

Floridians, exemplified by deep community involvement, civility, and practical commonsense decision-making. George is a Republican and is my dear friend.

□ 1045

George got his start working for St. Petersburg Congressman Bill Cramer. Upon Mr. Cramer's retirement, he began an extraordinary 35-year run with Representative Cramer's successor, Congressman Bill Young. George served on his Washington, D.C., staff and was best known throughout the county as Congressman Young's longtime district director.

In 2007, he made the jump to elected office himself, joining the Clearwater City Council. George served on the council for 5 years before rising to the mayor's office in 2012. At city hall, Mayor Cretekos governed Clearwater with unfaltering professionalism, shepherding major initiatives such as the $60-plus million Imagine Clearwater downtown waterfront restoration project. In addition to his mayoral role, he served as the president of the Barrier Islands Government Council and the Pinellas County Mayors' Council.

Throughout his public career, he was first to listen, quick to find compromise, and, foremost, committed to the well-being of his constituents.

I have known George for many, many years. He has always gone out of his way to look out for ways in our community to help out, large and small. He served on the OneBlood Tampa Bay area board, donating over 60 gallons of blood during his lifetime. He continues to be a volunteer courier for the National Bone Marrow Donor Program and remains very involved with the Holy Trinity Greek Orthodox Church in Clearwater, Florida.

He was awarded numerous accolades for his contributions, notably from the Salvation Army as well as the Greater Tampa Bay Area Council of the Boy Scouts of America.

George was an elected official, but he was never afraid to roll up his sleeves and quietly do the hard work behind the scenes. He has volunteered to build homes for Habitat for Humanity. He helped with the Clearwater Jazz Festival. He serves dinners for the needy. He has worked 12-plus-hour shifts for days on end as a Pinellas County poll worker.

Mr. Speaker, please join me, once again, in commemorating the career of Mayor George Cretekos—my fellow Greek, by the way—recognizing his outstanding service and dedication to our community.

He has served admirably, with humility. His leadership and character distinguish him as a gold standard for public service. His good works will be remembered for decades to come.

AMERICAN INNOVATION IS IN THE EXPRESS LANE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentlewoman from North Carolina (Ms. FOXX) for 5 minutes.

Ms. FOXX of North Carolina. Mr. Speaker, American innovation is in the express lane, and we have President Trump and both the private and public sectors to thank.

The progress that has been made to date on viable vaccine candidates is astonishing, and it is a promising sign for the American people.

It is truly a testament to the grit and resilience that resides within this country, and we have come a long way since the beginning of this year.

We are on the cusp of eradicating COVID-19 once and for all, and the livelihoods of the American people will be restored.

Mr. Speaker, never bet against American innovation. It has the power to change the world.

PERSONAL BATTLE WITH COVID-19

Ms. FOXX of North Carolina. Mr. Speaker, recently, my family faced a test that was unlike any we had faced before: fighting COVID-19.

My husband contracted the virus and spent 4 days in Watauga Medical Center, where he received excellent care from doctors and nurses. I tested positive, was totally asymptomatic, but, of course, was quarantined and understand the frustration associated with that. Thankfully, though, I was able to continue my work without interruption, unlike so many others.

We have always been grateful for those in healthcare, treating others at their own risk, but we understand the situation they are facing better than ever.

We are even more grateful for the men and women fighting on the front lines to protect the American people. They do so not out of self-interest but rather through a solemn commitment to protect the sanctity of human life.

We will be forever grateful for their countless sacrifices and will continue to pray for their safety and for God's grace to continue.

To those impeccable men and women serving, from the bottom of my heart, thank you.

DON'T TREAT BIPARTISANSHIP LIKE A FOUR-LETTER WORD

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Texas (Mr. HURD) for 5 minutes.

Mr. HURD of Texas. Mr. Speaker, our Nation is full of opportunity.

How else could a young Black kid from San Antonio, Texas, grow up to come to Congress to represent a majority Latino district and get 17 pieces of legislation signed into law?

My mom always taught me: You are either part of the problem or you are part of the solution. So, I ran for Congress, and over the past 6 years, I have done everything I can to work with my colleagues on both sides of the aisle to get things done.

