

Butler Township while spearheading various projects and serving as the administrative officer of the township. Prior to this position, Ed spent over 18 years managing the City of Lower Burrell—Where he made a positive and lasting impact that can still be felt today.

Throughout his tenure, Ed has displayed an admirable work ethic and a sincere desire to make a difference. His stewardship of Butler Township has resulted not only in continued prosperity of its businesses and residents, but also transformed the overall professional environment. Local officials have a direct impact on residents through a number of capacities, which Ed realized and cherished. Regardless of the situation or circumstances, Ed always remained resilient and kept the township on the right path—Focusing on the best interests of the people he felt privileged to represent.

Though he made a career for himself in public service, Ed still managed to give back to his community as a volunteer. He has participated on a number of boards and served as a member of numerous committees, continuously striving to make a difference and better the lives of others. Ed participated in the committees that were formed to rewrite and modernize both the First and Third Class Township Codes, which eventually granted cities legal authority to operate in an efficient manner.

In addition, Ed was the Director of the “U-Comp Board” which was developed to assist municipalities and authorities across the state with unemployment solutions and assistance. Ed served on the Little League Board of Directors for nearly 20 years and volunteered as a mentor for individuals who committed first time offenses.

HONORING COLONEL ROGER DONLON

HON. JOHN J. FASO

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, July 18, 2018

Mr. FASO. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize and honor Colonel Roger Donlon for his exemplary service to our nation. A native of Saugerties, New York, Mr. Donlon bravely served our country in the U.S. Army for thirty years. Though his humility, fierce loyalty, and steadfast patriotism, Mr. Donlon has redefined bravery and showed us that our freedoms have not come without many sacrifices.

In May 1964, Mr. Donlon was sent to Vietnam as Captain of the U.S. Army 7th Special Forces Team A-726 assigned to defend Camp Nam Dong. In the early hours of July 6, 1964, a Viet Cong battalion unleashed a surprise attack on Camp Nam Dong. Throughout the five-hour battle, Mr. Donlon remained focused and determined, swiftly repositioning himself around the camp, directing counterfire, giving his men encouragement, and even providing care to the wounded despite his own injuries. His valiant efforts in the face of Viet Cong aggression made Mr. Donlon the first person to receive the Medal of Honor, the military’s highest decoration, in the Vietnam War.

Although Mr. Donlon’s formal service in the U.S. Army has ended, his service to our country continues today. Through his active involvement with the Medal of Honor Foundation’s Medal of Honor Character Development Program, the Westmoreland Scholar Foundation, as well as regularly talking to students and servicemen and women, Mr. Donlon is an important role model for our communities, our military, and the next generation of soldiers.

Mr. Speaker, I ask that my colleagues join me in honoring Colonel Roger Donlon on his lifetime of hard work and dedicated service to the United States.

HONORING CHIEF IRA LEWIS

HON. WALTER B. JONES

OF NORTH CAROLINA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, July 18, 2018

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I am extremely proud to rise today to honor the life and accomplishments of Chief Ira Lewis (USCG, retired) of Harker’s Island, North Carolina, and recognize his turning 100 years old on August 2, 2018. On Saturday, August 18, 2018, the Town of Harker’s Island and the surrounding community will formally honor Chief Lewis as their oldest living citizen. The celebration will include a United States Coast Guard reunion, parade, and recognition ceremony.

Ira Lewis was born on Harker’s Island on August 2, 1918. At the age of 16, he had to make the difficult decision to leave school early in order to support his family. Having four brothers that served either in the Coast Guard or Navy, Ira followed suit and joined the United States Coast Guard in 1938, serving diligently until his retirement on August 1, 1959. From his enlistment through March 1957, Chief Lewis’ assignments included Stations Bellport, Ditch Plans, Forge River, Rockaway Atlantic Beach, Smith’s Point, Napeague and Moriches Lifeboat Station. From March 1957 until his retirement on August 1, 1959, Chief Lewis served as the lighthouse keeper at Montauk Lighthouse, Long Island, N.Y.

