

the power to dispose of and make all needful rules and regulations respecting the territory or other property belonging to the United States. By virtue of this enumerated power, Congress has governing authority over the lands, territories, or other property of the United States—and with this authority Congress is vested with the power to all owners in fee, the ability to sell, lease, dispose, exchange, convey, or simply preserve land. The Supreme Court has described this enumerated grant as one “without limitation” Kleppe v New Mexico, 426 U.S. 529, 542–543 (1976) (“And while the furthest reaches of the power granted by the Property Clause have not been definitely resolved, we have repeatedly observed that the power over the public land thus entrusted to Congress is without limitation.”) Historically, the the federal government transferred ownership of federal property to either private ownership or the states in order to pay off large Revolutionary War debts and to assist with the development of infrastructure.

H.R. 4791.

Congress has the power to enact this legislation pursuant to the following:

American immigration law stems from Congress' power to “establish a uniform Rule of Naturalization” (Article I, Section 8, Clause 4) and to “regulate Commerce with foreign Nations” (Article I, Section 8, Clause 3). Only Congress has the power to “lay and collect Taxes, Duties, Imposts and Excises” (Article I, Section 8, Clause 1), and Article I, Section 9, Clause 1 states that “No Money shall be drawn from the Treasury, but in Consequence of Appropriations made by Law,” explicitly requiring congressional authorization for funds to be spent. Furthermore, it is clearly both “necessary and proper” (Article I, Section 8, Clause 18) that Congress maintain control over funds through appropriations to ensure that the President “take Care that the Laws be faithfully executed” (Article II, Section 3).
