

endured the generations. Joe, a graduate of Iona College with a degree in Business Administration, followed suit, earning a CPA before commencing his own real estate career.

As the Managing Partner of the Residential Sales Group at Houlihan & O'Malley Real Estate Services in Bronxville, Joe has had tremendous success. His work has been recognized by the Hudson Gateway Association of Realtors, where he won the Diamond Award for sales over $15,000,000, while also receiving the Westchester County Five Star Real Estate Agent Award on several occasions.

Outside of work, Joe is an active member of St. Joseph's Parish in Bronxville, and the Eastchester Irish American Social Club (EIASC). He has also been on the Board of Trustees at the School of the Holy Child in Rye, and currently resides in Fleetwood with his beautiful wife, Anna Filipkowski, and their three incredible daughters, Kasia, Julia, and Emily.

This year, the EIASC selected Joe to be the Grand Marshal of the annual Eastchester St. Patrick's Day Parade. Joe was shocked and amazed by the nomination, a testament to his humble nature and belief that you work hard not for accolades or adulation, but simply to improve your life and the lives around you.

Joe's selection, however, was no accident. For all he has accomplished and all he has done to improve the community, I can't think of a better honoree to be Eastchester's St. Patrick's Day Parade Grand Marshal. Congratulations to Joe and to the entire Houlihan family on this honor.

HONORING THE 75TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE DOCHIKI CIVIC AND SOCIAL CLUB, INC.

HON. ROBERT C. "BOBBY" SCOTT

OF VIRGINIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, March 13, 2015

Mr. SCOTT of Virginia. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the 75th anniversary of the Dochiki Civic and Social Club in Newport News, Virginia.

Originally known as "Los Amigas," the club was founded on March 15, 1940 by eleven businessmen gathered at the Odessa Barber Shop located at 29th Street and Chestnut Avenue in Newport News. Two years later, the name of the club was changed to "Dochiki," a word of Chinese origin meaning love and friendship. The founders of the club were Homer Hines, Ward Bridgeforth, Virgil Evans, B. C. Anthony, Oliver Hawkins, James Hawkins, Harold Heath, James Jones, Irving Thomas, Robert Whitney, and Howard Ovelest.

The club initially met in members' homes, and in 1948 they relocated to a room above a club member's garage which they nicknamed "Alley Inn." As membership increased, the club leased larger space to accommodate its growing membership, and, on August 7, 1952, the club purchased property at 2705 Chestnut Avenue in Newport News, where it still meets today. In addition to this property, the club has acquired additional property along Chestnut Avenue through donations of club members, including Cornelius Glover, which allowed the club to significantly expand its facilities. Today, the club occupies much of the 2700 block of Chestnut Avenue and includes numerous amenities, such as a 300-seat ballroom, a commercial kitchen, restroom suites, office space, recreational and storage areas, lounges, a 24-seat bar with adjacent kitchen, a locker room, and ample parking, all of which are accessible for individuals with disabilities. The club offers its facilities for use free of charge to many community groups and has also served as the Chestnut Avenue voting precinct for many years.

While Dochiki remains a place for men to socialize, debate politics, and enjoy sports, women have also played an active role in the club for much of its history. In 1960, the Dochiki Wives Auxiliary, Inc. was established to compliment the men's club and support its educational, social, health and civic projects targeted at aiding charities, youth programs, and senior citizens.

Since its founding 75 years ago, the Dochiki Civic and Social Club has been actively involved in the Newport News community providing outstanding civic, social and philanthropic leadership to their fellow citizens. The club has raised tens of thousands of dollars for local charities, youth programs, and senior citizen projects. It has also strongly encouraged all of its members and fellow citizens in the community to be actively engaged in the electoral process.

Today, the club's membership includes businessmen, educators, elected officials, members of the military and other professionals throughout the community, all of whom are devoted to supporting and improving the Newport News community through active civic engagement.

Mr. Speaker, I congratulate the Dochiki Civic and Social Club on their 75th anniversary and I thank them for all that they have done to make Newport News a better place to live, work, and raise a family.

