

industry a glide path to self-sufficiency. In other cases, it may mean the provision could be scaled back while still providing a sufficient benefit for the affected industry or taxpayers in exchange for long-term certainty. If there is little or no case for continuing the temporary policy, the task force should consider whether the provision should be eliminated.

There may also be provisions that the task force identifies that should be extended without reform. For these provisions, the task force will have to consider whether a continued short-term extension is sufficient to achieve the policy goals, whether a longer term extension is desirable to force a future Congress to reevaluate the provision down the road, or if permanency is warranted.

This is particularly relevant for the temporary tax policies relating to healthcare. For these, we will ask the task force to focus on whether the tax policy should be extended and for what duration. Of course, we will leave the evaluation of the underlying healthcare policy to the health experts.

In all, the task forces will work to identify reform proposals, like those identified for the short-line railroad tax credit and the biodiesel tax credit last year, so we can end the policy of having Congress always kick the can down the road each time, or, as is the case with 2018, an even worse policy of doing the kicking months after the year has ended.

If Congress is going to use temporary tax policy, taxpayers should be able to count on it for the intended period. Moreover, the intended policy should be clear so that taxpayers do not fall into the trap of relying on a provision simply because Congress has created the expectation that the provisions will be consistently extended even well after the fact.

Taxpayers who have been relying on these provisions have been doing what Congress has wanted them to do. That happens to be free-market investing in certain types of property, hiring new employees, or taking other types of action. We shouldn't punish them for doing what Congress intended with these tax provisions.

Additionally, we will have a sixth task force to examine the related issue of temporary disaster tax relief. It will consider whether we should have a core set of permanent proposals so taxpayers who have suffered through devastating disasters—like with the floods, most recently, in my home State of Iowa—don't have to wait for Congress to act before they can start rebuilding their lives, their small businesses, or their farms.

We have asked the task forces to begin their work right away, and we expect them to complete their efforts by the end of June. This should provide adequate time to identify possible long-term solutions that could be enacted this year to end the annual extenders drama and provide certainty to the taxpayers who utilize those provisions.

We will continue to work with the House of Representatives to resolve the situation with respect to the 2018 temporary policies and to provide relief for all of those affected by the disasters of 2018 and so far this year, but we shouldn't wait any longer to start laying the groundwork to deal with all of these temporary tax policies as permanently as possible.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Washington.

Ms. CANTWELL. Mr. President, I thank the chairman of the Finance Committee, Senator GRASSLEY, for his leadership on these issues. I look forward to working with him on the assigned task forces and to working hard on very important issues that he and I have been working on in the past—from biodiesel, to energy policy, to a variety of things. I thank him for that.

NATIONAL POLICE WEEK

Mr. President, I come to the floor to honor the integrity, dignity, and bravery of the Federal, State, local, and Tribal police officers throughout our country who keep us safe every day.

As officers from around the Nation gather here in Washington, DC, to honor their fallen brothers and sisters and to add their names to the National Law Enforcement Officers Memorial, I take a moment to thank the officers for their service and to pay tribute to those who have died in the line of duty.

In 2018, 159 officers nationwide were killed in the line of duty, and already this year, 41 officers throughout the United States have made the ultimate sacrifice to protect our communities and protect our loved ones. Two of these officers came from my home State of Washington.

Cowlitz County deputy sheriff Justin DeRosier served the people of Washington for 6 years—3 in Cowlitz County and 3 in Whitman County. He was a graduate of Kelso High School and of Washington State University. He loved going to work every day to serve and protect the people of Cowlitz County.

My thoughts and the thoughts and prayers of all Washingtonians are with his wife, Katie, his new daughter, his entire family, and the entire Cowlitz County law enforcement community.

Kittitas County sheriff's deputy Ryan Thompson served the people of Washington for 12 years. He was born in Walla Walla and graduated from Central Washington University. Whether it be with Kittitas County or in the police ranks of Central Washington University, he served his community with honor.

Our thoughts and prayers are with his wife, his three children, his entire family, and the Kittitas County Sheriff's Department as they work through this unbelievable tragedy.

Since 2017, four other officers from Washington State have also lost their lives in the line of duty: Diego Moreno from Kent, deputy sheriff Daniel McCartney from Pierce County, detective Derrick Focht from Kent, and chief of police Randall Scott Gibson from Kalama.

All of these men deserve a great deal of respect and gratitude for their service and for their sacrifice. All of the men and women in law enforcement deserve our respect and gratitude for their commitment and dedication to our country and for embodying the best of our Nation.

I have seen so many of the men and women of law enforcement who have come here to DC this week to participate in this memorial. It is right that we give them recognition, and it is right that we remember the sacrifice law enforcement officers make every single day on our behalf.

I yield the floor.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. PERDUE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. PERDUE. Mr. President, I know of no further debate on the nomination.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is, Will the Senate advise and consent to the Rosen nomination?

Mr. MANCHIN. Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There appears to be a sufficient second.

The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk called the roll.

Mr. THUNE. The following Senator is necessarily absent: the Senator from Tennessee (Mr. ALEXANDER).

Further, if present and voting, the Senator from Tennessee (Mr. ALEXANDER) would have voted "yea."

Mr. DURBIN. I announce that the Senator from New York (Mrs. GILLIBRAND) and the Senator from California (Ms. HARRIS) are necessarily absent.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?
