RECOGNIZING STEELY LUMBER COMPANY

(Mr. LUTTRELL asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. LUTTRELL. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize Steely Lumber Company, a local Texas sawmill, which is celebrating their 130th anniversary next month.

Across 6,000 acres in Walker County, Kelvin Steely and his family didn't just build a business. They built a legacy. Every inch of it is rooted in hard work, producing 100 percent southern yellow pine used for decking, housing, and construction.

With the help of their 125 amazing employees, Steely Lumber now makes six times more lumber than they did in the 1990s.

Steely Lumber also prides itself on creating long-term benefit from the land for profitability, wildlife, and conservation.

These efforts have allowed them to grow not only in lumber production but also in related businesses that reduce waste.

Mr. Speaker, for 130 years, Steely Lumber Company has made our community proud. Through generations of grit, integrity, and hard work, they have set the standard for what it means to build something that lasts.

On behalf of the Eighth Congressional District, I congratulate them on their legacy and success, and I thank them for all they have done for our fellow Texans.

CELEBRATING THE LIFE AND MEMORY OF ARJUN KAPUR

(Mr. DELUZIO asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. DELUZIO. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to celebrate the life and memory of an incredible young man in western Pennsylvania, Arjun Kapur, who sadly passed away at the young age of 17.

Arjun was passionate about his love of country and wanted to make our country better. He had a lot of ideas about how to do that, and he acted on those.

He was an intern with my team and was part of Congressman JAMIE RASKIN's Democracy Summer program.

In just 17 years, Arjun did a lot. He attended Sewickley Academy and competed in mock trial, Model UN and EU, and he founded the Sewickley Law Review.

He worked hard, and he was an avid archer. He rode horses. He played guitar. He painted, and he traveled the world with his family.

He planned to attend The George Washington University this fall on a Presidential scholarship, no doubt well-earned.

Arjun's life was cut far too short, and yet still, he made a lasting impact on so many, including me.

He will be dearly missed by his family: his parents, Bobby and Jayne; his brother, Dylan; and so many others in western Pennsylvania and beyond.

Arjun would want all of us to keep up the fight to make this country of ours the shining city on a Hill that he dreamed it could be.

HONORING LIFE AND LEGACY OF TOM MOE

(Ms. MORRISON asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. MORRISON. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the life and legacy of Tom Moe, a distinguished University of Minnesota student-athlete, administrator, and community leader whose contributions left a lasting impact on generations of Minnesotans.

Tom Moe was a standout multisport athlete for the U, excelling in both football and baseball.

Following his time as a student-athlete, Mr. Moe built a successful career in law and business, becoming managing partner at Dorsey & Whitney where he helped grow the firm into one of the largest in the Nation.

He later returned to the U to serve as director of the men's athletic department where he emphasized academic excellence and helped guide the successful merger of the men's and women's programs.

His lifelong dedication to the U extended through his family, with his children and grandchildren continuing his legacy as student-athletes.

Throughout his lifetime, Moe exemplified leadership, integrity, and a deep commitment to his community. He will be remembered both for his accomplishments and for the lasting impact he made on the University of Minnesota and the many lives he touched.

On behalf of the people of Minnesota, I extend my deepest condolences to the Moe family and express our gratitude for Tom Moe's extraordinary life and legacy.

Whereas the House of Representatives recognizes that a clean environment and a strong economy are not mutually exclusive;

Whereas rural communities are a critical source of energy production in the United States, producing over 80 percent of the renewable energy produced in the United States and over 60 percent of the coal-generated electricity produced in the United States;

Whereas the House of Representatives is committed to building a healthier America and advancing policies that bolster health resources for rural communities, incentivize disease research and prevention efforts, and increase access to care across the United States;

Whereas the House of Representatives has passed legislation to provide resources to rural communities devastated by the opioid crisis and to crack down on deadly fentanyl analogues;
