PERSONAL EXPLANATION

Mr. CARNEY. Mr. Speaker, on Monday, November 2 and Tuesday, November 3, I was unable to cast my vote on six suspension bills due to a need to cast my vote in the election in Pennsylvania.

Had I been present, I would like the RECORD to reflect that I would have voted:

There was no objection.

HEALTH CARE

(Mr. GENE GREEN of Texas asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. GENE GREEN of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of national health care reform. The 29th

District in Texas, which I represent, has one of the highest numbers of uninsured individuals in our country, where nearly 40 percent of the residents are uninsured.

Last week, the melded House version of the health care bill was reintroduced as H.R. 3962, the Affordable Health Care for America Act. H.R. 3962 creates a national health care exchange in which individuals and small businesses can purchase health insurance plans for themselves and employees. Our goal is to build on the system of employer-based health care coverage that 60 percent of Americans currently enjoy and allow those who have employer-based insurance to keep that coverage.

If enacted, H.R. 3962 will provide insurance coverage to 230,000 currently uninsured residents in our district and improve the employer-based coverage for 217,000 residents. Under this legislation, 177,000 households would qualify for affordability credits to purchase health insurance.

In our district, 16,600 small businesses would be able to obtain health insurance for their employees, and 14,600 small businesses will qualify for tax credits to help them offset the cost of obtaining health care. That's why we need national health care reform.

GIVING AMERICANS THE RIGHT KIND OF HEALTH CARE

(Ms. JENKINS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. JENKINS. As a woman in the sandwich generation, I've spent numerous hours making health care decisions for my two teenagers, as well as two aging parents who have both suffered from cancer and other medical emergencies. From monitoring vaccines, to paying hospital and prescription costs, to reviewing insurance coverage, I understand the concerns folks have with their health care system.

That is why I am glad Republicans have solutions: solutions to provide access to care, regardless of preexisting conditions; solutions to cover the uninsured; solutions for tort reform to reduce the cost of defensive medicine.

Democrats have other ideas. The Pelosi health care plan will force folks off their current health care coverage, lead to longer waiting lines, increase premiums, higher taxes, fewer options, and will further bankrupt our Nation.

Please, let's give Americans the right kind of health care reform.

MOURNING THE LOSS OF WILLARD V. OLIVER

(Mrs. KIRKPATRICK of Arizona asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mrs. KIRKPATRICK of Arizona. Mr. Speaker, I rise to mourn the loss of Willard V. Oliver, one of the last surviving Navajo Code Talkers. The Code Talkers saved the lives of countless Americans in World War II and the Korean War by using Dine to communicate sensitive military intelligence without risk of interception by the enemy. Mr. Oliver spent more than 2 years fighting his way across the South Pacific as one of those esteemed marines.

Willard Oliver passed away on October 14th after a life marked by heroic service to his people and to his country.

In speaking of his service, Mr. Oliver said, "I am proud to be a Code Talker, and I know we counted for something great."

Today, I am proud to honor him and all Navajo Code Talkers for their bravery and sacrifice on behalf of this country. His and their contributions to our great Nation must never be forgotten.

DOING HEALTH CARE REFORM THE RIGHT WAY

(Mrs. CAPITO asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mrs. CAPITO. Mr. Speaker, the American people want health care reform, but they want the right kind of reform. They want to know that we are not going to raise taxes on job creators when the economy is just coming out of a recession. They want to know that we are not going to change the health care that they have now. They want to know that Medicare will be there for them.

As a mother of three, I can remember nights when one of our children would have a cold and I would put my ear to their chest to hear the rattle or to hear if they were developing croup. And that is what we have been doing with this health care reform. The Republicans have been putting their ears to the chest of the American people to find out what they want. And what they want, they want reform the right way, not a $1 trillion plan that will lead to uncertainty and that will have certain people lose their health care.

We need to do health care reform, but we need to do it the right way.

PAYING FOR VALUE IN HEALTH CARE

(Mr. WALZ asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WALZ. Mr. Speaker, I am proud that this House has finally showed the courage to tackle one of the most important issues in our country, the rising cost of health care. I want to recognize that this piece of legislation takes a huge step forward in addressing the issue of paying for value in our health care system.

The current payment system rewards volume and quantity of care, rather than quality of care. We spend hundreds of billions of dollars every year on procedures that do not improve patients' health. We need to change the incentive system. We need doctors and hospitals to work together to coordinate care.

In my district in southern Minnesota, the Mayo Clinic has created just such a culture, where doctors coordinate with each other and look for the best quality results. There are other institutions around the country doing the same thing. These organizations all do it a little differently, but the one thing they have in common is a culture of patient-centered care based on high quality and low cost.

These cultures can be replicated in every hospital in the country, and the way we get there is by changing the incentive system. I am very proud that the provisions in this bill to address value and geographic disparity in Medicaid are there. We have a chance to reform American health care and provide good-quality, high-outcome health care for all Americans.

COMMONSENSE IDEAS REGARDING HEALTH CARE

(Mrs. BIGGERT asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mrs. BIGGERT. It seems like all we hear in Washington about health care today is "public option" and "government-run program," so I thought it was interesting in a recent questionnaire, 47 percent of my constituents most want Congress to focus on reducing costs. Only 10.5 percent are most concerned with the public option, and I would be willing to bet that these numbers are similar all over the country.

Mr. Speaker, I believe that we should get back to the health care issue most important to Americans: reducing costs. Let's support commonsense changes, like medical malpractice reform and association health plans. We should also focus on eliminating the waste, fraud, and abuse that is so rampant in our medical system. With the money these reforms save, we will be able to expand coverage and be sure no one is denied health care coverage because of a preexisting condition or because they can't afford premiums.

These are simple, tested, commonsense ideas that don't take 1,999 pages to explain. Let's give the American people what they want, Mr. Speaker.

PUTTING PATIENTS FIRST

(Mr. KAGEN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. KAGEN. Mr. Speaker, this House of Representatives is the people's voice, and we are about to deliver exactly what they have been asking for: reforms in our health care system, reforms that were asked of us by our people back home in our districts. Ideas, great ideas come from our people, including closing the doughnut hole in
