ACT, 2010

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to House Resolution 673 and rule XVIII, the Chair declares the House in the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for the consideration of the bill, H.R. 3293.

□ 1131

IN THE COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE

Accordingly, the House resolved itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union for the consideration of the bill (H.R. 3293) making appropriations for the Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education, and related agencies for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2010, and for other purposes, with Mr. HOLDEN in the chair.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The CHAIR. Pursuant to the rule, the bill is considered read the first time.

The gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. OBEY) and the gentleman from Kansas (Mr. TIAHRT) each will control 30 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Wisconsin.

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Chairman, I want to thank Mr. TIAHRT and every member of the subcommittee on both sides of the aisle for the work that they've put in in bringing this bill to the floor today. It's a controversial bill. I know we've had a lot of disagreements, but I think that the disagreement has not been disagreeable, and I appreciate that very much.

I want to thank Beverly Pheto, Rebecca Motley, Cheryl Smith, Susan Quantius, Nicole Kunko, Stephen Steigleder, Mike Gentilly, Amy Battaglia, Albert Lee, Christina Hamilton, and Ellis Brachman; and on the minority side, Steve Crane, Stephanie Meyers and AmyClaire Brusch for all of the staff work that has been put into this bill.

Mr. Chairman, this country has pushed a lot of money, government money, taxpayers' money, into the financial sector of the economy and Wall Street the last few months in order to try to stabilize the economy. This is the bill that tries to deal with the problems of everybody else in this society.

I urge its passage, and I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. TIAHRT. I thank the chairman. It's a pleasure to be here with you this morning as we continue to consider the fiscal year 2010 Labor, HHS, and Education Appropriations bill.

First, I'm frustrated by my role here today. Instead of being able to perform my duties as a ranking member as I've done in the past, my role requires that I protest the way debate is suppressed on this bill. It is necessary, but not something that I relish.

Usually the role of the ranking member on the Appropriations Committee, as well as the authorizing committees, is to present the views of the minority and to work with the majority in crafting a bill that combines the best ideas of both sides of the aisle. We do this through the amendment process. As the ranking member, I have not always agreed with what my colleagues on the other side of the aisle have proposed, but I always defended their right to offer their amendments.

Mr. Chairman, I do want to thank Chairman OBEY for reaching out to me during the drafting of this bill. He is a passionate advocate for many of the programs funded in this bill, and he has clearly put a great deal of thought into this bill before us. I also want to credit him for trying to put together a bill that Members could support by including many national priorities; yet, due to the wholly unsustainable allocation on top of an already unsustainable allocation in the stimulus bill for these agencies, we could not agree on the final product.

I also want to thank the staff for their dedication to this important bill, on the majority side, Cheryl Smith, Susan Quantius, Nicole Kunko, Stephen Steigleder, Albert Lee, Mike Gentilly, Amy Battaglia and Devon Klein; on my side, Stephanie Myers, Steve Crane, of course AmyClaire Brusch from my personal office staff.

One of the most important duties of this House, as directed by article I, section 9 of the Constitution, is to determine the financial obligations of the Federal Government, the power of the purse, as we say. This is, indeed, what we are here to do today, with the Labor-HHS-Education Appropriations bill. Yet instead of being able to have a healthy discussion, as the Founders intended with this representative body, Members, both Republican and Democrat, I note, are shut out of the process and only permitted to speak for a short time without the ability to offer alternatives.

Several of my colleagues and I submitted amendments to the Rules Committee for consideration on the floor today. I think they are substantive amendments that deal with the public policy issues our constituents sent us here to debate. Even though they met the requirements for consideration on an appropriations act, the Democrat leadership decided to report a gag rule that severely limits our ability to offer them.

When we first started down this road to ruin with respect to the autocratic rules that govern debates on appropriations bills, we were told that these rules were required because Republicans were "filibustering by amendment" and because we would not commit to time limits. We knew at the time that those arguments were mere fig leaves, and over the past few weeks, the evidence has become crystal clear.

We were told that we had to finish our work quickly, so time agreements were essential. Next, we were told that we had done nothing to limit our amendments. Strangely, when we were in the majority, we didn't limit amendments to appropriations bills. Why? Because we believed then, as we do now, that Members have not only the right, but the constitutional responsibility, to represent their constituents.

Even so, while we were stating our continued concern about the restrictive rules by which we have been forced to abide for this bill, we reached out in good faith. Instead of offering upwards towards 50 amendments, House Republicans, in good faith, limited the amendments request. This year, there were fewer Republican amendments offered on this very substantial bill than were offered under an open rule just a few years ago.

Republicans offered 12—only 12—amendments. Did some of those amendments pose potentially difficult votes for Democrats? I guess so.

We had an amendment by Mr. CARTER and Mr. BURTON, which would have been in order under an open rule, to prohibit the Democrats from killing the largest student loan program in operation today. Is it permitted to be offered today? No.

We had an amendment by Mr. LEWIS, the ranking Republican of the Appropriations Committee, again in order under the standing rules of the House if we were operating under the procedures that allowed the American people full representation. The amendment would have prohibited the Secretary of Health and Human Services from starting a government-run health insurance plan. The amendment was ruled by the Parliamentarians to be permissible under the standing House rules. Is Mr. LEWIS going to offer his amendment today? No. Why not? The Democrats don't want to vote on socialized medicine, probably because their leadership and their constituents don't agree how they should vote.

As ranking Republican on this subcommittee, I had an amendment that would have done nothing other than codify the nonbinding language the majority included in the so-called stimulus bill with respect to using comparative effectiveness research as an excuse to ration health care. Was I permitted to offer it? No.

As I travel through the State of Kansas and talk to the people who sent me here, it is clear that most Kansans, and I think most Americans, are wondering if this Congress and this administration understand the long-term ramifications of the massive spending spree we've been on since January. The stimulus bill we passed spent nearly $800 billion, money we don't have. When you add the interest that we'll have to pay to the Chinese who buy our debt, the cost is going to exceed $1 trillion.

And what do we have to show for that exercise? Unemployment has hit 9.5 percent nationwide and is expected to rise above 10 percent. Some States are already well over 10 percent unemployment. If this is recovery, then it is a "jobless recovery." Well, who does that help?

We have massive amounts of money spent on programs, many funded by the agencies in this bill that are maybe good in the long term but have absolutely nothing to do with bringing this country out of the economic crisis we're facing today. What it did do is create a mountain of spending that will hit next year and create the cliff effect.

At the time, the President and the Democrats in the majority claimed this was one-time spending that would drop off after 2011. I'd like to believe that's true, because if it isn't, this bill will cost about $220 billion, or $60 billion above where we are today, which is about a 40 percent increase.

I suppose that would be okay if we had an extra $60 billion laying around in the Treasury, although I'd prefer to give it back to those who worked so hard to earn it. But the fact is, we do not have this money. It is borrowed. It is borrowed from the American people. It is borrowed from their future earnings, and it is borrowed from foreign governments like China.

Next week we will consider the health reform bill that looks like it's going to cost well over $1 trillion, and it is full of provisions that instruct the Congressional Budget Office to overlook the spending.

We had a budget submitted to us by the White House this year that, for the first time, exceeded $3.5 billion in total spending. The White House is apparently so worried about letting the American people know how much of their money is being spent that they have delayed the traditional midyear budget review, which is expected to show a historic deficit. It's delayed until next month when Congress has left Washington and while many Americans are on vacation—well, those that can afford it this year, anyway.

I want to make clear to the American people what exactly we are voting on here today. It's $163 billion in discretionary allocation and an $11 billion increase from fiscal year 2009, but that is about a 7 percent increase. But the true cost to the American taxpayer has to include the $126 billion that was allocated for those agencies in the stimulus act. So, in reality, these agencies have grown by $135.3 billion, or a 93 percent increase over 2 years, 93 percent.

My colleagues and I were prepared, as is historically done in this body, to offer amendments to hold the spending to levels we can afford, even move from some of the overfunded programs to the underfunded programs, such as special education, but as I have noted, we are prohibited by the Democrat leadership from doing so today.

In addition to the excessive spending in the bill, we have several other concerns. First and foremost, though the distinguished chairman has told us in committee that this bill has nothing to do with the health care reform bill the Democrat majority is crafting, the committee report for this bill that they are crafting includes language that tells a different story.

It acknowledges that this bill is setting the foundation for the implementation of health care reform, and it also acknowledges the stimulus does, as I argued then, "the committee continues the investments begun in the Recovery Act to expand the capacity of the health care system to handle the increased demand that will come from health care reform."

So, indeed, it is important for us to talk about health care reform proposals, how they will impact these agencies and, more importantly, how they will impact the American people. I do not think that there is a Member of this body who denies the importance of reforming our health care system. We have serious problems with regard to cost and access and rationing, even to a point where choice and quality will also be threatened.

My biggest concern with the Democrat proposals as intended is the rationing of health care. The Obama administration has begun to set the framework for rationing health care with comparative effectiveness research. Who is going to be affected most by this rationing and by using comparative effectiveness to do so. Unfortunately, it is those with the most to lose. Though they deny this program is intended to make coverage decisions based on cost, the government already does in Medicare and Medicaid and in TRICARE.

Forcing us into a public plan that rations health care is not what the American people want. What they need and want is medical decisions made by patients and their physicians, not unelected government bureaucrats. Congressional Democrats are actively campaigning for a nationalized health care proposal that includes more than $800 billion in new tax increases. It's estimated that this plan will result in 4.7 million workers losing their jobs as a result of tax hikes on business.

Under the President's government-run health care plan, businesses will face further operating costs, jobs will be cut and, worst of all, Americans will be left with fewer choices and lower-quality health care. Having seen the failed results of the administration's so-called economic stimulus plan, the last thing Americans need is to have Democrat leaders nationalizing our health care system.

Reforms to the health care system are needed and Republicans have offered to work with the Democrats in creating a bipartisan solution. But so far our efforts have been ignored by Speaker PELOSI and President Obama. We have offered a plan to promote new jobs to enhance the growth in our economy that does not strangle the already faltering economy. Most importantly, any health care plan should offer Americans freedom through expanded access and increased quality.

My colleagues and I tried to offer amendments today that would have prevented the Department of Health and Human Services from using our tax dollars to implement policies that would ration care, that would have prevented a burden on small businesses and threaten jobs, that would have prevented an advisory board accountable to no one that determines health care payment policies, or that would have prevented Americans from being forced into a public plan instead of their private insurance.

These are extremely important protections that HHS is already moving towards doing, and more, with the stimulus funds as well as expected funds for next year. I assure the chairman and his leadership that our intent is not to be obstructionists, or to be dilatory. However we believe it is important to preserve the integrity of this body and have a full and open discussion on the funding levels in this bill.

Therefore, it was important for me to take time to explain at length to the American people why there is scant debate on this bill. We are not being silent. We're simply being gagged. In closing, I believe there is a better way to provide services included in this bill. I believe there are commonsense ways to provide health care to all Americans without rationing and without the cost of Americans losing their jobs. There's a way that increases access and keeps patients and doctors in control in health care. And I believe there's a way to rebuild our economy without borrowing money to do it.

But today we won't have access to these solutions. That debate, those votes were prevented by the majority. Because of that, the American people will suffer.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Chairman, I rise to enter into a colloquy with the gentleman from Colorado and yield to Mr. POLIS.

Mr. POLIS. I want to thank the chairman for his committee's work on this bill and, in particular, his attention to the Energy Employees Occupational Illness Compensation Program. This bill provides the necessary resources to better serve seriously ill former nuclear energy workers, and we appreciate the committee's work to make that happen. We hope that this program will expand in the coming year and will serve more former nuclear energy workers in the process.

Mr. OBEY. I yield to Mr. PERLMUTTER.

Mr. PERLMUTTER. As we work with the Department of Labor on needed reforms, we hope that the committee will continue to work with us and OMB to ensure that this program continues to provide benefits to seriously ill individuals, and that the EEOICPA Ombudsman's Office continues to have the resources it needs to maintain its important oversight responsibilities over this program.

Mr. OBEY. I thank both gentlemen for your efforts on this issue. The committee will work with the gentlemen, the Department of Labor, and OMB, to ensure that this program continues to help deserving beneficiaries, and that the Ombudsman's Office continues to have the resources it needs to properly fulfill its oversight duties.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. TIAHRT. Mr. Chairman, I would like to yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Michigan, a member of the Ways and Means Committee, Mr. CAMP.

Mr. CAMP. Mr. Chairman, I intend to vote against this bill, but I want to recognize and highlight one section, and that is ensuring workers continue to get promised regular and extended unemployment benefits and States are able to keep paying those benefits. Let's be clear why this provision is necessary. The Democrats' economic policy has resulted in record job loss, record deficits and none of the job creation they promised. But American workers should not pay for the mistakes and failures of the Democrats' so-called stimulus bill.

Just yesterday we reached yet another record in the number of American workers collecting unemployment checks instead of paychecks, and the Nation's unemployment rate is headed quickly to 10 percent and is already above 15 percent in my home State of Michigan.

Mr. Chairman, Americans can surely see the record unemployment, but they cannot see where the jobs are. The President and administration officials recently suggested their stimulus plan is working as intended and helping the economy recover. Well, it's not. The bill before us proves that. As the chart next to me shows, since President Obama was sworn into office, the Nation's public debt and unemployment combined, the Obama Misery Index, has risen by a shocking 40 percent, and that's before literally trillions of dollars in additional spending under the Democrats' stimulus, energy and health plans, and whatever higher unemployment lies ahead.

The bill reflects the continued failure of their economic policy to save or create millions of jobs they promised would flow quickly from their stimulus bill. Mr. Chairman, Republicans offered a plan that would have provided twice the jobs at half the cost. It was disappointing when it was rejected earlier this year, and the bill before us, in which Congress is bailing out the Federal unemployment bailout fund for States, is yet another reminder of the failure of the bill Democrats wrote behind closed doors and forced through Congress.

Given the amendments, as the ranking member articulated, that were not allowed or not included, I can only hope that this bill comes back from the Senate improved. Mr. Chairman, we must help those who need help. But it would be nice if the Congress would provide them a job, not another unemployment check.

Mr. OBEY. I yield 1½ minutes to the distinguished gentlewoman from New York (Mrs. LOWEY).

Mrs. LOWEY. I want to thank Chairman OBEY and Ranking Member Tiahrt and their staffs for their hard work in crafting this bill. Overall, this is an excellent bill which includes increases for critical programs such as Pell Grants, NIH, family planning services, GEAR-UP, TRIO and after-school programs, just to name a few.

Despite the positive provisions before us, I'm disappointed that the bill eliminates the Safe and Drug Free School and Communities State Grants. The community-based coalitions in White Plains, Ossining, Larchmont, Port Chester and Ardsley, to name a few, are working tirelessly to reduce drug and alcohol use among young people. I hope I can work with the chairman to restore funding for this program as the bill moves through the process.

Despite this concern, the bill takes big steps towards addressing some of our Nation's most pressing challenges. I am proud to support it, and I encourage my colleagues to do the same.

Mr. TIAHRT. I yield as much time as he may consume to the gentleman from California, the ranking member of the Appropriations Committee, Mr. LEWIS.

Mr. LEWIS of California. Mr. Chairman, as we begin the 11th of 12 appropriations bills, let me congratulate DAVID OBEY, as well as Mr. TIAHRT, for their very fine work together. They're agreeing to disagree on many of the key issues here but, nonetheless, work very positively at the subcommittee level.

Mr. Chairman, the Labor-HHS spending bill we will consider today is an appropriations bill that involves a very significant level of funding. By now we all know how important it is to Chairman OBEY to complete each of the spending bills by the end of July. It's almost a badge of courage for him to go into the August recess saying, "I did my job; the House Appropriations Committee has completed its work."

To some extent, I know how he feels. On June 30, 2005, Mr. OBEY and I celebrated the passage of all of the fiscal year 2006 spending bills with our bipartisan staff just across the hall from the House Chamber. And for the record, each of those spending bills was considered on this floor under an open rule with unlimited opportunity for Members of both parties to offer and debate amendments.

Today, the House is under different management and, clearly, we're on a different path. In 2005, there were 27 amendments offered on the House floor during consideration of the Labor-HHS bill. And it took a total of 14 hours over 2 days to complete our work. Today, only five amendments have been made in order, and we will conveniently complete our work in time for a late lunch.

Until today, every single floor amendment allowed by the majority on every spending bill considered thus far, they have been limited to 10 minutes of debate time. That is until now. Members on both sides of the aisle may be interested to know that the Rules Committee has generously allotted 20 minutes for the consideration of amendments today, an amendment to be offered by Chairman OBEY himself. Sadly, as other Members are shut out of the process time and time again, Chairman OBEY is an exception to the rule.

