The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. FITZPATRICK) and the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. LYNCH) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Pennsylvania.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. FITZPATRICK. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks and to include extraneous material on the bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Pennsylvania?

There was no objection.

Mr. FITZPATRICK. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, H.R. 5602 amends the section of the United States Code that allows the Treasury Secretary to issue "geographical targeting orders," requiring more detailed information to be reported to the Treasury Department regarding certain types of transactions in a specific area for a limited amount of time.

These geographical targeting orders, or GTOs, allow the Treasury to seek more granular detail on a type of activity in a specific area believed to be used for some form of illicit finance. GTOs in the past have been used to identify trade-based money laundering in counterfeit electronics or garments, or to identify repatriation of drug sales proceeds to drug traffickers.

During a February task force hearing, former U.S. intelligence officer and Treasury special agent cited trade-based money laundering as an area of concern when dealing with illicit financing, stating that such techniques are allowing our adversaries to transfer value to one another right under our noses.

Current language allows the Secretary to seek more detailed reporting of coins, currency, or monetary instruments. But Treasury believes that language does not, in some instances, allow for requiring, or compelling the reporting of, information on some sorts of noncash transactions.

As illicit finance increasingly seeks to elude detection in the legal banking system, a slightly broader of what sorts of transfers of value should be reported would make such GTOs more effective, in Treasury's view.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. LYNCH. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to start by thanking House Financial Services Committee Chairman HENSARLING of Texas and Ranking Member MAXINE WATERS of California for creating the Financial Services Committee's Task Force to Investigate Terrorism Financing, which is a 21-member bipartisan group charged with ensuring that our government is using every tool at its disposal to deprive groups like the Islamic State, Boko Haram, and other terrorist organizations of the funds they rely on to advance their destructive ideology.

I would also like to thank our chairman, the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. FITZPATRICK); our vice chair, the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. PITTENGER); and the rest of my colleagues on the Financial Services Committee for their work to improve our efforts to halt terrorist financing.

The bill I introduced that is before us today expands the Financial Crimes Enforcement Network's ability to collect information under geographic targeting orders. My colleagues on both sides of the aisle, including Mr. PETER KING of New York, Ms. MAXINE WATERS of California, Mr. MICHAEL FITZPATRICK of Pennsylvania, Mr. GREGORY MEEKS of New York, Mr. STEVE STIVERS of Ohio, Mr. BRUCE POLIQUIN of Maine, Mr. ROBERT PITTENGER of North Carolina, Mr. KEITH ELLISON of Minnesota, Mr. ANDY BARR of Kentucky, Mr. BILL FOSTER of Illinois, Mr. BRAD SHERMAN of California, Mr. FRENCH HILL of Arkansas, and Mr. AL GREEN of Texas, joined me in cosponsoring this important legislation.

During congressional delegations to foreign countries to deal with the central banks in other countries and also financial intelligence units from very difficult locations, we made it a priority to meet with regional financial intelligence units to get updates on efforts to combat terrorist financing. Witnessing the important work of the FIUs around the globe demonstrates the need for the United States to continue to support efforts to develop robust legal, regulatory, and operational frameworks to combat terrorist financing and money laundering.

In line with that, it is crucial that we work to strengthen the Financial Crimes Enforcement Network, FinCEN, the U.S. financial intelligence unit. By sharing financial intelligence with law enforcement, private industry, and its foreign counterparts, FinCEN supports financial crime investigations throughout the world. Terrorists' proven ability to move money through innovative means necessitates continued progress in this critical counterterrorism area.

The smart, brave Americans who serve at FinCEN work tirelessly every day to track and stop the flow of proceeds of crime and funds that would otherwise be used to aid terrorism in order to safeguard our financial system from evolving money laundering and national security threats.

FinCEN's critical role is evidenced through its recent support to the Paris and Belgium terrorist attack investigations, where FinCEN's expertise assisted in quickly identifying links between those two attacks. FinCEN published 51 intelligence reports related to the Paris attacks and two intelligence reports related to the Brussels attack. Moreover, FinCEN's financial intelligence played an important role in identifying potential Islamic State foreign terrorist fighters.

