

needs of others. It is the way to ensure that Auschwitz, Buchenwald, and the other death camps are never repeated in other areas of the world.

COSPONSORSHIP OF S. 187

Mr. CORZINE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senator FEINSTEIN be added as a cosponsor of S. 187, the Ensuring College Access for All Americans Act.

I would like to note for the RECORD that Senator FEINSTEIN should appear as an original cosponsor of S. 187. As a result of an administrative error by my office, she was not added to the bill when it was introduced.

CONFIRMATION OF MICHAEL O. LEAVITT TO BE SECRETARY OF HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. Mr. President, I support the nomination of Governor Michael O. Leavitt to be U.S. Secretary of Health and Human Services.

Governor Leavitt has had a lengthy career in public service, having served most recently as the 10th Administrator of the United States Environmental Protection Agency.

In 1992, Leavitt was elected the 14th Governor of Utah and was that State's longest-serving Governor.

During his three terms as Utah's Governor, he was chosen by the Nation's Governors to represent States in working with Congress on welfare reform, Medicaid and children's health insurance. He chaired the National Governors Association, the Western Governors Association, the Republican Governors Association and Council of State Governments.

Governor Leavitt established an innovative welfare reform waiver program focused on increasing family income using an approach that emphasized employment and child support, but also addressed initial problems with families in need such as domestic violence, education, training, language barriers, and substance abuse issues to promote sustainable employment.

This year, the HHS Secretary will have the critical task of overseeing the implementation of the first ever drug benefit in Medicare as well as the implementation of several program reauthorizations such as Ryan White, Temporary Assistance for Needy Families, and the State Children's Health Insurance Program, all within an ever-constrained budgetary picture.

As someone who voted for the Medicare Modernization Act, it is my hope that Governor Leavitt will work with me to address some of the weaknesses of the bill in addition to ensuring that the more than 41 million Medicare beneficiaries know about this new benefit in Medicare and its low-income subsidies.

Of greatest concern to me is the cost of prescription drugs. In voting for the Medicare bill, I said on the Senate floor that one of the greatest weaknesses of the bill was that it not only did not do enough to control the rising cost of prescription drugs but it specifically prohibited the HHS from using the bulk purchasing power of the Federal Government to negotiate with prescription drug plans to lower drug prices for Medicare beneficiaries. I believe this prohibition should be stricken and that there should be a role for the HHS Secretary in what Medicare and beneficiaries pay for their drugs.

I am committed to working with the HHS Secretary to find real solutions for lowering drug costs for our Nation's seniors.

As the Medicare drug benefit is enacted, I am also hopeful that Governor Leavitt will work to ensure access to all needed medications for people living with HIV and AIDS, to allow for adequate transition time for the most vulnerable low-income seniors and to provide sufficient incentives and transparency for employers to retain their retirees' health care coverage.

Governor Leavitt will oversee the Department of Health and Human Services at a time of rising deficits and this will require tough decisions. But these decisions must be balanced with the needs of the millions of Americans, young and old, who rely on Medicare, Medicaid and SCHIP to provide their health care insurance.

Medicaid provides insurance to 40 million Americans, about 8 million of whom live in California. It covers 55 percent of all poor children and it pays for the births of one-third of all American children. It serves 50 percent of all people with AIDS and as many as 90 percent of children with AIDS.

Medicaid is the insurer of last resort. If Medicaid did not exist, these individuals and families would be uninsured.

But it is also the biggest budget items in many States. There is no question we can improve the efficiency and quality of Medicaid to ensure our dollars are being well-spent but we also cannot lose site of the fact that increases in spending per enrollee from 2000 until 2003 were slower than increases in private insurance spending.

There are 45 million Americans without health insurance today. Arbitrary limits on Federal Medicaid spending will only increase the number of uninsured, driving up overall health care costs and burdening our nation's already overcrowded emergency rooms.

There is a great deal of work to be done, and I look forward to a productive working relationship with Governor Leavitt.