By this time next week the House will have passed each of its annual spending bills. Every Member of this body knows that the majority leadership has only been able to achieve its goal by pursuing a distorted road map, stifling any and all meaningful debate throughout the process. To me, it's a legislative sleight of hand that obliterates the rights of every American and undermines the very institution we all love.

A few years ago, a very talented baseball player, Barry Bonds, took a shortcut to break the home run record. This was a ball player with tremendous natural talent and great skills that, on its own, could have achieved greatness. But because he took the easy way out, he undermined his own credibility as well as the magnitude of that record-breaking performance. Barry Bonds felt then, as the majority leadership seems to feel today, that the end justifies the means. In the mind's eye of the public, Barry Bonds' achievement was illegitimate, and as an asterisk was placed next to his performance in the history books and even on the record-breaking home run ball. Barry Bonds never recovered and, I fear, neither will this committee or this Congress.

As this majority leadership continues to add to the mountain of debt on a daily basis, it's important that we remind the American people that each of the spending bills are being completed this year in much the same manner as Barry Bonds setting the home run record. The majority leadership is taking shortcuts to pass these bills, an achievement they apparently could not attain within the rules. As a result, the Rules Committee has become to Chairman OBEY what steroids became to Barry Bonds, not a ticket to the Hall of Fame, but merely the means to an end.

I do not hold all of my friends of the majority party responsible, for many of them feel as strongly as I do about an open process. I believe most of my friends would prefer to return to the time-honored practices and traditions of our committee.

□ 1200

I know many of them have grown weary of the arm-twisting and of the overly partisan instructions to oppose every Republican amendment offered in our full committee.

I don't know if or when our committee will ever return to the old days, but I do know that, when the history of the fiscal year 2010 budget process is written, it will be noted with a Barry Bonds asterisk that these spending bills were completed under an entirely illegitimate process.

The lesson learned is this: To this majority leadership, the end is more important than the means, and sadly, it will take any shortcut necessary to win.

Mr. OBEY. I yield 1½ minutes to the gentleman from Rhode Island (Mr. KENNEDY).

Mr. KENNEDY. Chairman OBEY, I want to commend you for the very hard work that you put into this bill, which shows a strong commitment to America's children, seniors, families, and others most in need. In particular, I want to thank you for increasing funding for the NIH, CDC and SAMHSA.

When it comes to medical research, this bill moves our Nation forward. It provides $500 million over the President's budget for the National Institutes of Health so the NIH can move us closer to the cures that we all wait for.

When it comes to public and preventative health, this bill moves our Nation forward. It provides increases to health professionals and to nursing education and to the very serious public health and national security crises posed by the H1A1, avian flu. This bill prepares us for that uncommon threat.

When it comes to mental health and substance abuse services, this bill moves us forward. In particular, Mr. Chairman, I want to thank you for funding a new initiative regarding the effects of the economic downturn on mental health, called the Community Resilience initiative. Through this funding, we are going to be able to design a health program that meets our public's mental health resilience needs at a time of economic downturn and of very strong public stress.

In my State of Rhode Island, with 12 percent unemployment and in a state of budget crisis, my people and our country's needs are much greater because of this pressure, not only on our economy but on the public at large in their personal lives.

For that, I want to thank you, Mr. Chairman, for these increases in funding.

Mr. TIAHRT. Mr. Chairman, might I inquire of how much time is left?

The CHAIR. The gentleman from Kansas has 8 minutes remaining. The gentleman from Wisconsin has 25 minutes remaining.

Mr. TIAHRT. I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SMITH).

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Mr. Chairman, it is time to take a second look at Planned Parenthood. I respectfully ask Members to support the Pence amendment which will be offered later on.

Mr. Chairman, no child is safe in a Planned Parenthood clinic. That goes equally for the preborn child who is yearning to be born as well as for the 15-year-old pregnant girl being told she is entitled to a secret abortion, an abortion procured with neither her parents' knowledge or consent.

Each year, with poison pills or by dismemberment, Planned Parenthood aborts more than 305,000 unborn children. That's a quarter of all abortions performed in America—a staggering loss of children's lives that, years to date, now exceeds over 5 million dead babies all by just one organization.

Planned Parenthood aggressively lobbies and litigates against every modest restriction that has been proven to significantly reduce abortions. Planned Parenthood lobbies and litigates against women's right-to-know laws, waiting periods and parental involvement statutes, even though the latter has been shown to reduce abortions among teenage girls by between 19 and 31 percent. Planned Parenthood lobbies and litigates against prohibitions of taxpayer funding for abortions even though Planned Parenthood's own research shows that funding bans reduce abortion by between 20 and 35 percent. Millions of children live today because public funds weren't available to effectuate their demise. Yet Planned Parenthood aggressively seeks to compel taxpayer funding for abortion.

It is time, Mr. Chairman, to take a second look at Planned Parenthood. It is time to understand the irreparable harm Planned Parenthood is doing to the children of America, both born and unborn.

Mr. OBEY. I yield 1½ minutes to the distinguished gentlewoman from Minnesota (Ms. MCCOLLUM).

Ms. MCCOLLUM. Mr. Chairman, I would like to start by commending Chairman OBEY for his leadership and for his crafting of a fiscally responsible bill that meets the needs of America's children, families, seniors, and communities we live in for today and tomorrow.

This bill marks a new era in which Congress and the White House are working in partnership to invest in the health, education, workforce training, and success of all of our country's citizens. I would like to highlight some of the investments that are most important to my constituents in Minnesota.

The $5.1 billion included in LIHEAP ensures that more than 7 million low-income households will have the money they need to keep warm this winter. The education increases in Head Start, IDEA, TRIO, and Pell Grants will help give our children a quality education and opportunities to attend and succeed in college. The $3.8 billion for the Workforce Investment Act will help to retain our neighbors who have been hurt by these tough economic times. Lastly, the investments in the CDC and in the NIH will strengthen public health and health research, which are critical to keeping America healthy.

Families in Minnesota and across the United States need this bill. I strongly support this bill, and I urge my colleagues to support it as well.

Again, I want to commend Chairman OBEY and his staff for their extraordinary commitment to giving all of America's children and families the opportunity to be healthy, secure and successful.

Mr. TIAHRT. Mr. Chairman, I would like to yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. CRENSHAW), who is also a member of the Appropriations Committee.

Mr. CRENSHAW. I thank the gentleman for yielding.

Mr. Chairman, as a member of this committee, I certainly want to commend Chairman OBEY and Ranking Member TIAHRT for bringing this bill to the floor today.

Like a lot of legislation, there are some good things in this bill, and there are some things that are not so good. One of the best things, I believe, is the money that we are appropriating to the National Institutes of Health, some $31 billion, which is about a 3 percent increase over last year. I think the research that they do is efficient. It's cost-effective. They find cures for disease. They help prevent disease. I think we'd all agree that the money we spend today can save us billions of dollars tomorrow.

One of the areas to which this money is going is the area called "inflammatory bowel disease." You don't hear much about it. It's a terrible disease. It affects about 1.5 million people in America today. About 10 percent of them are young people. We don't know what causes it, and we don't know how to cure it, but the money that is part of this NIH today is going to really make some major breakthroughs because so little is known.

It is one of the most exciting areas in scientific research, so it's my hope, as this money continues to go to this area, that one day we will be able to find a cure and will be able to beat this terrible disease.

Mr. OBEY. I yield 1½ minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Ohio (Mr. RYAN).

Mr. RYAN of Ohio. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Chairman, there have been a lot of people saying: Why are we rushing? Why aren't there more amendments? Why isn't there more debate?

We have an obligation to the American people to get these budgets done. The fiscal year starts at the end of October, and we need to get our job done.

I want to commend Chairman OBEY for making sure that we are going to get all of these House bills done before we leave in August. Given all of the tactics that our friends on the other side have used, I think it's going to be quite an accomplishment. It's important for us to remember that our friends on the other side had control of the House, had control of the Senate, had control of the White House, had control of the Supreme Court, had a chance to implement their health care policy, their energy policy and their overall economic policy. That's the world that we're living in right now. They had control of everything, and we're trying to fix it.

The $1,100 increase in gas prices per family over the course of the last 10 years and the increase in health care, going up 120-some percent over the last decade for small businesses—that's a tax. We're trying to fix it. If we do nothing, gas prices are going to continue to go up; energy costs are going to continue to go up; health care costs are going to continue to go up. We are trying to rein this in, and we are trying to fix it. I think this bill does a lot of what we need to do.

This eliminates 28 programs; it cuts $1.3 billion out of the bill; it funds community health clinics so that 17 million patients can have some access to health care; it increases the Pell Grants since Democrats have had an opportunity to move in; there is a $1,500 increase, a 37 percent increase, in charter schools.

The CHAIR. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. OBEY. I yield the gentleman an additional 30 seconds.

Mr. RYAN of Ohio. There is $256 million for helping start up 1,300 new charter schools; there are investments into the NIH for cancer research.

These are the investments that we need to make. This is the situation we've been given, and these are the cards we've been dealt. I think this bill goes a long way in trying to clean up this mess. It's not going to happen overnight. It took 10 years of Republican leadership to get us in the worst economic situation we've been in since the Great Depression. It's going to take a few years for us to get out. The current system cannot continue. This bill, the energy bill and the health care reform are all opportunities for us to change the direction in which we're going.

Mr. TIAHRT. Mr. Chairman, apparently, the gentleman from Ohio has overlooked the fact that every spending bill that has made it to the President's desk since 2007 has been originated by the Democrat-controlled House. So I would like to correct that.

May I inquire as to how much time remains in this debate?

The CHAIR. The gentleman from Kansas has 4½ minutes remaining. The gentleman from Wisconsin has 21½ minutes remaining.

Mr. TIAHRT. I will yield myself such time as I might consume.

Mr. Chairman, sometimes there is convenient memory loss about what has happened in the economy recently. Since 2007, the House Appropriations Committee, as well as the full House, have been controlled by Democratic leadership. The bills that were voted for in the bailout last year were voted for by the current President, then-Senator Obama. So, to think that the economic woes of today were imposed upon the Democratic-controlled House by Republicans is a stretch of even the wildest imagination. To assume that the Republicans in the House controlled the Supreme Court at any time in the history of this country is a stretch of the imagination.

The bill before us today, when added with the stimulus bill, is a 93 percent increase in spending. It's a tremendous amount of money, and it's money that is not designed to bring jobs back to America but merely to continue existing programs and even to create new programs that have not gone through the hearing process, the process of developing, of changing and of molding these programs, so that they are fully productive for the American people, whether it's in health care or in education or in labor.

So I think that it's important for us to realize that this bill has a lot of money which is money we don't have, excessive money, and it should have had the opportunity, through the amendment process, to be brought back to levels that we can afford, to levels that would not have imposed an excessive amount of borrowing for the American people, because that borrowing leads to requirements for not only ourselves but for future Americans, who work hard for their money, to then pay money for programs that have already existed in the past.

So, Mr. Chairman, I would say that this process has been, I think, restricted in an unnecessary fashion, and because of that, there are many people who will not be able to support this legislation.

I want to, once again, acknowledge that the chairman of the Appropriations Committee has spent a lot of time and a lot of effort, and has looked deeply into the details of this bill. I think that this bill is an encompassment of his passion for serving, and he has done a very good job on the details and on the work that he has put into this bill. I want to acknowledge that publicly and thank him for that effort. I wish that the spending levels were less so that I could also join with him in supporting this measure, but I will not be able to do so.

In the future, as we move forward, I hope that, next year, we bring the spending levels to an area that is acceptable and that continues these very necessary programs, because much of this bill is work that needs to be done in America. I am looking forward to working with the chairman on this bill next year to, hopefully, achieve those levels.

With that being said, I yield back the balance of my time.

□ 1215

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Chairman, I recognize myself for the remainder of the time.

Mr. Chairman, before I get into the specifics of the bill, I would like to take a couple of minutes to respond to some of the criticisms that have been made about the process by which this bill has come to the floor.

Much has been made of the fact that this bill did not come to the floor under an open rule. There is nothing really new about that. On at least 25 occasions during the Republican control of this House, appropriation bills came to the floor without being under an open rule. But I want to specifically address the so-called "outrage" that has occurred by our supposedly denying Republican amendments the right to get a vote.

Here are the facts: Republican Members of the House offered 14 amendments. They filed 14 amendments with the Rules Committee. Four of those amendments were not in order under the rules. A point of order could have been lodged against all of them, so they were out. Three more were on subjects that belong in the health care debate or the health care reform debate, which is now working its way through the Congress.

I think what happened is that some Members on the other side of the aisle mistook me for HENRY WAXMAN and thought we were in the Energy and Commerce Committee. Now, I don't think I look like him. I don't think HENRY would want to look like me. But somehow there is confusion.

So our Republican friends have brought a number of amendments, three of them, to this bill on subjects such as forbidding us from having a public option in the health care reform bill. That's not under the jurisdiction of this committee. All that would do is add to the confusion. So those amendments were rejected by the Rules Committee.

Then our Republican friends offered another amendment which dealt with the issue of indirect student loans, whether that program should expire or not. That is an issue which was decided by the Education and Labor Committee earlier this week. It is an authorization. It's not an appropriation issue. So it's decided on that bill.

So that takes us from the Republicans' 14 initial amendments down to five amendments. We made in order four of those five amendments. The one amendment that we did not make in order that was remaining was an amendment that would have added a billion dollars to a program that we already added $12 billion to earlier this year in the recovery package. We put $12 billion in increases into special education. In the 12 years that the Republicans controlled this place, in total they only added $8.5 billion to that program. So we poured money into that program. And given the competition on the part of all other programs for taxpayers' money, I think the Rules Committee justifiably felt that that amendment was a little outlandish, so we didn't vote on it.

Now, if people want to make a Federal case out of that history, be my guest.

The second thing we've heard today is considerable bashing—in addition to bashing of the majority party of the House, we've heard considerable bashing of President Obama. In terms of the bashing of the majority, we were told a bit earlier by one of the speakers over there that we had been partisan in the full committee and had rejected every Republican amendment. That's nonsense. We accepted 57 Republican amendments on all of the appropriation bills that went through the committee this year. I hardly think that that is being partisan.

I would also point out that the bailout, which has been so roundly denounced by several speakers today, that bailout was originally proposed and asked for by President Bush. It was voted down the first time in this House. It was voted up the second time after credit markets further collapsed. And both Mr. Obama and Mr. MCCAIN, in an act of patriotism, rose above their partisan and electoral interests and supported Bush on that issue even though it was unpopular.

Enough said on that score.

I would also say that for those who are screaming about the President's economic recovery efforts, the President has been in office a very few short months. The Recovery Act passed less than 5 months ago. It is designed to be a 30-month program to try to limit to some degree the job loss in this economy. We were losing 700,000 jobs a month in the last 3 months of the Bush administration. We've now seen that job loss decline to about 400,000 jobs a month. That's not good enough in anybody's eyes, but it is a whole lot better than was happening last year. And it's going to take, frankly, a long time to repair the damage done by 8 years of previous government policy.

So I would prefer to set those issues aside. I don't think it's particularly productive to engage in partisan bashing.

I should correct one statement that I made. I said that we accepted 57 amendments in committee. We accepted 57 amendments in committee and on the floor. Let me correct that statement.

Having gotten rid of all of that underbrush, I would like to now turn to what is in this bill and why I believe the House ought to support it.

As I said earlier, this government, both under President Bush and under President Obama, has pumped a lot of money into what I would call the elite sectors of the economy: the financial sectors of the economy, the banking system, et cetera, and Wall Street. And now this bill is the main appropriation bill that deals with the economic problems and the health problems of every other American, and I want to walk you through just a bit what this bill does.

First of all, I think we need to understand this bill is fiscally responsible. The committee's allocation cut a total of $10 billion from the President's discretionary spending request, and in this bill, we have a $52 million reduction from President Obama's request. We have eliminated or cut some 44 programs, saving $1.3 billion.

And I would point out that the largest single problematic increase in the bill is a $993 million increase for the Social Security Administration to dramatically cut back the backlog on disability claims facing that agency. And I think no one would argue those funds are wasteful.

After we account for that increase for Social Security, that leaves us with a 1.7 percent increase for the rest of the bill. After you deduct for inflation, it means this bill, in real terms, is three-tenths of 1 percent above last year. That is hardly profligate.

In addition, a priority for this bill is $1.1 billion which we include for activities to reduce improper payments, fraud, and abuse in the Department of Labor and Health and Human Services and in the Social Security Administration. That is a 50 percent increase in enforcement money to go after fraud and waste and abuse over the previous year. It's been estimated by the budget office that that action could result in over $48 billion in savings and increased revenue for picking up legitimate revenues that would have otherwise been lost.