After retirement, Chief Lewis returned home to Harker’s Island, North Carolina and began to build his family home with his own hands. This home would house his wife, Maggie; son, Phil; and daughter, Ann. After completing his home, Chief Lewis went to work at the commissary aboard Marine Corps Air Station, Cherry Point for eleven years. Upon completing his career at the commissary, he started a commercial fishing business, where he piloted two vessels, and persevered through that often challenging career for twenty-three years.

As the commercial industry began to decline, Chief Lewis looked for a new path, and decided to give back to his community. He went on to serve with several boards and community improvement teams. Of note was the Carteret County Harbor Committee, which helped secure funding to upgrade harbors for commercial fishers. Chief Lewis also worked with a team to initiate the Veterans’ Memorial Project, which now stands on the grounds of the Harker’s Island Elementary School.

As a result of his years of service, Chief Lewis was awarded the prestigious and exclusive Order of the Long Leaf Pine in 2013 by the Governor of North Carolina. This award is presented to individuals who have a proven record of extraordinary service to the state. That same year, he was honored with a United States Coast Guard Medallion in recognition of his 95th birthday. A revered man, the Core Sound Waterfowl Museum of Harker’s Island also hosts a permanent Life Saving Service and United States Coast Guard display in honor of Chief Lewis’ many contributions during his career.

Chief Lewis has given his life to public service through his career with the United States Coast Guard and his work in the community. In recognition of his long life and commitment to service of our nation and fellow Americans, I wish to recognize Chief Ira Lewis.

RECOGNIZING AND CELEBRATING
INTEL CORPORATION'S 50TH AN-NIVERSARY

HON. ZOE LOFGREN

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, July 18, 2018

Ms. LOFGREN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today, along with my colleagues ANNA ESHOO and RO KHANNA, to recognize and celebrate Intel Corporation's 50th anniversary. Intel who some call the "most important company in the world," has long been an enormously significant company of the global digital economy.

On July 18, 1968—50 years ago today—Intel was founded by semiconductor pioneers Bob Noyce and Gordon Moore. One of their first hires was Andy Grove—a refugee who had immigrated from communist-controlled Hungary at the age of 20. He finished his education in the United States at the City College of New York and the University of California, Berkeley. Intel initially set about making memory chips, but within three years had invented the very first microprocessor. For the next thirty years, Noyce, Moore, and Grove were successive CEOs of Intel, during which the company's innovative, cutting-edge research, and industry leading technology profoundly changed how the world connected, communicated, and did business. Starting with just 12 employees at its founding in 1968, Intel has now grown to be the largest semiconductor manufacturer in the world, with over one hundred thousand employees globally.

Since its founding, Intel products pushed the envelope in terms of what computers and microprocessors could achieve. Today, Intel and its founders are rightfully considered icons in Silicon Valley. Bob Noyce and Gordon Moore's decision to strike out on their own with a plan to pursue superior technology helped ignite the startup culture that still defines Silicon Valley to this day. Bob Noyce earned his nickname as "Mayor of Silicon Valley," and was instrumental in crafting the casual, hands-on work environment that remains the standard in Silicon Valley. He provided counsel to countless younger CEO's, among them Steve Jobs. Gordon Moore is the renowned author of "Moore's Law," the guiding principle of the semiconductor industry, which predicts a doubling of the number of transistors on an integrated circuit every two years. Remarkably, that standard still holds true today. Andy Grove's encouragement of innovation, risk-taking, and open communication drove the company to ever-higher levels of success and competitiveness, and has had a lasting impact on the culture of Silicon Valley.

For the past 50 years, Intel has been an engine of innovation in Silicon Valley. Just last week, the San Jose Mercury News reported that—were the San Francisco Bay Area a nation of its own—it would be the 19th largest economy in the world. The astounding success of Silicon Valley can be attributed to many things, but few companies have played such an integral role in the early molding of Silicon Valley into the worldwide leader of innovation and technology it is today. Bob Noyce, Gordon Moore, and Andy Grove built a legacy and a company to be proud of, and we join in offering our sincere congratulations to the Intel Corporation for their 50 years of innovation and excellence.

IN APPRECIATION OF CALVIN
MITCHELL AND HIS SERVICE TO THE HOMELAND SECURITY COM-MITTEE

HON. BENNIE G. THOMPSON

OF MISSISSIPPI

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, July 18, 2018

Mr. THOMPSON of Mississippi. Mr. Speaker, as the Ranking Member of the Committee on Homeland Security, I rise to express my appreciation of Mr. Calvin Mitchell upon the conclusion of his service to the Committee as a Congressional Fellow.