During my tenure, I have had some legislative lows, like being two signatures short of a successful discharge petition which would have led to a DACA fix being put on the President's desk.

We should never stop fighting for these folks who are part of our American family. People like John Lewis taught us that this kind of work may be long, and it may be hard, but it is righteous.

At the same time, I have had some legislative highs:

Being the lead Republican, with my friend JOSÉ SERRANO, to get the National Museum of the American Latino Act unanimously passed out of this House of Representatives—after 26 years, we finally did it.

Modernizing IT procurement laws so that the government provides better digital-facing services and establishing a national strategy to ensure the U.S. stays a leader in artificial intelligence are going to pay off for years.

I came to Congress to make our Nation safer. When I was first elected, ISIS was our biggest national security threat. As we look at the years ahead, the nature of the threat is distinctly different.

The next generation-defining battle, which has already begun, is against the Chinese Communist Party. China is trying to supplant the United States as the sole superpower in this world by 2049.

Every American should care about this struggle because we face a potential future where Mandarin and the yuan, not English and the dollar, dominate the global economy. The winner of this generation-defining struggle will not just affect our economy but will shape the rest of the century for the entire world.

Within this context of great power competition, I urge my colleagues to confront this national security threat with a simple principle that I learned from my time in the CIA: Be nice with nice guys and tough with tough guys.

Back home, I have learned another simple principle: Show up. I was willing to show up to places others weren't, listen to what folks had to say, and work across the aisle to solve problems. We were able to find solutions to some of the most difficult problems plaguing our constituents by empowering people, not the government.

I could not have done any of this without my staff. From day one, my team and I held the belief that no problem was too small and that no goal was too big. This mentality is how we ended up helping a high-schooler who had an idea of preventing her friends from distracted driving, and it is how we spent a year working on a national strategy for artificial intelligence.

Despite these legislative successes, the thing I will remember most is helping constituents whose names folks don't know battle the Federal bureaucracy. Making a difference in the lives of those folks is something I will cherish forever.

To all of my staff over the years, especially Nancy Pack, thank you for your late hours, thank you for your hard work, thank you for putting up with me, and thank you for your dedication, not just to the folks of the 23rd Congressional District of Texas, but to the entire American family.

It has been a distinct privilege to stand on this floor for the past 6 years to debate issues and represent the people of the 23rd Congressional District. Thank you for putting your faith and trust in me.

Serving as a Member of Congress has not only taught me about this incredible institution and how to legislate; it has proven a long-held belief that way more unites us as a country than divides us.

My final message for my colleagues, as I depart this body: Don't treat bipartisanship like a four-letter word. The only way big things have ever been done in this country is by doing them together.

HONORING RETIRING SENATOR PAT ROBERTS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Kansas (Mr. MARSHALL) for 5 minutes.

Mr. MARSHALL. Mr. Speaker, this month, after 40 years of service as a Member of Congress, our senior Senator of Kansas will be moving his belongings out of his office in the Hart Senate Office Building to a private library.

To best honor him, I would like to share some of his original wit, some of the quips for which he is most famous. Number one:

Take your job seriously, but not yourself.

There are no self-made men or women in public service. It is your family, friends, and staff who have made you what you are.

Another couple of favorites:

You are only as good as your staff.

It isn't the best possible bill; it is the best bill possible.

In reference to an opponent who sometimes disagrees with you, he suggested:

Go smother them with the milk of human kindness.

On his commitment to agriculture, he said:

We live in a troubled and hungry world.

Food security is national security.

When asked about why we need agriculture programs, the Senator once said:

You can't eat a shoe.

On life, when asked about making a mistake, he suggested that:

You go hunker down and take it like a donkey in a hailstorm.

He once said:

Remember, when you roll around with pigs, you both get dirty, but only one of you enjoys it.

On sports, at football games, he often said:

Throw the ball to the tight end. He was wide open.

And, of course, as we all know, the Senator was the unofficial tight end coach for the ever-optimistic and fighting Kansas State Wildcats.