With respect to the Department of Health and Human Services, this bill increases that agency by about 3.3 percent. Again, hardly a profligate increase.

Now, we're all talking about our desire to pass health care reform. We recognize in the committee that if we're going to do that, we have to increase the capacity in the health care system, and so we are appropriating nearly $3 billion to do just that. We're providing $2.2 billion for community health centers; $530 billion to expand training programs in the nursing field; $135 million for a career pathway innovation fund to again train nurses, medical technicians, and others in the health care industry; $75 million additional funding for State health access grants to help States transition to a health reform program; and $65 billion for State high-risk insurance pools. We've also increased the National Institutes of Health funding by $500 million.

I've said many times on this House floor, when I go home, I've never had anybody in my life come up to me and say, "Hey, Obey, why don't you in Washington get your act together and cut cancer research?" and yet that is what the previous President and the previous Congress did. They eliminated over 900 medical research grants at the National Institutes of Health. We don't do that. We add a significant amount of money to try to beef up our medical research across the board.

We also added some $200 million for an initiative begun by former Treasury Secretary O'Neill in Pennsylvania to try to get hospitals to bring under control their life-threatening hospital infection problem which is plaguing the entire country.

With respect to senior nutrition and other services, we provided $1.5 billion. We have rejected the administration's efforts to cut $1.5 billion out of basic grants for Title I. We've restored that funding.

We have provided a large increase, $446 million, for the administration's top priority, which is the Teacher Incentive Fund, and $500 million for Pell Grants.

The Department of Labor, more than half of the increase in that department is simply to help States to process unemployment compensation claims. We also have a $271 million program in this bill to strengthen our ability to help veterans transition to civilian workforce employment.

And I think, Mr. Chairman, that's about all I want to say about the numbers in the bill.

I just want to add one thing. With respect to the policy provisions in this bill, we have retained every single limitation that was contained in previous appropriation bills when our Republican friends were in the majority. We have retained every single restriction on abortion that was in bills when they controlled the House, and so I think we have leaned over backwards to try to work with our friends in the minority.

And as I say, I appreciate the relationship that I have with the gentleman from Kansas. He's a fine and good man. We don't agree on everything, but as Will Rogers once said, when two people agree on everything, one of them is unnecessary.

So we do the best we can to reconcile our differences. We all have deeply held beliefs, but I think this bill represents the values of the country and, I hope, the values of this Congress.

I would urge support.

Mr. BLUMENAUER. Mr. Chair, I strongly support the Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act. This bill strengthens our economy and our communities by improving education, expanding job training, and strengthening our health and social services safety nets. I appreciate strategic investments made in Oregon and around the country to make our communities more livable and our families safer, healthier, and more economically secure. There are two important pieces of this bill I'd like to highlight: funding for public broadcasting and the University Sustainability Program.

Nationwide, the economic downturn has struck businesses and individuals hard. The free, noncommercial, cultural and educational programming services provided by public broadcasting are now more valuable than ever. Many communities rely on public broadcasting stations as a sole source of news and information. States and local governments use the public broadcasting system for both day-to-day and emergency communications. Stations, which receive most of their funding from donations, have been hard hit by the recession as well. I am pleased that this bill includes $40 million in fiscal stabilization grants, 100 percent of which will go directly to stations in need, to shore up these local stations and local jobs. And I appreciate the continued advance appropriations for the Corporation for Public Broadcasting included as well, which helps ensure broadcasters can provide continuity of service and plan budgets adequately.

Public broadcasting connects people with their local community, their nation, and their world in a way that no other outlet can or does. Because American citizens have come to rely on these services and programs, I am pleased Congress is fulfilling its responsibility to support public broadcasting.

In addition, on behalf of the thirty members of Congress who requested funding for the University Sustainability Program, I would like to thank the Labor, Health and Human Services, Education and Related Agencies Appropriation Committee for recognizing the important role that this program will play in helping revitalize the American economy. I'm proud that the committee has recognized the need for credible, multi disciplinary, innovative education centers to help our universities prepare students for the economy of tomorrow.

There is a growing awareness that transitioning to a green economy presents a tremendous opportunity for those who embrace it—and a great risk for those who ignore it. Making this transition promises to create a new engine to drive America's economy, achieve greater energy security, and reduce impacts from global warming—and reduce chances of losing American jobs to other countries which charge ahead and take the lead. This program will provide competitive grants for the development, implementation and evaluation of sustainability programs in American colleges and universities. It was created in the Higher Education Opportunity Act of 2008, based on legislation that I introduced in 2007, the Higher Education Sustainability Act.

Industry leaders in energy management, green building design and materials, waste management, toxics management, and sustainable transportation are hungry for a well-trained workforce trained in the latest technologies and approaches. A recent study of Fortune 500 CEOs reported that, while 90 percent agreed that "sustainable development is important to their company's future," only 30 percent say they have the "skills, information, and personnel to meet the challenge."

It's not surprising that company leaders feel this way. The United States lags far behind other countries when it comes to preparing our students to understand the environmental problems we face and come up with innovative technological and organizational ways to attack them. According to the International Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development, the U.S. ranks 34th out of 57 developed countries when it comes to students' knowledge about the environment and environment-related issues, behind Estonia, Croatia and the Slovak and Czech Republics. According to the National Renewable Energy Lab, the major barriers to a more rapid adoption of renewable energy and energy efficiency in America are insufficient skills and training.

The University Sustainability Program is supported by the Association for the Advancement of Sustainability in Higher Education, the American Association of Community Colleges, Associations of College Unions International, Campaign for Environmental Literacy, National Council for Science and the Environment, Nike, National Wildlife Federation, Association of College and University Housing Officers International, Mary Kay, Inc, Earth Day Network, Chesapeake Bay Foundation, American Academy of Religion, and many more companies, organizations and leaders.

I strongly support this bill and hope that the Senate will also include this much needed funding to support universities as they work to overcome some of the barriers to providing real, hands-on, environmental education to prepare students for the changing economy.

Mr. HOLT. Mr. Chair, I rise today in support of the Fiscal Year 2010 Labor-HHS-Education Appropriations bill and my Amendment to increase the Math and Science Partnership program funding by $5 million.

I want to thank Chairman OBEY for including my amendment in the manager's amendment before us today. This program is the federal government's only generally available math and science teacher training program. By providing more resources to the Math and Science Partnership program at the Department of Education the program would be able to expand to additional schools across the county, and countless students would benefit from improved instruction in these critical subject areas. If our economy is going to grow, if our productivity is going to grow, we must do better in math and science education.

Mr. Chair, this $5 million increase in funding is long overdue, and yet still far short of what is needed. We are not doing nearly enough in this area, and everyone says so.

The Glenn Commission, on which I was honored to serve said so, the National Academies of Science have said so. And the recently released report by the Carnegie Corporation of New York and the Institute for Advanced Study entitled "The Opportunity Equation: Transforming Mathematics and Science Education for Citizenship and the Global Economy" called for increasing the "supply of well-prepared teachers of mathematics and science at all grad levels by improving teacher preparation . . ."

That is why representative EHLERS and I led a letter to the House Appropriations Committee to increase funding for the Math and Science Partnership program to $450 million that was joined by 23 Members of Congress.

In 2002, prior to the reauthorization of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, the Eisenhower program provided $485 million for teacher professional development primarily in science and math. Yet, today the Math and Science Partnership program is funded at less than half that level at only $179 million.

Earlier this year, Education Secretary Duncan stated that "science education is central to our broad effort to restore American leadership in Education worldwide" and yet the budget proposal from the Department flat funded this essential training program again.

We need to change this cycle of recognizing problems, identifying solutions, and then failing to act.

My amendment was offered to increase funding for the Math and Science Partnerships program, and I know all too well that the $5 million included will not solve the problem.

I hope this serves as recognition that we cannot be a global economic power unless we make the appropriate investments in education, with special focus on math and science education. We may never know how many students could have benefited over the past seven years from full funding, but I hope that we will soon be able to restore funding to this program to its pre-2002 levels.

Again, I want to thank the Chairman for including my amendment and I urge my colleagues to support the amendment and the underlying bill.

Mr. HOLT. Mr. Chair, I rise today to express regret that full funding for disability access programs under the Help America Vote Act (HAVA) was not included in the Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education and Related Agencies Appropriations Act for Fiscal Year 2010, as the amendment I offered to the bill would have done. Three years after its final implementation deadline, the promise of disability access under HAVA still has not been fulfilled and I believe we should make that a priority before the next general election.

On June 10, 2009, the Government Accountability Office (GAO) issued a report indicating that much work is yet to be done to ensure full access to the polls. It stated, in part, that "[w]hile the percent of polling places with multiple impediments decreased significantly from 2000, still a fair number—16 percent—had four or more potential impediments in 2008. Over 50 percent of polling places had one or more potential impediments on the path from the parking lot to the building entrance, while 14 percent had potential impediments from the building entrance to the voting area." According to the GAO, currently only 27 percent of polling places are fully accessible. Therefore, I believe it is time we distributed to the states the full amount originally authorized and contemplated by HAVA to ensure full access to the polls, in time to achieve that goal before the election in November 2010.

It has been argued that additional funding is not needed in this bill because some funding previously appropriated has not been spent. But when one understands why, it becomes clear that the remaining funds are still needed. HAVA originally anticipated that funding for polling place accessibility and protection and advocacy could go directly to local election officials, but subsequently the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) determined that it would only take applications from state departments of elections. Funds therefore had to pass through Congress, HHS, and state departments of elections before being distributed to local officials, which has significantly slowed down the process.

The Protection and Advocacy for Voting Access (PAVA) program has never been fully funded, and the National Disability Rights Network (NDRN) advises me that this year, nearly ten months into the 2009 Fiscal Year, PAVA funding has still not been released to protection and advocacy organizations. This has forced them to ration carryover funds to allow continuity of existing projects, giving the appearance that they are sitting on money in the bank when in fact they are simply trying to keep their programs running on a shoestring without interruption. "Those who question why PAVA funds still exist in accounts need to look no further than the inconsistent funding and distribution history of this program," NDRN said.

That is why I offered an amendment to increase HAVA disability access funding by $20 million, and protection and advocacy funding by $5 million, so that the disability access funding in this year's appropriation bill would reach the level originally authorized and contemplated by HAVA. I regret that the full funding for disability access was not included in the bill, and I look forward to working with my colleagues to ensure that full funding for disability access under the Help America Vote Act is appropriated in the next fiscal cycle.

Ms. WATERS. Mr. Chair, I rise to support this bill, which provides funding for essential health and education services for the well-being of the American people.

I commend the Appropriations Committee for providing $263 million for Title VIII Nursing Workforce Development programs, a $92 million increase in funding for these nurse education and training programs. Our nation is facing a severe shortage of nurses, and this shortage will only become more severe as we embark on health reform and provide more Americans access to affordable healthcare.

There are many young people in my district and throughout the country who would welcome the opportunity to pursue a career in nursing. Enabling promising young people to receive a college education in nursing will reduce unemployment rates in the short term and provide a long-term investment in our nation's healthcare system.

Over the last four years, funding for the Nursing Workforce Development programs has remained relatively flat. In fiscal year (FY) 2006, these programs received just under $150 million and supported 91,189 nursing students. In the following year, these programs received the same amount of funding but supported only 71,729 nursing students. In FY 2008, the programs received $156 million but still supported only 51,657 nursing students. These recent trends demonstrate the rising costs of nurse education and training, which results in the participation of fewer nursing students and, therefore, fewer new nurses. In FY 2009, the programs received $171 million and, while this was a slight increase, it was still far below our nation's needs. A significant increase is necessary for these programs to overcome rising tuition costs and allow more students to participate.

The increase in this bill for nurse education and training programs will improve our nation's health system and allow thousands of young people to pursue a promising career field and serve their communities as nurses.

I urge my colleagues to support this bill.

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Chair, I rise to support this Labor-HHS-Education Appropriations bill, and particularly to call attention to a program that is close to my heart and vital for so many communities: full-service community schools. Full-service community schools are public schools that do much more than educate: they coordinate a wide range of social service programs for students and families, in partnerships with community organizations and the private sector. They provide students, families, and neighborhoods a seamless web of academic, health, and personal development services, all of which combine to expand opportunity in the communities that need it most. Full-service community schools can offer everything from health and dental care, to mental health counseling, to career advice, to literacy programs, to adult classes, to nutrition education. These schools quickly become the center of their communities, staying open long after school hours and on the weekends, as well.

Over the last decade, research has consistently shown that full-service community schools mean better outcomes in student achievement, attendance rates, student discipline, parental involvement, and access to preventive health services. That's why they're supported by so many education professionals, including the National Education Association, the American Federation of Teachers, the Coalition for Community Schools, and the National Association of State Boards of Education.

My late wife, Judy Hoyer, introduced me to full-service community schools. She was an early childhood educator, and at the Early Childhood and Family Learning Center in Adelphi, Maryland, she helped bring to life an innovative vision for education and community services, working together. Today, thousands of Maryland children benefit from the "Judy Centers" that operate across the state.

But full-service community schools can succeed in any state. That's why I'm glad that this legislation provides $10 million to fund grants that will help local education agencies work with community organizations and implement the community schools model. I believe that the result will be healthier and more successful students, more involved parents, and stronger communities.

I urge my colleagues to support this appropriations bill.

Mr. EHLERS. I rise in support of funding for the U.S. Department of Education's Math and Science Partnerships program. The legislation we are considering today appropriates $179 million for Math and Science Partnerships—equal to the current funding level.

The Math and Science Partnerships program is an innovative, proven program designed to improve teacher content knowledge and teaching skills in math and science subjects. Through formula grants to every state, the program provides crucial teacher professional development and teacher in-service training by linking school districts with university mathematics, science and engineering departments. As a result of the Math and Science Partnerships program, our students' math and science skills are strengthened.

This week, we celebrated the 40th anniversary of Apollo 11's mission and astronauts Neil Armstrong and Buzz Aldrin walking on the Moon. This event, and the earlier launch of Sputnik, sparked remarkable interest in science education, and led to the creation of many valuable federal education programs over the next several decades. One such program, the Eisenhower Professional Development Act, was originally enacted in 1985 to provide funding for professional development opportunities for math and science educators. In fact, before the No Child Left Behind Act (NCLB), Congress provided substantially more funding for math and science teacher professional development through the Eisenhower program. In short, in spite of our great national need for more well-trained scientists and engineers, we are providing less than half as much funding for training science teachers as we did before NCLB was passed into law. Currently, many science teachers report little, if any, funds available for professional development activities.

Earlier this year, Representative HOLT and I led the charge to provide at least $450 million in funding for the Math and Science Partnerships program. Twenty-three Members of Congress joined us in sending a letter to the Labor, Health & Human Services Appropriations Subcommittee requesting this important funding.

I am disappointed that the bill before us today provides level funding for the Math & Science Partnerships program. However, I am deeply grateful to Chairman OBEY for his willingness to include $5 million in additional funding for the Math & Science Partnerships program in his manager's amendment. I sincerely thank him for recognizing the need for increased funding for the Math and Science Partnerships program. I also thank Representative HOLT for his continued dedication to supporting this program and for his work in securing this additional funding.

Mrs. MALONEY. Mr. Chair, I rise in support of H.R. 3293, the Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education Appropriation bill for fiscal year 2010. In tough economic times, it is this important spending measure that makes critical investments in job training, strengthens health and social safety nets, and provides the educational opportunities that are critical to the nation's long-term prosperity. I want to thank Chairman OBEY for his tireless work on this always challenging legislation.

I also want to thank Chairman OBEY for including $70.7 million in the bill—the President's request—for the World Trade Center (WTC) Health programs, which provide medical monitoring and treatment to WTC responders, community members, and others who have become ill because of the aftermath of the attacks on September 11, 2001. While the New York Delegation works toward a long-term legislative solution in passage of the James Zadroga 9/11 Health and Compensation Act (H.R. 847), this funding to continue the current WTC Health programs is absolutely critical in ensuring that the heroes and heroines of 9/11 receive the health care they need and deserve.

Again, I am pleased to support this bill and thank Chairman OBEY for his leadership.

Mr. STARK. Mr. Chair, I rise today in support of the 2010 Labor, Health & Education Appropriations (H.R. 3293). It will ease the recession by increasing job training, strengthening the social safety net, and investing in families. I am particularly supportive of the bill's education and health care provisions.

The bill makes critical investments toward the goal of providing every student with a world-class education. Additional resources will go to Title I schools serving low-income students, as well as programs under the Individuals with Disabilities Act (IDEA), which serve 6.7 million students with disabilities. The bill also provides $545 million for assistance to thousands of schools with chronically poor performance. When coupled with funding from the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act, states will receive $4 billion to turn around these schools and create opportunities for children.

