Messrs. GRAVES of Louisiana, VALADAO, DUNCAN, Ms. De La CRUZ, Mr. WEBSTER of Florida, Ms. SEWELL, Mses. MATSUI, TITUS, Messrs. HOYER, PENCE, ARRINGTON, and Mrs. RODGERS of Washington changed their vote from “yea” to “nay.”

Mr. EMMER, Ms. PINGREE, Mr. JOYCE of Pennsylvania, Ms. SCHA-KOWSKY, and Mrs. SPARTZ changed their vote from “nay” to “yea.”

So the concurrent resolution was not agreed to.

The result of the vote was announced as above recorded.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

Stated for:

Mr. KILDEE. Mr. Speaker, I was unable to attend votes due to a medical procedure. Had I been present, I would have voted “yea” on rollcall No. 201.

Stated against:

Mr. PETERS. Mr. Speaker, due to a long-standing family obligation, planned well before the congressional schedule was available, I could not be present for votes today. Had I been present, I would have voted “nay” on rollcall No. 201.

AITKEN BIBLE FOR THE AMERICAN PUBLIC

(Mr. OGLES asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. OGLES. Mr. Speaker, today I rise to recognize and honor the bravery of one man, Mr. Robert Aitken, the first printer for the Journals of Congress.

Prior to the American Revolution, all Bibles entering America were imported from Britain.

Shortly after America declared its independence, Mr. Aitken petitioned the Continental Congress to approve a version of the Bible for use in schools.

This text became the first Bible printed in English in North America and the first Bible approved and recommended by the American Congress.

Our Founders keenly understood the importance of religious liberty, and I remain thankful for their integrity in recognizing the Holy Scriptures as a document worth protecting.

Accordingly, I include in the RECORD the Aitken Bible to ensure that this document is made public to the American people throughout history. It can be found at: <https://americanbibleproject.org/bible>.

I commend the excellence of Robert Aitken and his pursuit of virtue in the public square.

DEBT CEILING CONCERNS

(Mr. NICKEL asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. NICKEL. Mr. Speaker, just over a week ago, I spoke on the House floor in support of a bipartisan debt ceiling framework proposed by the Problem Solvers Caucus.

Unfortunately, rather than taking up this framework, or one that can actually get signed into law, the majority advanced a partisan framework that will leave working families, seniors, and veterans behind.

According to the Joint Economic Committee, this partisan proposal could slash education funding for 143,000 students, cut funding for 44,000 veterans, jeopardize 17,000 families living below the poverty level, threaten housing access for 35,000, roll back investments in the Triangle's new, innovative technologies that support good-paying jobs. That is just in North Carolina's 13th Congressional District alone.

I support fiscal responsibility, but this proposal is anything but responsible.

Mr. Speaker, I implore my colleagues on both sides of the aisle to come to the table in good faith because the stakes are too high. Let's have a reasonable and responsible conversation to avoid defaulting on the debt.

MS. RENEE ATKINSON NAMED SOUTH CAROLINA'S TEACHER OF THE YEAR

(Mr. FRY asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. FRY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate Ms. Renee Atkinson of Aynor High School for being named South Carolina's Teacher of the Year.

Aynor High School and the entire Horry County School District are blessed to have such a dedicated public servant who has touched the lives of so many of our children in her 20-year teaching career.

Not only is she exceptional in the classroom, but she devotes time to helping other teachers in Horry County learn and grow.

Our country's future relies on great teachers like Ms. Atkinson who mold and shape the lives of our young adults. I thank her for her passion and service to our community.

Mr. Speaker, we appreciate the mark she has left on her students, our community, and the great State of South Carolina. This is a much-deserved recognition.

Congratulations to Ms. Atkinson.

PROTECT THE FULL FAITH AND CREDIT OF THE UNITED STATES

(Mr. DAVIS of North Carolina asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. DAVIS of North Carolina. Mr. Speaker, America must pay its bills and must not default. Failure to do so would trigger massive job loss, a recession, and rising costs.

Congress must raise the debt limit, as previously done on a bipartisan basis. This cannot and should not fall on the backs of eastern North Carolinians, rural Americans, and the American people.

Mr. Speaker, we must not engage in the politics of division and uncertainty. We must always protect the full faith and credit of the United States.

Mr. Speaker, I hope we can come to a bipartisan resolution to deliver for eastern North Carolina and America.

BUILDING AN ECONOMY THAT WORKS FOR AMERICA

(Ms. BROWNLEY asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. BROWNLEY. Mr. Speaker, House Republicans' ineffectual and outright wrong economic policies are bringing our country to the brink of default and opening the door to crippling financial hardships for America's working families.

In addition to catapulting our Nation into economic instability, the House Republican default on America bill will cause unemployment to double, the stock market to crash, and mortgage and student loan rates to skyrocket.