Since joining the Committee this past November, Mr. Mitchell has made valuable contributions to our legislative and oversight work by sharing his considerable knowledge of federal acquisitions. He has been a reliable resource to our staff on all Department of Homeland Security acquisition-related matters. Additionally, during his tenure on the Committee, Mr. Mitchell was deeply involved in our oversight of the Federal Emergency Management Agency's response to Hurricane Maria which devastated Puerto Rico and the U.S. Virgin Islands. Additionally, he helped develop innovative approaches to promote federal procurement opportunities for small businesses and enhance the participation of Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCU) in federal acquisitions.

Throughout his time on the Committee, Mr. Mitchell has displayed a high degree of professionalism and personal commitment to providing Members of the Committee and staff valuable insight and information. In all of this, Calvin has demonstrated benevolence, vitality, and enthusiasm, which has helped all of us enormously.

We thank Calvin for his service to the Committee and our country and wish him the very best as he returns to the General Services Administration.

THE DEVASTATING IMPACT OF THE TRUMP ADMINISTRATION'S
AUTO TARIFFS ON ALABAMA

HON. TERRI A. SEWELL

OF ALABAMA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, July 18, 2018

Ms. SEWELL of Alabama. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to address the U.S. Department of Commerce Section 232 investigation into automobile imports and the negative impact that it could have on Alabama's economy. In my district, I have both a Hyundai and Mercedes auto manufacturing facility. Not only do they produce cars for the U.S. and foreign markets, but they provide thousands of high paying jobs for my constituents. Last year alone international automakers invested $10.2 billion in the state of Alabama, employing more than 80,000 citizens, and providing good wages and benefits to their employees.

On May 23rd, Secretary Wilbur Ross announced that the Commerce Department would begin an investigation into whether imports of automobiles and auto parts threaten national security. However, before the Department of Commerce could begin their investigation, President Trump delegitimized the entire process by prematurely stating that he wanted a 25 percent tariff on automotive imports. We now know that this investigation is just a justification for this administration's desire to implement 19th century style tariffs on America's allies around the globe.

The Peterson Institute for International Economics predicts that if the new auto tariffs are implemented, the United States will lose 624,000 jobs and production would fall by 4 percent. As Members of Congress, we cannot stand by and allow this administration's destructive trade policies to hurt American workers. As a result, I led a bipartisan letter, co-signed by 149 Members of Congress, to Secretary of Commerce Wilbur Ross expressing concern with the Section 232 investigation into auto imports. The letter highlights the auto industry's importance to working families and the nation's economy, as well as the vast network of international suppliers that the industry relies on to stay competitive.

I strongly urge the Trump Administration to think carefully about the impact of the autos 232 investigation, and the devastating effect tariffs could have on American workers. Rather than endangering American jobs through a trade war with our allies, we need to strengthen our trading relationships to better position U.S. workers in the global marketplace.

HONORING THE BIRTH OF NELSON MANDELA

HON. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, July 18, 2018

Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON of Texas. Mr. Speaker, today marks 100 years since the birth of famed political leader and philanthropist, Nelson Mandela. Often referred to as the "Father of the Nation," Mandela is best known for serving as South Africa's first black head of state and using his administration to dismantle the strict system of apartheid that existed in South Africa from 1948 until the mid-1990s. Since that time, Mandela has become a global icon of democracy and social justice, which is relevant even today as we continue to wrestle with our own issues of divisiveness and racial disparities.

Mandela began his activism at a relatively young age. While studying law at the University of Witwatersrand in Johannesburg, Mandela quickly became involved in a movement fighting against racial discrimination. In 1944, Mandela joined the African National Congress (ANC) and worked to establish its youth league, the ANCYL, in order to help foster new leaders and call for civil disobedience against the new laws that came with apartheid.

By 1961, Mandela co-founded an armed wing of the ANC once the government would not respond to peaceful demands for equality. Mandela was ultimately imprisoned for nearly three decades, where he was subjected to inhumane punishment and other atrocities.
