

he encountered knew Jesus and were treated with the dignity and respect they deserved in all facets of their lives.

During Rev. Dunlap's tenure as an A.M.E. minister, he participated and held positions some examples of his contributions: Special Consultant to the North Carolina Fund, which evaluated community action programs for the state of North Carolina; Faculty member and Vice President of Kittrell College in North Carolina; Chairman, Carolina Ford Fellowship; Chairman, Board of Directors for United Community Action; Director of Direct Action, Chicago's Southern Christian Leadership Conference; Chairman, Chicago Action Committee; Member, Board of Directors, Urban Training Center for Christian Mission; Chairman, 4th Episcopal Mass News Media, A.M.E. Church; Special Consultant to the late Bishop Frederick Jordan, Ecumenical Relations, National A.M.E. Church; Vice President, Danville, VA Ministerial Alliance; member of the Des Plaines Ministerial Alliance; Professor of Urban Programs for the Meadville Theological Seminary, affiliated with the University of Chicago; Director of Social Action, A.M.E. Ministerial Alliance of Chicago.

Although Rev. Dunlap was very involved as a minister, he also found time to become involved in civic and political organizations. Some of these organizations and affiliations included Rev. Dunlap's Charter Membership in the Prince Edward County Christian Association, an organization that placed black pupils in schools after they had been closed to avert integration in Prince Edward county Virginia; Charter Membership in the Danville Christian Progressive Association, an organization that broke down racial segregation in education and employment; Charter membership in the Halifax County Voters Movement that registered 100,000 new voters in eastern North Carolina; Charter membership in the Coalition for United Community Action that helped break down discrimination in the Chicago Construction industry; the First Executive Director and founding member of Black Contractors United; President of the Dr. Martin Luther King Coalition in Chicago; Member of the Chicago Urban League; Chairman of the 2nd Congressional District of North Carolina; Chairman of the Board of Directors of the North Carolina voter Education Project.

While A.I. was busy bringing people to Jesus and helping to create a better world for all, he also had a family. A blind date in Atlanta led him to the love of his life and wife of 44 wonderful years, Margaret Della Princess Esther Lee Dunlap, who predeceased him on October 29, 2004. To that union four children were born: Michele Arnita, Alexander, Jr., Michael Andre and "baby" Barbara Andrea. He was a devoted husband and a generous and caring father. He would often state how people were amazed with all that he did that he had time to have one child, much less four. A.I. loved music and played the trumpet for many years, loved sports (especially basketball), was an avid reader, and an exceptionally skilled poker player.

Through his efforts, A.I. helped open doors to African Americans in construction, education, housing and employment. He was responsible for helping to write some of the first Affirmative Action Programs for companies like Sears Roebuck and Co., Dearborn Park, CNA Financial, and Montgomery Ward to name a few. He sued the City of Chicago for the right to March in Marquette Park, one of the most segregated neighborhoods in Chicago in the 70s. For the city's failure to provide adequate protections for their peaceful demonstration, A.I. sued the City of Chicago and won his case in DUNLAP v. CITY OF CHICAGO (435 F.Supp. 1295 (1977)).

These are just a few examples of the long-lasting impacts that Rev. Dunlap made towards the greater objective of creating a more loving and just society.

While the family of Shepherd A.I. Dunlap will miss him, we do not mourn his death. We are so grateful to God Almighty that he allowed him to be with us for 82 years. He leaves the following persons happy about his life—his children: Michele (Donald), Haughton; Alexander, Jr. (Darlene); Michael (Ophelia); Barbara; grandchildren: Nikhitut, Anjelica, Isaiah, Jillian, Chelsea, great-granddaughter Camia; a host of cousins, nieces, nephews, and a myriad of friends.

CONGRATULATING MAX BROWNE

HON. DAVID G. REICHERT

OF WASHINGTON

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, December 20, 2012

Mr. REICHERT. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate an exceptional young man, Max Browne, who was recently named the 2012–2013 Gatorade National Football Player of the Year.

