

The bill we are considering today contains harmful program cuts that would fall disproportionately on the most vulnerable in our society. And though its sponsors claim it is fiscally responsible, it is part of a budget reconciliation package that adds to the deficit rather than reducing it.

This legislation cuts funding for health care provided through the Medicaid Program, which provides health insurance to poor children, pregnant women, and elderly. My colleagues on the other side of the aisle argue that we must cut waste and fraud in the Medicaid Program. I agree with that. But, what I don't agree with is taking money out of this critical safety net program—without which millions of Americans would be uninsured—and using that money to pay for tax cuts for people with high incomes. This amounts to a direct transfer of benefits that just doesn't make any sense.

In addition, much of the reduction in Medicaid spending comes not from reducing costs but from shifting them to States. The Federal Government can make its books look a little prettier, but one way or the other, taxpayers are still paying the same bill. Some of the cuts also come from reducing important services. For example, under this bill, my home State of New Jersey would lose critical Federal resources that it relies on to provide health insurance to parents of children enrolled in the State Children's Health Insurance Program, SCHIP. And, the State would be prohibited from using any SCHIP funding to expand coverage to other adult populations. In fact, my State has estimated that it will lose $44.6 million in Federal SCHIP funding. As usual, the most vulnerable in our society will feel the most pain from these cuts, while reaping the least benefit from the associated tax breaks.

The reconciliation bill also includes authorization for oil drilling in the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge, which I strongly oppose. It is simply unacceptable that the majority is using the protection of deficit-reduction procedural rules to enact controversial, environmentally damaging policy. In fact, the language opening the coastal plain does not even afford ANWR the same environmental protections afforded to every other wildlife refuge or public land that is currently open to oil and gas development.

The cost to our environment is too great to bear and will not improve our energy independence. Drilling in ANWR, by nearly all credible predictions, is expected to yield only marginal amounts of oil that will have little or no effect to reduce our Nation's dependence of foreign oil.

Adding insult to injury, not one cent of the savings achieved from the cuts in this legislation will be going towards reducing the deficit. Instead, they will be used to pay for barely half the cost of the package of tax breaks that will be considered next in the reconciliation process. So it would be wrong to pat ourselves on the back and misrepresent today's legislation as "fiscally responsible" because that only tells part of the story.

Our Nation faces serious challenges right now, with the war in Iraq, the war on terror, and the need to rebuild the gulf coast region devastated by Hurricane Katrina. We must keep our economy strong by keeping our workforce competitive and investing in our human and physical capital. Now is not the time to be cutting important benefits for those in need.

If we intend to seriously confront these issues, we need to stop with the irresponsible fiscal policies that have driven us deep into deficit. We need to stop with the wasteful tax cut giveaways. And we need to stop forcing the most vulnerable members of our society to pay for the costs of our irresponsibility.

This legislation before us today accomplishes none of these goals, and so I cannot support it. Mr. President, we can do better than this.

BREAST CANCER AWARENESS MONTH

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. President, today, I want to discuss the importance of breast cancer awareness. October is National Breast Cancer Awareness Month, and during this time, a concerted effort is being made to bring awareness to the public about the importance of women taking control over their health. As a husband of a two-time breast cancer survivor, I am deeply committed to supporting this campaign and to finding a cure for this awful disease.

I understand that finding out that a loved one has breast cancer is frightening news and one of the most difficult experiences any family can encounter. Unfortunately, far too many families face these challenges each year. In fact, according to the American Cancer Society, one in three women is diagnosed with breast cancer. Yet initiatives, such as the National Breast Cancer Awareness campaign, are working to help to decrease these numbers by educating women about the importance of preventive efforts such as self-exams and mammograms.

Even though we have the most advanced medical technologies and experts in the world, we have continued to face increases in the prevalence of breast cancer in recent years. In fact, research has shown that breast cancer rates have increased progressively since 1998. Though the national rate of breast cancer mortality has fallen since 2002, still approximately 24 percent of South Dakota women diagnosed with breast cancer do not survive.

One of the best ways to decrease the breast cancer mortality rate is through early detection and treatment, which is the fundamental goal of the National Breast Cancer Awareness campaign. Recognizing this goal, each year my wife Barbara and I sponsor a mammogram van at the South Dakota State Fair. This mammogram van, provided by a local health care facility, offers two days of free mammograms for uninsured, low-income women. We are proud to sponsor such an important service. As we learned with Barbara's case, early detection and treatment is key in beating this disease and that is why women must have access to mammogram exams.

Because of the work of the American Cancer Society, scientists, researchers, and the National Breast Cancer Awareness Month campaign, I look forward to the future when women and families do not have to hear the words "breast cancer." And until that day comes, I will continue to show my support for the goals of this critical campaign for women's health.