With increasingly complex and rapidly evolving terrorist networks, we need to ensure that we provide FinCEN with all of the tools and resources it needs to fight evolving terrorist threats.

The geographic targeting order expansion is a new device in the counterterrorism financing toolkit to catch bad actors that are adapting to our countermeasures. If enacted into law, this legislation will allow us to identify wider networks of terrorist financiers and their enablers. We introduced this legislation because the experts at FinCEN told us they need it to stop bad actors.

So on behalf of Representatives PETER KING, MAXINE WATERS, MIKE FITZPATRICK, GREG MEEKS, STEVE STIVERS, BRUCE POLIQUIN, BOB PITTENGER, KEITH ELLISON, ANDY BARR, BILL FOSTER, BRAD SHERMAN, FRENCH HILL, and AL GREEN, I urge my colleagues to support this important legislation.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. FITZPATRICK. Mr. Speaker, I just want to, again, thank my colleague, Mr. LYNCH, for bringing this bill to the task force's attention and for authoring the bill. The bill is smart. It is targeted. It will help the United States Treasury Department do its job of rooting out those who finance terrorism so that we can all remain safe.

With that, I ask my colleagues to support and adopt H.R. 5602.

I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. FITZPATRICK) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 5602.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds being in the affirmative, the ayes have it.

Mr. AMASH. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX, further proceedings on this motion will be postponed.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. PERRY) and the gentlewoman from New Jersey (Mrs. WATSON COLEMAN) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Pennsylvania.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. PERRY. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks and include any extraneous materials on the bill under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Pennsylvania?

There was no objection.

Mr. PERRY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 4785, the DHS Stop Asset and Vehicle Excess Act, or the DHS SAVE Act, of 2016.

□ 1515

In October of 2015, the DHS inspector general released a scathing report of the Federal Protective Service's management of its vehicle fleet, a report that reads like a laundry list of poor management decisions. The IG found that the Federal Protective Service had more vehicles than officers, and officers were authorized to drive from home to work with government-owned vehicles, the bigger problem being that that was where they got the bulk of the mileage on the vehicles—from home to work and back—and not actually on the job. Additionally, the report stated that the FPS was not in compliance with Federal and departmental requirements, which is why I introduced the DHS SAVE Act.

This bill improves the management of DHS' vehicle fleets by authorizing the Under Secretary for Management at the headquarters level to oversee the components' vehicle fleets; it requires the components to evaluate their fleets on an ongoing basis; it includes penalties for the mismanagement of component fleets; and it requires the DHS to identify alternative methods for the management of component fleets. With the second largest civilian vehicle fleet in the Federal Government, the DHS must absolutely have stricter controls in place at the headquarters level in order to rein in rogue components.

I urge all Members to join me in supporting this important bipartisan legislation.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mrs. WATSON COLEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I rise in support of H.R. 4785, the DHS Stop Asset and Vehicle Excess Act.

H.R. 4785 seeks to bolster how the Department of Homeland Security acquires, manages, and oversees its fleet of, roughly, 53,000 vehicles.

In 2014, the Department's inspector general found that the DHS did not adequately manage or have the enforcement authority to ensure that the composition of its motor vehicle fleet was right-sized. The inspector general observed that each DHS component managed decisionmaking about its own fleet, thereby making it difficult for the DHS fleet manager to provide adequate oversight and ensure compliance with Federal laws, regulations, policies, and directives.

One major issue that the inspector general identified is that, while the DHS fleet manager had decisionmaking authority regarding vehicle leases, it did not oversee and approve the acquisition of component-owned vehicles. Last year, the inspector general amplified concerns about how the DHS manages its vehicle fleet in a report that was focused on operations with the Federal Protective Service. In a review issued in October of 2015, the inspector general found that, among other things, the DHS was unable to oversee policies related to home-to-work vehicle use by FPS employees and that vehicle acquisition decisions by the FPS leadership were ad hoc.