This legislation will also make college affordable for many more students by continuing to increase the Pell Grant. Since Democrats took charge of Congress in January 2007, the maximum Pell Grant has increased 37 percent from $4,050 to $5,550.

The legislation also invests in our health care system to make our nation healthier and more productive. The bill will help Community Health Centers provide care for 17 million Americans with a $2.2 billion investment. It will also help us to meet nursing and other workforce shortfalls by increasing support for training of medical professionals. Finally, the legislation provides a $992 million increase for the life saving research carried out by the NIH.

This bill continues the commitment to reconstruct our public schools and address the health care crisis by building on the historic education and health investments made by the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act. I urge all of my colleagues to support this legislation.

Mr. VAN HOLLEN. Mr. Chair, I rise to support the FY10 Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education Appropriations bill.

As we continue to debate sweeping health care reform, today's legislation makes investments in our most urgent needs, including $2.2 billion for community health centers to serve vulnerable populations, $530 million to train new health professionals, and $204 million to continue an aggressive campaign to reduce life-threatening infections that patients acquire while receiving treatment for medical or surgical conditions.

I am pleased that the bill includes $31.3 billion for the National Institutes of Health, although I am concerned that the funding increases will not keep up with escalating biomedical costs. As we consider the costs of our health care system, we must make the investments necessary to find cures for chronic diseases that require expensive long-term care.

I also strongly support the $10 million in funding included for the Caroline Pryce Walker Conquer Childhood Cancer Act, legislation I co-authored with former Congresswoman Deborah Pryce. This will fund pediatric cancer research activities to eradicate the number one cause of death for our nation's children.

Today's bill also makes vital investments in education and workforce development. It includes $17.5 billion for Title I grants to serve 20 million disadvantaged children and $11.5 billion for the Individuals with Disabilities Act, which, when combined with funding from the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act, will support a 25 percent Federal contribution for special education. Additional new investments are made in literacy and dropout prevention initiatives.

In a time when students across the country are struggling to pay for college, this bill continues the new Congress's commitment to affordable education by raising the maximum Pell grant award to $5,550.

The bill also includes a $50 million investment in green job training, to prepare workers for a new, 21st century economy. Additional funding is included to train veterans transitioning to a civilian workforce and dislocated workers who have lost their jobs during the recession.

Mr. Chair, the FY10 Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education Appropriations bill funds some of our nation's most important domestic priorities. I urge my colleagues to support these critical investments in our nation's children, families, and workers.

Mr. GENE GREEN of Texas. Mr. Chair, I rise today in strong support of this appropriations bill. In this time of economic uncertainty, the Labor, HHS, and Education Appropriations Act funds some of the most important programs that provide a social safety net, as well as programs that will help us on the road to recovery. Investment in education and job training is one of the best ways to help America become stronger, and more productive and competitive.

H.R. 3293 makes critical investments to train people for jobs, shore up health and social safety nets to provide relief for millions of hard-working Americans struggling to make ends meet in the economic crisis, and provide the educational opportunity that is critical to the nation's longer-term prosperity.

One of these jobs training programs will take place in Texas's 29th District at the International Maritime and Energy Center of Houston, which San Jacinto College will operate along with other regional and industry partners. Our district includes the Port of Houston, and this center will provide training for the high demand jobs that exist right in our backyard. With inland shipping docks protected from open seas, by the 1980s more than half of the United States energy/petrochemical capacity was built in the Houston port region. Today, this global maritime and industrial complex is second in size only to Rotterdam in the entire world.

This funding will allow San Jacinto College along with other regional and industry partners, to address the critical need for trained workers in both the maritime and energy industries. Recognizing this critical need for trained workers, and how a shortage of workers would impact the Houston Port region, numerous public and private entities have partnered with the intent to create the International Maritime and Energy Center of Houston. This project will allow enhanced training programs that develop skilled workers in technical education and also a training and workforce pipeline in regional dual credit programs with the area high schools, and I thank the Committee for including this critical funding.

Also included in this bill is funding for the purchase of direct-capture digital imaging devices by the Harris County Hospital District that will enhance clinical work flow and will allow imaging technologists to increase productivity and increase access to care for clinic beneficiaries which is the overall program goal. Current radiology practices in the Community Health Centers are hampered by analog imaging products that limit work flow efficiencies. Existing systems require the Radiology Technologist to capture radiographic images on an imaging plate that is processed by a computed radiography device. The process is time consuming and limits patient throughput by nearly one-third—cassette based image management systems are very inefficient and resource-intensive.

The Harris County Hospital District is the public hospital system for Harris County, Texas. With an operating budget in excess of $800 million, the district runs 3 hospitals, 11 community health centers, a freestanding HIV clinic, and several school-based and community-based clinics. This equipment will allow them to better serve the needs of our community.

I am also pleased that this bill supports three important education programs that are active throughout our district. Several of the schools in our district participate in the Education for Democracy Act program which is one of the most cost effective education programs supported by the federal government. This important program promotes our students' capacity to participate competently and responsibly in our democratic system by providing them with a thorough understanding of our constitutional democracy as expressed in such seminal documents as the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution and the Bill of Rights, and the Gettysburg Address.

The Reach Out and Read program promotes literacy and language development in infants and young children, targeting disadvantaged children and families across our country. Through fifteen years of peer-reviewed and published research, an extensive body of documentation now clearly demonstrates the importance of promoting early language and literacy skills so that children have the essential reading skills they need to begin school successfully. I am proud that there are fifteen Reach Out and Read locations in our district serving 9,161 children each year.

Finally, I am a long time supporter of the Reading is Fundamental Program in our country and am pleased that the Appropriations Committee continued their strong support for this program as well. This important program also enhances child literacy by providing millions of underserved children, including several in my district, with free books—thereby encouraging them to read and cultivate the skills they need to be successful in school.

Mr. Chair, this is a good bill that funds so many needs in our district and across the country. I strongly urge my colleagues to join me in supporting its passage.

Ms. MOORE of Wisconsin. Mr. Chair, as Congress continues to address proposals intended to decrease the poverty gap and increase access to higher education for low-income and first generation college students, as well as at-risk youth, I strongly encourage a significant funding boost for Federal TRIO programs. TRIO has offered effective supportive services with proven results for hundreds of thousands of students across the country. However, these local programs work on a shoestring budget that forces them to turn away thousands of eligible students every year.

I applaud the increase that TRIO received in the FY 2010 House Labor-HHS-Education Appropriations bill, but it is nowhere near enough to address the need. I offered an amendment to increase funding by an additional $5 million, offset by a new and unproven grant program that aims to accomplish exactly the same goals that the proven TRIO program is already working towards. I fully support innovation, but not at the expense of meeting the needs of students now.

TRIO is a proven program currently serving nearly 850,000 at-risk students ranging from middle school to college students nearing graduation.

TRIO provides the academic and personal support that young, low-income, and at-risk students need to help take advantage of the opportunities afforded to them.

TRIO students who have participated in pre-college programs have a higher matriculation rate than other low-income students. In 2005, 77.3% of all students who participated in Upward Bound programs immediately went to college the following fall and 86.5% of students who participated in Upward Bound-Math Science went directly to college. Similarly, 73% of Talent Search participants enrolled in college the fall following high school graduation. These figures stand in sharp contrast to the immediate college enrollment rate of all low-income high school students—only 41%.

Several data sources illustrate the success of TRIO by showing that students who participate in TRIO Student Support Services (SSS), with Pell Grant funding, are almost 10% more likely to attain a bachelor's degree than those who solely received Pell Grants without SSS participation.

51% percent of campuses that enroll over 1,000 Pell recipients host SSS programs. Yet, the average size of an SSS grant only allows a typical program to serve a portion (25.11%) of eligible students. Many others—students for whom consistent supportive services could mean the difference between a college degree and dropping out—do not receive the support they need.

TRIO has not received a significant increase since FY 2006. According to the Pell Institute for the Study of Opportunity in Education 2009, current TRIO funding levels are only sufficient to serve 11% of the students who are eligible for help.

Students from the bottom income quartile ($38,660 or under per family) have a 25% chance at completing a college degree once they begin. In contrast, students from the top quartile ($105,800 or over per family) have a 95% chance of completing a college degree. As such, services offered by the TRIO programs become all the more critical to ensure that such students have the opportunity to become economically viable and independent members of our post-industrial, global society.

The High School Graduation Initiative is an untested program that received $50 million dollars in the Department of Education Appropriations Act of 2010. It aims for the same goals as TRIO, yet it is unproven. My amendment would have drawn $5 million from this fund to put towards TRIO. It is not enough to ensure that this effective program can reach all eligible students, but it is a start.

Mr. SPACE. Mr. Chair, I rise today in support of the FY 2010 Labor-HHS-Education Appropriations bill which contains $10 million for the continuation of rural facilities technical assistance. Among the grantees for this program are the six Rural Community Assistance Partnerships (RCAPs). The RCAPs have functioned as a national network of regional organizations for over two decades. They utilize public and private funds to provide technical assistance for a range of tasks: community-development, infrastructure expansion, pollution-prevention, environmental-compliance and others.

Rural communities have billions of dollars of need for new and improved water and waste disposal facilities. Addressing this need is not just important for improving public health, but also for alleviating poverty. Lacking adequate water or waste disposal facilities, small communities cannot attract business, develop a housing subdivision or build a new school. I am incredibly pleased that Chairman OBEY understands the unique needs of rural communities and worked to secure funding for the RCAPs which are so important to my District.

RCAP has helped communities in Ohio's District 18 access over $8 million in 2009 alone, and is currently working with more than 13 projects to access available Recovery Act funding. In addition, RCAP has provided training to over 280 local officials from 60 communities in the district on managerial and financial issues to promote small system sustainability. Again, I want to thank Chairman OBEY for his hard work on this important bill that will allow communities in my District to continue receiving necessary assistance in addressing their drinking water and waste water needs.

Mr. OBEY. I yield back the balance of my time.

The CHAIR. All time for general debate has expired.

Pursuant to the rule, the bill is considered read for amendment under the 5-minute rule and the bill shall be considered read through page 134, line 12.

The text of that portion of the bill is as follows:

H.R. 3293

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the following sums are appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, for the Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education, and related agencies for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2010, and for other purposes, namely:

TITLE I—DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING ADMINISTRATION TRAINING AND EMPLOYMENT SERVICES (INCLUDING TRANSFER OF FUNDS)

For necessary expenses of the Workforce Investment Act of 1998 ("WIA"), the Second Chance Act of 2007, and the Women in Apprenticeship and Non-Traditional Occupations Act of 1992, including the purchase and hire of passenger motor vehicles, the construction, alteration, and repair of buildings and other facilities, and the purchase of real property for training centers as authorized by the WIA; $3,802,961,000, plus reimbursements, shall be available. Mr. OBEY. Mr. Chairman, this amendment, I believe, is not controversial. It incorporates several amendments requested by Members and makes technical corrections to the underlying bill. These adjustments are fully offset and do not change the bottom-line funding for the bill.

Briefly, the amendment provides an additional $5 million for the Career Pathways Innovation Fund within the Department of Labor requested by Mr. TEAGUE, offset by a reduction in the green jobs fund.

It contains an additional million dollars for the emergency medical services for children's programs. As a result, the total of $21 million is included in the bill to bring improved emergency medical care to children due to Mr. MATHESON's work on this issue.

It contains an additional $1 million for the National Center for Health Statistics within the Centers for Disease Control, fully offset. As a result, the bill includes $140 million for the collection of critical health statistics. Mr. COHEN sponsored this important amendment.

Mathematics and Science Partnership program is increased by $5 million to $184 million to expand professional development for math and science teachers. Again, it is fully offset. It was urged by Mr. HOLT and Mr. EHLERS and others.

The amendment provides nearly $7 million for the Reach Out and Read program within the fund for improvement of education in the Department of Education. It will result in an additional $2 million for books to help children learn to read due to the efforts of Mr. MCGOVERN.

The amendment increases the amount from $20 million to $30 million within the charter schools program in the Department of Education that may be used for grants to charter management organizations. It replicates successful charter models at the request of Mr. POLIS.

The amendment provides $1 million for university-based modeling and simulation programs newly authorized by the Higher Education Act proposed by Mr. SCOTT.

It then includes two funding limitation amendments sponsored by Mr. CUELLAR with respect to the Federal management program designation and a prohibition on the use of funds in the bill for any first class travel in the agencies funded under this bill.

And the amendment also makes technical correction.

I would be happy to yield briefly to Mr. COHEN.

Mr. COHEN. I rise to thank Chairman OBEY for his inclusion of $1 million to be directed to the National Center for Health Statistics. This was requested in the hopes that it would end up with some funds being used to study enhanced birth certificates across the Nation.

The National Center for Health Statistics faces a funding shortage, inhibiting their ability to study these vital records which is a roadblock to understanding the high infant mortality rate that plagues our Nation, in particular my city of Memphis. We have a rate that is the highest in the country and rivals that of Third World nations. It's unacceptable in America.

It's these types of programs that will help move America forward. We must work together to lower our Nation's infant mortality rate. It starts with gaining a statistical knowledge of why these deaths occur. I wholeheartedly support Chairman OBEY's inclusion of the funding for the National Center for Health Statistics, and I urge a "yes" vote on the bill.

Thank you for the time.

Mr. OBEY. I would be happy to yield to Mr. TEAGUE.

Mr. TEAGUE. I thank Chairman OBEY.

And, Mr. Chairman, I rise today in support of my energy jobs amendment to the Labor-H Appropriations Act. The amendment takes $5 million from the green jobs fund and puts that money into the Career Pathways Fund for the purpose of job training in all energy fields.

Now, let me be clear. I do not oppose green jobs and I don't oppose green energy. Quite the opposite. We need all the jobs we can get, and we need all the energy that we can produce. But as we work in Congress to make up for the inaction on energy issues of this decade, the inaction that led to a dependence on foreign oil and high energy costs, we cannot pretend that green energy will solve all of our problems. We cannot pretend that the American economy does not depend on oil and gas. We cannot forget that nuclear energy is a safe, dependable and carbon-neutral source of power.

Mr. Chairman, I am an oilman, always have been, always will be. When I arrived in Congress, the oil and gas industry was in the trough. It still is. Around my hometown of Hobbs, if you're not looking for a job yourself, you surely know a handful of folks who are. Times are tough; work is scarce.

We're hoping that that will change soon, however; and when the oil and gas industry comes out of the trough, we're going to need to find a lot of trained and skilled oil field workers in a hurry.

I want to help make New Mexico the all-energy capital of the world. We want to double up on energy jobs, grow the number of oil and gas jobs we have, and add new energy jobs. But let me be clear. In order to double up on energy jobs, we must increase the oil and gas jobs we have, and we can't do that if job training programs ignore the needs of the oil and gas industry.

Mr. OBEY. I thank the gentleman.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. TIAHRT. Mr. Chairman, I rise to claim the time in opposition.

The CHAIR. The gentleman from Kansas is recognized for 10 minutes.

Mr. TIAHRT. Mr. Chairman, I'm not opposed to the chairman's amendment in substance, but I am opposed to the amendment in process.

The amendment incorporates nine separate stand-alone amendments offered by Democrat Members of this body, thus ensuring that those Members would not have to go to the Rules Committee and plead just to have a perfectly legitimate amendment proposed on the floor.

It incorporates no Republican amendments. If I heard the chairman correctly this morning, there are 10 that could have been included, but were not.

Looking through the list of what's in the chairman's amendment, there is Career Pathways Innovation Fund for $5 million with an offset. There's a health resources and service administration with a $1 million offset. Going through the list, there's really not much that brings out any controversy. They could have stood alone. There perhaps is one that would not have been legitimate standing alone, which would include a prohibition to purchase light bulbs unless the light bulbs are Energy Star qualified or have a Federal energy management program designation. I think that one is probably protected under the rule.

But let me tell you what was not included because these amendments were not made in order. What was not included was a commonsense amendment to use technology to reduce unemployment insurance, improper and fraudulent payments.

What was not included was an amendment to prohibit the Department of Education from shutting down the largest student loan program that exists today.

What was not in order was an amendment to prohibit the Secretary of Health and Human Services from setting up any kind of rationed health care system.

What was not included was an amendment to prevent the government from nationalizing our health care system.

What was not included was an amendment to prevent the government from imposing a costly health care mandate on small businesses which, if it had been permitted to be considered and if it had passed, would have saved hundreds of thousands, if not millions, of jobs.