Max Browne grew up in the district 1 represent, Washington's 8th. At 6 feet 5 inches and 218 pounds, he became Skyline High School's star quarterback this year, leading the Spartans to a 14–0 record and a Class 4A state championship this fall. Browne passed for 4,526 yards, 49 touchdowns and just five interceptions.

Max Browne is not only an exceptional athlete; he is an extraordinary human being. While a star quarterback at Skyline High School in Sammamish, Washington, he maintained a 3.50 GPA, was a three-time Skyline High Student of the Month Citizenship Award recipient and volunteered on behalf of Issaquah Parks and Recreation, the Sammamish/Issaquah Young Life ministry and as an intern with G2 Physical Therapy. He has also worked with Generation Joy and raised funds to benefit cancer research.

This is the second Gatorade State Player of the Year award for Max Browne, who broke the state record for career passing yards and completions this year, surpassing Detroit Lions quarterback and Gatorade Washington Player of the Year Kellen Moore. His second award was presented by Seattle Seahawks rookie Russell Wilson, an added bonus to the wonderful honor.

I am incredibly proud of this young man. The Gatorade Player of the Year program recognizes outstanding athletic excellence, academic achievement and exemplary character demonstrated on and off the field. It is an honor to represent him as a constituent, and I know that he will set an example for his teammates for years to come.

HONORING THE LIFE OF LEONILA VEGA

HON. LINDA T. SÁNCHEZ

OF CALIFORNIA

Thursday, December 20, 2012

Ms. LINDA T. SÁNCHEZ of California. Mr. Speaker, on November 19, 2012, the movement to improve direct care jobs lost a fearless and spirited leader when Leonila Vega passed away after battling cancer for fourteen months. As an advocate for direct care workers—the more than four million workers who assist elders and people living with disabilities—Leonila fought to improve wages, access to benefits, and respect for the profession. Born in rural Mexico, Leonila came to the United States as a teenager eager for the opportunity to pursue an education. She taught herself to speak and read English, worked her way through college, and went on to earn a law degree. As a disability rights attorney in Wisconsin, Ms. Vega developed a reputation as a ferocious advocate for the elderly and people living with disabilities. Her cases exposed her to the plight of direct care workers—many of whom are immigrant women—and she saw firsthand the challenges they faced, working long hours for little pay and no benefits, entrusted with the lives of their clients while suffering an alarming lack of respect. Her desire to improve life for these caregivers led her to become the Executive Director of Direct Care Alliance. At Direct Care Alliance, Ms. Vega worked to eliminate the exploitation of direct care workers and its harmful effects on care quality by empowering numerous direct care workers to see the valuable role they play in society. As she said, it was her American dream to help others realize their potential. I admire Ms. Vega's work on behalf of direct care workers, immigrants and people of color, and am saddened that we have lost such a vivacious and dynamic leader.

Among the issues that Ms. Vega championed was the extension of the Fair Labor Standards Act to cover home care workers. Sadly, this essential workforce is excluded from these basic protections. Such poor working conditions hinder recruitment and retention which, in turn, negatively affect the quality of care that millions of Americans receive. Troubled by this injustice, Ms. Vega ensured that the issue remained at the center of Direct Care Alliance's agenda. I was inspired by her passion to improve direct care jobs and introduced the Direct Care Workforce Empowerment Act in 2010 and reintroduced a similar bill—the Direct Care Job Quality Improvement Act in 2011. One year ago, President Obama announced the Department of Labor's proposed rule to extend minimum wage and overtime protections to home care workers. Sadly, Ms. Vega did not live to see the rule finalized, but we will continue to fight to make things right for direct care workers, just as she would have done. The values that Ms. Vega fought to advance—respect and dignity for all people—are ones that everyone, regardless of political affiliation, shares and we must work together to move those efforts forward.

