

care czar is going to establish every single health insurance policy in America.

The President, himself, has said his desire, his ultimate goal, is to completely take over the whole of the health care system and to put it into one single health insurance program, administered by government bureaucrats who are going to make decisions for every single American person. The doctor won't be making the medical decisions. The patient won't be making the medical decisions. The families won't be making the medical decisions. It's going to be a government bureaucrat who's going to be making those.

The American people need to understand that, Mr. Speaker. Are they going to sit back and idly let this happen? Right now, it's slated to happen Saturday night. Saturday night we're supposed to vote on that monstrosity, on what I'm calling a dead, rotten, stinking fish that NANCY PELOSI is trying to force down the throats of the American people. The American people need to say "no," Mr. Speaker.

I yield to Mr. KING.

Mr. KING of Iowa. I thank the gentleman from Georgia.

I wish they'd take that 1,990-page bill—and with the 40-page amendment, it's 2,030 pages—and put it back into the tree. It would have a lot more use there than it does here. I have to call it what it has been called before, especially by the Congresswoman from Minnesota, MICHELE BACHMANN, who called it the "crown jewel of socialism." This is socialized medicine. It's more than cradle-to-grave medicine. It goes beyond the nanny state, Mr. Speaker. This is conception to state-managed death health care that's being imposed here.

As I said earlier, there isn't a single health insurance policy that we know which could qualify beyond 2013. Any policies that are set today, according to this, would be outlawed, and they would have to jump through new hoops that would be written by the new health choices commissioner, the czar—the commissar-issioner of health choices, I would call him. Yes, he may be confirmed, but it doesn't prevent the President from appointing someone to supersede his power. He has done that a number of times, some 57 times.

This is a call to the House. This is a House call. This is the American people coming here to this Capitol. For months, Mr. Speaker, the American people have said to me, What can I do? What can I do?

I don't always have a good answer. I said write letters, get on the phone and send e-mails. Go to district offices. All that needs to be done.

There are those who already have resigned themselves also. I am not among them. I believe we can kill this bill. And I would draw the parallel of about 3 years ago when there was a comprehensive amnesty bill that was pushed out of the White House with bipartisan support, and the American people rejected amnesty. A lot of people thought it was all set to pass through, pushed by the White House through the Senate to come over to the House and be passed in a comprehensive amnesty legislation. But the American people rose up and they jammed the switchboards of the United States Senate. And they did it twice that summer. They killed the bill.

We can kill this bill. It doesn't have the greased wheels like the comprehensive amnesty did. This bill is one that is wobbling along like a wounded duck, and it got wounded a lot more when it flew through the flak in New Jersey and in Virginia last night, when the Virginians and the New Jersians stood up and said we have had enough of this growth of government. We have had enough of this debt, that our grandchildren will have to be paying the interest on and that our great grandchildren will have to pay the principle on. We want to maintain our freedom.

That message was resounding out of Virginia. It was resounding out of New Jersey. And it does affect the thought process and the voting of the Members that are sitting on the fence tonight. And the American people that are in this city right now and those on their way will affect the judgment, and they will provide the good judgment for those who are sitting on the fence. Those that are more afraid of their Speaker than they are of their constituents, tomorrow they are going to see the whites of our eyes. They are going to look in the pupils to the soul of the American people that say I love my Constitution and my country and my flag and our history and our common cause.

We do not have a common destiny if we can't maintain our freedom. Already a third of our private sector has been nationalized in the last year. This is another one-sixth. This is 17.5 percent. It does take us over 50 percent.

This is the time, this is the place, this is the "Super Bowl" of our resistance. Take the Hill tomorrow. Hold the Hill until this bill is killed.

Mr. BROUN of Georgia. Mr. KING, I thank you for this effort to get this house call on the U.S. House of Representatives. It is absolutely critical that the American people, Mr. Speaker, understand what is happening here this week and particularly is scheduled to happen Saturday night. It is going to kill 5.5 million jobs if we pass the Pelosi health insurance bill, it is going to kill our economy, and it is going to kill our children and grandchildren's future, because we are stealing with this outrageous spending that the Democrats have been doing under the leadership of Barack Obama and NANCY PELOSI and HARRY REID. We are stealing our grandchildren's future. Their standard of living is going to be less than ours today if we continue down this road.

We have to take America back, Mr. Speaker, and it is up to we people, the American citizens, the good citizens, freedom-loving citizens, who want to work, take care of their families' needs, and want the Federal Government out of their hair. That is what we are trying to do as Republicans. But the Democrats are trying to socialize this country.

Mr. HOEKSTRA, some people may have joined us since you first started speaking. There are two stacks of paper right there before you, and I want you to please tell the Speaker so that he can pass on to the American people what those two stacks of paper represent.

Mr. HOEKSTRA. We have three.

Mr. BROUN of Georgia. That is not a stack.

Mr. HOEKSTRA. This is the 44 pages that our Founding Fathers put together to establish this country and articulate and lay out the freedoms for the American people. This is a document of freedom.

Mr. BROUN of Georgia. The Constitution of the United States and the Declaration of Independence.

Mr. HOEKSTRA. Right. And this is the document that Republicans have proposed to fix health care, the parts of health care that have been identified as being broken, 232 pages.

Mr. BROUN of Georgia. Reclaiming my time, let's make it clear. That is the Republican alternative that the Democrats keep saying we don't have.

Mr. HOEKSTRA. Right. And then this is Speaker PELOSI's bill, most of her bill, 1,990 pages introduced last week. It doesn't have the 40 pages of the manager's amendment which were added to the bill late last night. This is the document that contains in it the phrase "the commissioner shall" or "the government shall" something like 3,000 times.

The Constitution is all about freedom. This is all about the loss of freedom.

I thank my colleague for doing this session this evening.

Mr. BROUN of Georgia. It is a loss of jobs, it is a loss of everything that has made America great.

I want to thank my friends, STEVE KING from Iowa, PETE HOEKSTRA from Michigan and Dr. PHIL GINGREY from Georgia. This has been I hope an instructive evening for the listeners and for the Speaker, because we cannot let this bill pass. It is going to destroy freedom. It is a steamroller of socialism being driven by NANCY PELOSI. The American people need to put a stop sign in front of that steamroller of socialism.