What was not included was an amendment to ensure that the only entity setting up Medicare reimbursement rates is the Center for Medicare and Medicaid Services, not any other government agency or bureaucracy.

What is not included was a shift to add $1 billion to special education for new, never-before-tried programs.

What was not included was an amendment before us that would have addressed other issues that are important.

But what is in the amendment that is before us is systematically what's wrong with the process, and it disenfranchises the American people. So, therefore, I would urge a "no" vote.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. OBEY. Could I ask how much time I have remaining.

The CHAIR. The gentleman from Wisconsin has 5 minutes remaining.

Mr. OBEY. Let me consume 1 minute of that time myself.

Mr. Chairman, all I would say is that I've had at least two Members of the Republican side of the aisle come up and thank me for accepting various amendments. So while they may not have been the lead sponsors on amendments, they were certainly involved on the Republican side of the aisle in supporting some of the amendments that we have accepted and incorporated.

Secondly, I think the gentleman's recitation of some of the amendments that were not considered illustrates my point earlier. The first amendment that he mentioned was an amendment that was clearly not in order under the Budget Act. It would have put this entire bill under a violation of the Budget Act for being over our allowable funding. I didn't think good conservatives would want us to do that.

Secondly, I would point out that the second, third and fourth option he was talking about all speak to what kind of health care reform we should have, and that is not the jurisdiction of this committee. Those issues right now are being worked on in the Energy and Commerce Committee; they're being worked on in the Education and Labor Committee; they're being worked on in the Ways and Means Committee. And that's where they should remain.

Having said that, I would now like to yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. LEE).

Ms. LEE of California. Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman.

Let me just say I rise in strong support of this amendment and this bill, and I want to thank Chairman OBEY for yielding, and I want to thank the chairman and his staff and my staff of the subcommittee and all of our staffs for producing this very excellent bill.

Mr. Chair, our Nation is in the midst of, as all know, the worst economic crisis since the Great Depression. Families are losing their jobs, losing their homes, losing their access to health care. People are hurting, and they really do need our help. That's why this bill is so important.

From expanding support for education initiatives like early childhood education, to job training and employment services, to expanding access to health care and improving public health, this bill will provide a critical range of services and support for our constituents, especially during these very devastating times.

I want to thank the chairman for including a number of very important priorities that many of my colleagues requested, in particular, $653 million to strengthen Historical Black Colleges and Universities, predominantly black institutions, Hispanic-serving institutions, and other developing institutions. And this is a $110 million increase over the President's request for HBCUs.

Also, for a $54 million increase for HIV/AIDS funding through the Ryan White CARE Act and a $56 million increase for the CDC's HIV/AIDS bureau.

We also included $50 million for green jobs training programs, building on the $500 million we provided in the Recovery Act. And this is extremely important because there are those individuals who need to be trained and need the skills for this great trillion-dollar industry that is emerging in our country.

And, also, I want to thank the chairman for replacing the discredited and ineffective abstinence-only programs with the President's evidence-based Teen Pregnancy Prevention Initiative to fund proven approaches to reduce unintended pregnancies and sexually transmitted infections. This is a huge, huge step in the right direction to ensure the health of our young teenage girls and boys.

These critical investments will help put our Nation back on the right track, and I urge my colleagues to vote for the amendment and the bill. I thank you, the chairman, for his leadership.

Mr. OBEY. I yield 1¼ minutes to the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. MORAN).

Mr. MORAN of Virginia. I thank my chairman of the committee.

This is a good bill, but the other side wants to change it by restricting access to reproductive services, by limiting research in AIDS, and particularly—and this is the issue I want to speak to right now—by preventing the exchange of clean needles among drug addicts.

Well, I think people need to know that we have had experimentation with this kind of punitive prohibitive action because over the last several years the same people as are pushing this amendment have been successful in imposing this restriction on the District of Columbia, and we know what the results are.

For the last 6 years, we have seen an increase in AIDS among female residents of the District of Columbia of 76 percent. We now have a larger number of women with AIDS in D.C. than in any place in the country. Now, why? Well, it hasn't happened in other cities. In fact, in New York City they saw a reduction of 75 percent in AIDS infection since they were able to make clean needles available. 61 percent of women who have AIDS get it through injection of dirty needles.

Now, of course, it's women also who have babies, and what could be worse than a child born to a life of suffering, deprivation and early death? But, in fact, largely as a result of what was the Tiahrt amendment imposed on D.C. for the last 6 years, there is now a rate of children born with AIDS that is 54 times the rest of the country children of women with AIDS from with HIV infection, is 54 times greater in D.C. largely because of the Tiahrt amendment to prohibit clean needle availability.

Now, this is the result of the kind of punitive legislation that the other side would like to impose on the rest of the country with this bill.

Let's keep this bill clean. It's a good bill.

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Chairman, I would simply urge adoption of the manager's amendment, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The CHAIR. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. OBEY).

The question was taken; and the Chair announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

Mr. TIAHRT. Mr. Chairman, I demand a recorded vote.

The CHAIR. Pursuant to clause 6 of rule XVIII, further proceedings on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Wisconsin will be postponed.

AMENDMENT NO. 2 OFFERED BY MR. SOUDER

The CHAIR. It is now in order to consider amendment No. 2 printed in House Report 111-222.

Mr. SOUDER. I have an amendment at the desk.

The CHAIR. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment No. 2 offered by Mr. SOUDER:

At the end of the bill (before the short title), insert the following:

Sec. ____ None of the funds made available by this Act may be used to provide individuals with hypodermic needles or syringes under section 300ee-5 of title 42, United States Code.

The CHAIR. Pursuant to House Resolution 673, the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. SOUDER) and a Member opposed each will control 10 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Indiana.

Mr. SOUDER. I yield myself 2 minutes. Contrary to what was just said on the House floor, in fact, Dr. David Murray has pointed out in research that it's very mixed. In fact, in most cases, the HIV virus does not come through needles. The overwhelming majority comes through sexual activity, not through the needles.

The District of Columbia, which seeks money from the Federal Government, unlike any other city, is then subject to restrictions. The District of Columbia had the strictest gun laws in the United States, yet led the country in the murder rate. The rest of the country can't be blamed for whatever problems they may have that are behavioral related in the District of Columbia.

The fundamental question is why Congress has repeatedly, over and over, banned needle exchange programs, when, given the opportunity, is: One, they may undermine community drug-prevention messages and programs. Two, providing needles acts as a way for drug users to sustain and support their intravenous drug use and does not address the primary illness of the drug addiction itself.

And, three, needle exchange programs direct critical resources away from treatment and intervention programs which have not proven to significantly affect HIV infection rates and drug use. Arguably, there is some, but it has not been substantial.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. OBEY. I claim time in opposition.

The CHAIR. The gentleman from Wisconsin is recognized for 10 minutes.

Mr. OBEY. I would ask the gentleman if he can proceed with another speaker until my speaker gets here.

Mr. SOUDER. I yield myself 3 additional minutes. I want to go through a number of statements regarding the needle exchange programs. This is a series of questions with Dr. David Murray, who was the ONDC policy analyst and expert in needle exchange, to resolve some of these.

In a nutshell, why doesn't the Federal Government fund needle exchange programs? The existing evidence cannot support the claim that distribution of needles to enable continued drug addiction behavior can meet these criteria.

Another question was: What is the current state of research regarding needle exchange programs? The most recent comprehensive analysis of the evidence by the U.S. Institute of Medicine is much retrenched from earlier claims that there were these overwhelming results.

For example, the report notes that the evidence that needle exchanges reduce HIV incidence is limited and inconclusive, that the evidence is even worse for Hepatitis C transmission, and that their impact on high-risk behaviors like sex-related risk is inconclusive.

What's the risk in States experimenting with implementing their own needle exchange programs? Are there potential unintended consequences? Indeed, the healer's motto is: First do no harm.

Evidence concerning the impact of needle exchange programs on both drug use and reduction, and disease transmission is by no means comforting. While the evidence is not clear and convincing that needle exchange make things actively worse, there are still grounds for concern.

There are reports of increased disease incidence, increased crime, and loss of drug deterrence in association with needle programs.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. OBEY. I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from California (Ms. ROYBAL-ALLARD).

Ms. ROYBAL-ALLARD. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong opposition to this amendment. Prior to elected office, I worked in alcohol and drug prevention programs and saw firsthand the power and the destructive nature of drug addiction. I saw it destroy the life of the user, and I saw the agony it caused families. I would never support a measure that encourages or contributes to the use of illegal drugs.

Chairman OBEY's leadership in eliminating the ban on Federal dollars for needle exchange programs is based on sound scientific research that tells us these programs are a valuable HIV prevention tool that does not increase drug use.

Mr. SOUDER's amendment reinstates this ill-advised ban and returns us to a practice of allowing personal belief rather than science to direct our Federal funding decisions.

The science is clear. When addicts have clean needles available, the incidence of HIV infection declines among users.

Furthermore, needle exchange programs provide a critical portal to treatment and are an important part of our efforts to reduce the HIV epidemic.

I urge my colleagues to follow the science and to join me in voting "no" on this amendment.

Mr. SOUDER. I continue to reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. OBEY. I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from West Virginia (Mr. MOLLOHAN).

Mr. MOLLOHAN. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to this amendment. For those of you of my colleagues who might support this amendment because you believe that withholding clean needles from addicted drug users is somehow helping in the fight against illegal drug use, please allow me to suggest that that is a mistaken view and that you are really promoting the incidence of infection, of disease, and death among active addicts and those with whom they socialize. Indeed, that's the point. Needle exchange is not about promoting drug use. It is in fact about preventing disease.

Now, to understand why this is true, you really must understand that at the heart of addiction is craving. An addict, a person who is addicted, they are addicted because they crave. They have to have the drug that artificially gives them that feeling of well-being, that instantaneous euphoria. There is a powerful craving.

There are lots of ways to enable drug use. There's lots of ways to help promote drug use in the country, to enable. Families allowing drug users to have access to resources is the most prominent one.

But the needle exchange program advocated for and carried out by health professionals is not one of those enablers because, again, why? At the moment that an addicted person has to have the drug, he or she is driven by this craving and the condition of the needle is not going to deter its use.

Now, while that may not be rational, while people who are standing around thinking rationally, Gee, you wouldn't use a bad needle. They are not acting in a rational way. And that's the point.

The condition of the needle is not the deterrence and therefore withholding clean needles simply means that they likely use and share dirty needles—and this spreads disease.

Mr. SOUDER. I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Kansas.

Mr. TIAHRT. Mr. Chairman, the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. MORAN) felt it necessary to mention me as responsible for the increase in AIDS in the District of Columbia. This is a personal attack. Rarely do we see such a personal attack on the floor of the House.

He did it because he believes I'm responsible since I had the amendment that did restrict needles in the District of Columbia. Apparently, he felt like I was down there forcing people with AIDS to have relations, forcing drug abusers to take drugs. I just think it's very much a problem when we start being so personal in this attack.

He overlooks the fact that these people really need help overcoming the use of illegal drugs. That they're dependent on a lifestyle that only leads to destruction, and that I personally don't want to be part of that destruction. Many people in America feel like it's unnecessary.

He also overlooks the fact that many people who have studied long term the effect of the needles program believe it doesn't work. In Baltimore, where they followed the same drug abusers through the process, when they had access to the needles program, 90 percent of the people had a bloodborne illness.

I would consider 90 percent negative a failure. Now other people may think when 90 percent of the people attract a bloodborne illness like Hepatitis A or B or HIV positive or AIDS itself, that that would be a success. But to me, personally it's not.

I regret that I was brought into this personally and that I was personally attacked about this because I didn't force people to use illegal drugs, I didn't force people to have relationships with those who are positive in AIDS.

I think it's sad that when we personally found needles on school property in the area where needles were distributed before the restriction, that it's sad we can't even protect the children of D.C. from being exposed to this type of activity.

Mr. MOLLOHAN. Would the gentleman yield?

Mr. TIAHRT. I won't yield. I'm very pleased that the chairman of this committee has tried to allow areas of this country around schools, around places to be vacant of these systems. I think there's some good things in this bill about it, but I don't think the overall program has been successful.

Mr. OBEY. I yield 45 seconds to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. LEE).

Ms. LEE of California. I rise in strong opposition to this amendment. The simple fact of the matter is the needle exchange programs do work. Since 1999, there have been at least 18 major reviews and assessments of needle exchange programs under the Republican and Democratic administrations, which concluded that needle exchange programs help reduce the spread of AIDS and other infectious diseases without encouraging or increasing drug use.

Studies also show that needle exchange programs serve as an effective entry for drug users to access the public health system and receive substance abuse treatment to help them overcome their addiction. And that is what it is about.

We all want to make sure that those who are using drugs overcome their addiction. This is a proven strategy. And so I ask for a "no" vote on this amendment. We have to remember, funding HIV/AIDS strategies involve prevention. This is a prevention measure.

Mr. SOUDER. How much time do I have remaining?

The CHAIR. The gentleman from Indiana has 5 minutes remaining. The gentleman from Wisconsin has 5¼ minutes remaining.

Mr. SOUDER. I have tracked this issue for a long time. You can make allegations of studies, but studies are in fact very mixed on both sides, as I read from the office of National Drug Control Policy person who studied all the studies, worked with the people at night in the studies and, quite frankly and honestly, they're mixed.

There's a new recent study in Vancouver by somebody who advocated the program, who also advocates the legalization of marijuana, and he concluded that the study, at least in the downtown area of Vancouver, showed some progress on AIDS but no progress on heroin.

Now I mentioned Vancouver. Vancouver and Switzerland have been addressing this question long before the United States got into this. When you go over to Switzerland and study their program, they evolved first from a needle exchange to then having a place where they could inject, separate, then to the government of Switzerland providing the heroin and managing.

To some degree, they have reduced certain elements of problems. They did not reduce heroin abuse. In fact, you could argue they increased heroin abuse. They basically turned a bunch of people into zombies instead of addressing the social problem of heroin addiction.

Now in Vancouver, where I've been three times—and I encourage people to go to the Cop Squad site, policemen who have been dedicated to trying to counter what some of the government has been spreading about the drug problem in Vancouver.

Vancouver is a very interesting case because they were first. They were the first city in North America that in effect had a drug-free zone and dealt with the needles question. And it has been debated.

There are certain studies now that claim this is a brand new experiment. It's been going on for at least 10 years. The first time I was there, they had a needle exchange. They just had people in the street, with a stand, trying to do needles.

By the next time I went up there, they had an injection site, and they were out trying to reach and they had spread into the suburbs, because they didn't want people have to go just to downtown, they wanted it in the suburbs. And most of the studies were only studying the downtown area.

The third time I was there, they've got these guys out in the street peddling, trying to keep the police away.

Now let me read from an article about downtown Vancouver, where the Winter Olympics are going to be held, where we have a zero standard of narcotics on our athletes, yet they're going to be going to a city where, "the junkies come here almost around the clock, seven days a week. Some just grab a fistful of clean syringes from one of the buckets by the door and head out again. But about 600 times a day, others walk in with pocketfuls of heroin, cocaine or speed that they've scored out on the street; sign in; go to a clean, well-lit room lined with stainless-steel booths; and, under the protective watch of two nurses, shoot their drugs into their veins."

□ 1300

Welcome to North America's only officially sanctioned supervised injection site. The facility sits in the heart of Vancouver, 10 blocks that compose one of the poorest neighborhoods in all of Canada. The area is home to an estimated 4,700 intravenous drug users and thousands of crack addicts. For years it's been a world-class health disaster, not to mention a public relations nightmare for a town that is famous for its beautiful mountains and beaches and is gearing up to host the 2010 Winter Olympics. Nearly a third of the downtown East Side inhabitants are estimated to be HIV-positive, according to the U.N. Population Fund, a rate on par with Botswana. Twice that number have hepatitis C. Dozens die of drug overdoses every year. This has been a problem that has been building and building, now spreading to the suburbs of British Columbia. They have the first gun violence there, drug pushers moving there. It is an example of the failure of this program.

We are in the process of eliminating moral hazard in America. If you fail in your bank, we bail you out; if you fail in your business and go bankrupt, we bail you out. Now the question is, are we going to eliminate moral hazard in narcotics? At what point do we send a message not just this year but 5 years from now and 10 years from now that there's no accountability for your behavior, that everything is okay, we're just going to put you over the zone?

One of the problems with these zones is they're often where the homeless shelters are; they are often where the people that we have deinstitutionalized are. And they have seen a soaring of their addiction rates because we put these needles in places—although away from a school—they are just by the poorest people. But the people who are most vulnerable to seeing drug addiction for the first time, having free needles right there. And every society that has done this has also started to provide the free heroin. They are even now into providing free cocaine and free narcotics because they say, Well, the people won't go in. The lines are too long. That's the answer in Vancouver: "The lines are too long, so we're doing it out on the street anyway." As you get more and more packed in in the different areas, you have to put in additional sites or, in fact, unless you provide the narcotics in the safe area and then the government—in fact, the taxpayers—are funding a habit.