CONFIRMATION OF DR. CONDOLEEZZA RICE TO BE SECRETARY OF STATE OF THE UNITED STATES

Mr. ROCKEFELLER. Mr. President, I have followed closely both the confirmation hearing of Dr. Rice before the Foreign Relations Committee and the floor debate on her nomination. After considerable reflection, I have decided to vote in favor of Dr. Rice's confirmation, although I must state for the record that I do so with some reservations.

I intend to support her nomination primarily because I believe the foreign policy of the United States must reflect a spirit of bipartisanship. Amidst the complex challenges that we face in the war on terrorism, this country cannot afford enduring divisions on international issues. We must return to common ground, not least so that the rest of the world recognizes our single purpose and our resolve. I should note, parenthetically, that restoring that lost unity depends equally upon the majority party, as upon my party.

Dr. Rice has the credentials to be Secretary of State. As National Security Adviser, she has proven an eloquent advocate for the administration's policies. At her confirmation hearing, she made clear our need for effective diplomatic engagement worldwide. I welcomed that emphasis. Perhaps most importantly, Dr. Rice has the President's utmost confidence—this will, I am certain, be an asset in her dealings with other nations, as well as in working with other agencies in our own Government.

My reservations about Dr. Rice stem not from doubts about her abilities, but rather from my concerns about her role in developing U.S. policy toward Iraq and in characterizing the threats posed by Iraq prior to the conflict. I have concluded that many of the administration's statements on Iraqi weapons, including those of Dr. Rice, were simply not underpinned by the intelligence available. That is troubling, as was Dr. Rice's failure, during the confirmation hearing, to acknowledge that mistakes were made, not only in the conduct of the war and its aftermath, but in the policies that led us into it.

This goes directly to the question of accuracy and accountability—whether this administration will take responsibility for its decisions and learn from the past, so as not to repeat the same errors in future. I believe that the decision to go to war in Iraq was wrong. Nevertheless, despite great skepticism among the American people about Iraq, President Bush was reelected. We must now go forward together to achieve stability in Iraq, to bring our forces home, and to restore American credibility at home and abroad.

The dubious decisions, not the nominee, concern me; however, I will not oppose Dr. Rice because I disagree with the administration's policies. That would not be conducive to the bipartisan foreign policy that I believe is crucial. Rather, I look forward to working with Dr. Rice to forge consensus on a more balanced approach to national security issues.

TARIFF RELIEF ASSISTANCE FOR DEVELOPING ECONOMIES ACT

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. Mr. President, I support legislation recently introduced by myself, Senator SMITH, Senator BAUCUS, and Senator SANTORUM to help some of the world's poorest countries sustain vital export industries and promote economic growth and political stability.

The Tariff Relief Assistance for Developing Economies Act, TRADE, of 2005 will provide duty-free and quota-free benefits for garments and other products similar to those afforded to beneficiary countries under the Africa Growth and Opportunity Act, AGOA. The countries covered by this legislation are the 14 Least Developed Countries, LDCs, as defined by the United Nations and the U.S. State Department, which are not covered by any current U.S. trade preference program: Afghanistan, Bangladesh, Bhutan, Cambodia, Kiribati, Laos, Maldives, Nepal, Samoa, Solomon Islands, East Timor, Tuvalu, Vanuatu, and Yemen. Given the recent tsunami disaster, the bill includes a special emergency trade provision to assist Sri Lanka in its rebuilding efforts.

The beneficiary countries of this legislation are among the poorest countries in the world. Nepal has per capita income of $240. Unemployment in Bangladesh stands at 40 percent. Approximately 36 percent of Cambodia's population lives below the poverty line. Each country faces critical challenges in the years ahead including poor health care, insufficient educational opportunities, high HIV/AIDS rates, and the effects of war and civil strife. The United States must take a leadership role in providing much-needed assistance to the people of these countries.

Consequently, Senator SMITH and I have worked closely together over the past few years to push for substantial increases in our foreign aid budget. We recognize that helping developing countries rise from poverty is not only a moral obligation, but a key component in our fight against terror. Yet humanitarian and development assistance should not be the sum total of our efforts to put these countries on the road to economic prosperity and political stability. Indeed, the key for sustained growth and rising standards of living will be the ability of each of these countries to create vital export industries to compete in a free and open global marketplace.

