

standard when we discuss funding and support for our servicemembers and for our veterans and their families. America deserves better.

Again, I will conclude by saying we should be taking care of the catastrophically disabled veterans of our country. It has been too long. They have gone without for too long, but we should not be asking other veterans to do that work. We, the American people, should be the ones who foot that bill, not our veterans.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. BOST. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself the balance of my time to close.

Mr. Speaker, I appreciate earlier in the debate the interest rate reduction and refinancing loans. That was all brought up, and I appreciate my colleague's comments on the interest rate reduction and refinancing loans.

I would also like to make it known that the ranking member is correct that he has not had legislation to increase the rates to the level that this bill is intending to do.

However, during the 116th Congress, the ranking member proposed an amendment to the bill on the floor that would have increased the same refinancing piece we are discussing today. Now, although the rate may not be the same, the concept is the same. I note that the small increase reference piece is the only change that we make after the mark-up version of this bill, which has been done, and that is to cover the cost incurred by expanding the VA home loan program to the National Guard and Reserve, which they wanted, by the way.

The ranking member is making this partisan when it does not need to be.

Instead of focusing on the delivery and an increase to the veterans and surviving spouses, those people who the VA really is focused on taking care of, regardless of who authored the bill, the ranking member has chosen to turn it into a political exercise, and I wonder why.

Earlier in a discussion on the committee's future, the Ranking Member TAKANO himself stated: We want our gavel back. That is what it is about. The statement speaks for itself.

This bill is not about committee gavels. This is not about partisan advantage. It is about thousands of American families who have waited long enough for the VA benefits to increase.

My fellow GOP colleagues and I are fighting for them, not the gavel. There are 22 veterans service organizations that agree with this.

Mr. Speaker, you have heard from my colleagues on this side of the aisle. Two of them were veterans. I am a veteran.

Why do we agree with it?

It is because we understand.

We also understand the rules of the House. With no disrespect for the ranking member and the other people who spoke, they never raised their hands. We did. We are asking to help those who need the help, and this is the way to do it today.

In the future, if we want to increase it and we want to work towards a larger amount, which I believe they deserve, both of the groups that are mentioned in this, the families who survived and those who have received the most heinous and most difficult wounds that they have to suffer through the rest of their lives, then we will do that, but this is the bill before us today.

I am going to say this, and I will say it to the Members on the other side of the aisle: If you want to go home on Memorial Day weekend and go out there and stand in the parade and tell everybody how great you are for our veterans and vote "no" on this, you had better think about it. You had better think about it.

I am going to tell the other side; the veterans and their voices here have spoken. They want this bill.

Mr. Speaker, if they choose to vote "no," then they can answer to those veterans.

I am going to stand for them. I am going to stand for them because I am a grandson of a veteran; a son of a veteran; a nephew of a veteran, who had to have a lot of these services that we deal with in the VA; a son who still serves; a grandson who is going to have to receive some of these benefits; and another grandson who is serving at this time. I don't know what his career is going to be in the field, but it is possible that he could have to have this support too.

Is it personal to me?

You bet it is, Mr. Speaker. This is an important bill. It is important to the families who receive these benefits.

Mr. Speaker, I encourage all of my colleagues to vote for it. I encourage all of my colleagues to vote against the motion to recommit.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. All time for debate has expired.

Pursuant to House Resolution 1300, the previous question is ordered on the bill, as amended.

The question is on the engrossment and third reading of the bill.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time, and was read the third time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the passage of the bill.

The question was taken; and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

Mr. TAKANO. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX, further proceedings on this question will be postponed.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRIES

Mr. MCGOVERN. Mr. Speaker, can you explain to the Members of the Chamber what is happening with the Iran War Powers Resolution that was scheduled to be voted on this evening?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman have a parliamentary inquiry?

Mr. MCGOVERN. Yes. That is my parliamentary inquiry. I just want to know what has happened with the Iran War Powers Resolution.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman may consult with his leadership regarding the scheduling.

Mr. MCGOVERN. Mr. Speaker, further parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state his parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. MCGOVERN. Are we not voting on it because the American people are sick and tired of this illegal war that is costing tens of billions of dollars, gas prices are through the roof, and people can't afford their groceries?

Is that why you are pulling it? You guys don't have the guts or the balls to vote on this.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair is prepared to move on to the next question.