The Republican budget cuts vital funding to schools, forces communities to lay off thousands of first responders, and increases housing costs.

Rather than discuss the budget in good faith, Republicans are intent on holding the full faith and credit of the United States hostage.

Under the guise of responsible spending, Republicans are destroying our economy and putting the lives and livelihood of millions of Americans at risk in the process.

House Democrats stand united in working for the people and building an economy that lowers costs, creates good-paying jobs, and makes communities safer.

CELEBRATING THE LIFE OF BUD STACK

(Mr. CARTER of Georgia asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. CARTER of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to celebrate the life of Bud Stack, a decorated military veteran, loving father, and servant to his community.

A native of North Carolina, Bud joined the U.S. Navy, where he became a career pilot and officer and graduated from George Washington University. He served in Vietnam as an A-6 pilot based on an aircraft carrier and received many military honors for his service.

After retiring from the U.S. Navy, he worked with Grumman Aeronautics, Saudi Arabia Civil Air Safety, and later returned to Savannah with Gulfstream and FlightSafety International.

Always dedicated to his family, Bud made frequent trips to Brazil, where his sons lived and grew up.

Bud shared his love for Christ with stints in the nursery and as a Sunday school teacher at Bull Street Baptist Church. He also assisted in the college ministry, as well as ministering through meals to the elderly. He participated in several mission trips, with one to Israel being particularly special.

My thoughts and prayers are with his family and friends. Bud will be dearly missed by all who knew him.

VALENTINE'S DAY BANDIT REVEALED

(Ms. PINGREE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. PINGREE. Mr. Speaker, today, I rise to recognize a Mainer whose acts of kindness and love touched the lives of so many, even though most never knew his name until now.

On every Valentine's Day since 1979, Kevin Fahrman of Falmouth, Maine, anonymously papered the greater Portland area with red hearts with the help of family and friends.

Known as the Valentine's Day Bandit, he would blanket the city with hearts large and small in an enduring love letter to Portland, Maine. Every morning on February 14, Portland residents and visitors would wake up and walk the streets of the city covered in reminders of unconditional love handed out without any expectation of recognition or thanks.

The identity of the Valentine's Day Bandit remained a mystery that confounded and delighted Mainers for decades—until now. Kevin passed away unexpectedly this past weekend, and his family decided it was finally time to unmask the man who had left an indelible mark on the city of Portland.

Kevin never wanted recognition during his life, but his family wanted to honor him in his passing.

I thank Kevin's family for sharing him with us for so long and for allowing us the opportunity to say thank you and honor him now in his passing.

May his legacy of love transcend his life and continue to inspire us to show kindness to one another every single day of the year.

PRAISING BOBBI WILSON AND CONDEMNING RACISM

(Mr. PAYNE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. PAYNE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to praise Bobbi Wilson and her attempts to rid our neighborhoods of the invasive spotted lantern flies.

Bobbi Wilson is 9 years old and a young lady from Caldwell, New Jersey. When she learned about the dangers of spotted lantern flies, she made it her mission to collect and kill as many of them as possible.

This invasive species is so dangerous to local plants and trees that ecologists urge residents to squash them on sight.

Unfortunately, a local Republican Party leader called the police on her. He said that he was scared when he saw a young, 9-year-old Black female in his neighborhood.

I am livid that even Black children doing good deeds are subjected to the abject racism that infects this country.

Luckily, Bobbi Wilson was praised locally and nationally for her efforts. She earned recognition during a city council meeting and even from Yale University. No child in America should have to face the police for doing good deeds in their community.

U.N. DELEGATION TO VISIT MINNEAPOLIS TO ADVANCE RACIAL JUSTICE

(Ms. OMAR asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. OMAR. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of the U.N. visit to my Minnesota district to advance racial justice and equality in the context of law enforcement and address the historic oppression of Black and Brown people in our country.

It has been nearly 3 years to the day since George Floyd was murdered at the hands of the Minneapolis Police Department. Sadly, since then, the number of Black people killed by police has only increased—with over 1,000 police shootings a year in 2021 and 2020.

This is a systemic issue that requires systemic solutions. That is why, in the wake of the killing of Daunte Wright and George Floyd, I introduced a package of bills, including the Protecting Our Protesters Act, the National Police Misuse of Force Investigation Board Act, and the Global Police Brutality Resolution. Following the murder of Amir Locke, I introduced the End Deadly No-Knock Warrants Act.

We can and must fight systemic racial injustices in our criminal justice system, from the disproportionate arrest and incarceration rates Black and Brown people face to the marijuana laws that criminalize Black people and remain on the books.

CELEBRATING UNIVERSITY HIGH SCHOOL'S SCIENCE BOWL VICTORY

(Ms. PORTER asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)
