellow workers? Does the President continue to employ that person recognizing that that was done for the sole purposes of trying to get retribution because they provided the evidence that what the White House said about weapons of mass destruction was not accurate, it was not truthful, in fact, it turned out to be a lie?