VOTE EXPLANATION

Mr. NELSON of Florida. Mr. President, due to my travel to survey the damage caused by Hurricane Wilma, I missed the vote on Senator BYRD's title I amendment on the Labor-HHS appropriations bill. If I had been present, I would have voted to waive the Budget Act and approve Senator BYRD's amendment.

TRIBUTE TO JOEL STUBBLEFIELD

● Mr. PRYOR. Mr. President, I rise today to pay tribute to the life of Joel R. Stubblefield, president and chancellor of the University of Arkansas at Fort Smith. For over 22 years, Joel made immeasurable contributions to education in Arkansas, serving the students and citizens of Fort Smith with passion and dedication.

Following his studies at Ouachita Baptist University and Syracuse University and his military training at the Army Command and General Staff College, Joel dedicated his life to improving education opportunities for others. He strengthened programs and increased faculty at UA Fort Smith and established the Western Arkansas Technical Center for high school students who sought to take college courses to get ahead.

With his vision and leadership, Joel elevated UA Fort Smith from a 2-year to a 4-year institution. He increased enrollment by more than 100 percent, while simultaneously improving the quality of the curriculum dramatically. As president and chancellor, Joel raised nearly $60 million in private donations for new buildings, equipment, and scholarships. Yet as willing as Joel was to raise money for the school, he was just as eager to donate his own funds. Joel was known to use personal resources to pay students' tuition and he refused a salary increase for 5 years because he was unable to raise faculty salaries. Joel once even bought a bicycle for a student who did not have transportation.

Earlier this summer, Joel shared with me his latest goals for higher education in northwest Arkansas. He loved the University of Arkansas at Fort Smith and dedicated himself fully to its continued improvement. We can honor Joel's memory by applying the same commitment and generosity toward improving educational opportunities for Arkansas students.●

HONORING THE WOMEN OF VFW AUXILIARY UNIT NO. 60

● Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. President, I rise today to publicly commend the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary Unit No. 60 from Humboldt, SD, for their many years of devoted service to the Humboldt community.

In late November of 1929, the Humboldt VFW Auxiliary No. 60 began with only 10 members. Seventy-six years later, Unit No. 60 boasts 68 devoted and patriotic members, all from the Humboldt community and surrounding areas.

Each year, Unit No. 60 participates in numerous community activities. In addition to volunteering at the Sioux Falls VA hospital and donating money for personal care items, coffee, and other products on the VA wish list, the women of Unit No. 60 also help coordinate Bingo Night, the VA Halloween party, and a variety of Christmas activities. During the holiday season, these caring and patriotic ladies also distribute gifts while visiting shut-ins and veterans residing in nursing homes. Each December, they send stamps to community members serving in the military, and also buy postage for local groups wishing to send care packages to soldiers overseas. Additionally, during Scholarship Week, held every November at the West Central School District, these altruistic women bring apples to all the teachers, aids, janitors, members of the kitchen staff, and administration.

For the past 14 years, members of the Humboldt VFW have been fixtures at the annual Threshing Bee held every August. For 3 days, they prepare breakfast and sell their famous homemade pies from their familiar canvas tent. In turn, funds they raise support community projects. This year, Unit No. 60 graciously donated to numerous local charities and organizations, namely: West Central Future Farmers of America, Community Club Fund, Volunteer Firemen, Volunteer Ambulance, Buddy Walk, Special Olympics, and Creative Arts for Veterans, in addition to purchasing dictionaries that were distributed to third-grade students at West Central Elementary.

Mr. President, I am proud to have this opportunity to honor the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary Unit No. 60 for their outstanding and compassionate service. Their commitment to our Nation's veterans and to furthering and enhancing the education of elementary school students is admirable. I strongly commend their years of hard work and dedication, and I am very pleased that their substantial efforts are being publicly honored and celebrated. It is with great honor that I share their impressive commitment to civic duty with my colleagues.●

TRIBUTE TO THE ASSOCIATED STUDENTS OF THE UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI, ON ITS 30TH ANNIVERSARY

● Mr. BOND. Mr. President, it is with great pleasure that I rise to celebrate the 30th anniversary of the Associated Students of the University of Missouri.

Recognizing the need to establish a means by which students could become involved and impact the political process, the Associated Students of the University of Missouri, ASUM, began in June of 1975. While their first chapter opened in Columbia, ASUM has grown and extended to include student representatives from every branch of the University of Missouri system.

As the student voice in State and Federal government, ASUM works diligently to encourage the student body to participate in the political process. Through their student advocacy, ASUM has achieved many accomplishments over the last 30 years including the establishment of the Bright Flight Scholarship Program, the appointment of a student representative to the Missouri Board of Curators, sales tax exemptions on textbooks, and loan forgiveness programs for teachers and medical/veterinary doctors who serve in high-need areas of Missouri. It has been my pleasure to work with the ASUM specifically on the reauthorization of the Higher Education Act.

I congratulate the Associated Students of the University of Missouri on their first 30 years of political advocacy for students and look forward to working with them for years to come.●