TRIBUTE TO GEORGE RESCH

HON. RON PAUL

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, December 20, 2012

Mr. PAUL. Mr. Speaker, I rise to honor H. George Resch, who passed away last week. George was a lifelong champion of liberty, sound money, and peace who played a key role in the development of the modern liberty movement. I was privileged to know George as a business associate and a friend.

George was one of the liberty movement's leading experts on the dangers of government control of education. One of his most significant contributions to libertarian scholarship was an essay titled "Human Variations and Individuality," published in the 1974 anthology The Twelve Year Sentence. In this essay, George convincingly challenged the popular idea that government must control education in order to ensure "equality of opportunity." As George made clear, because all people differ in their abilities and interests, the only way the state can ensure "equal opportunities" is to prevent any student from excelling.

As important as George's scholarship on educational freedom was, his main contribution to the liberty movement was his work supporting libertarian scholars—especially younger scholars, who often lacked opportunities available to their peers who were willing to promote statist academic orthodoxy.

George began supporting promising libertarian scholars in the 1950s, when he met Professor F.A. "Baldy" Harper at Robert LeFevre's Freedom School. Harper immediately recognized George's qualities of mind and strong character, and eventually recruited George to work with the William Volker Fund. At the time, the Volker Fund was one of the few organizations dedicated to the development and promotion of libertarian ideas.

At the Volker Fund, George worked with many leading libertarians thinkers of the day to identify books and authors worthy of promotion and support. One of the people George worked with was Murray Rothbard, Ludwig von Mises' heir and the founder of the modern libertarian movement. George and Murray's friendship began when they discussed monopolies. George had heard that Rothbard was developing a theory of antitrust more "radical" than Mises', and wanted to learn more. The conversation resulted in a friendship that lasted until Murray passed away in 1995.

In 1961, George helped Professor Harper create the Institute for Humane Studies (IHS). IHS's goal was to expand the Volker Fund's mission of promoting libertarian scholarship by identifying and supporting young people with the potential to become leading libertarian scholars. George played a major role in helping to sustain and grow IHS in its early years. In fact, it is not an exaggeration to say that Baldy Harper never would have gotten IHS off the ground without George's help. The thousands of young people who have been introduced to the ideas of liberty through IHS's programs, as well as those who received academic and career support from IHS, all owe a debt of gratitude to George Resch.

George also had a successful private-sector career working with Burt Blumert at Camino Coins. Burt and George truly were kindred souls, both tireless promoters and supporters of the ideas of liberty. Burt and George made Camino one of the country's top coin businesses.

George also worked with Burt at the Center for Libertarian Studies. The Center published the Journal of Libertarian Studies (among many other projects), the first academic journal devoted to the ideas of liberty. George also helped Burt and Lew Rockwell establish and develop Lewrockwell.com, the world's most-visited libertarian web site.

When I left Congress in 1984, Burt and George assisted me in establishing Ron Paul Coins. I worked with Burt and George until I returned to Congress in 1996 and had to end my involvement in the company. Getting to know George was one of the most enjoyable aspects of working in the coin business. You could not ask for a better business partner or friend than George. He never treated anyone with anything less than complete respect. He had a wonderful understated sense of humor, and like our mutual friends Murray Rothbard and Burt Blumert, a Menckenesque appreciation of the absurdities of modern American politics. George also never lost his ability to spot potential young leaders or counsel, assist, and spend time talking to young people interested in advancing liberty. My Legislative Director, for example, benefited from George's advice and friendship.

Mr. Speaker, George Resch's many friends in the liberty movement are deeply saddened by his passing. We are also grateful for all he did to build the liberty movement, and for the example he set for all of us who continue his work of advancing freedom.

DON'T LET FOREIGN AID FALL OFF THE FISCAL CLIFF

HON. HOWARD L. BERMAN

OF CALIFORNIA

Thursday, December 20, 2012

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Speaker, as negotiations to avoid the "fiscal cliff" enter the final stages, it is important that we keep in mind the potentially devastating consequences of across-the-board cuts. This is true not only for domestic programs, but also for foreign assistance,
