Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, in passing the reauthorization of the Traumatic Brain Injury Act today, the Senate has taken an important step toward making a difference in the lives of some of our Nation’s most deserving citizens: our soldiers and our children. It is a privilege to have worked with my colleague, Senator HATCH, on this legislation. It is an important and timely bill that helps an especially deserving group of people.

Brain injuries have become the signature wound of the war in Iraq. Up to two-thirds of our wounded soldiers may have suffered such injuries. Here at home, an unacceptably large number of children from birth to age 14 experience traumatic brain injuries—approximately 475,000 a year and some of the most frequent of these injuries are to children under the age of five. In Massachusetts alone, more than 40,000 individuals experience brain injuries each year.

As a result of such injuries, over 5.3 million Americans are now living with a permanent disability. Today, we have taken a step toward ensuring that these citizens and their families will receive the best care we can provide.

The bill reauthorizes grants that assist States, Territories, and the District of Columbia in establishing and expanding coordinated systems of community-based services and supports for those with such injuries.

When Congress approved the Traumatic Brain Injury Act as part of the Children’s Health Act of 2000, we included a specific provision called the Protection and Advocacy for Individuals with Traumatic Brain Injury Program. This program has become essential because persons with these injuries have an array of needs beyond treatment and health care, including assistance in returning to work, finding a place to live, obtaining supports and services such as attendant care and assistive technology, and obtaining appropriate mental health, substance abuse, and rehabilitation services.

Often these persons—especially our returning veterans—must remain in extremely expensive institutions far longer than necessary, because the community-based supports and services they need are not available, even though they can lead to reduced government expenditures, increased productivity, independence and community integration. Those who provide such assistance must have special skills, and their work is often time-intensive.

Our legislation allocates funds for CDC programs that will provide important information and data on injury prevention. A recent Institute of Medicine report showed that such programs work. Their benefit is obvious, and we must do all we can to expand this appropriation in the years ahead to meet the urgent and growing need for this assistance.

A recent report by the Institute of Medicine calls the current TBI programs an “overall success.” It states that “there is considerable value in providing funding,” and “it is worrisome that the modestly budgeted TBI Program continues to be vulnerable to budget cuts.”

Current estimates show that the Federal Government spends less than $3 dollars per brain injury survivor on research and services. As the IOM study suggests, this program must be able to grow, so that each State has the resources necessary to maintain vital services and advocacy for the large number of Americans who sustain such a brain injury each year.

Today’s passage of this bipartisan bill moves us closer to continuing and strengthening these important programs which say to our Nation’s wounded soldiers and injured children: “You deserve the best we can provide.” I hope very much that Congress will continue to expand these programs, so that we can truly do all we can for these deserving individuals and their families.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the amendment at the desk be considered and agreed to; that the committee-reported substitute, as amended, be agreed to; that the bill, as amended, be read a third time, passed, and the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table; and that any statements relating to the bill be printed in the RECORD, with no intervening action or debate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment (No. 3831) was agreed to.

(The amendment is printed in today’s RECORD under “Text of Amendments.”

The committee amendment in the nature of a substitute, as amended, was agreed to.

The bill (S. 793), as amended, was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, was read the third time, and passed.

ORDERS FOR WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 12, 2007

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that when the Senate completes its business today, it stand adjourned until 9 a.m., Wednesday, December 12; that on Wednesday, December 12, following the prayer and the pledge, the Journal of proceedings be approved to date, the morning hour deemed expired, the time for the two leaders reserved for their use later in the day; that there then be a period of morning business for 3 hours, with the time equally divided and controlled between the two leaders or their designees and Senators permitted to speak therein for up to 10 minutes each, with the first half under the control of the majority and the final half under the control of the Republicans; that at the close of morning business, the Senate then resume consideration of H.R. 2419, as provided for under a previous order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.
