HONORING THE LIFE AND DEDICATED SERVICE OF BRIG. GEN. MARK STOGSDILL, USAF RET.

HON. JEFF MILLER

OF FLORIDA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, September 12, 2016

Mr. MILLER of Florida. Mr. Speaker, it is with profound sadness that I rise today to recognize the life and dedicated service of Brigadier General Thomas "Mark" Stogsdill, USAF retired, who passed away on July 19, 2016. General Stogsdill was a devoted family man, Vietnam veteran, and decorated warrior who proudly served our country as a member of the Armed Forces for over 35 years. I am humbled to rise and pay tribute to his life, his unwavering commitment to service, and his dedication to our Nation's heroes and their loved ones.

General Stogsdill was born in Wellington, Kansas, to Betty (Montgomery) and Dale W. L. Stogsdill on September 8, 1947. His love for our country was strong and evident early on when he commissioned in the United States Air Force in the fall of 1969. He became a master navigator and earned his wings in 1970 at Mather Air Force Base, California. He completed more than 6,500 flying hours including 450 combat hours flown in AC-130 Spectre gunships during the Southeast Asia conflict. After six years on active duty, General Stogsdill joined the Air Force Reserve in 1975.

He assumed command of the 919th Special Operations Wing in 1998, which had recently transitioned from the AC-130A Spectre gunship to the MC-130E Combat Talon and MC-130P Combat Shadow. His leadership and dedication to those under his command helped ensure a successful transition. General Stogsdill was constantly looking for new ways to improve his beloved 919th SOW. It was his innovative thinking and driven persistence that enabled the Total Force Integration between the Air Force Special Operations Command's 5th Special Operations Squadron and 9th SOS at Eglin Air Force Base, and the Air Force Reserve Command's 711th SOS and 8th SOS at Duke Field. Moving reservists to Eglin and active duty members to Duke Field created a long-standing cohesion among the Special Operations Squadrons.

Many will remember General Stogsdill for his courage and resolve following the September 11, 2001, terrorist attacks on our homeland. General Stogsdill led his unit through numerous combat deployments. Extremely successful in their missions, the 919th SOW became known as one of the most highly decorated wings in the United States Air Force Reserve.

Upon his retirement from the Air Force in 2006, General Stogsdill remained dedicated to those who serve and their families along with the community of Northwest Florida. He was an active member of both the Crestview Military Affairs Council and Emerald Coast Military Affairs Council and was a board member of the Fisher House.

During his distinguished career, General Stogsdill was greatly regarded within the Air Force and Northwest Florida communities, and, to many he will be remembered for his devotion to his country and fellow man. To his family and friends, he'll be remembered as a loving family man with a great sense of humor. Without question, General Stogsdill lived a life full of service and has earned our Nation's highest respect and gratitude.

Mr. Speaker, on behalf of the United States Congress, it is a privilege for me to honor Brigadier General Mark Stogsdill's lifetime of service. My wife Vicki and I extend our prayers and sincere condolences to his wife and best friend, Jan; two daughters—Sarah and Emma; and the entire Stogsdill family.

IN TRIBUTE TO ERIC "VON" BOARDLEY

HON. GWEN MOORE

OF WISCONSIN

Monday, September 12, 2016

Ms. MOORE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to recognize Eric Von Boardley, known to everyone by his broadcast name Eric Von. Eric passed away on September 8, 2016, at the age of 58, leaving behind his wife Faithe Colas, daughters Erica Boardley and Paige Colas, a brother and sister, numerous other family members and many friends to mourn his passing.

Eric was a radio and television broadcaster, veteran journalist and community advocate. However, he was most widely recognized and revered as a radio personality. He began his career in his hometown of Washington, D.C., as the business manager for Radio One. He eventually settled in Milwaukee, WI where he remained for over 25 years; beginning at WMCS 1290 AM and ended his radio career at WNOV 860 AM. He created an online magazine in 2014 whose goal was to improve the health of black men, entitled Brain, Brawn & Body. Eric was a frequent panelist on Wisconsin Public Television's "Interchange"; served as co-host of "Black Nouveau" from 1998 to 2000, another show on Public Television; and was a special assignment reporter and co-host of "It's Your Vote". Most recently, Eric was a leader in Precious Lives, a media-led effort to look at the causes and consequences of gun violence on Milwaukee youth. Eric was involved in public events and the live on-the-air community discussions he hosted were widely listened to with huge public participation. He did his research and was informed; guests had to be fully prepared before going on his show. Eric was so much more than a radio host and personality, he was a Milwaukee icon who was completely enmeshed in the issues impacting the community, especially Milwaukee's African-American community.