We need to use this on drug treatment. We don't have enough dollars in drug treatment. We are, in fact, cutting back what prevention programs we do have. There is no longer a Safe and Drug-Free Schools Program. It is proposed to be zeroed out and changed to Safe Schools. The drug czar has been taken down from a cabinet post to just another consultant. I don't even know if he's really a czar anymore. We've been cutting drug funds in this Congress. The question is, Is there going to be a moral hazard in America? Or are we just going to create a bunch of people who we just write off and don't pay attention? Walker Percy wrote a great book called The Thanatos Syndrome where he talks about a drug-addicted society that no longer has free will. Are we going to have accountability in America or not? And are we going to fund this type of project?

The CHAIR. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself 3 minutes.

Mr. Chairman, let me point out that the underlying language in this bill is, in fact, a compromise. It lifts the ban, but it does not permit Federal funds to be used for needle exchange programs that occur within 1,000 feet of a day care center, school, college or university, any public swimming pool, park, playground, video arcade, or youth center or any events sponsored by any such entity.

There is overwhelming evidence that syringe exchange programs when implemented as part of a comprehensive prevention strategy are an effective public health intervention for reducing HIV/AIDS and hepatitis and do not promote drug use.

Now let me be clear. I detest illegal drug use. I think it constitutes a national security threat. It ruins lives. It causes crime. It gets us into wars against drugs in Colombia and Mexico; and in fact, it gets us into another war in Afghanistan because of poppy production. So I hate illegal drugs. But even more, I hate the spread of AIDS. There's overwhelming evidence that we can help stop the spread of AIDS by allowing needle exchange programs. They are endorsed by leading public health organizations, such as the Institute of Medicine, the World Health Organization, the American Academy of Pediatrics, the American Medical Association, the American Nurses Association, the American Public Health Association. They are endorsed by people such as Dr. Anthony Fauci, the Nation's leading fighter against AIDS; Thomas Frieden; former NIH Director Harold Varmus; former Surgeons General C. Everett Koop and David Satcher, who served under Republican and Democratic administrations. They are endorsed by people such as Captain Andrew Smith from the Los Angeles Police Department; Atlantic City Deputy Chief of Police Robert Schwartz; and San Francisco Chief of Police Frederick Lau.

Let me make one other point. Every Member of Congress has access to decent primary health care; but we are going to put at risk a substantial number of people if we do not support this underlying committee amendment. I want to say something personal. If we lose this amendment, it is not going to be because a lot of people on this House floor really believe that this ban makes sense. It will be because many Members are concerned and fear a cheap-shot political 30-second ad that distorts their position, spreads half-truths and scares people. I understand that concern.

The CHAIR. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. OBEY. I yield myself 1 additional minute.

But for the good of the country, we are being paid to ignore that kind of pressure and simply do the right thing for the country. I ask every Member of the House to do the right thing because if you do, it will save lives. I ask them to vote "no" on the amendment.

Ms. WATERS. Mr. Chair, I rise to oppose the Souder amendment, which prohibits funding needle exchange programs. Needle exchange programs are effective at preventing the spread of HIV/AIDS.

There are over 1 million Americans living with HIV/AIDS in the United States today, and over 20 percent of them do not know they are infected. Every 9½ minutes, another person is infected with HIV. Last fall, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) released new estimates of HIV infection in the United States, which indicate that the HIV/AIDS epidemic is even worse than was previously thought. These new estimates indicate that approximately 56,300 new HIV infections occurred in the United States in 2006. This figure is approximately 40 percent higher than CDC's previous estimates of 40,000 new infections per year.

According to the CDC, 13 percent of new HIV infections in the United States occur among intravenous drug users. Needle exchange programs are an effective means of preventing HIV transmission among this population. Needle exchange programs save lives, reduce health care costs, and link intravenous drug users with substance abuse treatment programs that could end their addiction and allow them to live healthy and productive lives.

The Souder amendment is opposed by AIDS Action, the HIV Medicine Association, The AIDS Institute, and several other organizations concerned about the spread of HIV/AIDS in our communities.

I urge my colleagues to oppose the Souder amendment.

Mr. OBEY. I yield back the balance of my time.

The CHAIR. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. SOUDER).

The question was taken; and the Chair announced that the noes appeared to have it.

Mr. SOUDER. Mr. Chairman, I demand a recorded vote.

The CHAIR. Pursuant to clause 6 of rule XVIII, further proceedings on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Indiana will be postponed.

AMENDMENT NO. 3 OFFERED BY MR. ISSA

The CHAIR. It is now in order to consider amendment No. 3 printed in House Report 111-222.

Mr. ISSA. I have an amendment at the desk.

The CHAIR. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment No. 3 offered by Mr. ISSA:

At the end of the bill (before the short title), insert the following:

SEC. 524. (a) None of the funds provided in this Act under the heading "National Institutes of Health—National Institute on Drug Abuse" shall be available for grant number 1R21DA026324-01A1 (Substance Use and HIV Risk among Thai Women).

(b) None of the funds provided in this Act under the heading "National Institutes of Health—National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism" shall be available for grant number 1R01AA018090-01 (Venue-based HIV and alcohol use risk reduction among female sex workers in China), or grant number 5R01AA016059-03 (Maximizing Opportunity—HIV Prevention in Hospitalized Russian Drinkers).

The CHAIR. Pursuant to House Resolution 673, the gentleman from California (Mr. ISSA) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California.

Mr. ISSA. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

My amendment does not reduce by one penny NIH funding at all. My amendment simply prohibits what is clearly becoming an endless stream of repeating and repeating and repeating and repeating studies of HIV at ever-greater cost. It deals with the $325,000 to research Thai sex workers who also use drugs. What a surprise. We've already gone into extensive legislation to deal with that criminal activity on a worldwide basis. It also deals with prostitutes in China and alcohol and drug users in Russia. We're simply looking at just $5 million over three grants.

Mr. Chairman, I think when we look at this $5 million, we have to consider this: A flight to Bangkok is $9,000. A ride on BART across town is $3.10. On the government rate for less than $200, people who want to study the growth of HIV can come here to Washington, D.C., where we have a 25 percent rate. Mr. Chairman, we have studied this. As a matter of fact, we have studied HIV contraction from dangerous behavior, particularly drug and alcohol, over 200 times. We've studied HIV at the National Institutes of Health over 1,400 times. We've studied just about everything one could imagine. But just so that we not miss one, how about HIV Prevention with Young Men Who Have Sex with Men: What Young Men Themselves Say is Needed? This was the Medical College of Wisconsin. We have studied it all. We have studied it for decades. This money needs to be spent on more than just study. It has to be spent on prevention and cure.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent to claim the time in opposition, though I am not opposed to the amendment.

The CHAIR. Without objection, the gentleman from Wisconsin is recognized for 5 minutes.

There was no objection.

Mr. OBEY. Let me simply say that I'm perfectly happy to accept the amendment.

I reserve the balance of my time, unless the gentleman is prepared to close.

Mr. ISSA. I have just one speaker, and then I am prepared to close—quickly.

The CHAIR. The gentleman from California has the right to close.

Mr. ISSA. Thank you.

I will yield 45 seconds to the gentleman from Kansas (Ms. JENKINS).

Ms. JENKINS. Mr. Chairman, I have a provision in the Republican motion to recommit that will be discussed later this afternoon that I would like to bring to the body's attention. The need to provide Americans more choice, more affordability, and more access in health care is a belief we all share. Two towns in my district Onaga and Wamego, both small, rural communities, are facing the very real possibility of losing their hospital because growth in a town 45 miles away is jeopardizing their critical access funding. At a time when rural communities are already faced with major challenges, any loss of health care access would be devastating. My provision will protect the critical access hospital designation, and I would ask the body for their support for the motion to recommit.

Mr. OBEY. I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. ISSA. Mr. Chairman, never let it be said that Republicans can't take "yes" for an answer. I only wish that we had more amendments, allowing us to further refine the bill. With that, I thank the gentleman for agreeing to the amendment.

I yield back the balance of my time.

The CHAIR. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from California (Mr. ISSA).

The amendment was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 4 OFFERED BY MR. PENCE

The CHAIR. It is now in order to consider amendment No. 4 printed in House Report 111-222.

Mr. PENCE. Mr. Chairman, I have an amendment at the desk.

The CHAIR. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment No. 4 offered by Mr. PENCE:

At the end of the bill (before the short title), insert the following:

SEC. 5 _____. None of the funds made available under this Act shall be available to Planned Parenthood for any purpose under title X of the Public Health Services Act.

The CHAIR. Pursuant to House Resolution 673, the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. PENCE) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Indiana.

Mr. PENCE. Mr. Chair, I yield myself 1 minute.

I believe with all my heart that ending an innocent human life is morally wrong; but I also believe it's morally wrong to use the taxpayer dollars of millions of pro-life Americans to fund abortion providers. The Pence amendment before the House today simply states that none of the funds made available under this act shall be available for Planned Parenthood for any purpose under Title X. Title X is the only Federal grant program that provides Americans with comprehensive family planning and related preventive health services. It does important work in communities around the country.

Now while I understand that current laws and regulations prevent Title X funds from flowing directly to funding abortions, today the largest recipient of Federal funding under Title X is Planned Parenthood, and they're well able to use the resources they receive from taxpayers to offset the resources and free up resources to engage in the abortion trade, which they boast last year over 300,000 abortions performed. Planned Parenthood, the largest abortion provider in America, should not be the largest recipient of Federal funding under Title X. I urge my colleagues in both parties to join me in supporting the Pence amendment. The time has come to deny all Federal funding to Planned Parenthood of America, and the Pence amendment would do that.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. OBEY. I rise to claim the time in opposition.

The CHAIR. The gentleman from Wisconsin is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. OBEY. I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. PENCE. With that, I would like to yield 1 minute to the gentlelady from Ohio (Mrs. SCHMIDT).

Mrs. SCHMIDT. Mr. Chair, I rise today in strong support of the Pence amendment. Recent polls indicate that a majority of Americans are opposed to paying for abortions through their tax dollars. This amendment offered by Mr. PENCE simply brings the Federal family planning funds in line with the sentiment of the majority of Americans. From 2007 to 2008, Planned Parenthood, our Nation's largest abortion provider, received almost $350 million of our American taxpayer dollars. The fiction that we try to create when we say that these funds are not directly going for abortion is disingenuous at best.

I urge my colleagues to support the Pence amendment today and deny Title X funds for Planned Parenthood.

□ 1315

Mr. OBEY. I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. PENCE. Mr. Chairman, could I inquire as to whether the distinguished chairman of the Appropriations Committee has any speakers on this amendment?

Mr. OBEY. Just one; me.

Mr. PENCE. With that, Mr. Chairman, I would like to clarify with my good friend from Wisconsin that the author of the amendment would like to reserve the right to close?

Mr. OBEY. No. I have the right to close.

The CHAIR. The gentleman from Wisconsin has the right to close.

Mr. PENCE. Mr. Chairman, with that, I would like to recognize the distinguished Member, Mr. CAO, for 1 minute.

(Mr. CAO asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. CAO. Mr. Chairman, I rise today in strong support of the Pence amendment because I am very concerned about the prospect of taxpayer dollars of hardworking families across this country going to fund an institution like Planned Parenthood. We need to look no further than to the comments of Planned Parenthood founder Margaret Sanger to see how controversial this organization is. She said, "We want fewer and better children, and we cannot make the social life and the world peace we are determined to make with the ill-bred, ill-trained swarms of inferior citizens that you inflict on us."

Yesterday, while we debated on this amendment in the Rules Committee, my friend and colleague PETE SESSIONS shared a heartfelt story that deeply touched and inspired me. As many of us know, PETE's son has Down syndrome. He and his wife could have chosen the easy way out by terminating the life of his son while he was still in the womb, but they courageously chose to give his son life, and through this life have instilled and inspired hope in the lives of others. The same profile in courage is reflected in my mother who single-handedly raised eight children in the midst of war and poverty.

The CHAIR. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. CAO. With that, I urge my colleagues to vote "yes" on this amendment.

The CHAIR. The gentleman from Indiana has 2 minutes remaining. The gentleman from Wisconsin has 5 minutes remaining and the right to close.

Mr. PENCE. Mr. Chairman, it is my privilege to recognize for 1 minute the distinguished Republican whip, Mr. CANTOR, from Virginia.

Mr. CANTOR. I thank the gentleman from Indiana.

Thomas Jefferson warned that, "To compel a man to subsidize with his taxes the propagation of ideas which he disbelieves and abhors is sinful and tyrannical." Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of this amendment as the underlying legislation embodies the very action Jefferson cautioned against.

About 7 out of 10 Americans oppose public funding of abortion; yet this bill defies their moral concerns by funding groups like Planned Parenthood, the single largest abortion provider in America. Planned Parenthood performs over 300,000 abortions per year while receiving $350 million in taxpayer dollars annually.

The gentleman from Indiana's amendment does not reduce overall funds for family planning services. It merely ensures that no taxpayer dollars are used to fund entities that conduct abortions. It is a reasonable approach, Mr. Chairman, and I urge my colleagues to support this amendment.

Mr. PENCE. Mr. Chairman, I will close, and I yield myself such time as I may consume.

The Pence amendment simply states that "none of the funds made available under this act are available to Planned Parenthood for any purpose under Title X." That's all it does. The Pence amendment does not cut one penny from Title X. It merely prohibits those funds from flowing into the largest abortion provider in America.

The Pence amendment is endorsed by National Right to Life Committee and a score of other organizations representing traditional values. We cannot reduce the number of abortions in America while increasing Federal funding to the Nation's leading abortion provider. The largest abortion provider in America should not also be the largest recipient of Federal funding under Title X. The time has come to deny all Federal funding to Planned Parenthood.

I urge my colleagues in both parties to join us in supporting this sensible amendment. Let's choose life. Let's defend the defenseless. Let us defend taxpayers. I urge adoption of the Pence amendment.

I yield back the balance of my time. Mr. OBEY. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to the amendment.

Mr. Chairman, Title X is America's family planning program. It provides comprehensive family planning services and a wide variety of other preventive care, including breast exams and instruction on breast self-examination, Pap tests, screening and appropriate treatment for sexually transmitted infections, HIV screening, et cetera, et cetera.

This amendment gratuitously blocks Planned Parenthood clinics from receiving Title X funding. Those clinics provide important health care access to low-income uninsured patients, 5 million women in 4,500 clinics nationwide. The breast cancer screenings and the well-mother exams they receive may be the only health care they get all year.

If Planned Parenthood clinics are forced to close, these women may have to forgo critical care because they will lack a single provider providing Title X family planning funding, and this amendment would only make matters worse.

Now, if this amendment is intended to stop abortions, it has no impact whatsoever. Title X statutes forbid the use of funding for abortions, and this bill appropriates no funds whatsoever for abortions. Our bill includes the traditional Hyde language, prohibiting funds in the act from being used to support abortions. And it reads, in part: "Projects under such title shall not be expended for abortions, all pregnancy counseling shall be nondirective, and that such amounts shall not be expended for any activity, including publication or distribution of literature that in any way tends to promote public support or opposition to any legislative proposal or candidates for public office". And I repeat again, no funds flow for abortions, none whatsoever.

Planned Parenthood plays a central role in expanding access to care under Title X. Planned Parenthood is the Nation's leading reproductive health care provider. For over 90 years, Planned Parenthood has provided low-income uninsured women with the vital reproductive health care services they need.

I want to make one other point. Every Member of Congress has access to decent primary care. The Pence amendment would cut millions of American women off from their source of primary care. If Members want to do that, go ahead and vote that way. Not me. Not me and not any Member of the House, I believe, who understands the true needs of American women.

Mr. HOLT. Mr. Chair, I rise in opposition to the Amendment offered by my colleague from Indiana, Mr. PENCE, to the Fiscal Year 2010 Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education Appropriations Bill.

I have long been a supporter of Planned Parenthood and the services it offers to my Central New Jersey constituents. Mr. PENCE's purely political amendment would deny funds under Title X of the Public Health Services Act to Planned Parenthood health facilities throughout the country. It would cut these women off from their source of primary care. At a time when more and more women and families are facing difficulties in accessing health care due to a provider shortage in this county, Congress should be doing everything we can to ensure that women have access to a trusted health care provider.