We should help these countries help themselves by opening the U.S. market to their exports. Success in that endeavor will ultimately allow these countries to become less dependent on foreign aid and allow the United States to provide assistance to countries in greater need.

The garment industry is a key part of the manufacturing sector in some of these countries. In Nepal, the garment industry is entirely export-oriented and accounts for 40 percent of the foreign exchange earnings. It employs over 100,000 workers—half of them women—and sustains the livelihood of over 350,000 people. The United States is the largest market for Nepalese garments and accounts for 80 to 90 percent of Nepal's total exports every year. In Cambodia, approximately 250,000 Cambodians work in the garment industry supporting approximately 1 million dependents. The garment industry accounts for more than 90 percent of Cambodia's export earnings. In Bangladesh, the garment industry accounts for 75 percent of export earnings. The industry employs 1.8 million people, 90 percent of whom are women, and sustains the livelihoods of 10 to 15 million people.

Despite the poverty seen in these countries and the importance of the garment industry and the U.S. market, they face some of the highest U.S. tariffs in the world, averaging over 15 percent. In contrast, countries like Japan and our European partners face tariffs that are nearly zero. On top of this, there is increasing concern that the removal of quotas on textile and apparel articles on January 1, 2005, will severely harm their garment export industries in LDC countries as U.S. importers will shift their orders to China, India and other suppliers with cheaper labor markets.

Millions of jobs could be lost, threatening economic growth and political stability. In those countries without a viable garment industry—such as Afghanistan and East Timor—the removal of quotas will severely impact the opportunities to develop industries, employment, and expanded foreign investment.

Surely we can do better. This legislation will help these countries compete in the U.S. market and let their citizens know that Americans are committed to helping them realize a better future for themselves and their families. And the impact on U.S. jobs will be minimal. Currently, the beneficiary countries under this legislation account for only 4 percent of U.S. textile and apparel imports, compared to 24 percent for China, and 72 percent for the rest of the world. These countries will continue to be small players in the U.S. market, but the benefits of this legislation will have a major impact on their export economies.

At a time when U.S. standing is at an alltime low in some countries, we need legislation such as this to show the best of America and American values. It will provide a vital component to our development strategy and add another tool to the war on terror. I urge my colleagues to support this bill.

TRIBUTE TO JOANNE BENSON

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I ask the Senate to join me today in honoring the public life of a Minnesota leader in public affairs and public education, Joanne Benson. Some of us will recognize her as a former lieutenant Governor of Minnesota, or as a Minnesota State Senator. But she is known to hundreds of teachers and children as an educator of distinction, imagination, and courage. This month marks her retirement as the Chief Education Officer of the Minnesota Business Academy charter high school in our capital city of St. Paul.

Joanne Benson is considered by friends and colleagues to be one of the most conscientious and hardworking women in Minnesota—a considerable distinction. She was born in Le Sueur, an agricultural community, where she learned early the virtue of service to family and community. She and her husband, Robert, are the parents of two accomplished adult children, for whom education is both a cherished value and a professional calling. Her grandchildren are blessed to have the benefit of her loving example and guidance.

Minnesota's historic leadership in education proudly points to Joanne's degree from St. Cloud State University, and her eventual assistant professorship in the University's College of Education. From this service, she went on to become a Minnesota State senator from the St. Cloud region that she calls her home. Her work on behalf of education policy and community safety brought her to the attention of Gov. Arne Carlson, whom she served with distinction as lieutenant Governor from 1995 to 1999.

The State of Minnesota was to have yet greater service from Joanne, when at the end of the Carlson administration she became the president of the nascent Minnesota Business Academy, a business immersion charter high school in downtown St. Paul. MBA serves some of our State's most talented and challenged students. The school is the first in the Nation to be sponsored by a local Chamber of Commerce and is nationally noted for its Star Tracks initiative, teaching and certifying students in the personal traits and behaviors essential to success in the business workplace.

With the people of Minnesota, I ask this Chamber to join in celebrating the life and service of Joanne Benson, a woman of great humor and patience, intelligence and grace, as she takes a well-earned retirement from the profession of education.
