

The first European settlers to the region arrived in the early 1830s, enticed by rich farmland and the promise of a better life. Originally known as Babcock's Grove, the Village of Lombard was officially incorporated in 1869 and named in honor of Josia Lewis Lombard, a Chicago banker and real estate developer.

Among the early pioneers to the region were Sheldon and Harriet Peck. Sheldon was a folk artist of some renown, but he and Harriet also are remembered for their vigorous activism in support of women's rights, public education, temperance, and most importantly, the anti-slavery movement. The Pecks made their home a stop on the Underground Railroad and assisted numerous runaway slaves on their journey to freedom. To commemorate their courage, the Peck homestead was inducted in August of 2011 into the National Park-sponsored 'Network to Freedom' program.

The women's suffrage movement also enjoyed one of its earliest triumphs thanks to the inspired advocacy of a Lombard attorney. Ellen Martin successfully argued that the Lombard town charter gave women the right to vote, as it conferred voter status on any resident of Lombard who had reached the age of majority. On April 6, 1891, Ellen Martin cast the first vote by a woman in our state, nearly 30 years before the enactment of the 20th Amendment to the United States Constitution.

I believe the original settlers of Lombard would be deeply proud of the village they established and its distinguished history. Madam Speaker, I want to recognize this profoundly American story of courage, determination, and good works, and to acknowledge the vibrant history and future of the Village of Lombard.

HON. TJ COX

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, August 9, 2019

Mr. COX of California. Madam Speaker, I rise today to recognize the leadership of Lucio "Chio" Gonzales and Butter Torres Gonzales. Together, this couple has dedicated over 60 years of community and public service to the city of Delano, California and the Central Valley.

A native of Blythe, California, Mr. Gonzales settled in the Central Valley in the 1950s after spending his early years working as a migrant farmworker in the region's rich agricultural fields. Mr. and Mrs. Gonzales met in the historic farmworker community of Delano and were married on November 24, 1956. The couple took over ownership and operation of the People's Market in 1969, and the two worked together side by side managing the grocery store in Delano for 40 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Gonzales formed a strong bond over the years with the Filipino Community of Delano. The two have served as advocates and allies for the inclusion and representation of Filipinos in Delano civic life. They played an instrumental role in electing Leonard T. Velasco to the Delano City Council in 1972, the first Filipino American to serve on the elected body.

Mr. and Mrs. Gonzales have also worked to ensure the success of Delano's Philippine Weekend community celebration for the last 45 years. They have helped build the event from a small community gathering all those years ago, to a large month-long festival that draws thousands of visitors from across the country. It is fitting that Mr. and Mrs. Gonzales are being honored by the community with the 2019 Mabuhay Award.

Madam Speaker, I urge my colleagues to join me in recognizing Lucio "Chio" Gonzales and Butter Torres Gonzales for their dedication and service to the Filipino Community of Delano, the city of Delano, and the Central Valley.

BOHME FOUNDERS—SMALL BUSINESS PERSONS OF THE YEAR IN UTAH 2019

HON. BEN McADAMS

OF UTAH

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, August 9, 2019

Mr. MCADAMS. Madam Speaker, two sisters who immigrated from Argentina to Utah as children turned hard work and a dream into a remarkable business success story in just 12 years.

In 2007, Vivien and Fernanda Bohme first opened in a temporary space in Fashion Place Mall, to sell their clothing during the approaching holiday season. Their fashion hit turned out to be what they dubbed “sexy, modest” denims and tees. After a strong start, they opened a permanent store in Orem’s University Mall, just ahead of what became the Great Recession. Like many small businesses, they struggled, but they persevered.

Next, they started a location in Salt Lake City’s Gateway Mall, which they remodeled themselves to save money. Vivien stopped work one night to go to the hospital and deliver her baby, but soon returned to finish the space. Profits were used to pay off debt and expand into new areas. “Bootstrap was our middle name,” Vivien told a local news reporter.

Their entrepreneurial success earned them a mention in Inc. magazine’s list of 5,000 fastest-growing companies. They now operate 16 stores in five states and are known for making themselves available to their 225 employees at all levels.

Every Bohme employee is given three paid days off to volunteer at a charity of their choice. In 2018, the company experienced record profits and revenue growth.

Last May, during National Small Business Week the U.S. Small Business Administration honored Vivien and Fernanda jointly as “Utah Small Business Person of the Year.” Their inspiring story is one example of how Utah’s economy and our communities thrive thanks to the drive, determination and dedication shown by diverse individuals willing to chase their dreams here in America.

IN RECOGNITION OF THE 100TH BIRTHDAY OF HAZEL JACOBS

HON. WILLIAM R. KEATING

OF MASSACHUSETTS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, August 9, 2019

Mr. KEATING. Madam Speaker, I rise today in recognition of Hazel Jacobs, a resident of Pocasset, Massachusetts, who turned 100 years young on July 27, 2019.

Hazel was born in Sulphur, Louisiana. In her early twenties she was inspired to join the war effort during World War II, becoming a member of the Woman’s Army Corps. Hazel continued her service in the Pentagon, coding and deciphering transcontinental messages in the Classified Message Center. It was during her time at the Pentagon that Hazel attended a dinner party with a friend—a dinner party that turned out to be a setup. Hazel’s friend introduced her to a soldier named Sal David “Jake” Jacobs. The two hit it off that evening, but they both were soon discharged and went their separate ways.

After some years apart, Hazel went to visit a friend in Boston, and none other than Sal Jacobs was waiting for her on the platform. Together again, Hazel and Sal married, lived in Boston, and had two sons, Allen and Robert. When Sal sadly passed away in 1966, Hazel returned to her life in public service. She worked for the City of Boston for several years, continuing her devotion to her family and community.

Today, Hazel lives in Pocasset, where she enjoys her lifelong artistic hobby of needlepoint and spending cherished time with Allen, Robert, and their families.

Madam Speaker, I am proud to honor Hazel Jacobs on this joyous occasion of her 100th birthday. I ask that my colleagues join me in wishing her many more years of health and happiness.

TRIBUTE TO DR. HUGHES MELTON

HON. H. MORGAN GRIFFITH

OF VIRGINIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, August 9, 2019

Mr. GRIFFITH. Madam Speaker, I pay tribute to Dr. Hughes Melton of Bristol, Virginia, a military veteran, public servant, and compassionate physician who most recently was Commissioner of the Virginia Department of Behavioral Health and Developmental Services. Dr. Melton passed away on August 2, 2019, at the age of 52 following a car wreck.

Dr. Melton was born in Florida but made Virginia his home. After studying at Washington and Lee University and the University of Virginia School of Medicine, he served in the United States Army. Following his time in the service, he opened a practice in Lebanon, Russell County. There, he focused intently on the needs of his rural community and developed a specialty for treating addiction. His medical skill and care for his patients earned him recognition by the American Academy of Family Physicians as the Family Physician of the Year in 2011.

He eventually took on work as an administrator, first as Chief Medical Officer for Mountain States Health Alliance’s Virginia facilities and then as Vice President of Medical Education for its northeast and northwest markets. Among his objectives as an administrator, he recognized the need for more physicians to serve Southwest Virginia. To that end, he helped to start a family medicine residency. During his time at Johnston Memorial Hospital in Abingdon, he won the Servant’s Heart Award and furthered his education with a Master’s in Business Administration from the University of Virginia’s Darden School of Business.

After serving as Deputy Commissioner of the Virginia Health Department, he was appointed Commissioner of the Department of Behavioral Health and Developmental Services in 2018. As Commissioner, Dr. Melton was able to apply his considerable talent and deep empathy to addressing the mental and