This should not be an anti-choice or pro-choice debate about one of the many services that Planned Parenthood provides. This amendment would have no effect on abortion services in our country. According to Federal statute, no money from Title X can be used for abortion services. Title X makes grants to public and private nonprofit organizations to provide family planning and basic reproductive health care information and services to low-income women. The Pence amendment would deny essential family planning services to the 5 million Americans that Planned Parenthood serves annually, including the 89,000 men and women in New Jersey.

This debate should be about prevention. It should be about continuing to provide women with the necessary tools for prevention, including contraception and education. It should be about protecting women's health by providing women with access to reproductive health care. We all should be able to agree that we would like to see fewer abortions performed in this country, and comprehensive family planning services that Planned Parenthood provides are a proven means to accomplish that. Title X has proven to be effective and prevents 1 million unwanted pregnancies each year. Planned Parenthood, as the Nation's oldest and largest family planning provider, is responsible for preventing 60 percent of unwanted pregnancies, approximately 631,000 unwanted pregnancies annually.

Planned Parenthood's 841 affiliates make up 13 percent of all Title X providers and provide 1.7 million women with reproductive health care services under title X each year. 63 percent of these patients receive reproductive health care services and 37 percent receive family planning services.

Cutting Title X funding to Planned Parenthood is nothing short of irresponsible. The low income women who are served through Title X are four times more likely to face an unintended pregnancy. As a safety net provider, Planned Parenthood plays a critical role in serving these women. We should not act to prevent women from getting the reproductive health care they need. I urge my colleagues oppose the Pence amendment.

Ms. TSONGAS. Mr. Chair, I stand in opposition to the Pence amendment, which would prevent thousands of low-income women from receiving critical women's health services.

At a time when Congress is trying to make sure every American has access to affordable, critical health care services, this amendment goes against our attempts to reform a broken health care system.

Planned Parenthood is one of the nation's leading women's health care providers.

In my home state of Massachusetts, Planned Parenthood serves more than 36,000 patients, most of them in need of basic health care.

This includes nearly 5,000 pap tests and breast exams.

They provide affordable contraception, STD testing and treatment, anemia testing, cholesterol and thyroid screening.

With 47 million Americans uninsured, we need clinics like Planned Parenthood. Low-income women are currently four times more likely to face an unintended pregnancy.

We should do everything we can to try to reduce the number of unintended pregnancies in America through common-sense measures.

None of the funds in this bill can be used for abortions, and clinics that receive them have to show that federal funds are not used for the procedure.

In fact, 97 percent of the health care that Planned Parenthood provides is primary and preventive.

If this amendment were to pass, millions of women all across the country would have nowhere else to turn for quality, preventive health care.

I urge a "no" vote on this amendment.

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Mr. Chair, I rise today in opposition to Mr. PENCE's amendment. Pursuant to Federal Statute, no Title X funds can be spent on abortions. So the only conclusion to be drawn from the offering of this amendment is that Mr. PENCE is attempting to use propaganda based on hypocrisy to wage war on family planning services. Mr. PENCE's amendment would cut off 1.7 million women—more than one in three women who receive Title X services—from their trusted, family planning provider.

Multitudes of poor and low-income women cannot afford to purchase contraceptive services and supplies on their own. Half of all women who are sexually active, but do not want to get pregnant, need publicly funded services to help them access public health programs like Medicaid and Title X.

Low-income women are currently four times more likely to face an unintended pregnancy. 84 percent of Title X clients have incomes below 150 percent of the federal poverty level, and 61 percent are uninsured. That is why for most women, including women who want to have children, contraception is not an option; it is a basic health care necessity. Each year, publicly funded family planning services help women to prevent an estimated one million unplanned pregnancies and 630,000 abortions.

From a public health standpoint, Title X family planning clinics are often the primary health care provider for low income women.

The Title X program provides comprehensive family planning services as well as a wide range of other preventive health care services, including breast exams and instruction on breast self-examination, Pap tests for early detection of cervical cancer or precancerous conditions, testing for high blood pressure, screening and appropriate treatment for sexually transmitted infections, HIV screening, counseling on adoption, foster care, and pregnancy termination and referrals to specialized health care.

In these tough economic times it is hard to understand why Mr. PENCE would want to yet again launch an assault on public health care for low income women and families. I strongly urge my colleagues to put public health ahead of politics and vote "no" on Mr. PENCE's harmful amendment.

Mr. NADLER of New York. Mr. Chair, I rise today in opposition to the amendment offered by my colleague, Representative MIKE PENCE, which would prohibit Planned Parenthood from receiving Title X family planning funds.

For many women and men, the area Planned Parenthood is their only source of health care. In my home state of New York, more than 30 percent of Title X providers are Planned Parenthood health centers. Planned Parenthood is an essential community health provider, acting as a source of primary care for thousands of women and men. In addition to providing routine gynecological exams, cervical cancer screenings and breast exams, Planned Parenthood clinics also offer anemia testing, cholesterol screening, diabetes screening, employment and sports physicals, high blood pressure screening, physical examinations, smoking cessation, thyroid screening, adoptive services, prenatal services, and childbirth classes.

Despite the important role that Planned Parenthood plays in the health care delivery system in communities across the country, the Pence amendment would single out Planned Parenthood and prohibit it from receiving Title X funding for one reason—because, in addition to the multitude of other health services they offer for women and men, Planned Parenthood also offers abortion services—services that are lawful and constitutionally protected, and which are NOT paid for with a single federal tax dollar.

Mr. Chair, at its heart, the Pence amendment seeks to punish a single health care entity for providing a lawful, constitutionally protected service. Put another way, the Pence amendment hopes to force Planned Parenthood to abandon the exercise of a lawful act, which is inextricably and critically tied to a woman's constitutional right to reproductive services. This amendment—in addition to being misguided and mean-spirited—is suspect, at best, and is an unconstitutional condition, at worst.

Mr. Chair, I urge my colleagues to vote “no” on the Pence amendment.

Ms. LEE of California. Mr. Chair, I rise in strong opposition to this amendment.

Planned Parenthood provides critical health care services to women throughout this country, and in many places they are the only provider of family planning and reproductive health services.

An attack on Planned Parenthood is a direct attack on the 1.7 million women in this country who receive family planning service through this trusted provider.

The simple fact is that the federal government is specifically prohibited from providing support for abortions in this country—although I believe we've got to get rid of this prohibition.

Planned Parenthood has never violated the restriction on federal funding, and has taken great pains to separate its funding streams—however burdensome and unnecessary this really is—to ensure that it complies with federal law.

Denying funding to Planned Parenthood will deny critical health services to millions of women around the country and drive up the rate of unintended pregnancies for those who lose access to family planning programs.

Let's reject this ideologically driven amendment and support the rights of women to access the health services they need.

Mr. HODES. Mr. Chair, I congratulate Chairman OBEY and the Ranking Member on all of their work on this important appropriations bill.

I rise in opposition to the amendment offered by Mr. PENCE.

This amendment is an attack not only on Planned Parenthood but an attack on women's health.

A grocery store clerk in my district recently described her difficulties with her extremely limited health insurance. It did not provide for preventative coverage. She had not received a routine health screening in more than 18 years when her cancer was discovered.

If services like those provided by Planned Parenthood and other family planning health centers had been available to this woman, her cancer would have been caught earlier. She might have avoided the radical—and expensive—treatment that was the only option left to her by the time she made it to the doctor.

In New Hampshire, Planned Parenthood does more than any other organization to reduce the number of unintended pregnancies, serving over 18,400 patients a year.

In my home state, Planned Parenthood is a trusted provider of high quality affordable health care. In fact, more than 90 percent of services provided at Planned Parenthood are for preventive and primary health care.

We should be doing more to strengthen the Title X programs, and reduce the number of unintended pregnancies in this country. Planned Parenthood is the biggest provider of Title X services in New Hampshire, serving over 63 percent of the women who need these services.

The proposed amendment would severely reduce access to family planning services for more than 60 percent of women in New Hampshire, and reduce access to primary health care for women across the country.

Planned Parenthood should be commended for the work they do every day, helping millions of women and their families get preventive care they need. If it were not for Planned Parenthood, thousands of women in my state would not get the basic health care they need.

I urge a “no” vote on this amendment.

Mr. CARSON of Indiana. Mr. Chair, I respectfully oppose the Pence amendment to defund Planned Parenthood.

Planned Parenthood plays a vital and important role in my home state of Indiana. In Indiana, Planned Parenthood serves over 94,000 patients a year. Of those, more than 25,000 women are served through Title X, that's over half of all the women served by the program in our state. In my district, Planned Parenthood is an integral part of the patchwork of safety net providers, which includes county health departments, free standing clinics, and women's health centers.

The simple fact is that we are in the middle of a health care crisis and Planned Parenthood is part of the solution to this crisis. One out of three women, 1.7 million, who receives Title X family planning health care does so at a Planned Parenthood health center. Planned Parenthood affiliates serve a diverse range of women and men throughout their lifetimes, providing family planning and other reproductive health care.

Planned Parenthood health centers are working daily to provide quality, preventive health services. Planned Parenthood runs over 880 non-profit health centers in communities where there are limited affordable, quality health care options. In fact seventy-five percent of Planned Parenthood's patients live under 150% of the federal poverty level.

Planned Parenthood provides options counseling for patients facing unintended pregnancies, preventive services including birth control, screening for cervical and breast cancer screenings, immunizations to prevent cervical cancer and sexually transmitted infection testing and treatment, education and information.

If it were not for Planned Parenthood, thousands of women in my state would not get basic health care at all. That's why I support Planned Parenthood, and oppose the Pence amendment.

Mr. OBEY. I yield back the balance of my time. I urge opposition to the amendment.

The CHAIR. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. PENCE).

The question was taken; and the Chair announced that the noes appeared to have it.

Mr. PENCE. Mr. Chairman, I demand a recorded vote.

The CHAIR. Pursuant to clause 6 of rule XVIII, further proceedings on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Indiana will be postponed.

AMENDMENT NO. 5 OFFERED BY MR. WITTMAN

The CHAIR. It is now in order to consider amendment No. 5 printed in House Report 111-222.

Mr. WITTMAN. Mr. Chairman, I have an amendment at the desk.

The CHAIR. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment No. 5 offered by Mr. WITTMAN: At the end of the bill, before the short title, insert the following:

SEC. 524. Appropriations made in this Act are hereby reduced in the amount of $803,270,000.

The CHAIR. Pursuant to House Resolution 673, the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. WITTMAN) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Virginia.

Mr. WITTMAN. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, my amendment is simple. It would cut spending in the bill across the board by one-half of 1 percent. While this appropriations bill funds critical national priorities such as research at the National Institutes of Health, pandemic flu preparedness, and job training programs, the underlying bill provides $730.5 billion, making it the largest of 12 appropriations bills.

The total is $59.4 billion, that is 9 percent, more than the regular fiscal year 2009 appropriations, and $1.9 billion more than that requested by the President. It also includes $163.4 billion in discretionary spending, which is $11.15 billion, or 7 percent, over last year's level.

I do not question the value of many of the programs funded by this bill. This bill funds programs that are critical to my district, like Impact AID, community health centers, the TRIO program, and nurse training and career technical education, but I offer this amendment because our Nation cannot continue on this path of deficit spending without serious, negative, long-term consequences.

Among the various appropriations bills, this bill is typically the largest single source of discretionary funds for domestic Federal programs. It represents a 12.8 percent increase in spending over the level we were operating under in fiscal year 2008 less than 1 year ago. And while I travel around my district and talk to constituents, their greatest concern is spending. It's hard to explain to a family that has had to make tough choices about their own spending that Washington can't make the same tough choices.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. OBEY. I claim the time in opposition.

The CHAIR. The gentleman from Wisconsin is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. OBEY. I reserve the balance of my time.

The CHAIR. The gentleman from Wisconsin is reserving his right to close. The gentleman from Virginia has 3½ minutes remaining.

Mr. WITTMAN. I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Kansas (Mr. TIAHRT).

Mr. TIAHRT. I thank the gentleman from Virginia.

Mr. Chairman, this is really a pretty straightforward amendment, but I want to put it in perspective. This bill is a 7 percent increase over last year's funding. The gentleman from Virginia is merely asking for a half of a percent reduction in something that is already increased by 7 percent. When you include what was allocated in the stimulus bill for these very same agencies, it is a 93 percent increase. So when you look at it in total, we are merely scratching the surface by having some common sense brought into the amount of money being spent.

Now, this doesn't eliminate any programs. This doesn't put anybody in a hardship. This simply says that rather than having 93 percent in total increase for this funding, that we are going to reduce it by a total of $11.15 billion. Now, this is $11.15 billion that we will not have to borrow and that our children will not have to pay back. This is money that we will not be obligated to return to the people in China.

So this is a commonsense amendment. I urge its adoption.

Mr. WITTMAN. Mr. Chairman, I would like to thank the gentleman from Kansas. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself the balance of the time.

Mr. Chairman, for the past couple of months, we have been passing spending bills with double-digit increases year over year, and these are unacceptable increases in spending. Already, there have been mentions of tax increases that will be necessary to maintain this level of spending. Imagine that for a moment, tax increases in the name of fiscal responsibility.

The administration projects that the budget deficit will reach $1.8 trillion in 2009 compared to $455 billion in 2008. This represents 3.2 percent of our gross domestic product, up from $161 billion, or 1.2 percent of GDP, in fiscal year 2007. As a share of GDP, this will be the largest deficit since World War II. For fiscal year 2009, we have a $2 trillion deficit. Between fiscal year 2010 and fiscal year 2019, the Congressional Budget Office estimates cumulative deficits could reach as high as $10 trillion.

A few other signs that we are in dangerous territory when it comes to the Nation's economic security are this Congress raised the statutory debt limit from $11.315 trillion to $12.04 trillion in the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act earlier this year, and together China and Japan hold almost 41 percent of our foreign-held debt, which is 27.8 percent of the gross Federal debt.

The question then becomes, how and when do we slow the growth? When do we make the tough decisions on spending? This amendment is an opportunity to show that this Congress wants to make responsible decisions on spending and to achieve fiscal discipline.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Chairman, I reserve my time.

Mr. WITTMAN. Mr. Chairman, I recognize the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. BROUN) for 1 minute.

Mr. BROUN of Georgia. I thank the gentleman for yielding.

Mr. Chairman, I'm pleased to see that finally after 10 appropriations bills under closed rules, the Democratic majority has finally seen fit to allow this sensible cost-reduction amendment. The underlying bill increases the funding for the Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services and Education by 25 percent.

□ 1330

Mr. Chairman, isn't a 24½ percent increase over last year enough? Is the Department of Labor really going to feel the effects of this modest amendment? We're only talking about reducing their increase for half a penny for every dollar that the agency spends. The American people are feeling the squeeze of this economy and, to date, Congress has done nothing to ease their burdens or address their frustrations. This modest reduction, Mr. Chairman, however small, is an important step. So I urge my colleagues to vote "yes" on this amendment.

Mr. WITTMAN. Mr. Chairman, this is a good amendment, and it puts us back on the path of fiscal discipline, and I urge my colleagues to support it.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Chairman, I yield to the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE) for a unanimous consent request.

(Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Because this bill does have the right priorities for HBCUs and Ryan White treatment dollars and teen pregnancy, I support this legislation and the priorities of this committee.

Mr. Chair, I stand here today to express my support for H.R. 3293 the Labor, Health and Human Services and Education Appropriation Act of 2010. With an emphasis on job training, increased educational opportunities and the implementation of health and social safety nets, H.R. 3293 ensures that we will be able to effectively rise up out of the ashes of what has been categorized as the longest and deepest economic downturn since the Great Depression. The national economic crisis has begun to infiltrate every corner of this country, and my home State of Texas is no exception.

In Texas, unemployment has climbed to a staggering 7.6 percent, and in my own district of Houston, unemployment has risen to an unprecedented 6.4 percent. In January 2009, it was documented that Texas experienced an extensive job loss of 75,800 nonagricultural jobs. Accordingly, I am taking every possible measure to help the people of Houston, right down to hosting a comprehensive job fair for the people of my district this coming weekend. While States across the country reduce vital services, including those services that provide aid to the most vulnerable among us, we must make every legislative effort to remedy the negative and wide sweeping impact of this most devastating recession.

To tackle unemployment, joblessness and disparity, we must address the roots of the problem head-on. We need to invest our resources in the people of this country, and H.R. 3293 provides much needed assistance to do just that. The FY 2010 Labor, HHS, Education Appropriations Bill is legislation that makes the necessary investments in our Nation's greatest treasure, our future.

INCREASING FUNDING FOR EDUCATION

Increasing educational opportunities for students of every level, from every socio-economic background throughout our Nation will yield the greatest return on our investment. Providing access to educational opportunities is critical to the Nation's long term prosperity. H.R. 3293 will make the necessary investments to provide children with a 21st century education, will provide the resources to modernize our schools and colleges, and will provide funding to make college more affordable.