HONORING LELA KASKALLA

HON. MICHELLE LUJAN GRISHAM

OF NEW MEXICO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, March 13, 2015

Ms. MICHELLE LUJAN GRISHAM of New Mexico. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Lela Kaskalla, a passionate woman who has remained steadfast in her commitment to support economic growth and cultural development in her community.

This past Sunday marked a special moment for women across the globe; it was International Women's Day, a time when we come together to remember the progress that women have made and recognize the many firsts that have opened doors for younger generations of female leaders. It made me think of Lela Kaskalla, who in 1996 became the first woman elected governor of Nambé Pueblo.

During her term as governor, Lela worked tirelessly to defeat anti-tribal legislation that proposed a tax on tribal gasoline distribution and went on to become the National Congress of American Indians (NCAI) recording secretary. Lela's presence made an immediate impact, and she was instrumental in NCAI's 54th annual meeting in Albuquerque.

Lela is a natural leader who understands the importance of a strong, united community. In an interview with the Albuquerque Journal she explained: "You don't do much standing alone, but together you can do more." Lela's passion, commitment and ability to build a coalition around a common cause caught Governor Gary Johnson's attention.

In 1998, Governor Johnson appointed Lela to the New Mexico State Fair Commission, where she later became Vice Chair of the State Board. Whether it is through Lela's active engagement with the Nambé Women's Group and the Northern New Mexico Community College Pueblos Institutes, her time as a member of the board of directors for the Indian Pueblo Cultural Center/Indian Pueblos Marketing, Inc., or in her current role with the Branch of Administration for the Bureau of Indian Affairs at the Northern Pueblos Agency, Lela's commitment to tribal communities in New Mexico has never wavered.

Lela's groundbreaking achievement set an example for other women in New Mexico. It reminds me of the progress women before us have made in our nation's history, and in particular, the large, white, rough-hewn statue of Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Susan B. Anthony and Lucretia Mott that sits in the Capitol Building in Washington D.C. It is a striking figure featuring the faces of the three revolutionary women, carefully etched and chiseled into the unfinished block of marble. The unfinished composition represents the unfinished work left with respect to equal rights for women. With the help of leaders like Lela right here in New Mexico we can, and we will, finish that work. Lela's commitment to her community will continue to be an inspiration for future generations of young women.

HONORING HATTIE L. LUCAS

HON. ELIOT L. ENGEL

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, March 13, 2015

Mr. ENGEL. Mr. Speaker, communities thrive when hard work, dedication, and sacrifice are set by voluntary example. Hattie L. Lucas's actions embody these ideals for her community in Co-op City.

Hattie Lucas was born in Bramberg, South Carolina. Her family decided to relocate to New York City when Hattie was six years old, living in both Manhattan and Brooklyn. Eventually, Hattie settled in Co-op City in the Bronx, where she has lived for 40 years.

Hattie began her long career of service in Co-op, serving the NYC Department for the Aging, Co-op City NORC Advisory Board, and the Bronx Preparatory Charter School Parents Association Executive Board. She also has been active in her church, Co-op City Baptist Church, the Dreiser Retirees, and the Co-op City NAACP. Hattie has also been an outspoken supporter of our young people through the Youth and Community Affairs Committees.

Even with her busy schedule, Hattie worked hard to receive a Bachelor's degree from Mercy College, and a Master's of Social Work from Fordham University.

As a professional, Hattie dedicated herself to her work at the City of New York, where she served for 35 years. She was admired for her efforts with the Human Resources Administration, Health and Hospital Corporation, and as Director of Advocacy at the Administration for Children's Services.

As dedicated as she has been to the community, Hattie's true pride is the family she's raised in the Bronx, including one son, six grandchildren, and four great-grandchildren. She also raises her 17-year-old granddaughter, Ashley.

Following Hattie's retirement from the City, she became the Program Director of the Co-op City Grandparent Connection Program. The program, under her leadership, grew into a necessity for her neighborhood; becoming the largest relative caregiver programs in New York City, which includes a myriad of services for deserving grandparents, adolescents, and children.

After retiring in November 2014, Hattie continues to volunteer and use her sharp skills for her Co-op City community. It is an honor to join the JASA Grandparents Connection in celebrating Hattie on her retirement.