I have had the great privilege of working with Eric for his entire tenure in Milwaukee; beginning while I served in the Wisconsin State Assembly and extending to my years in Congress. In fact, I was a regular guest on his radio program while in Congress when he hosted his show on 1290 AM. For many years, he served as the Master of Ceremonies at the yearly issue forum I host at the Congressional Black Caucus Annual Legislative Caucus. Eric was also the Master of Ceremonies at my 60th Birthday celebration where he was featured along with Mary Wells of the Supremes.

Mr. Speaker, I am proud to recognize Mr. Eric Von Boardley and proud to have called him friend. He leaves big shoes to fill for the broadcast community in Milwaukee. He was creative and a true trailblazer; I will truly miss this amazing man and his wonderful banter and commentary. The citizens of the Fourth Congressional District and the State of Wisconsin have benefited tremendously from his dedicated service. I am honored for these reasons to pay tribute to Eric "Von" Boardley.

HONORING CHIEF JUDGE LEE F. SATTERFIELD

HON. ELEANOR HOLMES NORTON

OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, September 12, 2016

Ms. NORTON. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to ask my colleagues in the House of Representatives to join me in honoring Chief Judge Lee F. Satterfield, Chief Judge of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia, who will be completing his final term as Chief Judge on September 30, 2016. Chief Judge Satterfield's service has been notable not only for its excellence but for his genuine care for and commitment to serving the people of the District of Columbia.

A proud Washingtonian and graduate of St. John's College High School, Judge Satterfield received a Bachelor of Arts in Economics from the University of Maryland. From an early age, he drew inspiration from his father, who withdrew his application for a judicial position on the Superior Court of the District of Columbia after hearing that his teenage son had been diagnosed with bone cancer. Chief Judge Satterfield always recalled how his father relinquished his own dreams to help his son through a difficult time of his childhood. His father always told him to deal with people as he would want them to deal with him. The judge's commitment and perseverance are evident in the career path he chose. Throughout his 30-year career, Lee Satterfield has played an important role in the administration of justice. After receiving his Juris Doctor from George Washington University National Law School in 1983, he was appointed to serve as an Assistant United States Attorney for the District of Columbia. In that position, he served in the appellate, grand jury, misdemeanor and felony sections of the United States Attorney's Office.

In September 1988, Judge Satterfield joined the law firm of Sachs, Grenebaum and Taylor, before serving as a trial attorney for the Organized Crime and Racketeering Section of the United States Department of Justice. In that section, he prosecuted organized crime and labor racketeering crimes in the federal courts of the District of Columbia, Pennsylvania, and Illinois.

Chief Judge Satterfield first served on the Superior Court bench in November 1992, as an appointee of President Bush. He originally served in the court's Criminal, Civil, Family, and Domestic Violence divisions, and went on to serve as one of the court's original Drug Court judges. During this time, Judge Satterfield was also a member of several national and regional advocacy organizations, such as the National Advisory Committee on Domestic Violence, the District of Columbia Juvenile Detention Alternative Initiative Committee and the Citywide Truancy Task Force. In this capacity, Judge Satterfield authored unprecedented regulations for domestic violence court operations and piloted a Middle School Truancy Court Diversion Program in District of Columbia Public Schools.

In September 2008, Judge Satterfield was inaugurated as Chief Judge of the Superior Court. As Chief Judge, Judge Satterfield oversaw 112 Superior Court judges and launched several effective initiatives. He started programs that ensured the accurate prosecution of self-represented parties, allowed tenants to easily report their landlords for violations, and authorized an increased technological presence in the courtroom. He also streamlined and prioritized the Superior Court's jury selection process, directed a $63 million renovation of the courthouse, and founded a specialized behavioral court that afforded juveniles a chance to reduce or eliminate charges against them if they complied with treatment. Chief Judge Satterfield also, notably, oversaw the implementation of new marriage equality laws in the District and expanded the community court initiative, which resulted in significantly lower recidivism among those who committed misdemeanors.

Among all of his other commitments, for over 20 years, Judge Satterfield was an adjunct professor at the Catholic University Columbus School of Law, where he taught Criminal Trial Practice and Advanced Criminal Procedure. He was also a professional lecturer in the L.L.M. litigation program at George Washington University National Law School for four years.

Chief Judge Satterfield has shown unusual resilience through medical crises later in his life, including a heart transplant and a stroke he endured in 2011. He has consistently been a source of inspiration to his colleagues and the D.C. community.

Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to join me in honoring Chief Judge Lee F. Satterfield for his service to the country, to the District of Columbia and our courts, and to wish him the best for the remainder of his time on the Superior Court of the District of Columbia and for his retirement in February 2017.
