

they're not familiar with is somewhere around here.

And so we listened. There was laughing. I didn't understand what they were saying, kidding around, a lot of banter back and forth between the different units where they were being held. And as we stood at the end of the hallway, someone with us said something that was heard by those on that hallway, and immediately, the banter, the cheerfulness turned into, "Help, I'm being tortured. Help." And we were treated to cries for help. They didn't realize that we had been hearing them kidding around, laughing and joking with each other until they heard that a new voice was on the floor. And we were told, that's because they know that there are different groups that come, Amnesty International, different ones that come to check on them, and so that's why as soon as they hear a voice that they don't hear every day, they want to make sure that they get lots of sympathy. It's what they're trained to do. It was just amazing to observe that firsthand. It was really interesting and amazing.

But also, we know that no one who is a guard is allowed to assault or even speak in a negative way toward anyone being held at Guantanamo. The only assaults now for some years that have gone on at Guantanamo occur when the inmates there figure out new and exciting ways to throw urine or feces on our guards. There's been only one guard that reacted hostilely by yelling an insult, a verbal insult at the one who threw feces on him. And he was punished for that, what was deemed to be, by our military, overreaction. Though he did not strike, he spoke angrily and insultingly and, therefore, he was punished.

You might wonder, Mr. Speaker, what happens to those that keep throwing urine and feces? Well, in a normal prison, and I've been through many of those, if you will not quit assaulting the guards, then ultimately you're put in an isolation cell where you can't possibly do it anymore. But because of all the complaints about what a horrible place Guantanamo is, though the people there are treated better than most any maximum security prison I've ever seen or heard about, we don't put them in isolation because Amnesty International, some of these groups, would just go nuts. And so they say it's easier just to punish them by taking away a couple of their hours that they're allowed to watch movies each day. And if it's bad enough, they may take some of their time away of the hours that they're allowed to be outdoors. That's their punishment—losing some movie time. In view of some of the movies out now, they're not missing that much. But that's how they're punished for throwing urine or feces on our guards.

I realize that some in this body, some around the country, want to help the terrorists and they believe if we'll just be nice to them, everything will work out fine. That's not the case. It is absolutely not the case.

It is religious zealotry. And I thank God that it is only a very small percentage of Islamic believers who believe in this type of violent jihad. The vast majority of Islamic believers don't believe jihad means the violent physical event that these jihadist extremists that we've come to know and see kill people do. So, thank goodness for that.

But for those jihadist extremists who believe, as Ahmadinejad said, that he can usher in the coming of the Mahdi, the Grand Mahdi that will rule over the caliphate, that he can usher that in by using nuclear weapons to blow us up, Israel up, this is serious. He believes it to his core, even though some of the American interviewers were either scared to ask, Why do you want to blow us up and destroy us? And do you really believe that you'll bring about the return of the Mahdi to rule the world if you use nuclear weapons? Nobody had the nerve to ask those.

That's what he has said repeatedly. And as the lesson should have been learned from Hitler, when you have a nut that's claiming he's going to kill people and destroy countries and destroy societies and commit genocide, and he achieves the weaponry to do that, you'd better take him seriously. But we haven't done that.

It's been a very interesting week. Earlier I was mentioning the bill, H.R. 5116, the COMPETES Act, it's called. This would have amended section 702, persons with disabilities, to include veterans with disabilities in achieving the same type of special consideration. That's all it says, special consideration that other groups designated as minorities under this do. How unfortunate, the same week we betray our promise to our military.

Well, as we anticipate heading home this weekend, which I do each weekend, and we think about Memorial Day and those who have laid down their lives for us, having attended the funeral of Sergeant Kenneth B. May, Jr., 26 years old, of Kilgore, Texas, in the last 10 days, our hearts and our tributes go out to those who served this Nation. May they forgive us for what we've done to them this week.

BUDGETARY EFFECTS OF PAYGO LEGISLATION

Pursuant to Public Law 111-139, after consultation with the Chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, and on behalf of both of us, Mr. SPRATT hereby submits, prior to the vote on the House amendment to the Senate amendment to the bill H.R. 4213, the American Jobs and Closing Tax Loopholes Act, the following attached cost estimates for printing in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD.

A. An estimate of the costs of section 523 of the amendment printed in part A of House Report 111-497, as modified by the amendment printed in part B of House Report 111-497 and the further amendment printed in section 2 of House Resolution 1403. Section 523 of the House amendment, as modified, has been scored using an adjustment for current policy pursuant to sections 4(c) and 7(c) of Public Law 111-139.

If only section 523 passes, then the estimate for purposes of Public Law 111-139 shall be the estimate labeled Division I.

B. An estimate of the costs of the amendment printed in part A of House Report 111-497, as modified by the amendment printed in part B of House Report 111-497 and the further amendment printed in section 2 of House Resolution 1403, excluding section 523. The amendment, as modified and excluding section 523, includes an emergency designation for section 501 pursuant to section 4(g) of Public Law 111-139.

If only the amendment, as modified and excluding section 523, passes, then the estimate for purposes of Public Law 111-139 shall be the estimate labeled Division II.

C. An estimate of the costs of the amendment printed in part A of House Report 111-497, as modified by the amendment printed in part B of House Report 111-497 and the further amendment printed in section 2 of House Resolution 1403. Section 523 of the amendment, as modified, has been scored using an adjustment for current policy pursuant to sections 4(c) and 7(c) of Public Law 111-139. In addition, the amendment, as modified, includes an emergency designation for section 501 pursuant to section 4(g) of Public Law 111-139.

If the amendment printed in part A of House Report 111-497, as modified by the amendment printed in part B of House Report 111-497 and the further amendment printed in section 2 of House Resolution 1403 passes, then the estimate for purposes of Public Law 111-139 shall be the estimate labeled Division I and Division II Combined.