At a townhall, when a rabid constituent gave a forceful opposing opinion, he once replied:

I'll mark you down as undecided.

I loved when he referred to Kansas University as that school over by Baker.

The Senator, once a marine, was always a marine. He was often quoted saying "take the hill" and "semper fi."

But my personal favorite:

There are lots of cactuses in the world, but you don't have to go sit on every one.

When I first meet successful, influential people, people who I have read about or know of, I have often asked myself: Is there any substance to this person? Is there character and integrity? What is truly important to them?

I would like to share, as we have gotten to know Senator ROBERTS and his wife, Franki, I have found that their footprints are larger than their shadows, their hearts are bigger than their words, their love of this country, their love of Kansas, more than any words I can find to describe.

Personally, I cannot imagine any memory of Senator ROBERTS without thinking of his bride, his South Carolina magnolia blossom, as he often called her, whom he married some 51 years ago. She is absolutely his rock, the person I always see standing beside him with adoring eyes. While occasionally she gives him a gentle nudge, everyone knows she always has his back.

Laina and I want to personally thank Senator ROBERTS and Franki, who have embraced us with hospitality and kindness since arriving ourselves in Washington, D.C., some 4 years ago. They have shown us what it is to be an ambassador for our State. From Christmas gatherings at the White House to farm bill hearings in a barn, they have shown what servant leadership looks like, representing our State with dignity and grace.

Senator ROBERTS is the only person in American history to have his portrait in both the House Agriculture Committee and the Senate Agriculture Committee hearing rooms.

Senator ROBERTS has had a hand in writing eight farm bills. He has been on a Federal congressional agriculture committee for 40 years running. Some of his greatest accomplishments include those eight farm bills, and I am going to reference two of them.

The Federal Agriculture Improvement and Reform Act of 1996, which he was the primary author and chairman, this became known as the Freedom to Farm bill.

Chairman ROBERTS has often told the story—I have heard this maybe once or twice—of sitting on the tongue of the wagon of a farmer in Dodge City, Kansas, with all of his farm experts, and his good friend, Leon Torline said: PAT, we all need freedom to farm.

Sure enough, this agriculture policy gave producers the freedom to plant crops based on market indicators, not Federal Government set-aside policies.

Next, I will reference the first farm bill I participated in, the Agriculture Improvement Act of 2018, on which he was the primary author as chairman. Probably most notably, this farm bill received more votes than any farm bill in modern history, with 87 in favor.

I would like to also mention the 2016 National Bioengineered Food Disclosure Act. This Federal legislation created standards for labeling food with ingredients derived from biotechnology.

Then his 2000 Agriculture Risk Protection Act reformed national crop insurance and led to its widespread use today.

Finally, I will mention Senator ROBERTS was always the leader in bio-agro security legislation. As chairman of the Senate Armed Services Subcommittee on Emerging Threats and Capabilities, Senator ROBERTS chaired the first Senate hearing on the threat to our Nation's food supply.

I will close with this. Though Senator ROBERTS will always be known for his wit, being an entertaining speaker, and a great interview, his actions and his accomplishments will always speak louder than any of his words.

He and Franki have been tremendous ambassadors for agriculture, for Kansas, and for America. They have climbed many mountains, and they have planted the flag.

Senator ROBERTS, semper fi. May God richly bless you, Franki, and your family.

HONORING GENERAL ROBERT HINSON

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Nebraska (Mr. BACON) for 5 minutes.

Mr. BACON. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to retired Lieutenant General Robert C. Hinson, U.S. Air Force, the founding executive director of the National Strategic Research Institute at the University of Nebraska, who recently announced his retirement at the end of this year.

General Hinson retires after more than a half century of highly distinguished service supporting the missions of the Department of Defense, commercial industry, and the University of Nebraska.

General Robert Hinson's leadership and dedication to the principles of freedom have been indispensable for America's national security interest. He began his career by enlisting in the United States Air Force. After spending 1 year as an administrative specialist, he received a commission from Officer Training School in 1971.

General Hinson retired after 33 years of exemplary Active-Duty military service. Over the course of his career, he distinguished himself as an outstanding military leader commanding