H.R. 4785 seeks to improve the management of the DHS vehicle fleet by strengthening the oversight and management of the Department's fleet by the Under Secretary for Management by requiring the Under Secretary to issue a standardized vehicle allocation methodology for use throughout the Department, to oversee vehicle acquisition and lease decisionmaking, and to ensure components compliance with Federal laws and Department policies that relate to fleet management.

The DHS has the second largest civilian vehicle fleet in the Federal Government at an operating cost of about $462 million. As such, enhancing oversight and management should help the Department to more effectively spend limited taxpayer dollars on what the Department actually needs to carry out its missions.

I would note that H.R. 4785 includes language I authored to ensure that the inspector general's oversight of the DHS' management of its vehicle fleet continues by reviewing the development, use, and submission of vehicle allocation tools and fleet management plans as required. It requires the inspector general to specifically report to Congress on the effectiveness of the submission requirements with respect to cost avoidance, savings realized, and component operations.

As the IG has reported, the DHS' inability to adequately monitor and oversee the Department-wide vehicle fleet limits its ability to detect waste and abuse. Therefore, it is imperative that the DHS continue to work to develop proper processes for fleet management and to ensure that components heads utilize the appropriate procedures to inform efforts at achieving an optimal fleet size.

I commend my colleague from Pennsylvania (Mr. PERRY) for introducing this legislation and for working in a bipartisan fashion to advance it. I urge the passage of H.R. 4785.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. PERRY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Anecdotal, it has been some time since we had the hearing on this subject, but, as I recall, the vast majority of these vehicles in the Federal Protective Service were SUVs, including the ones that travel around Washington, D.C. Of those, the vast majority of them had an average of about 15,000 miles on them, and the fleet was generally turned over about 30 percent at a time almost on an annual basis. I just recall what 15,000 miles is to most people in America. That is a new vehicle, and it is an SUV. Do you really need an SUV? I understand it in parts of, maybe, the Midwest or in mountainous terrain or in swampy terrain or something—but, really, in Washington, D.C.? Folks at the FPS had absolutely no issue with the program, which is what prompted me to further this legislation and offer it.

I thank the gentlewoman from New Jersey for her collaborative help and for her willingness to work with me on this and for her support on this.

Once again, I urge my colleagues to support H.R. 4785.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Ms. JACKSON LEE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of H.R. 4785, the Department of Homeland Security Stop Asset and Vehicle Excess (SAVE) Act.

H.R. 4785 will amend the Homeland Security Act of 2002 and direct the Under Secretary of Management for the Department of Homeland Security to oversee and manage vehicle fleets throughout the department.

As a senior member of the House Committee on Homeland Security and a senior member of the Committee on Homeland Security Subcommittee on Cybersecurity, Infrastructure Protection, and Security Technologies, I believe that authorizing the Under Secretary is important in ensuring that DHS is well-managed.

This bill improves the management of DHS fleets by authorizing the Under Secretary to impose penalties for the mismanagement of fleets and requires the DHS to identify alternative methods for management.

The Under Secretary shall also be responsible for ensuring that components are in compliance with federal law, federal regulations, executive branch guidance, and department policy.

This legislation also requires the DHS Under Secretary to monitor compliance with federal laws and regulations related to the use of government vehicles, develop a methodology to determine optimal fleet size, and approve vehicle leases and acquisitions.

In addition, H.R. 4785 requires DHS agencies to report data on vehicle use quarterly and submit fleet management plans, including cost-benefit analyses, annually to the Under Secretary.

Mr. Speaker, I am pleased that H.R. 4785 includes an amendment I offered during full committee markup that addresses the management of the fleet vehicles used by protective services under the purview of DHS.

The Jackson Lee Amendment requires a GAO report on the status of efforts to achieve capability to collect automated information as required by the bill, and to assess the ability of Under Secretary for Management to identify and address any relevant security concerns regarding vehicles used by protective services.

It is of the utmost importance that DHS have stricter controls in place in order to reign in the cost of fleet management.

H.R. 4785 will provide better management and oversight of the second largest civilian vehicle fleet in the federal government, and thus save millions of taxpayer dollars.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. PERRY) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 4785, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds being in the affirmative) the rules were suspended and the bill, as amended, was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.
