

EXTENSIONS OF REMARKS

RULES OF THE HOUSE

SPEECH OF

HON. GWEN MOORE

OF WISCONSIN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, January 5, 2011

Ms. MOORE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to sound the alarm about the hypocrisy and reckless budget policies the Republicans have rolled out this week.

The Republican leadership has declared that a new day is dawning—a day of so-called “fiscal discipline.” But even a child could see that their new “cut-go” budget loopholes just compound irresponsibility with more irresponsibility. Republicans want free rein to cut taxes but not pay for them and to ignore the fact that health care reform saves us $143 billion, according to the Congressional Budget Office.

These GOP accounting gimmicks will not get our fiscal house in order, but instead will move us closer to the precipice. Before we know it, safety net programs for our most vulnerable populations—like Social Security, and Medicare—will be first on the chopping block. We saw their opening gambit last month when Republicans held the unemployed hostage to win bloated tax breaks for the wealthiest Americans, adding billions to the budget deficit.

Now they are saying that when they give more tax cuts to the super rich, they don't have to pay for them. The gimmick should be called “cut-go, tax cut go-go-go.” I voted against the tax cut package because it was irresponsible, and it was inequitable. These new budget loopholes will only accelerate the erosion of our social safety net. I thought that the Republicans wanted to balance the Federal budget. But this trick takes us in the opposite direction. I urge you to vote against these rule changes.

The exhibit is a result of Ms. Sabik's hard work and dedication toward this cause. Ms. Sabik has also admirably served on the borough's Heritage Committee and participated in various bicentennial celebrations throughout the community. Ms. Sabik currently resides in Union Beach, New Jersey. She has two daughters, Charlene and Allison, and five grandchildren ranging from ages 12 to 18 years old. HONORING BRADLEY UNIVERSITY
PRESIDENT JOANNE K. GLASSER

HON. LORETTA SANCHEZ

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, January 11, 2011

Ms. LORETTA SANCHEZ of California. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support to honor the groundbreaking accomplishments of Bradley University President Joanne K. Glasser.

A native of Baltimore, Maryland, President Glasser is a graduate of George Washington University, the University of Maryland School of Law, and the Harvard University Graduate Institute of Education for Higher Education Management.

Joanne grew up in a diverse Baltimore neighborhood and has had friends and neighbors of different cultures, different religions and different backgrounds. That personal history, and the inclusive example set by her mother and father, has inspired President Glasser to strive to provide educational opportunities for all students, no matter their race, religion or economic circumstance. She believes in promoting diversity and advances it by actively recruiting students who, without her leadership, would not have the chance to attend a private university.

President Glasser is an inspiration to many for creating history where ever she goes. President Glasser became the first woman president at Eastern Kentucky University in 2001. She repeated that honor in 2007 when she was named president of Bradley University in Peoria, Illinois, an institution founded in 1897 by another trailblazing woman, Lydia Moss Bradley. Earlier in her career, Ms. Glasser was the first woman to be labor commissioner of Baltimore County.

Today, we honor the work President Glasser has done in further closing the achievement gap among low-socioeconomic and Latino students throughout Orange County. She is committed to broadening both regional and ethnic diversity at Bradley University. Her staff has worked tirelessly to find ways for low-socioeconomic students to afford the top-notch education that Bradley University offers.

Pricilla Merritt-Bravo, a junior at Bradley University and vice president of the Bradley Speech Team, explains, "President Glasser is small in stature, but the power that is felt when she comes into a mom is great. She is an inspiration not only to women like myself but the entire student body. She believes in dreaming big dreams and striving to achieve them. For myself, going to college was a dream and graduating was a fantasy. President Glasser believed in me and made it possible for me to be here and demonstrate that, if given the chance, those of us who come from limited means can fly."

Once again, I rise in support of the accomplishments of President Joanne Glasser and Bradley University for furthering education for all people. Joanne's commitment to diversity and the well-being of her students is unprecedented.