Just as I supported past legislation like H.R. 3081, the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009, which placed a premium on providing funding for and lending institutional support to our Historical Black Colleges and Universities, HBCUs, and Predominantly Black Institutions, PBIs, H.R. 3293 also provides a comprehensive fiscal plan for 2010 to ensure that adequate funding is allocated to our HBCUs and PBIs.

HBCUs and PBIs as defined in the Higher Education Act of 1965, as amended, HEA, as the following: A historically Black college or university is an institution of higher education established prior to 1964, whose principal mission was, and is, the education of Black Americans, and that is accredited by a nationally recognized accrediting agency or association determined by the Secretary to be a reliable authority as to the quality of training offered or is, according to such an agency or association, making reasonable progress toward accreditation. Historically Black colleges or universities also include any branch campus of a southern institution of higher education that prior to September 30, 1986, received a grant as an institution with special needs under HEA Section 321 and was formally recognized by the National Center for Education Statistics as a Historically Black College or University.

Predominantly Black Institutions are defined in HEA Section 318. These institutions meet basic eligibility under Title III, Section 312(b) and serve at least 40 percent Black American students. Basic eligibility under Title III, Section 312(b) of the HEA is met by institutions that: have low educational and general expenditures, E&G, or seek a waiver by submitting evidence that is both persuasive and compelling to have this requirement waived; have a requisite enrollment of needy students; are legally authorized within their respective State to award bachelors degrees or are a community college; and are accredited by a nationally or State recognized accrediting agency.

An institution is considered to have met the enrollment of needy students criterion if (1) at least 50 percent of its degree-seeking students receive financial assistance under one or more of the following programs: Federal Pell Grant Program, Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant Program, Federal Work-Study Program and/or the Federal Perkins Loan Program or (2) the percentage of its undergraduate degree-seeking students who were enrolled at least halftime and received a Federal Pell grant met or exceeded the average for similar institutions.

We must invest in our Nation's Historically Black Colleges and Universities, HBCUs, and other Minority Serving Institutions. A digital disparity between HBCU campuses and their counterparts currently exists. There is a significant need among HBCUs to update technological equipment and to develop advanced and cutting edge educational and technological opportunities for students. In the face of the adversity that outdated technology poses, HBCUs continue to generate thousands of African-American graduates who are prepared to compete in and contribute to our global economy. HBCUs represent 9 of the top 10 colleges that graduate the most African-Americans who go on to earn Ph.D.s. HBCUs and PBIs continue to provide opportunity and advancement to African-American students, and therefore are worthy of federal support.

Accordingly, this bill provides $653 million to strengthen the capacity of HBCUs and PBIs, Hispanic-serving Institutions, Tribal Colleges and Universities and Native American-serving Institutions, Asian Pacific Islander, and Native American Institutions. This is $110 million over the President's request and $146 million over 2009. Additionally, H.R. 3293 provides for $178 million new loan guarantees for HBCUs and University facilities, which is nearly triple that of the 2009 level. As a Representative from the 18th Congressional District of Texas, I know firsthand that this will enable HBCUs like Texas Southern University in my district and Prairie View A&M University just outside of my district to thrive.

H.R. 3293 also provides an investment of $15.9 billion for Title I Education for the Disadvantaged Children Account, which will provide much needed support to underprivileged children in grades K through 12, and will give hope to the low income families in my district in Houston, that their children will receive quality education. This funding also places an emphasis on early childhood and family literacy programs. Furthermore, the bill provides $446 million for a Teacher Incentive Fund, which supports school districts and States that aim to reward effective teaching through compensation systems that reward entire high-need schools on the basis of increasing student achievement.

GREEN JOBS

Finally, this bill provides the necessary funding for increased employment opportunities and job training. H.R. 3293 appropriates $50 million, the same as the President's request, to prepare workers for careers in energy efficiency and renewable energy. This new administration initiative will support pre-apprenticeship programs and new careers for more than 8,000 workers in emerging green industries. In the tradition of our new administration, this Congress understands the energy concerns of the American people and we continue to work to ensure this Nation moves in a new direction to achieve energy independence and energy security.

I have long been a proponent of green education. For example, during the 110th Congress, I successfully offered amendments to the Comprehensive Energy Independence bill that was introduced late last year and voted out of the House.

Specifically, I have offered past amendments that would provide scholarships for post-secondary study in ethanol, wind, solar energy, and other green alternatives to petroleum. I have also offered an amendment to establish Energy Centers of Excellence, which would provide a consortium of Historically Black Colleges and Universities, HBCUs, Hispanic serving institutions, tribal universities, and majority serving institutions to develop curriculum and programs in green energy. Moreover, my amendments provided scholarships, and academic opportunities for minorities to study green energy. Thus, I have long been a proponent of the type of education and job provisions that this bill requires.

Indeed, I count myself as one on the forefront of this cause. As a representative of the 18th Congressional District of Texas, which includes the energy capital of the world, Houston, I am especially pleased to support this bill. This bill fosters education and increased job opportunity in green energy, which increasingly is becoming a viable alternative to petroleum.

Today, we as a global community must take the time out to appreciate the natural resources our planet has provided. It is also a day where we must better examine energy alternatives to carry forth the advancement of mankind and the preservation of the world at large. I have long been a proponent of green jobs, as evidenced in my support of H.R. 957, the Green Energy Education Act of 2009, which provided an opportunity to learn about the positive actions that we as a Nation can take to improve energy efficiency; to develop safe, renewable energy sources; to design goods that are durable, reusable, and recyclable; and to eliminate the production of harmful waste, while protecting our environment and encouraging sustainable development throughout the world.

H.R. 957 empowered leading authorities to teach and conduct the necessary research on energy consumption throughout our Nation. The research and studies are highly detailed, and carefully constructed to be statistically representative of the entire population, and are indicative of the indispensable analysis and policy planning required to execute a comprehensive green initiative. By providing the necessary funding to implement green research programs and new green job opportunities, policy planners will be in a position to better identify the highest-value energy efficient methods to decrease our dependency on foreign fuel.

Along with rising gas prices, weak economic growth, continued environmental warnings and scientific studies pointing to global warming, many Americans continue to worry about the state of energy security in the world. Adding green space in urban areas, investing in alternative energy, and ensuring our participation in the conservation of our planet's resources are just some ways that we can preserve our wonderful planet, and plan for our future. We now turn to our Federal Government to provide us with the resources to do so. I urge my colleagues today to pass this critical piece of legislation, as our Nation's long-term prosperity hangs in the balance.

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong opposition to this amendment which would cut $803 million out of important investments in this bill. Let me point out a few facts. First of all, as I said earlier, the Appropriations Committee allocation has already cut a total of $10 billion from the President's discretionary spending request, and this bill cuts $52 million from that same request.

This bill, on a comparable basis, is 3.6 percent above the 2009 limit. That is hardly runaway spending. Furthermore, when you look at program lines, you will see that this bill makes hard choices to terminate programs that are not working, with $1.3 billion in cuts to individual programs below the 2009 level. The bill terminates or cuts 44 programs. The largest single program increase is for the Social Security Administration, effectively one fourth of the bill's entire increase for 2009.

With dramatically rising retirement and disability claims facing the agency, nobody would argue that those funds are wasteful. After accounting for the SSA increase, this bill is 1.7 percent above for the rest of the bill, meaning, in real dollar terms, after inflation, it is an increase of .3 percent. That is hardly being spendthrift.

If this amendment is adopted, I would point out two problems. First of all, it makes no real spending decisions. It leaves all of that in the hands of the President of the United States. It allows the President to determine this funding level for every single account in this bill. I don't think this Congress should be a rubber stamp for any President.

And, then, I think we ought to look at what the implications are for programs in this bill. Applied to the National Institutes of Health, this cut would wipe out more than 900 new research grants and eliminate inflation adjustments for 36,000 new and existing research grants undermining efforts to treat cancer, Parkinson's, diabetes and other deadly diseases. Applied to community health centers, nearly 1.3 million people could see their health care services reduced or eliminated. Applied to special education, IDEA funding would be cut by 7 percent below the 2009 level. Applied to Pell Grants, 7.6 million students could see their grants reduced and the maximum Pell award cut by approximately $135.

Applied to LIHEAP, it would reduce the number of households served by over 900,000. Applied to senior nutrition, it would eliminate nearly 240 million meals to 2.5 million vulnerable Americans. Applied to Head Start, over 50,000 low-income children would be denied comprehensive early childhood development services. Applied to the Child Care Block Grant, child care services for over 270,000 low-income families would be eliminated. And applied to the Job Corps, it would deliver a more than 50 percent cut to Job Corps centers.

With all due respect, I don't think anybody on this side of the aisle needs to hear a lecture about deficits. I have opposed the Bush policies, both economic and war policies, which led to the unraveling of the budget, which led to a huge amount of debt and which led to the collapse of the economy. I don't think we need more of that kind of medicine.

I urge a "no" vote on this amendment and yield back the balance of my time.

The CHAIR. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. WITTMAN).

The question was taken; and the Chair announced that the noes appeared to have it.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE CHAIR

The CHAIR (during the vote). There are 2 minutes remaining in this vote.

□ 1420

So the amendment was rejected.

The result of the vote was announced as above recorded.

The CHAIR. The Clerk will read.

The Clerk read as follows:

This Act may be cited as the “Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 2010”.

The CHAIR. Under the rule, the committee rises.

Accordingly, the Committee rose; and the Speaker pro tempore (Mr. SNYDER) having assumed the chair, Mr. HOLDEN, Chair of the Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union, reported that that Committee, having had under consideration the bill (H.R.

3293) making appropriations for the Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education, and related agencies for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2010, and for other purposes, pursuant to House Resolution 673, he reported the bill back to the House with sundry amendments adopted by the Committee of the Whole.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the rule, the previous question is ordered.

Pursuant to House Resolution 673, the question on adoption of the amendments will be put en gros.

The question is on the amendments.

The amendments were agreed to.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the engrossment and third reading of the bill.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time, and was read the third time.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. TIAHRT. Mr. Speaker, I have a motion to recommit at the desk.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is the gentleman opposed to the bill?

Mr. TIAHRT. I am.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Clerk will report the motion to recommit.

The Clerk read as follows:

Mr. Tiahrt moves to recommit the bill back to the Committee on Appropriations with instructions to report the same back to the House forthwith amended as follows:

At the appropriate place in the bill, execute amendments numbered 1 through 22, printed in the Congressional Record of July 23, 2009.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. OBEY. I make a point of order against the motion to recommit with instructions because it includes legislation and is not in order under clause 2 of rule XXI, and I ask for a ruling from the Chair.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does any other Member wish to be heard on the point of order?

Mr. TIAHRT. Mr. Speaker, I would just like to say that this, Mr. Speaker, takes the amendments that were not made in order by the rule en masse. It's very similar to what the manager did by, in aggregate, considering amendments, and I would ask that the Chair allow this vote up or down on the amendments that were not made in order by the rule.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair is prepared to rule.

As argued by the gentleman from Wisconsin, the amendment proposed in the motion to recommit violates clause 2 of rule XXI in a number of respects.

The point of order is sustained. The motion is not in order.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. TIAHRT. Mr. Speaker, I have a motion to recommit at the desk.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is the gentleman still opposed to the bill?

Mr. TIAHRT. I still am opposed to the bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Clerk will report the motion to recommit.

The Clerk read as follows:

Mr. Tiahrt moves to recommit the bill H.R. 3293 to the Committee on Appropriations with instructions to report the same back to the House forthwith with the following amendment:

Mr. TIAHRT (during the reading). Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to waive the reading of the motion to recommit.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Kansas?

There was no objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Kansas is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. TIAHRT. Mr. Speaker, I offer this motion with the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. KLINE). He's the ranking Republican on the Education and Labor Committee.

The motion is simple. It adds $1 billion for special education with offsets from an equal amount on other agencies. Americans are compassionate people. We want every American to climb the ladder of success, even if we have to provide the less fortunate with an escalator.

Almost 35 years ago when the Individuals with Disabilities and Education Act, or IDEA as we refer to it, when it was enacted, the Federal Government mandated that our schools educate all children, even those with severe mental and physical disabilities. During the floor debate, it was clear the Federal Government was committed to pay 40 percent of the costs needed to educate a special-needs child. Today, however, we are falling short of that promise. Now, our good intentions have turned into bad consequences.

The Federal Government's mandate has undermined the public school system's ability to adequately meet the needs of the special children. This is not acceptable for either the children who need special education or those without disabilities who watch their education programs cut in order to fund IDEA.

Educating every child is the right thing to do, and I am proud that we are doing it today. Yet, IDEA has placed an extreme financial burden on our public schools, forcing school districts to rob Peter to pay Paul.

But we can fix this problem, this shortfall. By fully funding IDEA, we can put an end to this practice, helping all children reach their full potential.

I would now like to yield to the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. KLINE).

Mr. KLINE of Minnesota. I thank the gentleman for yielding and for offering this motion to recommit.

Mr. Speaker, this is exactly the kind of amendment which should have been made in order during today's debate. It is completely germane. It is all about priorities in education funding.

As Mr. TIAHRT said, this motion to recommit would increase funding for IDEA by $1 billion. We have for over 35 years fallen short of our commitment, the government's commitment, to fund special education and provide relief to every school in America. This bill would provide relief to every school in your districts. Even with the one-time spike in IDEA funding provided by the stimulus bill, we fall short of reaching the 40 percent threshold that Mr. TIAHRT discussed.

What this motion to recommit would do would increase that percentage of funding from the 17 percent where it sits to 18.3 percent in the base. We need to get that base up and let our superintendents, our principals, our teachers, our parents, our families know that that money is going to be there for the long term.

We take money from some other programs, absolutely. I am arguing that those programs, some of them brand new, some of them with hundreds of millions of dollars, may be important, but not as important as this. This is the debate that we should have had this morning. It's the debate that we are having now.

I am asking my colleagues to help us start to meet our obligation. Let's help our children with special needs.

Mr. TIAHRT. Mr. Speaker, I would just like to conclude by saying we only take money from new programs or we continue programs that exist at a lower level than we have today to replace it with a higher priority program, IDEA, which meets the needs of our special-needs students, and also this will help preserve the ability to educate those who are not physically and mentally challenged in a better fashion. So I would urge its adoption.

I yield back the balance of my time.
Mr. OBEY. I rise in opposition to the motion.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Wisconsin is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Speaker, this is what I would call the original holy picture amendment. Sometimes we see legislators who think that the way to do business is to cut everybody else's priorities in order to fund theirs. That's not the way 435 people can come to a constructive conclusion. The fact is that this is a recovery or trailer amendment left over from the stimulus bill of a few months ago.

Just a few months ago, we had a stimulus bill on the House floor which increased special education by $12 billion. In the 12 years the Republicans were in control of this House, they increased special education by a total of $8.5 billion. We increased it by $12 billion in 1 year, and not a single Member on that side of the aisle voted for it.

And now, they're belatedly trying to recover politically by cutting a laundry list of other programs in order to pretend that they found a responsible way to free up money to fund Special Education.

I want to point out that this amendment would cut $100 million from the School Improvement account. That could endanger 100,000 kids who, right now, have after-school learning programs. It cuts $148 million from the Innovation and Improvement account, Reach Out and Read, Teach for America, Full Service Community Schools, and Reading is Fundamental.

It eliminates $88 million in smaller learning communities. We've learned from research that a lot of high schools need to be downsized. This cripples the program and would prevent 500,000 high school students from benefiting from that program.

It cuts almost $170 million from the Community Service and Volunteer Program, including AmeriCorps and Summers of Service—summer jobs. It would also put at risk an effort to bolster the participation of disabled Americans in community service. It would cut the Foster Grandparents and Senior Companion program as well.

It would eliminate $300 million from the Global Fund to Fight AIDS, Tuberculosis, and Malaria. If the H1N1 virus has taught us anything, it's that we have to attack these disease problems on a worldwide basis.

I think the amendment speaks for itself. I don't think we want to play “fruit basket upset” just so that somebody can get better on a rollcall. I would urge defeat of the amendment.

I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Without objection, the previous question is ordered on the motion to recommit.

There was no objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion to recommit.

The question was taken; and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the noes appeared to have it.

RECORDED VOTE

Mr. TIAHRT. Mr. Speaker, I demand a recorded vote.

A recorded vote was ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 9 of rule XX, the Chair will reduce to 5 minutes the minimum time for any electronic vote on the question of passage.

The vote was taken by electronic device, and there were—ayes 171, noes 248, not voting 14, as follows:
