3. Information may be given to a primary care physician when treatment or follow-up of a condition noted during the one-year examination given each patient in the study is indicated.
4. To the Department of Justice or other appropriate Federal agencies in defending claims against the United States when the claim is based upon an individual's mental or physical condition and is alleged to have arisen because of activity of the Public Health Service in connection with such individual.

(Appendix B Departmental Regulations (45 CFR Part 5b), Item 100.) In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: File folders, computer tapes or discs.

Retrievability: Name or identifier code. HEW Uses: Data analysis; program management; DHEW user (Office of the Scientific Director, NICHD) will receive unidentified, aggregate data extracted by the principal investigators from patient records describing the effects of phototherapy on the treatment of hyperbilirubinemia in newborns and the subsequent development of the patient.

Safeguards: The records are maintained in locked cabinets with access limited to authorized personnel (system manager, principal investigator and his staff assigned to the project, project officer, contracting officer). For computerized records, safeguards are established in accordance with Departmental standards and National Bureau of Standards guidelines, e.g. security codes will be used limiting access to authorized personnel.

Retention and disposal: One year to indefinitely, depending on the length of the patient follow-up required to complete the study. Records are shredded, burned or erased.

Notification procedure: To determine if a file exists, write to the System Manager and provide the following information:

1. Approximate dates and place of treatment.
2. Name of the study, if known.
3. An individual who requests notification of or access to a medical record shall, at the time the request is made, designate a responsible representative in writing who will be willing to review the record and inform the subject individual of its contents at the representative's discretion (these notification and access procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR, Part 5b.6), Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47411).

Record access procedures: Same as notification procedures. Requestors should also reasonably specify the record contents being sought.

Contesting record procedures: Write to system manager and reasonably identify the record and specify the information to be contested, in accordance with Department Regulations, Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47411 (45 CFR, Part 5b.7).

Record source categories: Information provided by subjects and clinical investigators.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.

System name: Neural Prosthesis & Biomedical Engineering Studies. HEW/NIH/NINCDS.

Security classification: None.

System location:

NIH
Federal Building, Room 120
7550 Wisconsin Ave.
Bethesda, Md 20014
and at hospitals and medical centers under contract. A list of locations is available upon request from system manager.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Patients and normal volunteers, males and females, participating in clinical studies to determine the feasibility of neural prostheses, and in clinical studies related to the development of instrumentation for diagnosis and treatment of neurological and sensory disorders conducted under contract for the National Institute of Neurological and Communicative Disorders and Stroke.

Categories of records in the system: Clinical research data as related to studies which seek to determine the feasibility of neural prostheses and to develop instrumentation for diagnosis and treatment of neurological and sensory disorders.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 42 U.S.C. 421, 289a, 289c.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

1. Records are made available to approved or collaborating researchers, including DHEW contractors and grantees.

2. Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.
3. To the Department of Justice or other appropriate Federal Agencies in defending claims against the United States when the claim is based upon an individual's mental or physical condition and is alleged, to have arisen because of activity of the Public Health Service in connection with such individual. (Appendix B, Department Regulations (45 CFR Part 5b) Item 100.) In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: They are stored in file folders.

Retrievability: They are retrieved by name. HEW use: research on the feasibility and development of neural prostheses, and research related to the development of instrumentation for the diagnosis and treatment of neurological and sensory disorders. Clinical research data is used by the National Institute of Neurological and Communicative Disorders and Stroke and unidentified aggregate data may be used by other NIH scientists.

Safeguards: The records are maintained in cabinets with access limited to authorized personnel (system manager and members of his staff, project officer, and contracting officer).

Retention and disposal: Years at NIH: indefinitely.

System manager(s) and address:

Director, Fundamental Neurosciences Program
Federal Building, Room 120

Notification procedure: Write To:

Head, Administrative Management Section
Building 31, Room 8A47
9000 Rockville Pike
Bethesda, MD 20014

and ask if a file exists with your name in the Neural Prothesis or Biomedical Engineering Studies. Also, designate a responsible representative who will be willing to review the record and inform you of its contents at his/her discretion. (These notification and access procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR, Part 5b.6) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47411.)

Record access procedures: Same as notification procedures. Requesters should also reasonably specify the record contents being sought.

Contesting record procedures: Write to system manager and reasonably identify the record and specify the information to be contested, in accordance with Department Regulations, Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47411 (45 CFR, Part 5b.7).

Record source categories: Patients, patients' families, hospital records and clinical investigators.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.

System name: Clinical Research Studies dealing with Hearing, Speech and Language Disorders. HEW/NIH/NINCDS.

Security classification: None.

System location:

Federal Building, NIH
7550 Wisconsin Avenue
Bethesda, MD 20014

And at hospitals, medical centers, universities and educational settings under contract. A list of locations is available upon request from the System Manager.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Patients and normal volunteers participating in clinical research studies dealing with hearing, speech and language disorders.

Categories of records in the system: Medical findings, clinical research data, medical and educational histories and research data on the hearing, speech, language and cognition of subjects being tested.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 42 U.S.C. 241, 289a, 289c.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

1. Records are made available to approved or collaborating researchers, including DHEW contractors and grantees.
2. Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

To ask if a file exists with your name in studies of Communication Disorders Program. Please supply the following information:

1. Approximate date and place of examination and/or treatment.
2. Name of the study, if known.
3. A responsible representative who will be willing to review the record and inform you of its contents at his/her discretion. (These notification and access procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR, Part 5b.6) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47411).

Record access procedures: Same as notification procedures. Requests should also reasonably specify the record contents being sought.

Contesting record procedures: Write to system manager and reasonably identify the record and specify the information to be contested, in accordance with Department Regulations, Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47411 (45 CFR Part 5b.7).

Record source categories: Information provided by patients, patients' families, hospital records, school records, and clinical investigators.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.

System name: Environmental Epidemiologic Studies in the Division of Cancer Cause and Prevention, HEW/NIH/NCI.

Security classification: None.

System location:

Landow Building, Room A521
7910 Woodmont Ave.
and
and at hospitals, medical schools, universities, research institutions, commercial organizations, state agencies, and collaborating government agencies. A list of locations and contracts is available upon request from the System Manager.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Patients with cancer and related diseases, (e.g., birth defects), patients with other diseases (e.g., heart disease), normal and other persons (e.g., family members) for the purpose of making comparisons.

Categories of records in the system: Medical records, progress reports, correspondence, epidemiological computerized data and records on biological specimens (e.g., blood, tumors, urine, etc.).

Authority for maintenance of the system: 42 U.S.C. 241, and 282.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

1. Disclosure may be made to DHEW contractors and collaborating researchers and their staff in the conduct of the study and in preparation of scientific reports.
2. Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of the individual.
3. The Department contemplates that it will contract with a private firm for the purpose of collating, analyzing, aggregating or otherwise refining records in this system. Relevant records will be disclosed to such a contractor. The contractor shall be required to maintain Privacy Act safeguards with respect to such records. (Appendix B, Departmental Regulations, 45 CFR Part 5(b), Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47415, Item 9.
4. To the Department of Justice or other appropriate Federal agencies in defending claims against the United States when the claim is based upon an individual's mental or physical condition and is alleged to have arisen because of activities of the Public Health Service in connection with such individual. (Appendix B, Departmental Regulations, 45 CFR Part 5(b), Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47415, Item 100. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: File folders, microfilm, charts, graphs, computer tapes discs and punch cards.

Retrievability: By name and/or code number. HEW uses: to determine (1) factors or substances in the environment which cause cancer; (2) ways in which these factors or substances may cause cancer; and (3) characteristics of persons who may be particularly susceptible to the environmental factor(s) or substance(s) and/or to cancer.

Safeguards: DHEW contractors and collaborating researchers will comply with the provisions of the Privacy Act and with Department Regulations. Subjects participating in a clinical study will be advised that their identity will only be known to those who are involved in conducting the study and that any published findings will be in a format which precludes individual identification. Data will be kept in secured areas with access limited to authorized personnel (system manager, project officer, contracting officer, collaborating researchers, staff, and DHEW contractors). Data transmitted to the NCI will be in a non-personally identifiable form. For computerized records the contractor will comply, where appropriate, with Department standards and National Bureau of Standards Guidelines. For example, access is controlled by the use of security codes known only to authorized personnel.

Retention and disposal: One year to indefinitely depending on the project. Hard copy burned; computer tapes and discs erased.

System name: Research studies dealing with prevention of dental caries, plaque, and gingivitus, HEW/NIH/NIDR.

Security classification: None.

System location:

Westwood Building, Rm 534
5333 Westbard Ave.
Bethesda, Md 20014
and at medical/dental facilities, clinics, etc. under contract or participating in direct operations. A list of locations is available from system manager.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Volunteers and patients participating in research projects involving dental caries, plaque, gingivitus, and agents and/or techniques for their prevention and control.

Categories of records in the system: Individual medical/dental records of participating individuals.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 42 U.S.C. 241, 288a.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

1. Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of the individual.
2. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: File folders, computer tapes, or discs.

Retrievability: Name or identifier code. HEW uses: data analysis; program management. HEW user (National Institute of Dental Research) will receive data extracted by principal investigators from volunteer and patient research records concerning medical/dental measures of dental caries, plaque, gingivitus, and other oral health-related variables.

Safeguards: The records are maintained in locked cabinets with access limited to authorized personnel (system manager, principal investigator, and his staff assigned to the project, project officer, contracting officer). For computerized records, safeguards established in accordance with Departmental standards and National Bureau of Standards guidelines (e.g., security codes) will be used limiting access to authorized personnel.

Retention and disposal: One year to indefinitely, depending on the requirements of the specific study. Records are shredded, burned or erased.

System name: Kidney Transplant Histocompatibility Study(KTHS) DHEW/NIH/NIAID.

Security classification: None.

System location: Records included in this system are located in hospitals, research foundations, and universities under contract, in the Naval Medical Research Institute, and in the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases facilities in Bethesda, Md. (See Appendix I).

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Patients who have received kidney transplants and donors of kidneys transplanted at participating institutions (See Appendix I) during the period January 1, 1974, through December 31, 1976.

Categories of records in the system: Clinical and medical records containing information on clinical examinations, laboratory findings, and related research records. For kidney recipients, a demographic profile is also included.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 42 U.S.C. 241(g) and 289c.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

1. Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of the individual.
2. Disclosure may be made to the Department of Justice or other appropriate Federal agencies in defending claims against the United States when the claim is based upon an individual's mental or physical condition and is alleged to have arisen because of activities of the Public Health Service in connection with such individual (Appendix B, Departmental Regulations (45 CFR Part 5b), Item 100)
3. Clinical research data are made available to authorized individuals and organizations deemed qualified to carry out specific research solely for the purpose of carrying out such research (Appendix B, Departmental Regulations (45 CFR Part 5b) Item 101).
4. Research data may be made available to organizations deemed qualified by the Secretary to carry out quality assessment, medical audits, or utilization review (Appendix B, Departmental Regulations (45 CFR Part 5b) Item 102)
5. Certain infectious diseases are reported to state governments as required by law. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components, or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: File folders, punched cards, and magnetic tapes or discs.

Retrievability: Information is retrieved by name and location of study and by transplant number. HEW Uses: Summaries of the data developed in this study will be used to study the relevance of tissue typing to the outcome of kidney transplants. The influence of organ preservation techniques and various surgical and medical therapies will be similarly studied. As a regular part of these studies, clinical research data are made available to collaborating researchers who are part of the program. These are HEW employees and/or researchers employed by the contractors.

Safeguards: The records are maintained in file cabinets in offices which are locked when not attended, with access limited to authorized personnel (system manager, principal investigator and his staff assigned to the project, project officer, contracting officer). For computerized records, safeguards are established in accordance with Departmental standards and National Bureau of Standards' guidelines, e.g., security codes will be used limiting access to authorized personnel.

Retention and disposal: Records are retained for five years to indefinitely, depending on the requirements of the study. Records are burned or erased.

System name: Epidemiology Studies, National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences.

Security classification: None.

System location:

National Institute of Environmental Health Services
Environmental Biometry Branch
P. O. Box 12233
Research Triangle Park
North Carolina 27709

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Individuals and minors, both male and female, with known or suspected diseases, maladies, chemical or biological contaminations, as well as normal or non-suspect individuals and minors in control or study groups for the purposes of comparison. Individuals included in this system of records will normally have volunteered to participate in the study and voluntarily provided information for inclusion in the system. The participants may be, but are not limited to, patients, workers subject to specific environments; individuals selected because of social, nutritional, physical, genetic and economic conditions and behavioral characteristics; and members of the general population subject to the variety of contaminants present in the environment.

Categories of records in the system: This system consists of a variety of records pertinent to an individuals' current health status, medical history; occupational history and work environments, and selected items of personal data such as smoking habits, family size family medical history and domiciles. Examples of information which may be included in this system, are the individual or minor's name, SSAN, date of birth, weight, height, sex, race, medical history, blood type, laboratory results, examination findings, current and previous medications received, list of employers, descriptions of the work environment, substances or compoundsroutinely handled or exposed to, and a history of current and previous residences.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 42U.S.C. 241.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: A. Disclosure may be made to HEW contractors and collaborating researchers and their staff for the purposes of analyzing data and preparing scientific reports and articles.

B. Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of the individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office, made at the request of the individual, and in the case of a minor, the minor's parent or legal guardian.

C. Other HEW routine uses as published in the Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47415, Appendix B and (45 CFR Part 5B) are listed below:

(2) Referrals may be made of assignments of research investigators and project monitors to specific research projects to the Smithsonian Institution to contribute to the Smithsonian Science Information Exchange, Inc.

(3) In the event the Department deems if desirable or necessary, in determining whether particular records are required to be disclosed under the Freedom of Information Act, disclosure may be made to the Department of Justice for the purpose of obtaining its advice.

(8) Where the appropriate official of the Department, pursuant to the Department's Freedom of Information Regulation determines that it is in the public interest to disclose a record which is otherwise exempt from a mandatory disclosure, disclosure may be made from this system of records.

(9) The Department contemplates that it will contract with a private firm for the purpose of collating, analyzing, aggregating or otherwise refining records in this system. Relevant records will be disclosed to such a contractor. The contractor shall be required to maintain Privacy Act safeguards with respect to such records.

(100) To the Department of Justice or other appropriate Federal agencies in defining claims against the United States when the claim is based upon an individual's mental or physical condition and is alleged to have arisen because of activities of the Public Health Service in connection with such individual. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Information will be stored in one of a combination of the following mediums: file folders, data forms, punch card, magnetic tape discs.

Retrievability: Information will be retrieved by personal identifier such as name or code number. Social security numbers which are supplied on a voluntary basis also are used for retrieval. HEW USES: National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences will use the data collected to determine: factors and substances in the environment which have adverse effects on the health and well being of individuals or groups of individuals; the mechanisms by which these factors and/or substances, by themselves or in combination, produce adverse health effects; individual or group characteristics that render persons susceptible to chemical contamination, disease, or other adverse health effects from agents in the environment, general levels of environmental contamination and body burden on a national, regional, or local basis as well as within general or specific work environments; and the scientific basis for advising regulatory agencies such as the Environmental Protection Agency, the National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health and the Department of Labor on adverse health effects of substances and conditions found in the environment.

Safeguards: Access to the information will be controlled by the Project Officer or his representative at remote locations. Contractors or collaborating researchers will, by formal agreement, comply with the provisions of the Privacy Act and Department regulations. Hard copy data will be maintained in locked file cabinets at the National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences or other remote study locations. Information stored in computer systems will be accessible only through proper sequencing of signal commands and access codes specifically assigned to the Project Officer or contractor in accordance with Departmental standards and National Bureau of Standards guidelines. Subjects directly participating in studies will be advised that their identity will be known only to those persons involved in conducting the study and that any published findings will be in a format which precludes individual identification.

Retention and disposal: The records will be maintained until they are no longer required for the research purpose(s) for which the record was established. The records will be destroyed by shredding, burning, or other appropriate means so as to render them illegible. Computer tapes and discs will be erased.

System manager(s) and address:

Chief, Environmental Biometry Branch
National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences
P. O. Box 12233
North Carolina 27709

Notification procedure: Normally, individuals would know whether a file existed on the basis of their voluntary participation and provision of data. However, individuals may write to the systems manager to determine if a file exists. In writing, they should provide the following data:

a. Complete name at the time of the study.
b. Birthdate.
c. Home address at the time of the study.
d. The facility where the examination was given or information otherwise collected.
e. Date, or approximate dates when information was collected or an examination conducted.
f. Name of study if known.
g. A current name, address and telephone number where they can be reached.
h. The name, address and telephone number of a responsible representative who will be willing to review the record and inform the requester of its contents at his/her discretion, in the event the file contains medical or medically related information. The representative may be a physician, other health professional, or any other responsible individual of the person's choice. These provisions for notification regarding medical records are in accordance with Department Regulation (45 CFR Part 5b.6) published in the Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47411.

Record access procedures: The same information as outlined under notification procedures is needed for access to records except as noted under the provisions for access to medical records. For non-medical records, the request should be addressed to the Systems Manager and accompanied by either a notarized statement that the person is who he/she claims to be or a certification that the individual is who he/she claims to be, and understands that the knowing and willful request for acquisition of a record pertaining to an individual under false pretenses is a criminal offense subject to a 5,000 fine. In addition, for access to medical records, as with notification, the requester must provide the name, address, and telephone number of a responsible representative who will be willing to review the record and inform the requester of its contents at his/her discretion. The representative may be a physician, other health professional, or any other responsible individual of the person's choice. These provisions for access to medical records are in accordance with Department Regulation (45 CFR, Part 5b.6) published in the Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47411.

Contesting record procedures: Write to the Systems Manager and specify the record and the information to be contested.

Record source categories: HEW agencies, institutions under contract to the U.S. Government, universities, medical schools, hospitals, commercial, institutions, labor and trade organizations, State agencies, international agencies, foreign governments, other U.S. Government agencies, patients and normal volunteers, physicians, researchers and other collaborating personnel.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.

09-25-0135

System name: PROPHET System Research Prospectuses.

Security classification: None.

System location:

Bldg. 31, Rm. 6A06, NIH
9000 Rockville Pike
Bethesda, MD 20014

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Applicants for access to the facilities and services of the PROPHET System, a unique national computer resource for the study of chemical/biological interrelationships.

Categories of records in the system:

(a)descriptions of the research objectives of the applicant individuals or groups and their plans for use of the PROPHET system in support of their research
(b)biographical sketches of all key individuals associated with the prospectuses
(c)evaluation documents
(d)related correspondence

Authority for maintenance of the system: 42 U.S.C. 241(a)

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

1. To the Smithsonian Science Information Exchange for dissemination of science information (abstracts of research grants only).
2. To the Cognizant Audit Agency for auditing.
3. To the Department of Justice as required for litigation.
4. To a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.
5. To qualified experts not within the definition of Department employees as prescribed in Department Regulations (45 CFR, Part 5b.2) for opinions as a part of the application review process.
6. To a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the record is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.
7. To individuals and organizations deemed qualified by the PHS to carry out specific research related to the review and award processes of the PHS.
8. To organizations in the private sector with whom PHS has contracted for the purpose of collating, analyzing, aggregating or otherwise refining records in a system. The contractor shall be required to maintain Privacy Act safeguards with respect to such records.
9. To the grantee institution in connection with performance or administration under the terms and conditions of the award. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: File folders.

Retrievability: System is indexed by name of principal individual associated with the prospectus and by program identification number. HEW use: system is used exclusively in support of the Chemical/Biological Information-Handling (CBIH) Program management--i.e., technical merit review of prospectuses, allocation of PROPHET services, analysis and evaluation of ongoing activities, and program planning.

Safeguards: The records are maintained in cabinets in the office of the Program Director, CBIH. Access is limited to authorized personnel, i.e., system manager and members of his staff, review committee members.

Retention and disposal: Number of years held at NIH: 2. Disposal methods include burning or shredding paper materials.

System manager(s) and address:

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Records are maintained for individuals who forward a request for information directly to the Commissioner of the Social Security Administration and for individuals whose requests to members of Congress, the President, etc are forwarded to the Commissioner for response.

Categories of records in the system: Information is maintained in the system solely to aid in the control of correspondence through the various processing steps. Information in the records includes the following: name of individual involved, social security number (if given), name of third party inquirer (if present), 1. type of correspondence (congressional or noncongressional), official to whom inquiry is directed, Congressman's name (if a congressional inquiry), address-to-code (official to whom inquiry is directed, signature code 2. official to whom inquiry is directed, 3. signature code (official whose name will appear on the reply) computer identification code (10 digit code cross referred to the name of the individual), subject matter code, 4. (3 digit code indicating the program area being inquired about), location information (component within the Social Security Administration that received the inquiry and date of receipt), and response information (type and date of Social Security Administration response).

Authority for maintenance of the system: Sections 205(a) and 1631 of the Social Security Act, and Section 413 of the Federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Act (Black Lung).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: The records are maintained on magnetic tape and computer discs.

Retrievability: The system is indexed by both name and by computer identification number, which are cross-referred. It is used to control processing of correspondence within the Social Security Administration Central Office Complex and the Bureau of Hearings and Appeals in Arlington, Virginia, and to provide management information regarding the correspondence process.

Safeguards: Magnetic tape and disc files are protected through standard security measures used for all of the Social Security Administration's computer records. Paper records are subject to the same safeguards as all other information in the Social Security Administration relating to claims and beneficiary records--limited access to social security offices, limited employee access to those that have a need to know; all employees receive instruction in Social Security Administration confidentiality rules in an initial orientation. Guidelines contained in the FIPS PUB 41, Computer Security Guidelines for Implementing the Privacy Act of 1974; FIPS PUB 31, Guidelines for Automatic Data Processing Physical Security and Risk Management, and FIPS PUB 3, ADP System Security Required by the Privacy Act of 1974, were taken into account in development of these safeguards.

Retention and disposal: Records are maintained on-line in the system from the time of control until 13 months after the final response is released. Tape records are then maintained on magnetic tape for an additional 24 months before being erased.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Claimants - Social Security and Black Lung.

Categories of records in the system: When present, this file generally contains: request for hearing, notice of hearing,

'Appearance at Hearing' Card signed by claimant, correspondence to claimantt representative, or other source of evidence, cassette recordings of hearing, HA-503 card (case control device), decision (or dismissal order), and any material otherwise in an Appeals File.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Sections 205, 1631(d)(1), and 1872 of the Social Security Act, as amended, and Section 413(b) of the Federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Act, as amended.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Routine uses for disclosure may involve beneficiaries, representatives, experts, and other participants to a hearing. Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: In file drawers (when inactive).

Retrievability: Name and social security number. In the appeals process, the hearing file was a working file for individual cases rising to the hearing level. It was created and retained in the hearing office until final action by the presiding officer, and then retained in the Bureau of Hearings and Appeals central office until all appellate actions were completed. Preparation of new hearing files was discontinued as of May 30, 1975. Hearing files prepared prior to that date are still used, when available, by bureau employees at all appropriate work stations.

Safeguards: Limited access to Social Security Administration offices; limited employee access to need to know.

Retention and disposal: After all actions are completed, forwarded to Federal Records Center.

System name: Personnel Research and Merit Promotion Test Records HEW SSA OMA.

Security classification: None.

System location:

Office of Human Resources, Office of Management and Administration, SSA
6401 Security Boulevard
Baltimore, Maryland 21235

Categories of individuals covered by the system: SSA employees.

Categories of records in the system: These records include tests, test scores, responses to test items and questionnaires, interview data, and special ratings of employees obtained in test validation and other research.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Title 5, U.S. Code Sec. 3301, Sec. 1303.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Routine use includes the exchange of personnel records between SSA and the Civil Service Commission for personnel research purposes and the use of personal identifier such as employee name to identify employees included in research studies that extend over a period of time (longitudinal studies). These records may be also used as a data source for management information for production of summary descriptive statistics and analytical studies in support of the function for which the records are collected and maintained, or for related personnel management functions or manpower studies; may also be utilized to respond to general requests for statistical information (without personal identification of individuals) under the Freedom of Information Act (See also 45 CFR, Part 5b). In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity, (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components, or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Records are maintained in file folders, on punched cards, microfiche, computer tape, and computer storage.

Retrievability: Personnel Research--Personal Information can be retrieved by name or personal identifier (such as social security number) only for certain research projects such as those that involve longitudinal studies. Confidential and/or protected information such as ratings or test materials will not be disclosed. Research data are collected on a project by project basis and are used for the construction, analysis and validation of written tests, for research on personnel measurement and selection methods and techniques such as performance evaluation or productivity. No personnel decisions are made in the use of these research records. Many data are collected under conditions assuring their confidentiality. Personal information in this system of records is used by the Personnel Measurement and Research Branch in its research activities. Merit Promotion--Merit promotion test records are maintained by major SSA organization component, name and social security number. Merit promotion test information is used as one of the factors weighted under SSA Merit Promotion Programs.

Safeguards: Records are kept in locked files or locked room, and access is limited to research staff.

Retention and disposal: Indefinite.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Records in this system are maintained as paper forms, paper lists, punchcards, magnetic tape, microfilm, and microfiche files.

Retrievability: Records in this system are indexed both by social security number and by name. This information is used for the following purposes: by Social Security Administration as basic control for retained earnings information; by Social Security Administration as a basic control and data source to prevent issuance of multiple social security numbers; as the means to correctly identify incorrectly reported names or social security numbers on earnings reports; for resolution of earnings discrepancy cases; for statistical studies; by Health, Education, and Welfare Audit Agency for auditing benefit payments under social security programs; by Social and Rehabilitation Service (HEW) for locating deserting parents; by National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health for epidemiological research studies required by the Occupational Health and Safety Act of 1974; by Social and Rehabilitation Service (HEW) for administering Cuban refugee assistance payments.

Safeguards: All magnetic tapes are within an enclosure attended by security guards. Anyone entering or leaving this enclosure must have special badges issued only to authorized personnel. All microfilm, microfiche, and paper files are accessible only by authorized personnel who have a need to know. For computerized records, electronically transmitted between Central Office and field office locations (including organizations administering SSA programs under contractual agreements), systems securities are established in accordance with Departmental standards and National Bureau of Standards guidelines. Safeguards include a lock/unlock password system, exclusive use of leased telephone lines, a terminal oriented transaction matrix, and an audit trail.

Retention and disposal: All paper forms are retained until they are filmed or are entered on tape and the accuracy verified, then they are destroyed by shredding. All tape, microfilm, microfiche files are updated periodically. The out-of-date magnetic tapes are erased. The out-of-date microfiche is shredded by the application of heat.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Applicants for supplemental security income.

Categories of records in the system: File contains name of applicant, social security number, amount paid, months for which paid. Some records may also include other data pertaining to eligibility factors such as income, resources, living arrangement, etc.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Section 1631 of the Social Security Act.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual and to State audit agencies pursuant to agreement with HEW for auditing State supplementation payments. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: 5 X 8 card, tally strips or copies of form SSA-8110 (SSI One-Time Payment). Records, except for tally strips which are housed on a large drum type holder, are kept in file cabinets.

Retrievability: By name and social security number. Used in cases where one time payments are made; to insure that duplicate payments are not made.

Safeguards: Access limited to employees on a need to know basis. Area secured at night--doors locked.

Retention and disposal: Retained indefinitely.

Assistant Regional Commissioner, Field Operations
Bureau of Field Operations
(See Appendix F).

Notification procedure: Reconciliation and Analysis Unit Manager (see Appendix F).

Record access procedures: Same as notification procedures. Requesters should also reasonably specify the record contents being sought. (These access procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR, Section 5b.5(a)(2)) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47410.).

Contesting record procedures: Contact the official at the address specified under notification procedures above, and reasonably identify the record and specify the information to be contested. (These procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR, Section 5b.7) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47411.).

Record source categories: Inquirer or third parties.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.

09-60-0089

System name: Claims Folders and Post-Adjudicative Records of Applicants and Beneficiaries for Social Security Administration Benefits HEW SSA OPO.

Security classification: None.

System location: Retirement and Survivors Insurance Claims: Claims folders are maintained primarily in the Program Service Centers and the Division of International Operations (see Appendix A). Disability Insurance Claims Bureau of Disability Insurance (see Appendix B) or Division of International Operations (see Appendix A.) Black Lung Claims Bureau of Disability Insurance (see Appendix B). Supplemental Security Income Claims: Claims for benefits based on age - Program Service centers (see Appendix A). Claims for Disability or Blind Benefits - Bureau of Disability Insurance (see Appendix B). In addition, claims folders are transferred to numerous other locations throughout the Social Security Administration, and infrequently may be temporarily transferred to other Federal agencies (Department of Justice, or Office of the General Counsel, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare). The disability claims folders are also transferred to State agencies for disability and vocational rehabilitation determinations (see Appendix B). The claims folders are generally set up in district or branch offices when claims for benefits are filed. They are retained there until all development has been completed, then are transferred to the appropriate reviewing office as set out above. Supplemental security income claims folders are held in district or branch offices pending establishment of a payment record, or until the appeal period, in a denied claim situation, has expired. The folders are then transferred to the reviewing office. For district or branch office information, see Appendix F.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Claimants for retirement, survivors, disability, health insurance, or black lung benefits or supplemental security income payments.

Categories of records in the system: The claims folder is established when a claim for benefits is filed. It contains applications for benefits, earnings record information established and maintained by the Social Security Administration, documents supporting factors of entitlement and continuing eligibility, payment documentation, and correspondence to and from claimants and/or representatives. It may also contain data collected as a result of inquiries or complaints, and evaluation and measurement study of effectiveness of claims policies. Separate files may be maintained of certain actions which are entered directly into the computer processes. These relate to reports of changes of address, work status, and other post-adjudicative reports.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Payment of benefits is directed by the following sections: Sections 202(a)-(i), 223, 226, 228, and 1611 of the Social Security Act and Section 411 of the Federal Coal Mine and Health Safety Act.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Routine uses for disclosure may be to:

a. Third party contacts by the Social Security Administration (without the consent of the individual to whom the information pertains) in situations where the party to be contacted has, or is expected to have, information relating to the individual's capability to manage his affairs or his eligibility for or entitlement to benefits under the social security program when:

(1) The individual is unable to provide the information being sought (an individual is considered to be unable to provide certain types of information when any of the following conditions exist: individual is incapable or of questionable mental capability, cannot read or write, cannot afford the cost of obtaining the information, a language barrier exists, or the custodian of the information will not, as a matter of policy, provide it to the individual), or

(2) The data are needed to establish the validity of evidence or to verify the accuracy of information presented by the individual, and it concerns one or more of the following: the individual's eligibility to benefits under a social security program; the amount of a benefit payment; any case in which the evidence is being reviewed as a result of suspected abuse or fraud, concern for program integrity, or for quality appraisal, or evaluation and measurement system activities.

b. Third party contacts by the Social Security Administration where necessary to establish or verify information provided by representative payees or payee applicants.

c. A person (or persons) on the rolls when a claim is filed by an individual which is adverse to the person on the rolls; that is:

(1) An award of benefits to a new claimant precludes an award to a prior claimant; or

(2) An award of benefits to a new claimant will reduce the benefit payments to the individual(s) on the rolls, but only for information concerning the facts relevant to the interests of each party in a claim.

d. Employers or former employers for correcting or reconstructing earnings records and for social security tax purposes only.

e. The Treasury Department for collecting social security taxes or as otherwise pertinent to tax and benefit payment provisions of the Social Security Act, (including social security number verification services) and for investigating alleged theft, forgery, or unlawful negotiation of social security checks.

f. The United States Postal Service for investigating alleged forgery or theft of social security checks.

g. The Department of Justice for investigating and prosecuting violations of the Social Security Act to which criminal penalties attach, for representing the Secretary, and for investigating issues of fraud by agency officers or employees, or violation of civil rights.

h. The Department of State and the Veterans' Administration Regional Office Philippines for administering provisions of the Social Security Act in foreign countries through facilities and services of those agencies.

i. The Railroad Retirement Board for administering provisions of the Railroad Retirement and Social Security Act relating to railroad employment and for administering the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act.

j. The Veterans' Administration for the purpose of administering 38 U.S.C. 412 (special payments to certain survivors of uninsured persons who die after 1956 while on active duty, active duty for training, or inactive duty training, or who die after 1956 due to a service-connected disability incurred after September 15, 1940).

k. The Department of Labor for administering provisions of Title IV of the Federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Act.

l. The Bureau of Census when it performs as a collecting agent or data processor for research and statistical purposes directly relating to the Social Security Act.

m. The Department of the Treasury, Office of Tax Analysis, for studying the effects of income taxes and taxes on earnings.

n. The Civil Service Commission for study of the relationship of civil service annuities to minimum social security benefits, and the effects on the trust fund.

o. State social security administrators for administration of agreements pursuant to section 218 (State and local).

p. State Welfare Departments for administering Sections 205(c)(2)(B)(i)(II) and 402(a)(25) of the Social Security Act requiring information about assigned social security numbers for Aid to Families with Dependent Children program purposes only.

q. State Welfare Departments pursuant to agreements with the Social Security Administration for administration of State supplementation payments, for determinations of eligibility for Medicaid per section 1634, and for enrollment of welfare recipients for medical insurance under Section 1843 of the Social Security Act, and for conducting independent quality assurance reviews of supplemental security income recipient records, provided that the agreement for federal administration of the supplementation provides for such an independent review.

r. State Vocational Rehabilitation agency, or State crippled children's service agency (or another agency providing services to disabled children) for consideration of rehabilitation services per U.S.C. and 1382d.

s. State audit agencies for auditing State supplementation payments and Medicaid eligibility considerations.

t. Professional Standards Review Organizations (PSRO) and State Licensing Boards for review of unethical practices or nonprofessional conduct as provided in section 1165.

u. Providers and suppliers of services directly or dealing through fiscal intermediaries or carriers for administration of provisions of title XVIII.

v. Private medical and vocational consultants for use in making preparation for, or evaluating the results of, consultative medical examinations or vocational assessments which they were engaged to perform by the Social Security Administration or a State agency acting in accord with sections 221 or 1633.

w. Energy Resources Development Administration for their study of the long-term effects of low-level radiation exposure.

x. Specified business and other community members and Federal, State, and local agencies for verification of eligibility for benefits under section 1631(e).

y. Institutions or facilities approved for treatment of drug addicts or alcoholics as a condition of the individual's eligibility for payment under section 1611e and as authorized by regulations issued by the Special Action Office for Drug Abuse Prevention.

z. Contractors under contract to the Social Security Administration for the performance of research and statistical activities directly relating to the Social Security Act. (See also 45 CFR, Part 5b). Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

aa. Applicants, claimants, prospective applicants or claimants, other than the data subject, their authorized representatives or representative payees to the extent necessary to pursue social security claims and receive an account of benefit payments.

bb. Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

cc. State audit agencies for verifying proper expenditures of Federal funds by the State in support of the Disability Determination Service (DDS).

dd. The Veterans Administration of information requested for purposes of determining eligibility for or amount of VA benefits or verifying other information with respect thereto. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected. In response to legal process or interrogatories relating to the enforcement of an individual's child support or alimony obligations, as required by sections 459 and 461 of the Social Security Act.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Claims folders are maintained in file cabinets by service area as set out in Location above.

Retrievability: Filed in numerical sequence by social security number. The folders are used throughout the Social Security Administration for the purposes of determining, organizing, and maintaining documents for making normal determination as to eligibility to benefits, the amount of benefits, reviewing continuing eligibility, holding hearings or administrative review processes, and to ensure that proper adjustments are made based on events affecting entitlement. The folder may be referred to State Disability Determination Sections or Vocational Rehabilitation Agencies in disability cases. They may also be used for quality review, evaluation, and measurement studies, and other statistical and research purposes.

The claims folder constitutes the basic record for payments and determinations under the Social Security Act and the Federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Act (black lung). Data are used to produce and maintain the master beneficiary record system (see Systems Notice) which is the automated payment system for retirement, survivors, and disability benefits; the supplemental security income automated system for the aged, blind, and disabled payments; the black lung payment process for black lung claims; and the Health Insurance and Billing and Collection Master record systems for Hospital and supplementary medical (medicare) insurance benefits.

This paper file is controlled by the Social Security Administration Claims Control System while the claim is pending development for adjudication in the district or branch office, and by the Case Control System once the folder has been transferred to the reviewing office (program service centers, Division of International Operations, or the Bureau of Disability Insurance).

Safeguards: Claims folders are protected through limited access to Social Security Administration records, limited employee access to need to know. All employees are instructed in Social Security Administration confidentiality rules as a part of their initial orientation training.

Retention and disposal: The claims folder is initially maintained in the reviewing office. Later, both active and inactive folders are transferred to the Federal Archives and Records Center for storage and inactive (no one is entitled to benefits) folders are scheduled for destruction. The time for retention prior to destruction is 5-year retention - no record of surviving potential beneficiaries; 20-year retention - withdrawn claims, claims disallowed or lump-sum death payments only; and 55-year retention - potential future claimants indicated in the file. When a subsequent claim is filed on the social security number, the claims file is recalled from the Records Center. Similarly, the claims files may be recalled from the Records Center at any time by the Social Security Administration as necessary in the administration of the social security programs.

s. Veterans Administration of information requested for purposes of determining eligibility for or amount of VA benefits or verifying other information with respect thereto.

t. The Department of Labor, for statistical studies of the relationship of private pensions and social security benefits to prior earnings. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected. In response to legal process or interrogatories relating to the enforcement of an individual's child support or alimony obligations, as required by sections 459 and 461 of the Social Security Act.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Magnetic tape, magnetic disk, microform, and paper.

Retrievability: Based on social security number on magnetic tape, microform readers and printers, listings, and online computer terminals. Master beneficiary record data are used by a broad range of social security employees for responding to inquiries, generating followups on beneficiary reporting events, computer exception processing, statistical studies, conversion of benefits, and to generate payment records for Treasury. Data are received from the States regarding health insurance third party premium payment/buy-in information. Data are made available to the Inspector General for use in the performance of his duties.

Safeguards: All magnetic tapes and discs are within an enclosure attended by security guards. Anyone entering or leaving this enclosure must have special badges which are issued only to authorized personnel. All microfilm and paper files are accessible only by authorized personnel with a need to know. For computerized records, electronically transmitted between Central Office and field office locations (including organizations administering SSA programs under contractual agreements), systems securities are established in accordance with Departmental standards and National Bureau of Standards guidelines. Safeguards include a lock/unlock password system, exclusive use of leased telephone lines, a terminal oriented transaction matrix, and an audit trail.

Retention and disposal: Magnetic tape records are used to update the disc files and then are retained up to 90 days; the majority of magnetic tape reels are erased and returned to stock after processing is completed, while the disc files are continuously updated and retained indefinitely. Microfilm is disposed of by shredding after periodic replacement. of a complete file. Paper records are usually destroyed after use, by shredding, except where needed for documentation of the claims folder, in which case they are retained therein indefinitely (see notices for claims folders and post-adjudicative records of applicants and beneficiaries for social security benefits).

Baltimore, Maryland 21235

Categories of individuals covered by the system: A control record is established when a claim(s) for Retirement, Survivors, Disability, and/or Health Insurance Benefits is filed on a particular social security number (SSN). Only one record is established for each social security number even though more than one claim may be filed simultaneously--e.g., claims for the wage earner, his wife, and children on one social security number.

Categories of records in the system: The record content is: social security number and wage earner's name; the date the application was filed--for a few cases it is not included because it is not known when the record is established; the type of action--i.e., Retirement, Survivors, Disability, and/or Health Insurance Benefits; the potential month of entitlement--for monthly benefits this will be the first month for which benefits may be paid; the code for the district office that processed the application; the district office that released the claim to the State agency or program center; the present location of the claim; the date the claim was released by one office and received by another.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Section 205q of the Social Security Act--This provision necessitates a systems control of claims to ensure payment within prescribed time pars.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Magnetic tape and disk for online and offline retrieval.

Retrievability: Indexed by social security number. Controlling claims from the point they originate in a district office until they are finally processed to completion enables the Administration to identify those claims for which inordinate delays occur. Once identified, expeditious processing is initiated. Moreover, the data present in the system is useful in the reconstruction of a claim if the application were to be lost.

Safeguards: Magnetic tape and disk records protected through standard security measures used for all SSA's computer records--limited access to Social Security Administration offices--limited employee access to computer facilities based on specific authorization. For computerized records, electronically transmitted between Central Office and field office locations (including organizations administering SSA programs under contractual agreements), systems securities are established in accordance with Departmental standards and National Bureau of Standards guidelines. Safeguards include a lock/unlock password system, exclusive use of leased telephone lines, a terminal oriented transaction matrix, and an audit trail.

Retention and disposal: The records on the magnetic tapes are purged when the decision of award or disallowance is made on the social security number or at 1 year from the date the record is established, whichever occurs first. The old versions of tapes are erased and returned to stock. The disk files are continuously updated and retained indefinitely.

System manager(s) and address:

Notification procedure: Social Security District Offices and Branch Offices (See Appendix F.)

Record access procedures: Social Security District Offices and Branch Offices. The data in this system are extremely limited since the system is a mechanism used by the agency to control and expedite the processing of claims. An individual may access the information about him in the system by contacting the most convenient social security office, referencing the system, providing name, social security number, approximate date and place claim was filed, type of claim (retirement, survivors, disability, or health insurance), and return address or phone number.

Contesting record procedures: It is maintained that little of the data in this system is contestible; however, should an individual wish to contest it upon review, he may discuss the matter with the social security office staff. If he decides to contest, he should reasonably identify the record and specify the information to be contested. (These procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR.Sec. 5b.7 Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47411).

Record source categories: The data are derived from the information furnished by the claimant on his application and by control data that is received as the claim is sent from the district office to other social security offices.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.

09-60-0092

System name: Automated Control System for Case Folders HEW SSA OPO.

Security classification: None.

System location: Program Service Centers (See Appendix A), Division of International Operations, Bureau of Disability Insurance (See Appendix B).

Categories of individuals covered by the system: All claimants who have a social security number, have filed a claim under Titles II, retirement, survivors, and disability insurance; XVI, supplemental security income, and XVIII, health insurance, of the Social Security Act, and whose claims have been processed through to a decision of award, disallowance, withdrawal, or termination such claims are in the adjudication process for reaching the aforementioned decisions.

Categories of records in the system: A control record by social security number containing data relative to the location of the claim serviced by one of the offices maintaining jurisdictional responsibility. Whether the claims folder is maintained in that office, temporarily or permanently transferred to another office within the Social Security Administration, a State disability, or vocational rehabilitation agency, or for storage in a Federal Records Center.

Authority for maintenance of the system: The payment provisions of the Social Security Act and Federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Act, Sections 202, 223, 226, 228, and 1611 of the Social Security Act and 411 of the Federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Act. The information for this system is derived from the claims filing process and duplicates, in fact, that set out in the Claims Folder Systems Notice.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Magnetic disk storage files and magnetic tape files.

Retrievability: Social security number. Control records containing social security numbers are used by the offices to identify the location of claims as well as enabling them to associate and process incoming material in a timely fashion. The identification and exact location feature assists Social Security Administration in meeting the standards of service to the public in processing and deciding claims for benefits. Data are also used to identify where operating weaknesses are to facilitate corrective action by management. Management data is also derived from the control records to provide statistical data relative to workloads, staffing, and manpower usage.

Safeguards: Disk and tape files protected through standard security measures used for all of Social Security Administration's computer records--limited access to social security offices, and limited employee access to computer facilities based on specific authorizations.

Retention and disposal: The control records are maintained indefinitely. No provisions have been made to dispose of the control records nor is any contemplated as of now. When disk files are rewritten, the old disks are erased and returned to stock.

Record access procedures: The data in this file are extremely limited since the system is a mechanism used by the agency to locate claims folders and claims in process. Information in the system about an individual may be accessed by writing to the appropriate official set out under Notification above, referencing the system, providing name, social security number and related address. (These access procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45CFR, Sec. 5b.5(a)(2) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, Page 47410).

Contesting record procedures: It is maintained that little of the data here is contestible; however, should an individual wish to contest it upon review, he may do so by writing to the official who was initially requested to furnish the information, indicating which data are contested, the reason it is contested, and providing social security number, name and related address. (These procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45CFR,Sec5b.7) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47411).

Record source categories: The control records are developed from recordings of cards containing social security numbers and coded location identifiers. Also, magnetic tape files prepared in Baltimore containing social security numbers and location identifications are provided to the jurisdictional offices to reflect the location of claims wherever located in Social Security Administration offices.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: This system contains records of all retirement, survivors, disability, or health insurance beneficiaries entitled to hospital insurance and/or supplementary medical insurance who are, or have been, subject to direct billing for insurance premiums. This includes individuals who: (1) are currently being billed directly for insurance premiums; (2) are not currently in direct billing status but have either a premium arrearage (or overpayment) of record or were at one time in direct billing status. It does not contain a record of any hospital or supplementary medical insurance enrollee who has had premiums deducted from monthly benefits or paid through a third party payer arrangement continuously from the initial month of entitlement.

Categories of records in the system: It contains identifying information as well as information regarding entitlement to hospital or supplementary medical insurance, current address information, individual records of premium payments, premium adjustments, refunds of excess payments, and current amounts due.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Sections 1840(e) and 1871 of the Social Security Act.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Primary record storage is by magnetic tape and disk. Monthly updates of the record are also provided to the Social Security Administration program service centers, the Division of International Operations, Bureau of Retirement and Survivors Insurance, and the Division of Benefit Payments, Bureau of Disability Insurance in microform records.

Retrievability: Magnetic tape, disk and microform records are indexed by social security number, or claim account number. It is used to: (1) generate monthly and quarterly premium billing notices; (2) record and process premium payments and adjustments; (3) refund excess premium payments; (4) terminate hospital and/or supplementary medical insurance coverage for non-payment of premiums. (5) reverse termination actions. (6) maintain a history of premium payments, adjustments, or other events which alter the billing status, (7) provide up-to-date premium and billing information to Social Security Administration clerical and electronic operations. Information is used to respond to specific beneficiary inquiries or to facilitate the proper adjustment of social security benefit payments. Information is also accessed electronically by social security benefit programs for the proper adjustment of payment amounts.

Safeguards: Magnetic tape, and disk records are protected through standard security measures used for all of Social Security Administration's computer records; microform records are subject to the same rules and security as all other information in Social Security Administration relating to claims and beneficiary records; limited access to Social Security Administration offices; limited employee access to need to know.

Retention and disposal: Microform and tape records can routinely be sent to the Federal Records Center after 2 years. However, since this record is updated monthly, even though the physical records are released to the Federal Records Center, current record will contain full history of all transactions. An inactive tape file, i.e., a file containing the records of cases where the enrollee has died, been in payment status for 2 or more years, etc., is maintained in each program center. This file currently has no disposal schedule.

Lists of overpaid individuals, which are produced by this computer system, are maintained at each district or branch office (see Appendix F).

Categories of individuals covered by the system: All social security beneficiaries who received an overpayment of benefits. All persons holding conserved (accumulated) funds received on behalf of a social security beneficiary. All persons who received social security payments on behalf of a beneficiary and were found to have misused those payments.

Categories of records in the system: Identifying characteristics of each overpayment or instance of misused or conserved funds. Name and address of the individual(s) involved. Recovery efforts made and the date of each action. Planned future actions.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Section 204(a) of the Social Security Act (42 United States Code 404(a)).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity, (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components, or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Magnetic tape, magnetic disk and microfiche in the Bureau of Data Processing. Microfiche in program service centers, the Bureau of Disability Insurance and the Division of International Operations. Paper listings in district and branch offices.

Retrievability: Magnetic tape, magnetic disk and microfiche indexed by social security number. The users of this system are employees of social security district and branch offices, as well as selected personnel of the Social Security Administration Program Service Centers, the Bureau of Disability Insurance, and the Division of International Operations. The data are used to maintain control of overpayments and misused or conserved funds from the time of discovery to the final resolution and for the proper adjustments of payment and refund amounts. Data also used to produce accounting and statistical reports at specified intervals.

Safeguards: Magnetic tape, magnetic disk, microfiche and paper records are protected through standard security measures used for all of the Social Security Administration's records--limited access to Social Security Administration offices--limited access to files to employees on a need to know basis.

Retention and disposal: Magnetic tape files are updated daily and retained for 10 days, after which the tapes are erased and returned to stock. The magnetic tape file produced in the last operation of the month is retained in security storage for a period of 30 days, after which the tapes are erased and returned to storage. The microfiche records are updated monthly, retained for one month after the month they are produced, and then destroyed by application of heat. Paper listings are destroyed when overpayment issue is resolved or updated listing is received. The disk files are continuously updated and retained indefinitely.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: All social security health and supplemental medical insurance enrollees who received incorrect medicare payments or services, who are determined liable, and against whom it is not possible to adjust subsequent Part A (Hospital) or Part B (Supplementary Medical) benefits.

Categories of records in the system: A clerical record of each overpaid medicare benefit, name and address of the individual(s) involved. Recovery efforts made and the date of each action. Planned future actions.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Sections 1814, 1833 and 1870 of the Social Security Act.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components, or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Card stock in metal cabinets.

Retrievability: By social security number. The users of this system are selected employees of both social security program centers as well as Division of International Operations and Bureau of Disability Insurance. The information recorded by the program centers is used to maintain control of medicare overpayments referred to the program center from Bureau of Health Insurance for recovery action. In these cases, Bureau of Health Insurance is unable to recoup the overpayment by adjusting subsequent medicare benefits. The information on the ledger cards is also used to produce periodic accounting, management, and statistical reports.

Safeguards: Records protected through standard security means for all of the Social Security Administration's clerical records, limited access to buildings and limited access by employees on a need to know basis.

Retention and disposal: Retained in the program center for a period of one year after collection efforts terminated and then transferred to the Federal Records Center where they are retained for 3 years, then destroyed.

Copies of individual files are also maintained by the district or branch office at which an inquiry of this nature originates (see Appendix F).

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Social security beneficiaries or persons inquiring on their behalf who are reporting failure to receive a check or checks which they believe are due or are inquiring about other matters which have been determined to be of a critical or sensitive nature (e.g., failure to receive a check).

Categories of records in the system: The name and social security number of the individual and identifying information about the source of the inquiry (e.g., the individual, congressman, authorized representatives), the problem involved, and its subsequent resolution.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Section 205(q) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 405(q)).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Respond to the inquirer; may include contact with the Treasury Department to determine if payment was issued or check returned for cash. Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Control cards and inquiry sheets, copies of letters to individuals or persons writing on their behalf (e.g., congressmen, authorized representatives) advising them of the resolution of their inquiries.

Retrievability: By name and/or social security number.

Safeguards: The control records are subject to the same rules and safeguards as all other information in Social Security Administration relating to claims and beneficiary records--limited access to the Social Security Administration offices, and limited employee access based on need to know.

Retention and disposal: Control cards are maintained for 6 months after which they are destroyed by shredding. Inquiry sheets are destroyed after 1 year by shredding. Letters are maintained for 2 years and then destroyed by shredding, except those originating in the program centers and the Division of International Operations. They are maintained in the claims folder as part of the file. District and branch office copies are destroyed after the investigation has been completed.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Persons suspected of having violated the criminal provisions of the Social Security Act where substantial basis for criminal prosecution exists, and defendants in criminal prosecution cases.

Categories of records in the system: Information maintained in each record includes the identity of the suspect, the nature of the alleged offense, documentation of the investigation into the alleged offense, and the disposition of the case by the Social Security Administration or the United States Attorney.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Sections 206, 208, 221, 222, 1106, 1107, 1631(d)(3), 1632, 1633, 1816, 1842, 1872, 1874, 1876, 1877 of the Social Security Act, and sections 413 and 427 of the Federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Act.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Material in this system of records is routinely used by SSA staff to determine if a violation of the penal provisions of the Social Security Act or related provisions of the United States Code has been committed. If so, such material is used as the basis for referral of the case to the Department of Justice for consideration of prosecution, and is disclosed to that agency. The material is also used to determine the direction of investigation of potential fraud situations, which includes contact with third parties for the purpose of establishing or negating a violation. Some such information is disclosed to officers or employees of State governments as well as the CHAMPUS program for use in conducting investigations of possible fraud or abuse against the title XIS or CHAMPUS programs, as well as States Attorneys in connection with State programs involving the Social Security Administration. Cases involving fraudulent tax returns or forgery of social security checks are disclosed to the Treasury Department. (See also 45 CFR, Part 5B). Disclosure may also be made to: The U.S. Postal Service for investigating alleged forgery or the theft of social security checks. State and local police authorities for the purpose of investigating the loss, theft, and/or forgery of Medicare checks. to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity, (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components, or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Manual system, records maintained in manila folders and stored in filing cabinets.

Retrievability: Records are indexed and retrieved by social security number or by name of the subject of the investigation. The information in this record system pertains to suspected violations and fraud investigations. Cases may move through several levels of the Social Security Administration organization at the district, regional and/or central office locations during the course of documenting a suspected fraudulent situation.

Safeguards: Records are maintained in locked filing cabinets and are accessed only by employees with a job-related need for the information.

Retention and disposal: Records may be retained 3 - 5 years after final disposition of the case. At the end of the retention period, the records are destroyed by shredding. (Supplemental security income cases are scheduled for 5 year retention, all others 3 years; once experience has been gained with the former types of case, it may be possible to reduce it to 3 years.)

Notification procedure: An individual can determine if this system contains a record pertaining to him by requesting such information in writing from the appropriate program center for retirement and survivors cases (see Appendix A); Bureau of Disability Insurance for disability, black lung, or Supplemental Security Income disabled or blind cases; Regional Commisioner Office for Supplemental Security Income (see Appendix D. 2.). The request should include the individual's name and social security number, any social security number on which he has filed for or received benefits, the type of such claim, and current claim status. An individual who requests notification of or access to a medical record shall, at the time the request is made, designate in writing a responsible representative who will be willing to review the record and inform the subject individual of its contents at the representative's discretion. (These notification and access procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR, Section 5b.6) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47411.).

Record access procedures: Per 5 United States Code 522a (k)(2), the records in this system are exempt from access by the individual named in the records. However, access to information which is a matter of public record or documents furnished by the individual will be permitted.

Contesting record procedures: Same.

Record source categories: The information contained in this record system is the result of criminal investigation and may be derived from such sources as the suspect, witnesses, or Social Security Administration employees with a knowledge of the case.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: Exemption of this system to the access provisions is claimed under section k(2) of the Privacy Act inasmuch as these records are investigatory materials compiled for program (law) enforcement in anticipation of a criminal proceeding. (See page 47413 of Federal Register of 10/8/75, Vol. 40, No. 196,Part V).

System name: Litigation Activity File HEW SSA OPO.

Security classification: None.

System location:

Bureau of Retirement and Survivors Insurance
6401 Security Boulevard
Baltimore, Maryland 21235

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Plaintiffs who have filed court actions against the Secretary of HEW.

Categories of records in the system: Basically, the file is used as a reference and control vehicle for analysts involved in litigation activity. The records contain documentation concerning specific litigation cases. For example, documentation includes copies of suggested replies to interrogatories and factual summaries, copies of memoranda to implement court decisions, requests for information from Office of General Counsel and in response to the Office of General Counsel's requests for information, etc. Also included is documentation regarding telephone calls, personal contacts, and letters concerning routine activity on a particular litigation case.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Section 205(g) of the Social Security Act, 42 U.S.C. 402(g).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Information is stored in file cabinets.

Retrievability: File maintained in alphabetical order by plaintiff's last name, and is used by analysts working with the Office of the General Counsel and the reviewing offices for maintaining knowledge of the status of individual court cases.

Safeguards: Limited access based on need to know.

Retention and disposal: Files are maintained until all final actions are completed. After final actions are completed, files are destroyed by shredding.

System manager(s) and address:

Director

Bureau of Retirement and Survivors Insurance
6401 Security Boulevard
Baltimore, Maryland 21235

Notification procedure: Contact the systems manager in writing, and provide name, social security number, return address, and system name.

Record access procedures: Same as notification procedures. Requesters should also reasonably specify the record contents being sought (These access procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR, Section 5b.5(a)(2)) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47410.).

Contesting record procedures: Contact the official at the address specified under notification procedures above, and reasonably identify the record and specify the information to be contested. (These procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR, Section 5b.7) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47411).

Record source categories: Information is recorded from the complaint received from the Office of General Counsel and other correspondence, decisions, recommendations, etc.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.

System name: Court Case Record File HEW SSA OPO.

Security classification: None.

System location:

Bureau of Retirement and Survivors Insurance
6401 Security Boulevard
Baltimore, Maryland 21235

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Plaintiffs who have filed court actions against the Secretary of HEW.

Categories of records in the system: Record contains: Plaintiff's name, wage earner's name, Social Security number, the date the complaint was filed, the issue involved (e.g., plaintiff contesting HEW's date of birth determination), action taken on complaint, cross reference to litigation folder (see systems notice regarding Litigation Activity File).

Authority for maintenance of the system: Section 205(g) of the Social Security Act, 42 U.S.C. 402(g).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Cards are stored in a file cabinet.

Retrievability: They are filed alphabetically by plaintiff's last name. Information from the court case record cards are used for the statistical portion of the Civil Litigation Report sent to the Commissioner of Social Security Administration Also, these cards are used as reference cards and locator cards to find the litigation material.

Safeguards: Limited access to Social Security Administration offices, limited employee access based on need to know.

Retention and disposal: Never destroyed. Closed cases after litigation report is completed are placed in boxes in alphabetical order.

System manager(s) and address:

Director
Bureau of Retirement and Survivors Insurance

Notification procedure: Contact the systems manager in writing and provide name, social security number, return address, and systems name.

Record access procedures: Same as notification procedures. Requesters should also reasonably specify the record contents being sought (These access procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR, Section 5b.5(a)(2)) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47410.).

Contesting record procedures: Contact the official at the address specified under notification procedures above, and reasonably identify the record and specify the information to be contested. (These procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR, Section 5b.7) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47411).

Record source categories: Information is recorded from the complaint received from the Office of the General Counsel and other correspondence, decisions, recommendations, etc.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.

09-60-0102

System name: Fee Ledger System for Representatives HEW SSA OPO

Security classification: None.

System location: Records pertaining to representatives in retirement, survivors, disability, health insurance, supplemental security income and black lung benefit claims are maintained at the following locations:

Bureau of Retirement and Survivors Insurance
6401 Security Boulevard
Baltimore, Maryland 21235
(For all claims involving retirement, survivors, and supplemental security for the aged)

Bureau of Disability Insurance
6401 Security Boulevard
Baltimore, Maryland 21241
(For all claims involving disability benefits, black lung and supplemental security income for the blind and disabled)

Bureau of Hearings and Appeals
801 North Randolph Street
Arlington, Virginia 22203
(For all claims that involve a hearing for disability, retirement, survivors benefits, health insurance, black lung, or supplemental security income)

Bureau of Supplemental Security Income
6401 Security Boulevard
Baltimore, Maryland 21235
(For claims involving only supplemental security income benefits)

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Attorneys and non-attorney representatives of claimants before the Social Security Administration.

Categories of records in the system: Name and address of representative, firm affiliation, if any, claimant's social security number, fee requested by representative, amount of fee approved by the Social Security Administration, amount withheld from claimant's past-due benefits, date the fee was approved, type of services rendered, reviewing and approving offices.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Sections 206 and 1631(d) of the Social Security Act, and section 413(b) of the Federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Act of 1969.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: The central reference files are maintained by the Bureau of Retirement and Survivors Insurance on ledger cards, and kept in metal file cabinets. In addition, when the ledger cards are destroyed, an alphabetic listing, which is manually maintained, is prepared to indicate that the representative has appeared before the Social Security Administration in the past. The Bureaus of Disability Insurance, Health Insurance, and Supplemental Security income may maintain carbon copies of the Petition to obtain approval of a fee for representing a social security claimant. These copies, when maintained, may include a copy of the Social Security Administration's authorization to charge and receive a fee, and are filed in metal filing cabinets; in the case of the Bureau of Hearings and Appeals, they are maintained in file books.

Retrievability: Records are generally indexed alphabetically by name of the representative. If the representative is an attorney and no specific name is furnished the record is filed according to the name of the firm. The Bureau of Hearings and Appeals, however, maintains its file based on social security number of the claimant.

Safeguards: Normal security measures are imposed. Only those Social Security Administration employees with a job-related need for the information can have access to the records in this system.

Retention and disposal: Ledger records are retained for a period of 5 years from the date of the latest entry. If no entries are recorded within this period the record is destroyed. When the ledger is destroyed, the name, address of the representative, and at least one social security number of an involved claim, is recorded and indexed for indefinite retention. Copies of the representatives petition are maintained in the Bureau of Retirement and Survivors Insurance until pertinent data are transferred to the ledger cards; then the copies are destroyed by shredding. Records in the Bureaus of Disability Insurance, Supplemental Security Income, and Hearings and Appeals are maintained indefinitely.

System manager(s) and address: See location for appropriate manager to contact.

System name: Supplemental Security Income Record HEW SSA OPO.

Security classification: None.

System location:

Bureau of Data Processing
6401 Security Boulevard
Baltimore, Maryland 21235
District Offices, Branch Offices and BSSI Regional Offices
(See Appendices D and F)

Categories of individuals covered by the system: This file contains a record for each aged, blind, or disabled individual who has applied for supplemental security income payments.

Categories of records in the system: This file contains data regarding eligibility, citizenship, residence, eligibility for other benefits, alcoholism or drug addiction data (if applicable), income data, resources, payment amounts and living arrangements for all persons who have applied for SSI payments.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Section 1631 of Title XVI of the Social Security Act.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Information from this file is used by the Treasury Department to prepare supplemental security income benefit checks, and by the States to establish the minimum income level for computation of State supplement. Minimum information necessary to identify SSI applicants and recipients to the following Federal and State agencies for their use in preparing information for verification of eligibility for benefits under section 1631(e): Bureau of Indian Affairs; Civil Service Commission; Department of Agriculture; Department of Labor; Immigration and Naturalization Service; Internal Revenue Service; Railroad Retirement Board; State Pension Funds; State Welfare Offices; State Workmen's Compensation; Department of Defense; United States Coast Guard; and, Veterans Administration. Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual; State Vocational Rehabilitation agency, or State crippled children's agency (or another agency providing services to disabled children) for the consideration of rehabilitation services per 42 U.S.C. 422 and 1382d; Contractors under contract to the Social Security Administration or under contract to another agency with funds provided by the Social Security Administration for the performance of research and statistical activities directly relating to the Social Security Act; State audit agencies for auditing State supplementation payments and Medicaid eligibility consideration. The Veterans Administration of information requested for purposes of determining eligibility for or amount of VA benefits or verifying other information with respect thereto; the Railroad Retirement Board for administering the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected. In response to legal process or interrogatories relating to the enforcement of an individual's child support or alimony obligations, as required by sections 459 and 461 of the Social Security Act.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Magnetic Tape, microfiche.

Retrievability: Magnetic tape and Microfiche indexed by social security number. Supplemental security income records begin in the social security district office where an individual files an application for supplemental security income payments. This application contains data which may be used to prove the identity of the applicant, determine his eligibility for SSI payments and in cases where eligibility is determined, to compute the amount of the payment. Information from the application in addition to data used internally to control and process SSI cases is used to create the Supplemental Security Income Record. The Supplemental Security Income Record is also used as a means of providing a historical record of all activity on a particular individual. In addition, statistical data is derived from the Supplemental Security Income Record for actuarial and management information purposes.

Safeguards: The magnetic tape records are protected through standard security measures used for all computer records housed within the Social Security Administration. The microfiche are stored in a locked rack, kept in a locked room, and only personnel having a need for information have access. For computerized records, electronically transmitted between Central Office and field office locations (including organizations administering SSA programs under contractual agreements), systems securities are established in accordance with Departmental standards and National Bureau of Standards guidelines. Safeguards include a lock/unlock password system, exclusive use of leased telephone lines, a terminal oriented transaction matrix, and an audit trail.

Retention and disposal: Original input transaction tapes received which contain initial claims and posteligibility actions are retained indefinitely although these are processed as received and incorporated into processing tapes which are updated to the master supplemental security income tape file on a monthly basis.

System manager(s) and address:

Director, Bureau of Supplemental Security Income
6401 Security Boulevard

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Magnetic disc.

Retrievability: Magnetic disc indexed by social security number. The online claims data are used to expeditiously provide supplemental security income data, upon request, to social security field offices around the nation.

Safeguards: The magnetic disc records are protected through standard security measures used for all computer records housed within the Social Security Administration--limited employee access to specific authorization by individual. For computerized records, electronically transmitted between Central Office and field office locations (including organizations administering SSA programs under contractual agreements), systems securities are established in accordance with Departmental standards and National Bureau of Standards guidelines. Safeguards include a lock/unlock password system, exclusive use of leased telephone lines, a terminal oriented transaction matrix, and an audit trail.

Retention and disposal: The online claims data are retained for an indefinite period.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: This file contains a record for each aged, blind, or disabled individual who has applied for supplemental security income payments.

Categories of records in the system: The Cases Currently In Process File contains eligibility, alcoholism and drug addiction data (if applicable), case folder location and appellate decisions.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Sections 1602, 1611, 1615, 1616 and 1631 of Title XVI of the Social Security Act.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Magnetic tape.

Retrievability: Magnetic tape records are indexed by social security number. The Cases Currently In Process file is created from the supplemental security income master record. It contains primarily eligibility and case folder location data for internal control purposes within the Social Security Administration.

Safeguards: The magnetic tape records are protected through standard security measures used for all computer records housed within the Social Security Administration--limited employee access for specific authorization on an individual basis.

Retention and disposal: Data contained within the Cases Currently In Process file are retained indefinitely.

System name: Claims Index File (Supplemental Security Income) HEW SSA OPO.

Security classification: None.

System location:

Bureau of Data Processing
6401 Security Boulevard
Baltimore, Maryland 21235

Categories of individuals covered by the system: The Claims Index File contains a record for each identifying number relating to any aged, blind, or disabled individual who has applied for supplemental security income payments.

Categories of records in the system: The Claims Index File contains identifying data including type of eligibility, internal location data and social security numbers which may be used to identify a particular individual.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Section 1631 of Title XVI of the Social Security Act.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Magnetic Tape.

Retrievability: Magnetic Tape indexed by social security number. Since many records enter the supplemental security income system under an identifying number other than the correct supplemental security income case number, the system must have the capability of locating the correct case number in order to properly process the case. The Index File provides this capability in addition to eliminating the possibility of the accretion of duplicate numbers on the supplemental security income master record.

Safeguards: The magnetic tape records are protected through standard security measures used for all computer records housed within the Social Security Administration--limited employee access to specific authorization by individual.

Retention and disposal: Magnetic tape records are maintained for an indefinite period.

System name: Overpayment File (Supplemental Security Income) HEW SSA OPO.

Security classification: None.

System location:

Bureau of Data Processing
6401 Security Boulevard
Baltimore, Maryland 21235

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Any supplemental security income payment recipient having a potential supplemental security income overpayment.

Categories of records in the system: The Supplemental Security Income Overpayment File contains data regarding eligibility, citizenship, residence, eligibility for other benefits, alcoholism and drug addiction data (if applicable), income data, resources, payment amounts, overpayment amounts, and living arrangements for all persons who have applied for supplemental security income payments.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Sections 1602 and 1631(b) of Title XVI of the Social Security Act.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The Supplemental Security Overpayment File is used to maintain a historical record of overpayment data for all supplemental security income recipients, and in processing bills to the respective States for their share of supplemental security income overpayments. Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual and to State audit agencies pursuant to agreements with HEW for auditing state supplementation payments. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Magnetic tape.

Retrievability: Magnetic tape is accessed by social security number. Within the Social Security Administration, the file is used to alert the social security district offices of potentially overpaid supplemental security income recipients.

Safeguards: The magnetic tape records are retained in secure storage areas accessible only to authorized persons within the Bureau of Data Processing. The storage area is controlled by Marshalls responsible for insuring that only authorized personnel are admitted. Official identification badges or passes are required to gain entrance to the storage area. All employees having access to records have been notified of criminal sanctions for unauthorized disclosure of information on individuals.

Retention and disposal: The Supplemental Security Income Overpayment File is retained for an indefinite period.

System manager(s) and address:

Director
Bureau of Supplemental Security Income
Baltimore, Maryland 21235

Notification procedure: Contact the Systems Manager and provide name, social security number, identify the systems name, and pertinent information about your case. An individual who requests notification of or access to a medical record shall, at the time the request is made, designate in writing a responsible representative who will be willing to review the record and inform the subject individual of its contents at the representative's discretion. (These notification and access procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR, Section 5b.6) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47411.).

Record access procedures: Same as notification procedures. Requesters should also reasonably specify the record contents being sought (These access procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR, Section 5b.5(a)(2)) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47410.).

Contesting record procedures: Contact the official at the address specified under notification procedures above, and reasonably identify the record and specify the information to be contested. System name: Supplemental Security Income File of Refunds HEW SSA OPO.

Security classification: None.

System location:

Bureau of Supplemental Security Income
6401 Security Boulevard
Baltimore, Maryland 21235

Categories of individuals covered by the system: This file contains refund records for any aged, blind, or disabled individual who was overpaid or not entitled.

Categories of records in the system: This file contains information about refunds sent in by persons who were overpaid or not entitled to Supplemental Security Income payments they received. Specific information is name of individual, social security number, date of refund, and amount of refund.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Sections 1602, 1611, and 1631 of Title XVI of the Social Security Act.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The file is established after the money received has been recorded and deposited in the Federal Reserve Bank. The money refunded is broken down into Federal share and State share for accounting purposes. The information is input to the electronic system to be matched against the same information being entered by district offices. This serves as an audit. Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual and to State audit agencies pursuant to agreements with HEW for auditing State supplementation payments. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components, or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: The source document is filed in standard filing cabinets by bank deposit schedule number. The cross reference listing, in social security number sequence, by month is maintained in binders. This information is keyed directly onto tape which is kept in SSA'S tape library. The tapes are used to prepare the cross reference listings and to input the information into the system. The manual file is maintained in social security number sequence so that inquiries and refunds from district offices can be answered.

Retrievability: Listings referenced by social security number.

Safeguards: The source documents and listings are kept in an area which is secured at night--doors locked. Information is only furnished to other Social Security Administration components with limited access by employees on a need-to-know basis. The magnetic tapes are retained in secure storage areas accessible only to authorized persons within the Bureau of Data Processing. The storage area is controlled by marshalls responsible for insuring that only authorized personnel are admitted. Official identification badges or passes are required to gain entrance to the storage area. All employers having access to records have been notified of criminal sanctions for unauthorized disclosure of information on individuals.

Retention and disposal: The source documents and listings are being held indefinitely. Eventually they will be retired to the Federal Record Center. The tapes are stored in the Social Security tape library.

System name: Debit Voucher File (Supplemental Security Income) HEW SSA OPO.

Security classification: None.

System location:

Bureau of Supplemental Security Income
6401 Security Boulevard
Baltimore, Maryland 21235

Categories of individuals covered by the system: The file contains a record for aged, blind, or disabled individuals who have negotiated two checks for the same month incorrectly or who have refunded money to the Bureau of Supplemental Security Income by check only to have their checks bounce.

Categories of records in the system: The GFO-5504, Debit Voucher, is sent to the Bureau of Supplemental Security Income from the Department of Treasury billing the Social Security Administration for additional monies expended on their behalf. It contains the identification of the individual, name and social security number, and amount of money involved.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Sections 1602, 1611 and 1631 of Title XVI of the Social Security Act.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: After the Bureau of Supplemental Security Income has paid the Department of Treasury for the requested funds, the overpayment data are entered into the electronic system. The original documents (photocopies of erroneously negotiated checks sent by Treasury as well as copies of bounced checks submitted by individuals in payment of overpayments) are filed for future reference by the Social Security District and Branch Offices when they attempt to collect the money from the overpaid individual. A cross-reference listing on the social security number is maintained. The money amount is allocated to the Federal share and State share for accounting purposes. Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual and to State audit agencies pursuant to agreements with HEW for auditing State supplementation payments. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: File cabinets and binders.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Samples of United States civilian population and those Armed Forces personnel residing with their families as of March 1973, 1975, 1976 and subsequent periods to be determined.

Categories of records in the system: Basic demographic characteristics from Census survey-labor force, work experience and income items from the survey; Social Security Administration earnings and benefit record information; selected Internal Revenue Service tax return items.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Section 702 of the Social Security Act (42 USC, Section 902), Title 13 U.S. Code (authority for Census Participation)

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Disclosure may be made (through the Census Bureau) to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Records are stored on magnetic tape.

Retrievability: Records are indexed by social security number during the matching steps at the Social Security Administration and Census but identifiers are not retained at the Social Security Administration after matching is completed.

Safeguards: Magnetic tapes or other files with personal identifiers are retained in secure storage areas accessible only to authorized persons. During those matching steps which occur at the Social Security Administration, identifiable data is solely under the control of a limited number of social security employees who are sworn to uphold the Census and IRS statutes as well as the confidentiality restrictions of the Social Security Administration. Similar provisions are made for the handling of identifiable data from the project at the census Bureau. Employees having access to records are notified of criminal sanctions for unauthorized disclosure of information about individuals. Microdata files prepared for research purposes outside the research staff will be stripped of personal identifiers. For computerized records, safeguards established in accordance with Department standards and National Bureau of Standards guidelines will be used, (such as the use of passwords, locked-files, etc.) restricting access to authorized personnel.

Retention and disposal: Following the match, all identifiers are removed from the records kept at the Social Security Administration. The Census Bureau retains identifiers for possible longitudinal updating. Records with identifiers will be held in secure storage areas at the Census Bureau and will be disposed of as soon as they are determined to be no longer needed for Census or SSA analysis. Means of disposal will be appropriate to the record storage medium, e.g., erasure of tapes, shredding of printouts, etc. As long as identifiable records exist, a periodic review will be made at least every two years to determine the need for their retention.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Samples of persons filing Federal Income Tax returns for 1970, 1972, 1975, and selected subsequent years.

Categories of records in the system: Social Security Administration demographic data; Social Security Administration earnings and benefit record information; tax return data.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Section 702 of the Social Security Act (42 USC, Section 902) and Treasury Regulations

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Disclosure may be made (through the Treasury Department) to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual. Disclosure to the Treasury Department in connection with statistical studies conducted for Social Security Administration and Treasury Department purposes. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Records are stored on magnetic tape.

Retrievability: Records are indexed by social security number during the matching steps at the Social Security Administration, but identifiers are not retained at the Social Security Administration. The major matching step is carried out entirely at Treasury.

Safeguards: Safeguards established in accordance with Department standards and National Bureau of Standards guidelines will be used, (such as the use of passwords, locked-files, etc.) restricting access to authorized personnel. Employees having access to records are notified of criminal sanctions for unauthorized disclosure of information about individuals. Microdata files prepared for research purposes outside the research staff will be stripped of personal identifiers.

Retention and disposal: Identifiable data are retained by the Social Security Administration only during the match process. Once matching is complete all computer tapes are turned over to the Treasury Department. A matched SSA-Treasury file ———— ———————— is provided to Social Security for its research use. The Social Security Administration does not have detailed Internal Revenue Service data with identifiers at any point in the matching process. The minimum amount of Internal Revenue Service data with identifiers needed to validate the processing is used by the Social Security Administration. Identifiers may be retained on the Treasury copies of intermediate and matched files. The retention of these identifiers is needed for possible further matching: for example, with similar data for different years.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: AMA background information will be maintained on a master sheet, and individually in each interview folder. Interview information will be maintained on questionnaires prior to conversion to magnetic tape. Resulting tapes will contain no personal identifiers.

Retrievability: Until each interview is completed and verified, the contractor will maintain questionnaires and background information in folders labeled with the physician's name. After the information is removed from the folders, there can be no retrieval of individual records.

Safeguards: All identifiers will be removed from data as soon as the collection and matching is complete and verified. All persons having access to records have been notified of criminal sanctions for unauthorized disclosure of information about individuals. Since the tapes will contain no personal identifiers, no special safeguards will be required.

Retention and disposal: Master sheets will be retained indefinitely. Folder identification link will be destroyed. Tapes without personal identifiers will be maintained indefinitely.

System name: Service Officer Demonstration Project--HEW,SSA, OEA.

Security classification: None.

System location: Service Officers' offices, Boston, Massachusetts, Atlanta, Georgia, Seattle, Washington; Dallas, Texas. Office of the contractor name and address not yet determined.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Members of the public who contact the Service officers about their social security related problems or complaints or who call to ask questions about social security

Categories of records in the system: Detailed record of contact, relevant information assembled by the Service Officer, survey questionnaires administered to persons contacting the Service Officers and to eligible persons who don't use their services.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Section 205(a), Social Security Act (42 USC 405(a)).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Records maintained by the Service Officer will be used to documents contacts, and resulting follow-up activities by the Service Officer in regards to these contacts. A contractor will conduct surveys of probability samples of users, non-users, etc. The survey data collected will be for statistical reasons. Also, the contractor will process Service Officer generated forms for historical data, statistical and sampling purposes. Therefore, routine disclosure will be made to the contractor. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity, (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components, or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Service Officer generated forms, survey, questionnaires, computer tape and cards.

Retrievability: By name and/or social security number, date of contact with Service Officer.

Safeguards: The records are subject to the same rules and safeguards as all other records created and maintained by SSA. Information collected by the Service Officers can be made available to SSA personnel on a need-to-know basis. All personnel having access to records will be notified of criminal sanctions for unauthorized disclosure on individuals. The contractor will delete identifying information from statistical data tapes. Statistical survey information collected by the contractor will in no way influence a person s entitlement to present or future benefits. The contractor will permit authorized personnel to have access to to the data.

Retention and disposal: If a claims folder exists for an individual, duplicates of any Service Officer generated records for that person will be put into his or her claims folder. In all other instances, information containing a personal identifier which may be retained by the Service Officer will be destroyed at the conclusion of the demonstration period.

System location: Carriers under contract to Social Security Administration (See Appendix C, Section 4.)

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Physicians and suppliers in a clinic who provide medical services or supplies to Medicare beneficiaries.

Categories of records in the system: A compilation of all charges submitted by a clinic physician or supplier for services or suppliers to (1) derive 'reasonable charge' information, (2) determine economic indexes, and (3) to substantiate the basis for payment to beneficiaries, physicians suppliers, and hospitals.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Sections 1833, 1835, 1842 and 1874 of title XVIII of the Social Security Act.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Professional Standards Review Organizations and State Licensing Boards for review of unethical practices or nonprofessional conduct; contractors under contract to SSA for the performance of specific research and statistical activities directly relating to the Social Security Act. SSA health insurance program review teams. Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Records are maintained on magnetic tape, microfilm, and hard copy paper.

Retrievability: The records are indexed for individual identification by clinic physician provider numbers and supplier EIN (employer's identification number). The records are prepared and updated daily by carriers as a basis for determining reasonable charges and area prevailing charges.

Safeguards: Disclosure of records to carrier personnel is limited to a need-to-know basis. The files are closed to unauthorized personnel. The determination as to which personnel are authorized will vary slightly in different carrier installations. All carriers have guards at the building entrance to prevent intrusion by individuals not employees or not having business with the carrier. One or more of the following security measures are used within the building: Color coded identification cards are used to establish the right of an employee to be in a specific area; cipher locks are used to protect files and computer areas; magnetic identification cards are used to gain access to security sensitive areas; videomonitoring of sensitive areas is constant.

Retention and disposal: Records are closed out the first quarter following the close of the previous calendar year. Files are retained indefinitely.

System manager(s) and address:

Director, Bureau of Health Insurance

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Medical Part B Beneficiaries acquiring durable medical equipment (DME) under Title XVIII of the Social Security Act. Geographic locations are to be determined on contract award date.

Categories of records in the system: Administrative, billing, and descriptive information involving the purchase and/or rental of durable medical equipment under Title XVIII (Medicare Part B).

Authority for maintenance of the system: Section 245 of Public Law 92-603 (Social Security Amendments of 1972).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Routine disclosure of the records maintained in the system will be made to an organization under contract with the Social Security Administration for the performance of the research and statistical functions as prescribed by the contract. The data collected will be utilized by the Contractor for statistical purposes in determining the results of the experimental program. Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of the individual. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity, (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Magnetic computer tape.

Retrievability: To be specified by Contractor. (Most probable index will be individual Health Insurance Account Number and Part B Medicare Carrier Code Number.)

Safeguards: Magnetic computer tapes are to be kept in GSA approved containers with combination locks. The containers are to be located in a controlled access area where all nonemployees and nonauthorized personnel must identify themselves, state the nature of their business, and be logged in before gaining entry. All employees of the Contractor are subject to the penalties prescribed by the Privacy Act for unauthorized disclosure of personnel data. These safeguards are in accordance with Departmental standards limiting access to authorized personnel only.

Retention and disposal: All raw data, draft reports, correspondents, and reports generated during this experiment (including tapes, computer programs, position indices, etc.) shall be the property of the Government and shall be delivered to the SSA Project Officer not later than 15 calendar days after contract completion date. Should the Project Officer request any of the above-mentioned material during the conduct of the experiment, the Contractor shall present such material to the Project Officer with 30 days of a written request. The material presented by the Contractor shall be as current as possible, relevant to the request. All tapes and final reports will be delivered to the Social Security Administration and will be retained by the Social Security Administration as long as necessary for program purposes.

System manager(s) and address:

Assistant Commissioner for Research and Statistics
Social Security Administration
Room 1121
Universal North Building
1875 Connecticut Avenue, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20009

Notification procedure: For purposes of notification, provide the Systems Manager with the name, address, and Health Insurance Account Number of the person requesting access.

Record access procedures: Same as notification procedures. Requesters should also reasonably specify the record contents being sought. (These access procedures are in accordance with Departmental Regulations (45 CFR, Part 5b.5(a)(2) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47410.)

Contesting record procedures: Contact the official at the address specified under notification procedures above, and reasonably identify the record and specify the information to be contested. (These procedures are in accordance with Departmental Regulations (45 CFR Part 5b.7) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47411.)

Record source categories: Requests from Medicare Part B Beneficiaries for reimbursement for the rental/purchase of durable medical equipment under title XVIII of the Social Security Act, including charges and descriptive material from suppliers of durable medical equipment, administrative and billing information for the reimbursement of durable medical equipment from Part B Medicare Carriers.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.

Washington, D.C. 20418

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Medicare beneficiaries (aged only) whose hospital bills were included in a 20 percent sample of beneficiaries during 1974 and 1975.

Categories of records in the system: Each record contains (1) patient identification data (name, HI number, sex, age) from the Medicare master enrollment file, and (2) hospitalization data (hospital name, admission and discharge date, primary diagnosis, primary surgical procedure performed) from both the Medicare hospital discharge billing file and the hospital medical record.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 42 U.S.C. Section 1395.11.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: (a) To contractor for the performance of specific research and statistical activities directly related to the performance of this study.

(b)To a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

(c)In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components, or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Record lists, completed reabstract forms, and keypunched cards are stored in locked file cabinets. Magnetic tape files of patient records are stored in a tape library. All codes for numeric data on the tape files are stored in locked file cabinets. All of these storage facilities are located in the contractor's offices.

Retrievability: By beneficiary name, HI number, and birth date.

Safeguards: The contractor will be required to comply with Departmental safeguard procedures. All persons having access to the system of records have been notified of the criminal sanctions for unauthorized disclosure of information about individuals. The contractor maintains controlled access to computer files. As tape file records are created, individuals' names are eliminated and their HI numbers replaced with anonymous assigned record numbers. The master list for the assigned numbers is stored in locked file cabinets. There is controlled access to this list as all other stored files.

Retention and disposal: All re-abstract forms, filing records and other data collection forms will be returned to SSA with all patient identifiers removed. Keypunch cards and magnetic tape files will be retained by the contractor for 6 months following contract termination and will then be destroyed by standard disposal procedures.

Notification procedure: For purposes of notification, the system manager will need to know the name of the system, and the name and health insurance number of the person requesting notification. An individual who requests notification of or access to a medical record shall, at the time the request is made designate in writing a responsible representative who will be willing to review the record and inform the subject individual of its contents at the representative's discretion. (These notification and access procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR, Sections 5b.5 and 5b.6) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47410, 11).

Record access procedures: Same as notification procedures. Requesters should also reasonably specify the record being sought. (These access procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR, Section 5b.5 and 5b.6) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47410, 11).

Contesting record procedures: Contact the official at the address specified under System Manager above, and reasonably identify the record and specify the information to be contested. (These procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR Section 5b.7) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47411.)

Record source categories: Records derived from Medicare master enrollment file, Medicare 20 percent hospital discharge record file, hospital medical records, and hospital Medicare claims forms.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: A sample of individuals from these groups:

a. Individuals who are receiving social security benefits and having them deposited directly in financial institutions.

b. Individuals receiving social security benefits who have not elected to have their benefits deposited directly in financial institutions.

c. Individuals receiving social security benefits who had elected the direct deposit option but who subsequently elected to stop using it.

Categories of records in the system: Selected Survey Responses reflecting individuals' knowledge of and experience with the Direct Deposit option, Social Security Administration program benefit and demographic data.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Section 702 of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C., Section 902).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Disclosure may be made to: a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual. An organization under contract with the Social Security Administration of inforamtion necessary to enable the contractor to comply with the conditions of the agreement to perform research and statistical functions.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Completed data tape and questionnaire hard copy with identifiers will be kept by EMS Project Officer: The questionnaire hard copy in a locked file: the tape in a secure computer facility.

Retrievability: Records from the survey data tape and questionnaire hard copy will be retrievable by name and social security number until after merger with SSA program data, i.e., until end of calendar year 1979.

Safeguards: During field survey and editing, identification of tapes and documentation of tape data contents are restricted to the SSA Project Staff and the contractor's project staff. Hard copy of questionnaires are kept in locked storage cabinets located in locked rooms and can only be accessed with the permission of the project manager. All persons using tape data or having access to hard copy are notified of criminal penalties for unauthorized disclosures of information about individuals. Similarly, the contractor's staff operates under the same sanctions. Contractor transmits all survey data to SSA Project Staff at the end of field survey. Access to completed data tape is controlled by the SSA Project Officer. Security measures have been incorporated in the software specifications of the system that were designed to prevent accidental and intentional unauthorized disclosure.

Retention and disposal: Questionnaire hard copy and completed tape with identifiers will be retained until the end of calendar year 1979 at which time both will be destroyed. Retrieval will then no longer be possible.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 42 U.S.C. 1395 x and 42 U.S.C. 1320 a-2.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: (a) To contractors under contract to SSA for the performance of specific research and statistical activities directly related to the Social Security Act.

(b) To a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

(c) To State officials and employees to the extent necessary or appropriate to carry out their functions under agreements with the Social Security Administration. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Records maintained on paper files in metal filing cabinets.

Retrievability: System is indexed by name of individual, listed alphabetically.

Safeguards: Disclosure of records is limited to State agency and Medicare personnel on a need-to-know basis. The files are closed to unauthorized personnel. File cabinets where records are stored are locked when not in use and at close of business. Keys are kept by authorized personnel only.

Retention and disposal: Records are maintained for 5 years after becoming inactive, and are then destroyed.

System manager(s) and address:

Director, Bureau of Health Insurance
Baltimore, Maryland 21235

Notification procedure: Inquiries and requests for records should be directed to the Regional Medicare Director (See Appendix C, Section 2) or the appropriate State agency (See System Location.) The individual should furnish his or her name, address, social security number and the specific category file he wishes to access. Information on the procedures for gaining access to and contesting records may be obtained from the Regional Medical Director.

Record access procedures: Same as notification procedures. (These access procedures are in accordance with the Department Regulations (45 CFR, Section 5b.5(a)(2) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47410)).

Contesting record procedures: Contact the official at the address specified under notification procedures, above, and reasonably identify the record and specify the information to be contested. (These procedures are in accordance with the Department Regulations (45 CFR, Section 5b.7) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47411).

Record source categories: The information contained in these records is furnished by the individual or his employing entity (hospital or medical clinic).

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None.

Contractor sites: Addresses may be obtained by writing to the system manager (see below)

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Sample groups of adults who are current or potential recipients of Social Security disability payments.

Categories of records in the system: Socio-economic, demographic, medical and disability characteristics, attitudes, earnings and employment history, benefits, and use of medical and rehabilitative services.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Section 702 of the Social Security Act (42 USC, Section 902)

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual. To contractor under contract to the Social Security Administration (SSA), or under contract to another agency with funds provided by SSA, for the performance of research and statistical activities directly related to the Social Security Act.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Data may be stored on hard copy questionnaire forms, microfilm, punch cards, magnetic tape, disc, or printouts.

Retrievability: Files based on SSA sample populations are indexed by SSA-assigned case numbers or social security numbers. Files based on Census sample populations are indexed by Census-assigned case numbers cross-referenced to social security numbers.

Safeguards: Magnetic tapes or other files with personal identifiers are retained in secure storage areas accessible only to authorized persons. Employees having access to records are notified of criminal sanctions for unauthorized disclosure of information about individuals. Microdata files prepared for research purposes for use outside of the research staff will be stripped of personal identifiers. For computerized records, safeguards established in accordance with Department standards and National Bureau of Standards guidelines will be used, (such as the use of passwords, locked files, etc.) restricting access to authorized personnel.

Retention and disposal: Hard copy questionnaires will be destroyed when survey reports are completed. Records with identifiers will be held in secure storage areas and will be retained only as long as needed for SSA analysis. Identifiers will be removed at the earliest possible time after data collection is completed. The need to retain identifiers will be evaluated at the time each survey is completed. Records with identifiers will be disposed of as soon as they are determined to be no longer needed. Means of disposal will be appropriate to the record storage medium, e.g., erasure of tapes, shredding of printouts, etc. As long as identifiable records exist, a periodic review will be made at least every two years to determine the need for their retention. In longitudinal studies, working files are stripped of identifiers and given randomly assigned case numbers. A separate link file will be maintained in secure storage for updating with individual identifiers.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Samples of individuals who are current or potential recipients of benefits from Social Seucrity and related programs; personnel administering SSA and related programs.

Categories of records in the system: Socio-economic, demographic, medical and disability characteristics; attitudes concerning subjects such as health, work experience, and family relationships; earnings and employment history, benefits, use of medical and rehabilitative services.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Section 702 of the Social Security Act (42 USC, Section 902) Section 1110 of the Social Security Act (42 USC, Section 1310).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual. To contractor under contract to the Social Security Administration (SSA), or under contract to another agency with funds provided by SSA, for the performance of research and statistical activities directly related to the Social Security Act.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Data may be stored on hard copy questionnaire forms, microfilm, punch cards, magnetic tape, disc, or printouts.

Retrievability: Files based on SSA sample populations are indexed by SSA-assigned case numbers or social security numbers. Files based on contractor sample populations are indexed by contractor-assigned case numbers which may be cross-referenced to social security numbers.

Safeguards: Magnetic tapes or other files with personal identifiers are retained in secure storage areas accessible only to authorized persons. Employees having access to records are notified of criminal sanctions for unauthorized disclosure of information about individuals. Microdata files prepared for research purposes for use outside of the research staff will be stripped of personal identifiers. For computerized records, safeguards established in accordance with Department standards and National Bureau of Standards guidelines will be used, (such as the use of passwords, locked files, etc.) restricting access to authorized personnel.

Retention and disposal: Hard copy questionnaires will be destroyed when survey reports are completed. Records with identifiers will be held in secure storage areas and will be retained only as long as needed for analysis. Identifiers will be removed at th earliest possible time after data collection is completed. The need to retain identifiers will be evaluated at the time each survey is completed. Records with identifiers will be disposed of as soon as they are determined to be no longer needed. Means of disposal will be appropriate to the record storage medium, e.g., erasure of tapes, shredding of printouts, etc. As long as identifiable records exist, a periodic review will be made at least every two years to determine the need for their retention. In longitudinal studies, working files are stripped of identifiers and given randomly assigned case numbers. A separate link file will be maintained in secure storage for updating with individual identifiers.

2. Cuban Refugee Assistance Program, Florida Division of Family Services, to verify eligibility of refugee to apply for Cuban refugee assistance.

3. State welfare agencies to verify eligibility under Cuban Refugee Program and to enable State to claim Federal reimbursement for assistance provided.

4. HEW Regional Offices in order to provide information to State welfare agencies.

5. Federal law enforcement and security agencies, including the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Immigration and Naturalization Service, when requested.

6. Courts, when subpoenaed.

7. Statistical research and reporting, provided the record will be used solely as a statistical research or reporting record and is to be transferred in a form that is not individually identifiable.

8. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Notification procedure: Same as above.

Record access procedures: Same as above.

Contesting record procedures: Same as above.

APPENDIX A Retirement and Survivors Insurance Claims

1. Determining Appropriate Office to Contact

Records relating to retirement and survivor insurance claims are maintained primarily in six program service centers across the country. The responsibility for the payment of benefits and the maintenance of records is assigned to each office according to the first three digits of the social security number.

However, if the only individual entitled to survivor's monthly benefits on one claim number is also entitled to a retirement benefit on another claim number, the office which is assigned the responsibility for the retirement benefit claim also handles the survivor claim. If the only individual on the record is entitled to a survivor benefit which has been reduced because the survivor is under age 65, and the individual is also entitled to a disability benefit (which is higher), on another record, the Bureau of Disability Insurance certifies the payments and maintains both records (see Appendix B). The Bureau of Disability Insurance is also responsible for payment certification and record maintenance if the only survivor on a record is entitled as a childhood disability beneficiary and the survivor is also entitled to a disability benefit on another record.

In addition, when one of the indiviudals in the record resides outside the United States or its possessions, the responsibility for payment certification and record maintenance is assigned to the Division of International Operations without reference to the social security claim number or the type of benefit.

With the exceptions noted above, the appropriate program service center to contact can be determined by checking the first three (left side) digits of the social security number and comparing to the chart below. For example, if the first three digits are 076, the appropriate program service center to contact will be the Northeastern Program Service Center; similarly, if the first three digits were 437, the appropriate office would be Mid-America Program Service Center, and if they are 728, the appropriate office would be the Great Lakes Program Service Center.

If the first three digits fall within the range of:

001 - 134 contact the Northeastern Program Service Center;
135 - 222 the Mid-Atlantic Program Service Center;
223 - 231 the Southeastern Program Service Center;
232 - 236 the Mid-Atlantic Program Service Center;
237 - 267 the Southeastern Program Service Center;
268 - 302 the Great Lakes Program Service Center;
303 - 315 the Mid-America Program Service Center;
316 - 399 the Great Lakes Program Service Center;
400 - 428 the Southeastern Program Service Center;
429 - 500 the Mid-America Program Service Center;
501 - 504 the Western Program Service Center;
505 - 515 the Mid-America Program Service Center;
516 - 524 the Western Program Service Center;
525 the Mid-America Program Service Center;
526 - 576 the Western Program Service Center;
577 - 584 the Mid-Atlantic Program Service Center;
585 the Mid-America Program Service Center;
586 the Western Program Service Center;
587 the Southeastern Program Service Center; or 700 - 729 the Great Lakes Program Service Center.

Appendix G Bureau of Hearings and Appeals

The Bureau of Hearings and Appeals is charged with the responsibility for making decisions on appeals taken above the reconsideration level by claimants for retirement, survivors, disability, supplemental security, medicare, or black lung benefits.

Files for cases awaiting action by the Appeals Council based on the claimants' request for Council review and records of hearings decisions by Administrative Law Judges are maintained at the Bureau headquarters. The address is:

Bureau of Hearings and Appeals
801 North Randolph Street
Arlington, Virginia 22203

Files for cases awaiting hearings or decisions by Administrative Law Judges based on requests for a hearing submitted by claimants are housed in various offices depending on the type of the benefit claimed and the status of the hearing request.

When hearings are requested in claims for supplemental security income benefits or the issue involves both supplemental secuirity income benefits and regular social security benefits, prior to forwarding the cases to the Administrative Law Judges, the cases are reviewed to assure that they are ready for the hearings at one of the following Development Centers:

In the Boston Region:

When the Development Center has completed work on the cases, they are sent to the appropriate offices for the hearings by the Administrative Law Judges. Cases prepared for hearing by the Program Service Centers and the Division of International Operations (see Appendix A) or the Bureau of Disability Insurance (see Appendix B) are also sent to these offices. The selection of the office is based on the Region and the District Office Service Area in which the appellant claimant lives. The Regions, the addresses of the Administrative Law Judges and the District Office Service Areas from which the Judges accept cases are listed below. Correspondence should be addressed to the Bureau of Hearings and Appeals, Administrative Law Judge at the appropriate address.

APPENDIX I Availability of Records, Manuals, Etc.

All administrative staff manuals of the Social Security Administration and instruction to staff personnel which contain policies, procedures, or interpretations that affect the public are available for inspection and copying. These manuals are generally not printed in a sufficient quantity to permit sale or other general distribution to the public, but many are maintained at district offices and field offices and may be inspected there (See Appendix F). A complete listing of staff manuals and instructions is published in Social Security Rulings which is available from the Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

The Social Security Act is codified at 42 U.S.C. 301 and the Federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Act may be found at 30 U.S.C. 901.

The Regulations relating to Federal retirement, survivors, and disability insurance and health insurance for the aged, are published in the Code of Federal Regulations under title 20, chapter III, Part 401 et seq.:

A. Part 401 contains Regulation No. 1, Disclosure of Official Records and Information.
B. Part 402, which contained Regulations No. 2, has not been published in the Code beginning with the 1949 edition since Regulations No. 2 applies only to the Social Security Act in effect before 1940.
C. Part 403, which contained Regulations No. 3, has not been published in the Code beginning with the 1965 edition since Regulations No. 3 relates to the period from 1940 to 1950. The extent to which Regulations No. 3 remains in effect is indicated in Sections 404.3(a) of Regulations No. 4.
D. Part 404 contains Regulations No. 4, Federal Old-Age, Survivors, and Disability Insurance (1950-).
E. Part 405 contains Regulations No. 5, Federal Health Insurance for the Aged and Disabled (1965-).
F. Part 410 contains Regulations No. 10, Federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Act of 1969, title IV, Black Lung Benefits (1969-).
G. Part 416 contains Regulations No. 16, Supplemental Security Income (1973-).
H. Part 422 contains Regulations No. 22, Organization and Procedures.

Title 20 of the Code of Federal Regulations (Part 400 to End, revised as of April 1, 1973), can be purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

Requests for accessing an individual's own records should be directed to the systems managers listed in the foregoing notices. Requests for other records and manuals may be made to: (1) the Director, Office of Information, Social Security Administration, 6401 Security Boulevard, Baltimore, Maryland 21235, or (2) the Information Center Officer, at the Regional Offices of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. APPENDIX J Social Security Administration Data Security Measures

The confidentiality of records has been a cornerstone of Social Security Administration policy from the very beginning of the agency under the mandate of Title 20, Chapter III, Part 401 of the Code of Federal Regulations issued in 1937 and Section 1106 of the Social Security Act Passed by the Congress in 1939. Data security measures begin with the thorough training of employees in the restrictions against disclosure contained in the Act and the Regulations, the criminal sanctions for unauthorized disclosure, and the procedures used to assure that disclosures authorized by statute and regulation are released to the proper parties. The physical security measures established to safeguard records are discussed below:

1. Manually Maintained Records

Manually maintained records are kept in locked file cabinets or in otherwise secure areas. Access to the records is limited to those employees who require the information contained in the records to perform the duties assigned to them. In most cases, the records are selected for the employees needing access to them by other employees who are specifically charged with the maintenance of the records. This restricts the number of persons authorized to be in the storage areas and facilitates the control over the access to the information contained in the records to those who need it. Those records not handled in this manner are securely stored so that unauthorized individuals may not gain access to them.

2. Automated Records

Entry into the computer rooms in the headquarters complex located in Woodlawn, Mayland is restricted to those employees whose duties require such entry. A special pass containing the employee's photograph is issued to all personnel authorized to enter this area. Marshals are stationed at each entrance to assure that only possessors of the special passes are admitted. Magnetic tape records and records stored on other automated devices are kept in a library to which entry is further restricted by a lock whose opening combination is known only to a select few authorized to enter this area. Access to the information contained in these records is controlled by various manual and automated devices. Only employees who require the information to perform their duties may obtain it.

Some automated records are maintained in program service centers located across the country (See Appendix A). Entrance to the program service center buildings is restricted to employees with building passes. In addition, special passes identify those employees whose duties require entry into the computer rooms. Access to the information contained in these records is also controlled. Only employees who require the information to perform their duties may obtain it.

Data is transmitted from field offices and program service centers to headquarters and return. For the most part, sensitive and urgent traffic is sent over lines leased by the Social Security Administration for its sole use. The remaining traffic sent directly by wire is sent via lines leased by the Federal Government for use of all Federal agencies. Sometimes the length of the record precluudes direct wire transmission and magnetic tape stored on reels must be used. When this occurs, special procedures assure the delivery of the tape reels to the proper location.

Internal computer security is safeguarded by access codes, edit checks, data reformatting and return address codes. These assure that only authorized access to the computer system is permitted, that the particular data requested from the system can be released to the requester, and that control is maintained over the locations to which systems data may be sent.

APPENDIX K

An individual must present sufficient evidence to establish identity in order to obtain information pertaining to him from the Social Security Administration s records.

Requests for disclosure of information may be made in the following ways:

1. In Person--No special documents of identity are required if a request for disclosure of information is made in person. It is expected that documents an individual would normally carry on his person would be sufficient. the following would be acceptable although this list is not intended to be all-inclusive: credit cards, driver's license, motor vehicle registration card, building pass, voter registration cards, and selective service registration certificate. A social security number card is acceptable only when presented with other evidence.

2. Via Mail--An individual requesting disclosure of information from the Social Security Administration's records via mail must provide his name, date of birth, and address in order to establish his identity, plus any additional information required (in the system notice) to access his record within a specific system.

3. Via Telephone--An individual requesting disclosure of information via telephone must furnish the same information as listed in 2 above.

System name: Program Integrity Management Information and Control System HEW SSA OPO.

Security classification: None.

System location:

Bureau of Data Processing
6401 Security Boulevard
Baltimore, Maryland 21235

Categories of individuals covered by the system: All individuals suspected of criminal violations involving the supplemental security income (SSI) program

Categories of records in the system: Information about the supplemental security income recipient, supplemental security income suspect, program integrity case development and information about the violation aspects of the case.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Sections 1631 (D)(2) and 1632 of Title XVI of the Social Security Act.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Magnetic tape.

Retrievability: In sequence by the social security number, or in alphabetical order by name of recipient and/or suspect. Information in this system is routinely used by Social Security Administration staff (1) to monitor the progress of development of individual suspected fraud cases to insure timely resolution; and (2) for statistical analysis purposes to identify (a) types of cases which occur with such frequency as to suggest the need for revision of policies and procedures relative to establishing eligibility for payments and (b) trends and averages with respect to the processing time of such cases and their disposition under the Federal judicial system. All information identifiable with a specific individual is protected from disclosure by statute (section 1106 of the Social Security Act (42 United States Code 1306).

Safeguards: All magnetic tapes are retained in secure storage areas accessible only to authorized persons within the Bureau of Data Processing. The storage area is controlled by marshalls responsible for insuring that only authorized personnel are permitted. Official identification badges or passes are required to gain entrance to the storage area. All employees having access to records have been notified of criminal sanctions for unauthorized disclosure of information on individuals.

Retention and disposal: Indefinite retention. A procedure is available to select and delete any case that is deemed irrelevant.

System manager(s) and address:

Director
Bureau of Supplemental Security Income
6401 Security Boulevard
Baltimore, Maryland 21235

Notification procedure: A request may be forward to the Director, Bureau of Supplemental Security Income, 6401 Security Boulevard, Baltimore, Maryland 21235. The social security number and/or name of recipient is needed as identifying information. (These notification and access procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR, Section 5b.6) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47411.)

Record access procedures: Same as notification procedures. Requesters should also reasonably specify the record contents being sought. (These access procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR, Section 5b.5(a)(2) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47410.).

Contesting record procedures: Contact the official at the address specified under notification procedures above, and reasonably identify the record and specify the information to be contested. (These procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR, Section 5b.7) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47411.).

Record source categories: Inforamtion is provided by supplemental security income applicants, informants, Social Security Administration offices and other Federal State, or municipal agencies, by letter, telephone or in person.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None. /*

Appendix B of Departmental Regulation (45 CFR Part 5b)

ROUTINE USES APPLICABLE TO MORE THAN ONE SYSTEM OF RECORDS MAINTAINED BY HEW.

(1) In the event that a system of records maintained by this agency to carry out its functions indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether federal, or foreign, charged with the responsiblity of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

(2) Referrals may be made of assignments of research investigators and project monitors to specific research projects to the Smithsonian Institution to contribute to the Smithsonian Science Information Exchange, Inc.

(3) In the event the Department deems it desirable or necessary, in determining whether particular records are required to be disclosed under the Freedom of Information Act, disclosure may be made to the Department of Justice for the purpose of obtaining its advice.

(4) A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a 'routine use' to a federal, state or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement records or other pertinent records, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain a record relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the record is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

(5) In the event that a system of records maintained by this agency to carry out its function indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether state or local charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

(6) Where federal agencies having the power to subpoena other federal agencies records, such as the Internal Revenue Service or the Civil Rights Commission, issue a subpoena to the Department for records in this system of records, the Department will make such records available.

(7) Where a contract between a component of the Department and a labor organization recognized under E.O. 11491 provides that the agency will disclose personal records relevant to the organization's mission, records in this system of records may be disclosed to such organization.

(8) Where the appropriate official of the Department, pursuant to the Department's Freedom of Information Regulation determines that it is in the public interest to disclose a record which is otherwise exempt from mandatory disclosure, disclosure may be made from this system of records.

(9) The Department contemplates that it will contract with a private firm for the purpose of collating, analyzing, aggregating or otherwise refining records in this system. Relevant records will be disclosed to such a contractor. The contractor shall be required to maintain Privacy Act safeguards with respect to such records.

(10)-(99) (reserved)

(100) To the Department of Justice or other appropriate Federal agencies in defending claims against the United States when the claim is based upon an individual's mental or physical condition and is alleged to have arisen because of activities of the Public Health Service in connection with such individual.

(101) To individuals and organizations, deemed qualified by the Secretary to carry out specific research solely for the purpose of carrying out such research.

(102) To organizations deemed qualified by the Secretary to carry out quality assessment, medcial audits or utilization review.

(103) Disclosures in the course of employee discipline or competence determination proceedings.

AUTHORITY (5 U.S.C. 301, 5 U.S.C. 552a)

§ 5b.1 Definitions.

As used in this Part:

(a) "Access" means availability of a record to a subject individual.

(b) "Agency" means the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

(c) "Department" means the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

(d) " Disclosure" means the availability or release of a record to anyone other than the subject individual.

(e) "Individual" means a living person who is a citizen of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence. It does not include persons such as sole proprietorships, partnerships, or corporations. A business firm which is identified by the name of one or more persons is not an individual within the meaning of this Part.

(f) "Maintain" means to maintain, collect, use, or disseminate when used in connection with the term "record"; and, to have control over or responsibility for a system of records when used in connection with the term "system of records."

(g) "Notification" means communication to an individual whether he is a subject individual.

(h) "Record" means any item, collection, or grouping of information about an individual that is maintained by the Department, including but not limited to the individual's education, financial transactions, medical history, and criminal or employment history and that contains his name, or an identifying number, symbol, or other identifying particular assigned to the individual, such as a finger or voice print or a photograph. When used in this Part, record means only a record which is in a system of records.

(i) "Responsible Department official" means that officer who is listed in a notice of a system of records as the system manager for a given system of records or another individual listed in the notice of a system of records to whom requests may be made, or the designee of either such officer or individual.

(j) "Routine use" means the disclosure of a record outside the Department, without the consent of the subject individual, for a purpose which is compatible with the purpose for which the record was collected. It includes disclosures required to be made by statute other than the Freedom of Information Act, 5 U.S.C. 552. It does not include disclosures which are permitted to be made without the consent of the subject individual which are not compatible with the purpose for which it was collected such as disclosures to the Bureau of the Census, the General Accounting Office, or to Congress.

(k) "Secretary" means the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, or his designee.

(l) "Statistical record" means a record maintained for statistical research or reporting purposes only and not maintained to make determinations about a particular subject individual.

(m) "Subject individual" means that individual to whom a record pertains.

(n) "System of records" means any group of records under the control of the Department from which a record is retrieved by personal identifier such as the name of the individual, number, symbol or other unique retriever assigned to the individual. Single records or groups of records which are not retrieved by a personal identifier are not part of a system of records. Papers maintained by individual employees of the Department which are prepared, maintained, or discarded at the discretion of the employee and which are not subject to the Federal Records Act, 44 U.S.C. 2901, are not part of a system of records; provided, that such personal papers are not used by the employee or the Department to determine any rights, benefits, or privileges of individuals.

§ 5b.2 Purpose and scope.

(a) This Part implements section 3 of the Privacy Act of 1974, 5 U.S.C. 552a (hereinafter referred to as the Act), by establishing agency policies and procedures for the maintenance of records. This Part also establishes agency policies and procedures under which a subject individual may be given notification of or access to a record pertaining to him and policies and procedures under which a subject individual may have his record corrected or amended if he believes that his record is not accurate, timely, complete, or relevant or necessary to accomplish a Department function.

(b) All components of the Department are governed by the provisions of this Part. Also governed by the provisions of this Part are:

(1) Certain non-federal entities which operate as agents of the Department for purposes of carrying out Federal functions, such as intermediaries and carriers performing functions under contracts and agreements entered into pursuant to sections 1816 and 1842 of the Social Security Act, 42 U.S.C. 1395h and 1395u.

(2) Advisory committees and councils within the meaning of the Federal Advisory Committee Act which provide advice to (i) any official or component of the Department or (ii) the President and for which the Department has been delegated responsibility for providing services.

(c) Employees of the Department governed by this Part include all regular and special government employees of the Department, members of the Public Health Service Commissioned Corps; experts and consultants whose temporary (not in excess of 1 year) or intermittent services have been procured by the Department by contract pursuant to 3109 of title 5, United States Code; volunteers where acceptance of their services are authorized by law; those individuals performing gratuitous services as permitted under conditions prescribed by the Civil Service Commission, and, participants in work-study or training programs.

(d) Where other statutes mandate procedures which are inconsistent with the procedures set forth in this Part, components of the Department may issue supplementary regulations containing procedures necessary to comply with such statutes. In addition, components of the Department may supplement by regulation the policies and procedures set forth in this Part to meet particular needs of the programs administered by such components.

(e) This Part does not:

(1) Make available to a subject individual records which are not retrieved by that individual's name or other personal identifier

(2) Make available to the general public records which are retrieved by a subject individual's name or other personal identifier or make available to the general public records which would otherwise not be available to the general public under the Freedom of Information Act, 5 U.S.C. 552, and Part 5 of this title.

(3) Govern the maintenance or disclosure of, notification of or access to, records in the possession of the Department which are subject to regulations of another agency, such as personnel records subject to the regulations of the Civil Service Commission.

(4) Apply to grantees, including State and local governments or subdivisions thereof, administering federally funded programs.

(5) Make available records compiled by the Department in reasonable anticipation of court litigation or formal administrative proceedings. The availability of such records to the general public or to any subject individual or party to such litigation or proceedings shall be governed by applicable constitutional principles, rules of discovery, and applicable regulations of the Department and any of its components.

§ 5b.3 Policy.

It is the policy of the Department to protect the privacy of individuals to the fullest extent possible while nonetheless permitting the exchange of records required to fulfill the administrative and program responsibilities of the Department, and responsibilities of the Department for disclosing records which the general public is entitled to have under the Freedom of Information Act, 5 U.S.C. 552, and Part 5 of this title.

§ 5b.4 Maintenance of records.

(a) No record will be maintained by the Department unless:

(1) it is relevant and necessary to accomplish a Department function required to be accomplished by statute or Executive Order;

(2) it is acquired to the greatest extent practicable from the subject individual when maintenance of the record may result in a determination about the subject individual's rights, benefits or privileges under Federal programs;

(3) the individual providing the record is informed of the authority for providing the record (including whether the providing of the record is mandatory or voluntary, the principal purpose for maintaining the record, the routine uses for the record, what effect his refusal to provide the record may have on him), and if the record is not required by statute or Executive Order to be provided by the individual, he agrees to provide the record.

(b) No record will be maintained by the Department which describes how an individual exercises rights guaranteed by the First Amendment unless expressly authorized (1) by statute, or (2) by the subject individual, or (3) unless pertinent to and within the scope of an authorized law enforcement activity.

§ 5b.5 Notification of or access to records.

(a) Times, places, and manner of requesting notification of or access to a record.

(1) Subject to the provisions governing medical records in § 5b.6 of this part, any individual may request notification of a record. He may at the same time request access to any record pertaining to him. An individual may be accompanied by another individual of his choice when he requests access to a record in person: Provided, That he affirmatively authorizes the presence of such other individual during any discussion of a record to which access is requested.

(2) An individual making a request for notification of or access to a record shall address his request to the responsible Department official and shall verify his identity when required in accordance with paragraph (b)(2) of this section. At the time the request is made, the individual shall specify which systems of records he wishes to have searched and the records to which he wishes to have access. He may also request that copies be made of all or any such records. An individual shall also provide the responsible Department official with sufficient particulars to enable such official to distinguish between records on subject individuals with the same name. The necessary particulars are set forth in the notices of systems of records.

(3) An individual who makes a request in person may leave with any responsible Department official a request for notification of or access to a record under the control of another responsible Department official: Provided, That the request is addressed in writing to the appropriate responsible Department official.

(b) Verification of identity—(1) When required. Unless an individual, who is making a request for notification of or access to a record in person, is personally known to the responsible Department official, he shall be required to verify his identity in accordance with paragraph (b)(2) of this section if:

(i) he makes a request for notification of a record and the responsible Department official determines that the mere disclosure of the existence of the record would be a clearly unwarranted invasion of privacy if disclosed to someone other than the subject individual; or,

(ii) he makes a request for access to a record which is not required to be disclosed to the general public under the Freedom of Information Act, 5 U.S.C. 552, and Part 5 of this title.

(2) Manner of verifying identity.

(i) An individual who makes a request in person shall provide to the responsible Department official at least one piece of tangible identification such as a driver's license, passport, alien or voter registration card, or union card to verify his identity. If an individual does not have identification papers to verify his identity, he shall certify in writing that he is the individual who he claims to be and that he understands that the knowing and willful request for or acquisition of a record pertaining to an individual under false pretenses is a criminal offense under the Act subject to a $5,000 fine.

(ii) Except as provided in paragraph (b)(2)(v) of this section, an individual who does not make a request in person shall submit a notarized request to the responsible Department official to verify his identity or shall certify in his request that he is the individual who he claims to be and that he understands that the knowing and willful request for or acquisition of a record pertaining to an individual under false pretenses is a criminal offense under the Act subject to a $5,000 fine.

(iii) An individual who makes a request on behalf of a minor or legal incompetent as authorized under § 5b.10 of this Part shall verify his relationship to the minor or legal incompetent, in addition to verifying his own identity, by providing a copy of the minor's birth certificate, a court order, or other competent evidence of guardianship to the responsible Department official; except that, an individual is not required to verify his relationship to the minor or legal incompetent when he is not required to verify his own identity or when evidence of his relationship to the minor or legal incompetent has been previously given to the responsible Department official.

(iv) An individual shall further verify his identity if he is requesting notification of or access to sensitive records such as medical records. Any further verification shall parallel the record to which notification or access is being sought. Such further verification may include such particulars as the individual's years of attendance at a particular educational institution, rank attained in the uniformed services, date or place of birth, names of parents, an occupation or the specific times the individual received medical treatment.

(v) An individual who makes a request by telephone shall verify his identity by providing to the responsible Department official identifying particulars which parallel the record to which notification or access is being sought. If the responsible Department official determines that the particulars provided by telephone are insufficient, the requester will be required to submit the request in writing or in person. Telephone requests will not be accepted where an individual is requesting notification of or access to sensitive records such as medical records.

(c) Granting notification of or access to a record.

(1) Subject to the provisions governing medical records in § 5b.6 of this part and the provisions governing exempt systems in § 5b.11 of this part, a responsible Department official, who receives a request for notification of or access to a record and, if required, verification of an individual's identity, will review the request and grant notification or access to a record, if the individual requesting access to the record is the subject individual.

(2) If the responsible Department official determines that there will be a delay in responding to a request because of the number of requests being processed, a breakdown of equipment, shortage of personnel, storage of records in other locations, etc., he will so inform the individual and indicate when notification or access will be granted.

(3) Prior to granting notification of or access to a record, the responsible Department official may at his discretion require an individual making a request in person to reduce his request to writing if the individual has not already done so at the time the request is made.

§ 5b.6 Special procedures for notification of or access to medical records.

(a) General. An individual in general has a right to notification of or access to his medical records, including psychological records, as well as to other records pertaining to him maintained by the Department. This section sets forth special procedures as permitted by the Act for notification of or access to medical records, including a special procedure for notification of or access to medical records of minors. The special procedures set forth in paragraph (b) of this section may not be suitable for use by every component of the Department. Therefore, components may follow the paragraph (b) procedure for notification of or access to medical records, or may issue regulations establishing special procedures for such purposes. The special procedure set forth in paragraph (c) of this section relating to medical records of minors is mandatory.

(b) Medical records procedures—(1) Notification of or access to medical records.

(i) Any individual may request notification of or access to a medical record pertaining to him. Unless the individual is a parent or guardian requesting notification of or access to a minor's medical record, an individual shall make a request for a medical record in accordance with this section and the procedures in § 5b.5 of this Part.

(ii) An individual who requests notification of or access to a medical record shall, at the time the request is made, designate a representative in writing. The representative may be a physician, other health professional, or other responsible individual, who would be willing to review the record and inform the subject individual of its contents at the representative's discretion.

(2) Utilization of the designated representative. A subject individual will be granted direct access to a medical record if the responsible official determines that direct access is not likely to have an adverse effect on the subject individual. If the responsible Department official believes that he is not qualified to determine, or if he does determine, that direct access to the subject individual is likely to have an adverse effect on the subject individual, the record will be sent to the designated representative. The subject individual will be informed in writing that the record has been sent.

(c) Medical records of minors.—(1) Requests by minors; notification of or access to medical records to minors. A minor may request notification of or access to a medical record pertaining to him in accordance with paragraph (b) of this section.

(2) Requests on a minor's behalf; notification of or access to medical records to an individual on a minor's behalf.

(i) In order to protect the privacy of a minor, a parent or guardian, authorized to act on a minor's behalf as provided in § 5b.10 of this part, who makes a request for notification of or access to a minor's medical record will not be given direct notification of or access to such record.

(ii) A parent or guardian shall make all requests for notification of or access to a minor's medical record in accordance with this paragraph and the procedures in § 5b.5 of this part. A parent or guardian shall at the time he makes a request designate a family physician or other health professional (other than a family member) to whom the record, if any, will be sent.

(iii) Where a medical record on the minor exists, it will be sent to the physician or health professional designated by the parent or guardian in all cases. If disclosure of the record would constitute an invasion of the minor's privacy, that fact will be brought to the attention of the physician or health professional to whom the record is sent. The physician or health professional will be asked to consider the effect that disclosure of the record to the parent of guardian would have on the minor in determining whether the minor's medical record should be made available to the parent or guardian. Response to the parent or guardian making the request will be made in substantially the following form.

We have completed processing your request for notification of or access to medical records. Please be informed that if any medical records were found pertaining to that individual, they have not been sent to your designated physician or health professional.

Name of minor

In each case where a minor's medical records is sent to a physician or health professional, reasonable efforts will be made to so inform the minor.

§ 5b.7 Procedures for correction or amendment of records.

(a) Any subject individual may request that his record be corrected or amended if he believes that the record is not accurate, timely, complete, or relevant or necessary to accomplish a Department function. A subject individual making a request to amend or correct his record shall address his request to the responsible Department official in writing; except that, the request need not be in writing if the subject individual makes his request in person and the responsible Department official corrects or amends the record at that time. The subject individual shall specify in each request:

(1) The system of records from which the record is retrieved;

(2) The particular record which he is seeking to correct or amend;

(3) Whether he is seeking an addition to or a deletion or substitution of the record; and,

(4) His reasons for requesting correction or amendment of the record.

(b) A request for correction or amendment of a record will be acknowledged within 10 working days of its receipt unless the request can be processed and the subject individual informed of the responsible Department official's decision on the request within that 10 day period.

(c) If the responsible Department official agrees that the record is not accurate, timely, or complete based on a preponderance of the evidence, the record will be corrected or amended. The record will be deleted without regard to its accuracy, if the record is not relevant or necessary to accomplish the Department function for which the record was provided or is maintained. In either case, the subject individual will be informed in writing of the correction, amendment, or deletion and, if accounting was made of prior disclosures of the record, all previous recipients of the record will be informed of the corrective action taken.

(d) If the responsible Department official does not agree that the record should be corrected or amended, the subject individual will be informed in writing of the refusal to correct or amend the record. He will also be informed that he may appeal the refusal to correct or amend his record to the appropriate appeal authority listed in § 5b.8 of this Part. The appropriate appeal authority will be identified to the subject individual by name, title, and business address.

(e) Requests to correct or amend a record governed by the regulation of another government agency, e.g., Civil Service Commission, Federal Bureau of Investigation, will be forwarded to such government agency for processing and the subject individual will be informed in writing of the referral.

§ 5b.8 Appeals of refusals to correct or amend records.

(a) Processing the appeal. (1) A subject individual who disagrees with a refusal to correct or amend his record may appeal the refusal in writing. All appeals shall be made to the following appeal authorities, or their designees, or successors in function:

(i) Assistant Secretary for Administration and Management for records of the Office of the Secretary, or where the initial refusal to correct or amend was made by another appeal authority. The appeal authority for an initial refusal by the Assistant Secretary for Administration and Management is the Under Secretary.

(ii) Assistant Secretary for Health for records of the Public Health Service including Office of Assistant Secretary for Health; Health Resources Administration; Health Services Administration; Alcohol, Drug Abuse, and Mental Health Administration; Center for Disease Control; National Institutes of Health; and Food and Drug Administration.

(iii) Assistant Secretary for Education for records of the Office of the Assistant Secretary for Education, National Center for Education Statistics, National Institute of Education, and Office of Education.

(iv) Assistant Secretary for Human Development for records of the Office of Human Development.

(v) Commissioner of Social Security for records of the Social Security Administration.

(vi) Administrator, Social and Rehabilitation Service for the records of the Social and Rehabilitation Service.

(2) An appeal will be completed within 30 working days from its receipt by the appeal authority; except that, the appeal authority may for good cause extend this period for an additional 30 days. Should the appeal period be extended, the subject individual appealing the refusal to correct or amend the record will be informed in writing of the extension and the circumstances of the delay. The subject individual's request to amend or correct the record, the responsible Department official's refusal to correct or amend, and any other pertinent material relating to the appeal will be reviewed. No hearing will be held.

(3) If the appeal authority agrees that the record subject to the appeal should be corrected or amended, the record will be amended and the subject individual will be informed in writing of the correction or amendment. Where an accounting was made of prior disclosures of the record, all previous recipients of the record will be informed of the corrective action taken.

(4) If the appeal is denied, the subject individual will be informed in writing:

(i) of the denial and the reasons for the denial;

(ii) that he has a right to seek judicial review of the denial; and,

(iii) that he may submit to the responsible Department official a concise statement of disagreement to be associated with the disputed record and disclosed whenever the record is disclosed.

(b) Notation and disclosure of disputed records. Whenever a subject individual submits a statement of disagreement to the responsible Department official in accordance with paragraph (a)(4)(iii) of this section, the record will be noted to indicate that it is disputed. In any subsequent disclosure, a copy of the subject individual's statement of disagreement, will be disclosed with the record. If the responsible Department official deems it appropriate, a concise statement of the appeal authority's reasons for denying the subject individual's appeal may also be disclosed with the record. While the subject individual will have access to this statement of reasons, such statement will not be subject to correction or amendment. Where an accounting was made of prior disclosures of the record, all previous recipients of the record will be provided a copy of the subject individual's statement of disagreement, as well as the statement, if any, of the appeal authority's reasons for denying the subject individual's appeal.

(a) Consent to disclosure by a subject individual.

(1) Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this section authorizing disclosures of records without consent, no disclosure of a record will be made without the consent of the subject individual. In each case the consent, whether obtained from the subject individual at the request of the Department or whether provided to the Department by the subject individual on his own initiative, shall be in writing. The consent shall specify the individual, organizational unit or class of individuals or organizational units to whom the record may be disclosed, which record may be disclosed and, where applicable, during which time frame the record may be disclosed (e.g., during the school year, while the subject individual is out of the country, whenever the subject individual is receiving specific services). A blanket consent to disclose all of a subject individual's records to unspecified individuals or organizational units will not be honored. The subject individual's identity and, where applicable (e.g., where a subject individual gives consent to disclosure of a record to a specific individual), the identity of the individual to whom the record is to be disclosed shall be verified.

(2) A parent or guardian of any minor is not authorized to give consent to a disclosure of the minor's medical record.

(b) Disclosures without the consent of the subject individual.

The disclosures listed in this paragraph may be made without the consent of the subject individual. Such disclosures are:

(1) To those officers and employees of the Department who have a need for the record in the performance of their duties. The responsible Department official may upon request of any officer or employee, or on his own initiative, determine what constitutes legitimate need.

(2) Required to be disclosed under the Freedom of Information Act, 5 U.S.C. 552, and Part 5 of this title.

(3) For a routine use as defined in paragraph (j) of § 5b.1 of this Part. Routine uses will be listed in any notice of a system of records. Routine uses published in Appendix B are applicable to more than one system of records. Where applicable, notices of systems of records may contain references to the routine uses listed in Appendix B. Appendix B will be published with any compendium of notices of systems of records.

(4) To the Bureau of the Census for purposes of planning or carrying out a census or survey or related activity pursuant to the provisions of title 13 U.S.C.

(5) To a recipient who has provided the agency with advance written assurance that the record will be used solely as a statistical research or reporting record; Provided, That, the record is transferred in a form that does not identify the subject individual.

(6) To the National Archives of the United States as a record which has sufficient historical or other value to warrant its continued preservation by the United States Government, or for evaluation by the Administrator of General Services or his designee to determine whether the record has such value.

(7) To another government agency or to an instrumentality of any governmental jurisdiction within or under the control of the United States for a civil or criminal law enforcement activity if the activity is authorized by law, and if the head of such government agency or instrumentality has submitted a written request to the Department specifying the record desired and the law enforcement activity for which the record is sought.

(8) To an individual pursuant to a showing of compelling circumstances affecting the health or safety of any individual if a notice of the disclosure is transmitted to the last known address of the subject individual.

(9) To either House of Congress, or to the extent of matter within its jurisdiction, any committee or subcommittee thereof, any joint committee of Congress or subcommittee of any such joint committee.

(10) To the Comptroller General, or any of his authorized representatives, in the course of the performance of the duties of the General Accounting Office.

(11) Pursuant to the order of a court of competent jurisdiction.

(c) Accounting of disclosures. (1) An accounting of all disclosures of a record will be made and maintained by the Department for 5 years or for the life of the record, whichever is longer; except that, such an accounting will not be made:

(i) for disclosures under paragraph (b) (1) and (2) of this section; and,

(ii) for disclosures made with the written consent of the subject individual.

(2) The accounting will include:

(i) the date, nature, and purpose of each disclosure; and

(ii) the name and address of the person or entity to whom the disclosure is made.

(3) Any subject individual may request access to an accounting of disclosures of a record. The subject individual shall make a request for access to an accounting in accordance with the procedures in § 5b.5 of this part. A subject individual will be granted access to an accounting of the disclosures of a record in accordance with the procedures of this part which govern access to the related record. Access to an accounting of a disclosure of a record made under paragraph (b)(7) of this section may be granted at the discretion of the responsible Department official.

§ 5b.10 Parents and guardians.

For the purpose of this part, a parent or guardian of any minor or the legal guardian or any individual who has been declared incompetent due to physical or mental incapacity or age by a court of competent jurisdiction is authorized to act on behalf of an individual or a subject individual. Except as provided in paragraph (b)(2) of § 5b.5, of this Part governing procedures for verifying an individual's identity, and paragraph (c)(2) of § 5b.6 of this part governing special procedures for notification of or access to a minor's medical records, an individual authorized to act on behalf of a minor or legal incompetent will be viewed as if he were the individual or subject individual.

§ 5b.11 Exempt systems.

(a) General policy. The Act permits certain types of specific systems of records to be exempt from some of its requirements. It is the policy of the Department to exercise authority to exempt systems of records only in compelling cases.

(b) Specific systems of records exempted. (1) Those systems of records listed in paragraph (b)(2) of this section are exempt from the following provisions of the Act and this Part:

(i) 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(3) and paragraph (c)(2) of § 5b.9 of this part which require a subject individual to be granted access to an accounting of disclosures of a record.

(ii) 5 U.S.C. 552a(d) (1) through (4) and (f) and §§ 5b.6, 5b.7, and 5b.8 of this part relating to notification of or access to records and correction or amendment of records.

(iii) 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(4) (G) and (H) which require inclusion of information about Department procedures for notification, access, and correction or amendment of records in the notice for the systems of records.

(iv) 5 U.S.C. 552(e)(3) and paragraph (a)(3) of § 5b.4 of this Part which require that an individual asked to provide a record to the Department be informed of the authority for providing the record (including whether the providing of the record is mandatory or voluntary, the principal purposes for maintaining the record, the routine uses for the record, and what effect his refusal to provide the record may have on him), and if the record is not required by statute or Executive Order to be provided by the individual, he agrees to provide the record. This exemption applies only to an investigatory record compiled by the Department for ciminal law enforcement purposes in a system of records exempt under subsection (j)(2) of the Act to the extent that these requirements would prejudice the conduct of the investigation.

(2) The following systems of records are exempt from those provisions of the Act and this part listed in paragraph (b)(1) of this section.

(i) Pursuant to subsection (j)(2) of the Act:

(A) the Saint Elizabeths Hospital's Court-Ordered Forensic Investigatory Materials Files; and

(B) the Investigatory Material Compiled for Law Enforcement Purposes System, HEW

(ii) Pursuant to subsection (k)(2) of the Act:

(A) the General Criminal Investigation Files, HEW/SSA;

(B) the Criminal Investigations File, HEW/SSA, and

(C) the Program Integrity Case Files, HEW/SSA.

(iii) Pursuant to subsection (k)(4) of the Act:

(A) the Health and Demographic Survey's Conduct in Random Samples of the U.S. Population;

(B) the Health Manpower Inventories and Surveys;

(C) the Vital Statistics for Births, Deaths, Fetal Deaths, Marriages and Divorces Occurring in the U.S. during Each Year; and,

(D) the Maryland Psychiatric Case Register.

(iv) Pursuant to subsection (k)(5) of the Act:

(A) the Investigatory Material Compiled for Security and Suitability Purposes System, HEW; and,

(B) the Suitability for Employment Records, HEW

(v) Pursuant to subsections (j)(2), (k)(2), and (k)(5) of the Act:

(A) the Clinical Investigatory Records, HEW/FDA;

(B) the Regulated Industry Employee Enforcement Records, HEW/FDA;

(C) the Employee Conduct Investigative Records, HEW/FDA, and

(D) The Service Contractor Employee Investigative Records, HEW/FDA.

(c) Notification of or access to records in exempt systems of records.

(1) Where a system of records is exempt as provided in paragraph (b) of this section, any individual may nonetheless request notification of or access to a record in that system. An individual shall make requests for notification of or access to a record in an exempt system of records in accordance with the procedures of §§ 5b.5 and 5b.6 of this part.

(2) An individual will be granted notification of or access to a record in an exempt system but only to the extent such notification or access would not reveal the identity of a source who furnished the record to the Department under an express promise, and prior to September 27, 1975 an implied promise, that his identity would be held in confidence, if:

(i) The record is in a system of records which is exempt under subsection (k)(2) of the Act and the individual has been, as a result of the maintenance of the record, denied a right, privilege, or benefit to which he would otherwise be eligible; or,

(ii) The record is in a system of records which is exempt under subsection (k)(5) of the Act.

(3) If an individual is not granted notification of or access to a record in a system of records exempt under subsections (k) (2) and (5) of the Act in accordance with this paragraph, he will be informed that the identity of a confidential source would be revealed if notification of or access to the record were granted to him.

(d) Discretionary actions by the responsible Department official. Unless disclosure of a record to the general public is otherwise prohibited by law, the responsible Department official may in his discretion grant notification of or access to a record in a system of records which is exempt under paragraph (b) of this section. Discretionary notification of or access to a record in accordance with this paragraph will not be a precedent for discretionary notification of or access to a similar or related record and will not obligate the responsible Department official to exercise his discretion to grant notification of or access to any other record in a system of records which is exempt under paragraph (b) of this section.

(a) All contracts entered into on or after September 27, 1975 which require a contractor to maintain or on behalf of the Department to maintain, a system of records to accomplish a Department function must contain a provision requiring the contractor to comply with the Act and this part.

(b) All unexpired contracts entered into prior to September 27, 1975 which require the contractor to maintain or on behalf of the Department to maintain, a system of records to accomplish a Department function will be amended as soon as practicable to include a provision requiring the contractor to comply with the Act and this Part. All such contracts must be so amended by July 1, 1976 unless for good cause the appeal authority identified in § 5b.8 of this part authorizes the continuation of the contract without amendment beyond that date.

(c) A contractor and any employee of such contractor shall be considered employees of the Department only for the purposes of the criminal penalties of the Act, 5 U.S.C. 552a(i), and the employee standards of conduct listed in Appendix A of this part where the contract contains a provision requiring the contractor to comply with the Act and this part.

(d) This section does not apply to systems of records maintained by a contractor as a result of his management discretion, e.g., the contractor's personnel records.

§ 5b.13 Fees.

(a) Policy. Where applicable, fees for copying records will be charged in accordance with the schedule set forth in this section. Fees may only be charged where an individual requests that a copy be made of the record to which he is granted access. No fee may be charged for making a search of the system of records whether the search is manual, mechanical, or electronic. Where a copy of the record must be made in order to provide access to the record (e.g., computer printout where no screen reading is available), the copy will be made available to the individual without cost. Where a medical record is made available to a representative designated by the individual or to a physician or health professional designated by a parent or guardian under § 5b.6 of this Part, no fee will be charged.

(b) Fee schedule. The fee schedule for the Department is as follows:

(1) Copying of records susceptible to photocopying—$.10 per page.

(2) Copying records not susceptible to photocopying (e.g., punch cards or magnetic tapes)—at actual cost to be determined on a case-by-case basis.

(3) No charge will be made if the total amount of copying does not exceed $25.

APPENDIX A

EMPLOYEE STANDARDS OF CONDUCT

(a) General. All employees are required to be aware of their responsibilities under the Privacy Act of 1974, 5 U.S.C. 552a. Regulations implementing the Act are set forth in 45 CFR 5b. Instruction on the requirements of the Act and regulation shall be provided to all new employees of the Department. In addition, supervisors shall be responsible for assuring that employees who are working with systems of records or who undertake new duties which require the use of systems of records are informed of their responsibilities. Supervisors shall also be responsible for assuring that all employees who work with such systems of records are periodically reminded of the requirements of the Act and are advised of any new provisions or interpretations of the Act.

(b) Penalties. (1) All employees must guard against improper disclosure of records which are governed by the Act. Because of the serious consequences of improper invasions of personal privacy employees may be subject to disciplinary action and criminal prosecution for knowing and willful violations of the Act and regulation. In addition, employees may also be subject to disciplinary action for unknowing or unwillful violations, where the employee had notice of the provisions of the Act and regulations and failed to inform himself sufficiently or to conduct himself in accordance with the requirements to avoid violations.

(2) The Department may be subjected to civil liability for the following actions undertaken by its employees:

(a) Making a determination under the Act and section 5b.7 and 5b.8 of the regulation not to amend an individual's record in accordance with his request, or failing to make such review in conformity of those provisions;

(b) Refusing to comply with an individual's request for notification of or access to a record pertaining to him;

(c) Failing to maintain any record pertaining to any individual with such accuracy, relevance timeliness, and completeness as is necessary to assure fairness in any determination relating to the qualifications, character, rights, or opportunities of, or benefits to the individual that may be made on the basis of such a record, and consequently a determination is made which is adverse to the individual; or

(d) Failing to comply with any other provision of the Act or any rule promulgated thereunder, in such a way as to have an adverse effect on an individual.

(3) "An employee may be personally subject to criminal liability as set forth below and in 5 U.S.C. 552a(i):

(a) Any officer or employee of an agency, who by virtue of his employment or official position, has possession of, or access to, agency records which contain individually identifiable information the disclosure of which is prohibited by the Act or by rules or regulations established thereunder, and who, knowing that disclosure of the specific material is so prohibited, willfully discloses the material in any manner to any person or agency not entitled to receive it, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not more than $5,000."

(b) "Any officer or employee of any agency who willfully maintains a system of records without meeting the notice requirements [of the Act] shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not more than $5,000."

(c) Rules Governing Employees Not Working With Systems of Records. Employees whose duties do not involve working with systems of records will not generally disclose to any one, without specific authorization from their supervisors, records pertaining to employees or other individuals which by reason of their official duties are available to them. Notwithstanding the above, the following records concerning Federal employees are a matter of public record and no further authorization is necessary for disclosure:

(1) Name and title of individual.

(2) Grade classification or equivalent and annual rate of salary.

(3) Position description.

(4) Location of duty station, including room number and telephone number.

In addition, employees shall disclose records which are listed in the Department's Freedom of Information Regulation as being available to the public. Requests for other records will be referred to the responsible Department official. This does not preclude employees from discussing matters which are known to them personally, and without resort to a record, to official investigators of Federal agencies for official purposes such as suitability checks, Equal Employment Opportunity investigations, adverse action proceedings, grievance proceedings, etc.

(d) Rules governing employees whose duties require use or reference to systems of records. Employees whose official duties require that they refer to, maintain, service, or otherwise deal with systems of records (hereinafter referred to as "Systems Employees") are governed by the general provisions. In addition, extra precautions are required and systems employees are held to higher standards of conduct.

(1) Systems Employees shall:

(a) Be informed with respect to their responsibilities under the Act;

(b) Be alert to possible misuses of the system and report to their supervisors any potential or actual use of the system which they believe is not in compliance with the act and regulation;

(c) Make a disclosure of records within the Department only to an employee who has a legitimate need to know the record in the course of his official duties;

(d) Maintain records as accurately as practicable.

(e) Consult with a supervisor prior to taking any action where they are in doubt whether such action is in conformance with the Act and regulation.

(2) Systems Employees shall not:

(a) Disclose in any form records from a system of records except (1) with the consent or at the request of the subject individual; or (2) where its disclosure is permitted under § 5b.9 of the regulation.

(b) Permit unauthorized individuals to be present in controlled areas. Any unauthorized individuals observed in controlled areas shall be reported to a supervisor or to the guard force.

(c) Knowingly or willfully take action which might subject the Department to civil liability.

(d) Make any arrangements for the design development, or operation of any system of records without making reasonable effort to provide that the system can be maintained in accordance with the Act and regulation.

(e) Contracting officers. In addition to any applicable provisions set forth above, those employees whose official duties involve entering into contracts on behalf of the Department shall also be governed by the following provisions:

(1) Contracts for design, or development of systems and equipment. No contract for the design or development of a system of records, or for equipment to store, service or maintain a system of records shall be entered into unless the contracting officer has made reasonable effort to ensure that the product to be purchased is capable of being used without violation of the Act or regulation. Special attention shall be given to provision of physical safeguards.

(2) Contracts for the operation of systems and equipment. No contract for the design or development of a system of whom he feels appropriate, of all proposed contracts providing for the operation of systems of records shall be made prior to execution of the contracts to determine whether operation of the system of records is for the purpose of accomplishing a Department function. If a determination is made that the operation of the system is to accomplish a Department function, the contracting officer shall be responsible for including in the contract appropriate provisions to apply the provisions of the Act and regulation to the system, including prohibitions against improper release by the contractor, his employees, agents, or subcontractors.

(3) Other service contracts. Contracting officers entering into general service contracts shall be responsible for determining the appropriateness of including provisions in the contract to prevent potential misuse (inadvertent or otherwise) by employees, agents, or subcontractors of the contractor.

(f) Rules Governing Responsible Department Officials. In addition to the requirements for Systems Employees, responsible Department officials shall:

(1) respond to all requests for notification of or access, disclosure, or amendment of records in a timely fashion in accordance with the Act and regulation;

(2) make any amendment of records accurately and in a timely fashion;

(3) inform all persons whom the accounting records show have received copies of the record prior to the amendments of the correction; and

(4) associate any statement of disagreement with the dispute record, and

(a) transmit a copy of the statement to all persons whom the accounting records show have received a copy of the disputed record, and

(b) transmit that statement with any future disclosure.

Appendix B

ROUTINE USES APPLICABLE TO MORE THAN ONE SYSTEM OF RECORDS MAINTAINED BY HEW

(1) In the event that a system of records maintained by this agency or carry out its functions indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute, or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether federal, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

(2) Referrals may be made of assignments of research investigators and project monitors to specific research projects to the Smithsonian Institution to contribute to the Smithsonian Science Information Exchange, Inc.

(3) In the event the Department deems it desirable or necessary, in determining whether particular records are required to be disclosed under the Freedom of Information Act, disclosure may be made of the Department of Justice for the purpose of obtaining its advice.

(4) A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a federal, state or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement records or other pertinent records, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain a record relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license grant or other benefit.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the record is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

(5) In the event that a system of records maintained by this agency to carry out its function indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether state or local charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

(6) Where federal agencies having the power to subpoena other federal agencies' records, such as the Internal Revenue Service or the Civil Rights Commission, issue a subpoena to the Department for records in this system of records, the Department will make such records available.

(7) Where a contract between a component of the Department and a labor organization recognized under E.O. 11491 provides that the agency will disclose personal records relevant to the organization's mission, records in this system of records may be disclosed to such organization.

(8) Where the appropriate official of the Department, pursuant to the Department's Freedom of Information Regulation determines that it is in the public interest to disclose a record which is otherwise exempt from mandatory disclosure, disclosure may be made from this system of records.

(9) The Department contemplates that it will contract with a private firm for the purpose of collating, analyzing, aggregating or otherwise refining records in this system. Relevant records will be disclosed to such a contractor. The contractor shall be required to maintain Privacy Act safeguards with respect to such records.

(10)-(99) [Reserved]

(100) To the Department of Justice or other appropriate Federal agencies in defending claims against the United States when the claim is based upon an individual's mental or physical condition and is alleged to have arisen because of activities of the Public Health Service in connection with such individual.

(101) To individuals and organizations, deemed qualified by the Secretary to carry out specific research solely for the purpose of carrying out such research.

(102) To organizations deemed qualified by the Secretary to carry out quality assessment, medical audits or utilization review.

(103) Disclosures in the course of employee discipline or competence determination proceedings.

Subpart A—General Provisions

§ 21.1 Scope.

(a) This part establishes procedures to implement the Privacy Act of 1974 (5 U.S.C. 552a). It applies to records about individuals that are maintained, collected, used, or disclosed by the Food and Drug Administration and contained in Privacy Act Record Systems.

(b) This part does not:

(1) Apply to Food and Drug Administration record systems that are not Privacy Act Record Systems or make available to an individual records that may include references to him but that are not retrieved by his name or other personal identifier, whether or not contained in a Privacy Act Record System. Part 20 of this chapter (the public information regulations) and other regulations referred to therein determined when records are made available in such cases.

(2) Make any records available to persons other than (i) individuals who are the subjects of the records, (ii) persons accompanying such individuals under § 21.43, (iii) persons provided records pursuant to individual consent under § 21.72, or (iv) persons acting on behalf of such individuals as legal guardians under § 21.75. Part 20 of this chapter (the public information regulations) and other regulations referred to therein determine when Food and Drug Administration records are disclosable to members of the public generally. Subpart G of this part limits the provisions of Part 20 of this chapter with respect to disclosures of records about individuals from Privacy Act Record Systems to persons other than individuals who are the subjects of the records.

(3) Make available information compiled by the Food and Drug Administration in reasonable anticipation of court litigation or formal administrative proceedings. The availability of such information to any member of the public, including any subject individual or party to such litigation or proceeding shall be governed by applicable constitutional principles, rules of discovery, and Part 20 of this chapter (the public information regulations).

(4) Apply to personnel records maintained by the Division of Personnel Management, Food and Drug Administration, except as provided in § 21.32. Such records are subject to regulations of the Civil Service Commission in 5 CFR Parts 293, 294, and 297.

§ 21.3 Definitions.

As used in this part:

(a) "Individual" means a natural living person who is a citizen of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence. Individual does not include sole proprietorships, partnerships, or corporations engaged in the production or distribution of products regulated by the Food and Drug Administration or with which the Food and Drug Administration has business dealings. Any such business enterprise that is identified by the name of one or more individuals is not an individual within the meaning of this part. Employees of regulated business enterprises are considered individuals. Accordingly, physicians and other health professionals who are engaged in business as proprietors of establishments regulated by the Food and Drug Administration are not considered individuals, however physicians and other health professionals who are engaged in clinical investigations, employed by regulated enterprises, or the subjects of records concerning their own health, e.g., exposure to excessive radiation, are considered individuals. Food and Drug Administration employees, consultants, and advisory committee members, State and local officials, and consumers are considered individuals.

(b) "Records about individuals" means items, collections, or groupings of information about individuals contained in Privacy Act Record Systems including, but not limited to education, financial transactions, medical history, criminal history, or employment history that contain names or personal identifiers.

(c) "Privacy Act Record System" means a system of records about individuals under the control of the Food and Drug Administration from which information is retrieved by individual names or other personal identifiers. The term includes such a system of records whether subject to a notice published by the Food and Drug Administration, the Department, or another agency. Where records are retrieved only by personal identifiers other than individual names, a system of records is not a Privacy Act Record System if the Food and Drug Administration cannot, by reference to information under its control or by reference to records of contractors that are subject to this part under § 21.30, ascertain the identity of individuals who are the subjects of the records.

(d) "Personal identifiers" includes individual names, identifying numbers, symbols, or other identifying designations assigned to individuals. "Personal identifiers" does not include names, numbers, symbols, or other identifying designations that identify products, establishments, or actions.

(e) "Personnel records" means any personal information maintained in a Privacy Act Record System that is needed for personnel management programs or processes such as staffing, employee development, retirement, and grievances and appeals.

(f) "Department" means Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

§ 21.10 Policy concerning records about individuals.

Information about individuals in Food and Drug Administration records shall be collected, maintained, used, and disseminated so as to protect the right to privacy of the individual to the fullest possible extent consistent with laws relating to disclosure of information to the general public, the law enforcement responsibilities of the agency, and administrative and program management needs.

Subpart B—Food and Drug Administration Privacy Act Record Systems

§ 21.20 Procedures for notice of Food and Drug Administration Privacy Act Record Systems.

(a) The Food and Drug Administration shall issue in the FEDERAL REGISTER on or before August 30 of each year a notice concerning each Privacy Act Record System as defined in § 21.3(c) that is not covered by a notice published by the Department, the Civil Service Commission, or another agency.

(b) The notice shall include the following information:

(1) The name and location(s) of the system.

(2) The categories of individuals about whom records are maintained in the system.

(3) The categories of records maintained in the system.

(4) The authority for the system.

(5) Each routine use of the records contained in the system (i.e., use outside the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare that is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected and described in the notice) including the categories of users and the purposes of such use.

(6) The policies and practices of the Food and Drug Administration regarding storage, retrievability (i.e., how the records are indexed and what intra-agency uses are made of the records), access controls, retention, and disposal of the records in that system.

(7) The title and business address of the offical who is responsible for the system of records.

(8) The notification procedure, i.e., the address of the FDA Privacy Coordinator, whom any individual can contact to seek notification whether the system contains a record about him.

(9) The record access and contest procedures, which shall be the same as the notification procedure except that a reference shall be included to any exemption from access and contest.

(10) Where any records in the system are subject to an exemption under § 21.61, a reference to this exemption.

(11) The categories of sources of records in the system.

§ 21.21 Changes in systems and new systems.

(a) The Food and Drug Administration shall notify the designated Department official, the Office of Management and Budget (Information Systems Division), and the Congress of proposals to change or establish Privacy Act Record Systems in accordance with procedures of the Department and the Office of Management and Budget.

(b) The Food and Drug Administration shall issue a notice, in accordance with paragraph (d) of this section and § 21.20(b), of any change in a Privacy Act Record System which:

(1) Increases the number or types of indivduals about whom records are maintained;

(2) Expands the type or amount of information about individuals that is maintained;

(3) Increases the number of categories of agencies or other persons who may have access to those records;

(4) Alters the manner in which the records are organized so as to change the nature or scope of those records, such as the combining of two or more existing systems;

(5) Modifies the way in which the system operates or its location(s) in a manner that alters the process by which individuals can exercise their rights under this part, such as the ways in which they seek access or request amendment of a record; or

(6) Changes the equipment configuration on which the system is operated so as to create the potential for greater access, such as adding a telecommunications capability.

(c) The Food and Drug Administration shall issue a notice of its intention to establish new Privacy Act Record Systems in accordance with paragraph (d) of this section and § 21.20(b).

(d) Notices under paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section shall be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER for comment at least 30 days prior to implementation of the proposed changes or establishment of new systems. Interested persons shall have the opportunity to submit written data, views, or arguments on such proposed new uses or systems.

Subpart C—Requirements for Specific Categories of Records

(a) Systems of records that are required to be operated, or as a matter of practical necessity must be operated, by contractors to accomplish Food and Drug Administration functions, from which information is retrieved by individual names or other personal identifiers, may be subject to the provisions of this part. If the contract is agreed to on or after September 27, 1975, the criminal penalties set forth in 5 U.S.C. 552a(i) are applicable to such contractor, and any employee of such contractor, for disclosures prohibited in § 21.71 or for maintenance of a system of records without notice as required in § 21.20.

(b) A contract is considered to accomplish a Food and Drug Administration function if the proposal or activity it supports is principally operated on behalf of and is under the direct management of the Food and Drug Administration. Systems of records from which information is retrieved by individual names or other personal identifiers and that are operated under contracts to accomplish Food and Drug Administration functions are deemed to be maintained by the agency and shall be subject to the procedures and requrements of this part.

(c) A contract is not considered to accomplish a Food and Drug Administration fuction if the program or activity it supports is not principally operated on behalf of, or is not under the direct management of, the Food and Drug Administration. For example, this part does not apply to systems of records:

(1) Operated under contract with the Food and Drug Administration by State or local government agencies, or organizations representing such agencies, when such agencies or organizations are also performing State or local government functions.

(2) Operated by contractors with the Food and Drug Administration by individuals or organizations whose primary function is delivery of health services, such as hospitals, physicians, pharmacists, and other health professionals, and that report information concerning products, e.g., injuries or product defects, to the Food and Drug Administration. Before such contractors submit information to the Food and Drug Administration, the names and other personal identifiers of patients or research subjects in any medical or similar report, test, study, or other research project shall be deleted, unless the contract provides otherwiser. If the Food and Drug Administration subsequently needs the names of such individuals, a separate request will be made.

(3) Relating to individuals whom the contractor employs, or with whom the contractor otherwise deals, in the course of providing goods and services to the Food and Drug Administration.

(4)Operated under grants.

(d) The requirements of this part shall apply when a contractor who operates a system of records not subject to this part reports to the Food and Drug Administration information that is a system of records about individuals from which personal information is retrieved by names or other personal identifiers. Where the information would be a new Privacy Act Record System, or a change in an existing Privacy Act Record System of a type described in § 21.21, the Food and Drug Administration shall comply with the requirements of § 21.21.

(e) The Food and Drug Administration will review all contracts before award to determine whether operation of a system from which information is retrieved by individual names or other personal identifiers will be required of the contractor, by the terms of the contract or as a matter of practical necessity. If such operation will be required, the solicitation and contract shall include the following clause, or a clause of similar effect:

Whenever the contractor or any of his employees is required by this contract to operate a system of records from which information is retrieved by individual names or other personal identifiers in order to accomplish a Food and Drug Administration function, the contractor and every employee is considered to be an employee of the Food and Drug Administration and shall operate such system of records in accordance with the Privacy Act of 1974 (5 U.S.C. 552a), regulations of the Food and Drug Administration in 21 CFR Part 21, and rules of conduct that apply to Food and Drug Administration employees who work with such systems of records. The contractor and his employees are subject to the criminal penalties set forth in 5 U.S.C. 552a(i) for violations of the Privacy Act.

§ 21.31 Records stored by the General Services Administration and archival records.

(a) Food and Drug Administration records that are stored, processed, and serviced by the General Services Administration in accordance with 44 U.S.C. 3103 shall be considered to be maintained by the Food and Drug Administration. The General Services Administration shall not disclose the record except to authorized Food and Drug Administration employees.

(b) Each Food and Drug Administration record pertaining to an identifiable individual that was transferred to the National Archives of the United States as a record determined by the National Archives to have sufficient historical or other value to warrant its continued preservation shall be considered to be maintained by the National Archives and shall not be subject to the provisions of this part.

21.32 Personnel records.

(a) Present and former Food and Drug Administration employees desiring access to personnel records about themselves should consult system notices applicable to the agency's personnel records that are published by the Civil Service Commission and the Department as well as any notice issued by the Food and Drug Administration.

(b)(1) The procedures of the Civil Service Commission at 5 CFR Parts 293, 294, and 297, rather than the procedures in § 21.33 and Subparts D through F of this part, govern systems of personnel records about Food and Drug Administration employees that are subject to notices published by the Commission, i.e., systems that:

(i) The Commission maintains.

(ii) Are maintained by the Division of Personnel Management, Food and Drug Administration.

(iii) Are maintained by Department Regional Offices, concerning field employees.

(2) The Commission's procedures may, if necessary, be supplemented in the Food and Drug Administration Staff Manual Guide. Current Food and Drug Administration employees should mail or deliver written requests under the Privacy Act for access to personnel records described in this paragraph to the Commission in accordance with 5 CFR 297.106, the Director, Division of Personnel Management (HFA-400), Food and Drug Administration, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20857, or the personnel officer in the servicing HEW Regional Personnel Office. An employee may consult with or direct his request to the FDA Privacy Coordinator (HFC-18). Requests for access to personnel records of former employees that are located in Federal records centers should be directed to the Commission. Requests under the Privacy Act for amendment of personnel records should be directed to these same officials who are responsible for access to personnel records under this paragraph.

(3) With respect to records subject to paragraph (b)(1) of this section:

(i) Refusal to grant access to a record or refusal to amend a record upon request of an employee, shall only be made by the Associate Commissioner for Administration or his designate; and

(ii) Appeals of refusals under paragraph (b)(3)(i) of this section may be made to the Civil Service Commission in accordance with 5 CFR 297.108(g)(3) and 297.113(b).

(c) Any other Privacy Act Record Systems that contain personnel records, or records that otherwise concern agency employees, that are maintained by offices of the Food and Drug Administration rather than the Division of Personnel Management but which are not subject to the Department's notice for personnel records in operating offices are subject to this part, except that refusals under this part to grant access to or amend records about present or former employees shall be made by the Associate Commissioner for Administration rather than the Associate Commissioner for Compliance.

(d) The following procedures shall govern requests under the Privacy Act for personnel records that are maintained by the operating offices of the Food and Drug Administration in which employees work:

(1) An employee shall upon request be told whether records about him are maintained. An employee shall be given access to records about himself that are subject to this paragraph in response to an oral or written request and through informal procedures, rather than the procedures specified in §§ 21.40 through 21.43.

(2) Employee identity may be verified, if necessary, by an FDA ID card rather than in accordance with § 21.44.

(3) Generally no fee shall be charged for records requested under this paragraph. However, in cases where the records requested are voluminous, a fee may be charged in accordance with § 21.45.

(4) Records that are subject to this paragraph shall be available for access to an individual, except to the extent that access is refused by the Associate Commissioner for Administration or his designate on the ground that the record is subject to an exemption under § 21.61 or 5 CFR 297.111.

(5) Requests under the Privacy Act for amendment of records subject to this paragraph should be directed to the Director, Division of Personnel Management (HFA-400). Such requests shall be reviewed in accordance with Subpart E of this part. Refusal to amend a record subject to this paragraph (d)(5) shall only be made by the Associate Commissioner for Administration or his designate.

(6) Appeals of refusals under paragraph (d) (4) or (5) of this section may be made to the Commissioner of Food and Drugs, except where the Associate Commissioner for Administration or his designate indicates with his refusal that the appeal should be made to the Civil Service Commission.

(7) Disclosures of records subject to this paragraph are subject to Subpart G of this part.

§ 21.33 Medical records.

(a) In general, an individual is entitled to have access to any medical records about himself in Privacy Act Record Systems maintained by the Food and Drug Administration.

(b) The Food and Drug Administration may apply the following special procedures in disclosing medical records to an individual:

(1) The agency may review the records to determine whether disclosure of the record to the individual who is the subject of the records might have an adverse effect on him. If it is determined that disclosure is not likely to have an adverse effect on the individual, the record shall be disclosed to him. If it is determined that disclosure is very likely to have an adverse effect on the individual, he may be requested to designate, in writing, a representative to whom the record shall be disclosed. Such representative may be a physician, other health professional, or other responsible person who would be willing to review the record and discuss it with the individual.

(2) The availability of the record may be subject to any procedures for disclosure to an individual of medical records about himself under Part 20 of this chapter, in addition to or in lieu of the procedures in paragraph (b)(1), that are not inconsistent with § 21.41(f).

Subpart D—Procedures for Notification of and Access to Records in Privacy Act Record Systems

§ 21.40 Procedures for submitting requests for notification and access.

(a) An individual may request that the Food and Drug Administration notify him whether a Privacy Act Record System contains records about him that are retrieved by reference to his name or other personal identifier. An individual may at the same time, or after receiving notification that such a record about him exists, request that he be given access to the record.

(b) An individual desiring notification or access to records shall mail or deliver a request for records in any Food and Drug Administration Privacy Act Record System to the FDA Privacy Coordinator (HFC-18), Food and Drug Administration, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20857.

(c) Requests shall be in writing and shall name the Privacy Act Record System or Systems concerning which the individual requests notification of whether there are records about him that are retrieved by reference to his name or other personal identifier. To help assure a prompt response, an individual should indicate that he is making a "Privacy Act Request" on the envelope and in a prominent manner in the letter.

(d) An individual who merely wishes to be notified whether a Privacy Act Record System contains a record about him ordinarily need not provide any verification of his identity other than his name. The mere fact that the Food and Drug Administration has a record about an individual in any of its Privacy Act Records Systems would not be likely to constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. Where mere disclosure of the fact that a record about the individual exists would be a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, further verification of the identity of the individual shall be required.

(e) An individual who requests that he be given access to a copy of records about himself, if any exist, would indicate whether he prefers (1) to have copies of any such records mailed to him in accordance with § 21.43(a)(1), which may involve a fee under § 21.45, including information to verify his identify under § 21.44 or (2) to use the procedures for access in person under § 21.43(a)(2).

(f) A request for notification and access may be submitted under this subpart concerning any Privacy Act Record System that is exempt under § 21.61, as indicated in the notice for the system. An individual seeking access to records under § 21.65(b)(2) to investigatory records compiled for law enforcement purposes other than criminal law enforcement purposes should submit a description of the right, benefit, or privilege that he believes he was denied as the result of the Food and Drug Administration's maintenance of the records. Where the system is exempt under § 21.61, and access to the requested records is not granted under § 21.65, the request shall be handled under ther provisions of Part 20 of this chapter (the public information regulations).

(g) The Public Records and Documents Center shall maintain and make available copies of the forms (OF-203, Privacy Act Request forms) to assist individuals in filing requests under § 21.40.

§ 21.41 Processing of requests.

(a) An individual or his guardian under § 21.75 shall not be required to show any justification or need to obtain notification under § 21.42 or access to a record under § 21.43.

(b) The Food and Drug Administration will determine whether a request by an individual for record about himself is appropriately treated as a request under this subpart, or under the provisions of Part 20 of this chapter (the public information regulations), or both. Where appropriate, the Food and Drug Administration will consult with the individual concerning the appropriate treatment of the request.

(c) The FDA Privacy Coordinator (HFC-18) in the Public Records and Documents Center shall be responsible for the handling of Privacy Act requests received by the Food and Drug Administration. Requests mailed or delivered to any other office shall be promptly redirected to the FDA Privacy Coordinator. Where this procedure would unduly delay the agency's response, however, the agency employee who received the request should consult with the FDA Privacy Coordinator and obtain advice as to whether the employee can respond to the request directly.

(d) Upon receipt of a request by the FDA Privacy Coordinator, a record shall promptly be made that a request has been received and the date.

(e) A letter in accordance with § 21.42 responding to the request for notification shall issue as promptly as possible after receipt of the request by the Food and Drug Administration. Upon determination by the Public Records and Documents Center that a request for access to records is appropriately treated as a request under Part 20 rather than this Part 21, or under both parts, the time limitations prescribed in § 21.41 of this chapter shall apply. In any case, access to available records shall be provided as promptly as possible.

(f) Except as provided in § 21.32, an individual's access to records about himself that are retrieved by his name of other personal identifiers and contained in any Privacy Act Record System may only be denied by the Associate Commissioner for Compliance or his designate. An individual shall not be denied access to any record that is otherwise available to him under this part except on the grounds that it is exempt under § 21.61 and not required to be disclosed under § 21.65(a)(2), that it was compiled in reasonable anticipation of court litigation of formal administrative proceedings, or to the extent that it is exempt or prohibited from disclosure because it includes a trade secret or commercial or financial information that is privileged or confidential information the disclosure of which would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of the personal privacy of another individual.

(g) The FDA Privacy Coordinator shall assure that records are maintained of the number, status, and disposition of requests under this subpart, including the number of requests for records exempt from access under this subpart and other information required for purposes of the annual report to Congress under the Privacy Act. These temporary administrative management records shall not be considered to be Privacy Act Record Systems. All records required to be kept under this paragraph shall only include requesting individuals' names or personal identifiers for so long as any request for notification access, or amendment is pending. The identity of individuals making requests under this subpart shall be regarded as confidential and shall not be disclosed under Part 20 of this chapter (the public information regulations) to any other person or agency except as is necessary for the processing of requests under this subpart.

§ 21.42 Responses to requests.

(a) The FDA shall repond to an individual's request for notification as to whether a Privacy Act Record System contains records about him that are retrieved by his name or other personal identifier by sending a letter under this paragraph.

(1) If there are no records about the individual that are retrieved by his name or other personal identifier in the named Privacy Act Record System, or the requester is not an "individual" under § 21.3(a), the letter shall so state. Where appropriate, the letter shall indicate that the Food and Drug Administration's public information regulations in Part 20 of this chapter prescribe general rules governing the availability of information to members of the public, and that a request may be made in accordance with Part 20 of this chapter for records that are not retrieved by the requester's name or other personal identifier from a Privacy Act Record System.

(2) If there are records about the individual that are retrieved by his name or other personal identifier and the named Privacy Act Record System is not exempt from individual access and contest under § 21.61, or the system is exempt but access is allowed or required under § 21.65, the letter shall inform him that the records exist and shall either:

(i) Enclose a copy of the records under § 21.43(a)(1) or indicate that the records will be sent under separate cover, where there has been adequate verification of the identity of the individual under § 21.44 and the fees under § 21.45 do not exceed $25, or

(ii) Inform the individual of the procedures to obtain access to the records by mail or in person under § 21.43(a)(2), as well as the approximate dates by which the requested records can be provided (if the records are not then available), the locations at which access in person may be had, and the information needed, if any, to verify the identity of the individual under § 21.44.

(3) If the named Privacy Act Record System contains records about the individual that are retrieved by his name or other personal identifier, and the system is exempt from individual access and contest under § 21.61 and access is not allowed or required under § 21.65, the letter should inform him that the records are exempted from access and contest by § 21.61. The letter shall also inform him if the records sought are not available because they were compiled in reasonable anticipation of court litigation or formal administrative proceedings or are otherwise not available under § 21.41(b). Where appropriate, the letter shall also indicate whether the records are available under Part 20 of this chapter (the public information regulations), and it may disclose the records in accordance with Part 20.

(4) If the named Privacy Act Record System contains records about the individual that are retrieved by his name or other personal identifier, but a final determination has not yet been made with respect to disclosure of all of the records covered by the request, e.g., because it is neccessary to consult another person or agency having an interest in the confidentiality of the records, the letter shall explain the circumstances and indicate when a final answer will be given.

(b) Except as provided in § 21.32, access to a record may only be denied by the Associate Commissioner for Compliance or his designate. If access to any record is denied, wholly or in substantial part, the letter shall state the right of the individual to appeal to the Commissioner of Food and Drugs.

(c) If a request for a copy of the records will result in a fee of more than $25, the letter shall specify or estimate the fee involved. Where the individual has requested a copy of any records about him and copying the records would result in a fee of over $50, the Food and Drug Administration shall require advance deposit as well as payment of any amount not yet received as a result of any previous request by the individual for a record about himself, under this subpart or Part 20 of this chapter (the public information regulations) before the records are made available. If the fee is less than $50, prepayment shall not be required unless payment has not yet been received for records disclosed as a result of a previous request by the individual for a record about himself under this subpart or Part 20 of this chapter.

§ 21.43 Access to requested records.

(a) Access may be granted to requested records by:

(1) Mailing a copy of the records to the requesting individual, or

(2) Permitting the requesting individual to review the record in person between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. at the office of the FDA Privacy Coodinator, at the Public Records and Documents Center at the address shown in § 20.30 of this chapter, or at any Food and Drug Administration field office listed in § 5.115 of this chapter, or at another location or time upon which the Food and Drug Administration and the individual agree. Arrangements for such review can be made by consultation between the FDA Privacy Coordinator and the individual. An individual seeking to review records in person shall generally be permitted access to the file copy, except that where the records include nondisclosable information, a copy shall be made of that portion of the records, with the nondisclosable information blocked out. Where the individual is not given a copy of the record to retain, no charge shall be made for the costs of copying a record to make it available to an individual who reviews a record in person under this paragraph.

(b) An individual may request that a record be disclosed to or discussed in the presence of another individual, such as an attorney. The individual may be required to furnish a written statement authorizing the disclosure or discussion in such other individual's presence.

(c) The Food and Drug Administration will make every reasonable effort to assure that records made available under this section can be understood by the individual, such as by providing an oral or written explanation of the records.

§ 21.44 Verification of identity.

(a) An individual seeking access to records in a Privacy Act Record System may be required to comply with reasonable requirements to enable the Food and Drug Administration to determine his identity. The identification required shall be suitable considering the nature of the records sought. No identification shall be required to receive access to information that is required to be disclosed to any member of the public under Part 20 of this chapter (the public information regulations).

(b) An individual who appears in person for access to records about himself shall be required to provide at least one document to identify himself, e.g., driver's license, passport, or alien or voter registration card to verify his identity. If an individual does not have any such document or requests access to records about himself without appearing in person under circumstances in which his identity cannot be verified from the request itself, he shall be required to certify in writing that he is the individual he claims to be and that he understands that the knowing and willful request for or acquisition of a record pertaining to an individual under false pretenses is a criminal offense subject to a $5,000 fine.

(c) In making requests under § 21.75, a parent of a minor child or legal guardian of an incompetent individual may be required to verify his relationship to the minor child or the incompetent individual, in addition to verifying his own identity, by providing a copy of the minor's birth certificate, a court order, or other evidence of guardianship.

(d) Where an individual seeks access to particularly sensitive records, such as medical records, the individual may be required to provide additional information beyond that specified in paragraph (b) or (c) of this section, such as the individual's years of attendance at a particular educational institution, rank attained in the uniformed services, date or place of birth, names of parents, an occupation, or the specific times the individual received medical treatment.

§ 21.45 Fees.

(a) Where applicable, fees for copying records shall be charged in accordance with the schedule set forth in this section. Fees may only be charged where an individual has requested that a copy be made of a record to which he is granted access. No fee may be charged for making a search of a Privacy Act Record System whether the search is manual, mechanical, or electronic. Where a copy of the record must be made to provide access to the record, e.g., computer printout where no screen reading is available, the copy shall be made available to the individual without cost. Where a medical record is made available to a representative designated by the individual under § 21.33, no fee will be charged.

(b) The fee schedule is as follows:

(1) Copying of records susceptible to photocopying—$.10 per page.

(2) Copying of records not susceptible to photocopying, e.g., punch cards or magnetic tapes—at actual cost to be determined on a case-by-case basis.

(3) No charge will be made if the total amount of copying for an individual does not exceed $25.

(c) When a fee is to be assessed, the individual shall be notified prior to the processing of the copies, and be given an opportunity to amend his request. Payment shall be made by check or money order made payable to the "Food and Drug Administration" and shall be sent to the Accounting Operations Branch (HFA-210), Food and Drug Administration, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20857. Advance deposit shall be required where the total amount exceeds $50.

Subpart E—Procedures for Requests for Amendment of Records

§ 21.50 Procedures for submitting requests for amendment of records.

(a) An individual who received access to a record about himself under Subpart D of this part may request that the record be amended if he believes that the record or an item of information is not accurate, relevant to a Food and Drug Administration purpose, timely, or complete.

(b) Amendments under this subpart shall not violate existing statute, regulation, or administrative procedure.

(1) This subpart does not permit alteration of evidence presented in the course of judicial proceedings or Food and Drug Administration adjudicatory or rule making proceedings or collateral attack upon that which has already been the subject of any such proceedings.

(2) If the accuracy, relevancy, timeliness, or completeness of the records may be contested in any other pending or imminent agency proceeding, the Food and Drug Administration may refer the individual to the other proceeding as the appropriate means to obtain relief. If the accuracy, relevance, timeliness, or completeness of a record is, or has been, an issue in another agency proceeding, the request under this section shall be disposed of in accordance with the decision in the other proceeding, absent unusual circumstances.

(c) Requests to amend records shall be submitted in writing, to the FDA Privacy Coordinator in accordance with § 21.40(b). Such requests shall include information sufficient to enable the Food and Drug Administration to locate the record, a brief description of the items of information requested to be amended and the reasons why the record should be amended together with any appropriate documentation or arguments in support of the requested amendment. An edited copy of the record showing the described amendment may be included. Verification of identity should be provided in accordance with § 21.44.

(d) Written acknowledgement to the receipt of a request to amend a record shall be provided within 10 working days to the individual who requested the amendment. Such acknowledgement may request any additional information needed to verify identity or make a determination. No acknowledgement need be made if the request can be reviewed, processed, and the individual notified of the agency's agreement with the request or refusal within the 10-day period.

§ 21.51 Responses to requests for amendment of records.

(a) The Food and Drug Administration shall take one of the following actions on the request for amendment of records as promptly as possible:

(1) Amend any portion of the record which the agency has determined, based upon a preponderance of the evidence, is not accurate, relevant to a Food and Drug Administration purpose, timely, or complete, and, in accordance with paragraph (d)(3) of this section, inform the individual and previous recipients of the record that has been amended of the amendment.

(2) Inform the individual of its refusal to amend any portion of the record in the manner requested, the reason for the refusal, and the opportunity for administrative appeal to the Commissioner of Food and Drugs. Except as provided in § 21.32, such refusal may only be issued by the Associate Commissioner for Compliance or his designate.

(3) Where another agency was the source of and has control of the record, refer the request to that agency.

(b) The agency may, for good cause, extend the period for taking action an additional 30 working days if notice is provided to the individual explaining the circumstances of the delay.

(c) The officials charged with reviewing a record to determine how to respond to a request to amend it, shall assess its accuracy, relevance to a Food and Drug Administration purpose, timeliness, or completeness. The determination shall be made in the light of the purpose for which the records or system is used, the agency's need for the record, and the possible adverse consequences to the individual from the record if not amended. Whenever the Food and Drug Administration receives a request for deletion of a record, or portions of a record, it shall consider anew whether the contested information in the record is relevant and necessary to a Food and Drug Administration purpose.

(d) If the Food and Drug Administration agrees with an individual's request, it shall take the following actions:

(1) So inform the individual in writing.

(2) In accordance with statute, regulation, or procedure, amend the record to make it accurate, relevant to a Food and Drug Administration purpose, timely, or complete, making note of the date and fact of the amendment.

(3) If an accounting was made under § 21.71(d) of a disclosure of the record under § 21.71(a), provide a copy of the record as amended, to all previous recipients of the record.

§ 21.52 Administrative appeals of refusals to amend records.

(a) If an individual disagrees with a refusal under § 21.51(a)(2) to amend a record, he may appeal that refusal to the Commissioner of Food and Drugs, Rm. 14-81, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20857.

(b) If, upon appeal, the Commissioner upholds the refusal to amend the record as requested, he shall inform the individual:

(1) Of his decision and the reasons for it.

(2) Of the individual's right to file with the Food and Drug Administration a concise statement of the individual's reasons for disagreeing with the agency's decision not to amend the record as requested.

(3) That the statement of disagreement will be made available to all persons listed in an accounting as having previously received the record and any person to whom the record is subsequently disclosed together with, in the discretion of the Food and Drug Administration, a brief statement summarizing its reasons for refusing to amend the record. Any individual who includes false information in the statement of disagreement filed with the Food and Drug Administration may be subject to penalties under 18 U.S.C. 1001, the False Reports to the Government Act.

(4) That the individual has a right to seek judicial review of the refusal to amend the record.

(c) If the Commissioner on administrative appeal or a court on judicial review determines that the record should be amended in accordance with the individual's request, the Food and Drug Administration shall proceed in accordance with § 21.51(d).

(d) A final determination on the individual's administrative appeal of the initial refusal to amend the record shall be concluded within 30 working days of the request for such review under paragraph (a) of this section, unless the Commissioner extends such period for good cause and informs the individual in writing of the reasons for the delay and of the approximate date on which a decision of the appeal can be expected.

§ 21.53 Notation and disclosure of disputed records.

When an individual has filed a statement of disagreement under § 21.52(b)(2), the Food and Drug Administration shall:

(a) Mark any portion of the record that is disputed to assure that the record will clearly show that portion is disputed whenever the record is disclosed.

(b) In any subsequent disclosure under § 21.70 or § 21.71(a), provide a copy of the statement of disagreement and, if the Food and Drug Administration deems it appropriate, a concise statement of the agency's reasons for not making the amendment(s) requested. While the individual shall have access to any such statement, it shall not be subject to a request for amendment under § 21.50.

(c) If an accounting was made under § 21.71(d) and (e) of a disclosure of the record under § 21.71(a), provide to all previous receipients of the record a copy of the statement of disagreement and the agency statement, if any.

§ 21.54 Amended or disputed records received from other agencies.

Whenever the Food and Drug Administration is notified that a record that it received from another agency was amended or is the subject of a statement of disagreement, the Food and Drug Administration shall:

(a) Discard the record, or clearly note the amendment or the fact of disagreement in its copy of the record, and

(b) Refer persons who subsequently request the record to the agency that provided it.

(c) If an accounting was made under § 21.71 (d) and (e) of the disclosure of the record under § 21.71(a), inform all previous recipients of the record about the amendment or provide to them the statement of disagreement and the agency statement, if any.

Subpart F—Exemptions

§ 21.60 Policy.

It is the policy of the Food and Drug Administration that record systems should be exempted from the Privacy Act only to the extent essential to the performance of law enforcement functions under the laws that are administered and enforced by the Food and Drug Administration or that govern the agency.

§ 21.61 Exempt systems.

(a) Investigatory records compiled for law enforcement purposes, including criminal law enforcement purposes, in the Food and Drug Administration Privacy Act Record Systems listed in paragraph (b) of this section are exempt from the following provisions of the Privacy Act (5 U.S.C. 552a) and of this part:

(1) Such records are exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(3) and § 21.71(e)(4), requiring that an individual be provided with the accounting of disclosures of records about himself from a Privacy Act Record System.

(2) Except where access is required under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2) and § 21.65(a)(2), (such records are exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (d)(1) through (4) and (f)) and §§ 21.40 through 21.54, requiring procedures for an individual to be given notification of and access to records about himself in a Privacy Act Record System and to be allowed to challenge the accuracy, relevance, timeliness, and completeness of such records.

(3) Such records are exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(4) (G) and (H) and § 21.20(b)(10) requiring inclusion in the notice for the system of information about agency procedures for notification, access, and contest.

(4) Such records are exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(3) requiring that individuals asked to supply information be provided a form outlining the authority for the request, the purposes for which the information will be used, the routine uses in the notice for the Privacy Act Record System, and the consequences to the individual of not providing the information, but only with respect to records compiled by the Food and Drug Administration in a criminal law enforcement investigation where the conduct of the investigation would be prejudiced by such procedures.

(b) Records in the following Food and Drug Administration Privacy Act Record Systems that concern individuals who are subject to Food and Drug Administration enforcement action and consist of investigatory records compiled for law enforcement purposes, including criminal law enforcement purposes, are exempt under 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) and (k)(2) from the provisions enumerated in paragraph (a) of this section:

(1) Clinical Investigator Records, FDA-3.

(2) Regulated Industry Employee Enforcement Records, FDA-10.

(3) Employee Conduct Investigative Records, FDA-13.

(4) Service Contractor Employees Investigative Records, FDA-14.

(c) The systems described in paragraph (b)(3) and (4) of this section include investigatory records compiled solely for the purpose of determining suitability, eligibility, or qualification for Federal civilian employment, military service, Federal contracts, and access to classified information. These records are exempt from disclosure under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(5) to the extent that the disclosure would reveal the identity of a source who furnished information to the Government under a promise of confidentiality, which must be an express promise if the information was furnished after September 27, 1975. Any individual who is refused access to a record that would reveal a confidential source shall be advised in a general way that the record includes information that would reveal a confidential source.

§ 21.65 Access to records in exempt systems.

(a) Where a Privacy Act Record System is exempt and the requested records are unavailable under § 21.61, an individual may nevertheless make a request under § 21.40 for notification concerning whether any records about him exist and request access to such records where they are retrieved by his name or other personal identifier.

(b) An individual making a request under paragraph (a) of this section:

(1) May be given access to the records where available under Part 20 of this chapter (the public information regulations) or the Commissioner may, in his discretion, entertain a request under any or all of the provisions of §§ 21.40 through 21.54; and

(2) Shall be given access upon request if the records requested are subject to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2) and not to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) (i.e., because they consist of investigatory material compiled for law enforcement purposes other than criminal law enforcement purposes) and maintenance of the records resulted in denial to the individual of any right, benefit, or privilege to which he would otherwise be entitled by Federal law, or for which he would otherwise be eligible. An individual given access to a record under this paragraph (b)(2) is not entitled to seek amendment under Subpart E of this part. The FDA may refuse to disclose a record that would reveal the identity of a source who furnished information to the Government under a promise of confidentiality, which must be an express promise if the information was furnished on or after September 27, 1975. Any individual refused access to a record that would reveal a confidential source shall be advised in a general way that the record contains information that would reveal a confidential source.

(c) The Commissioner shall not make available any record that is prohibited from public disclosure under § 20.82(b) of this chapter.

(c) Discretionary disclosure of a record pursuant to paragraph (b)(1) of this section shall not set a precedent for discretionary disclosure of a similar or related record and shall not obligate the Commissioner to exercise his discretion to disclose any other record in a system that is exempt under § 21.61.

Subpart G—Disclosure of Records in Privacy Act Record Systems to Persons Other Than the Subject Individual § 21.70 Disclosure and intra-agency use of records in Privacy Act Record Systems; no accounting required.

(a) A record about an individual which is contained in a Privacy Act Record System may be disclosed:

(1) To the individual who is the subject of the record, or his legal guardian under § 21.75;

(2) To a third party pursuant to a written request by, or with a written consent of, the individual to whom the record pertains, or his legal guardian under § 21.75;

(3) To any person:

(i) Where the names and other identifying information are first deleted, and under circumstances in which the recipient is unlikely to know the identity of the subject of the record;

(ii) Where disclosure is required by Part 20 of this chapter (the public information regulations); or

(4) Within the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare to officers and employees who have a need for the record in the performance of their duties in connection with the laws administered and enforced by the Food and Drug Administration or that govern the agency. For purposes of this section, officers or employees of the Department shall include the following categories of individuals, who shall thereafter be subject to the same restrictions with respect to disclosure as any Food and Drug Administration employee: Food and Drug Administration consultants and advisory committees, State and local government employees for use only in their work with the Food and Drug Administration, and contractors and their employees to the extent that the records of such contractors are subject to the requirements of this part under § 21.30.

(b) No accounting is required for any disclosure or use under paragraph (a) of this section.

§ 21.71 Disclosure of records in Privacy Act Records Systems; accounting required.

(a) Except as provided in § 21.70, a record about an individual that is contained in a Privacy Act Record System shall not be disclosed by any method of communication except under any of the following circumstances, which are subject to the limitations of paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section and to the accounting requirement of paragraph (d) of this section:

(1) For a use described as a "routine use" in the notice for the system under § 21.20(b)(5) that is compatible with the purpose for which the record was collected.

(2) To the Bureau of Census for a census, survey, or a related activity pursuant to Title 13 of the United States Code.

(3) To a recipient who has provided advance assurance, pursuant to paragraph (c)(2) of this section that the record will be used solely as a statistical research or reporting record and will not be communicated by the recipient to any other person except in a form that is not individually identifiable.

(4) To the National Archives of the United States as a record which has sufficient historical or other value to warrant its continued preservation, or to the General Services Administration for evaluation to determine whether the record has such value.

(5) To a Federal, State, or local agency for purposes of a law enforcement activity that is authorized by law, upon written request by the head of the agency specifying the particular portion of the record that is desired and the law enforcement purpose for which the record is sought. Disclosures under this paragraph are in addition to any disclosures for law enforcement purposes described as a "routine use" in a notice for a Privacy Act Record System.

(6) To a person pursuant to a showing of compelling circumstances affecting the health and safety of an individual, not necessarily the individual to whom the record pertains. Upon such disclosure, the Food and Drug Administration shall mail a notification of the fact of disclosure to the last known address of the individual who is the subject of the record.

(7) To either House of Congress, or to any Subcommitee or Committee thereof, to the extent that the subject matter of the record falls within its jurisdiction.

(8) To the General Accounting Office.

(9) Pursuant to an order of the court of competent jurisdiction. Upon such court-ordered disclosure, the Food and Drug Administration shall make reasonable efforts to notify the individual in accordance with § 20.83(b) of this chapter.

(b) The Food and Drug Administration may in its discretion refuse to make a disclosure permitted under paragraph (a) of this section, if the disclosure would in the judgment of the agency, invade the privacy of the individual or be inconsistent with the purpose for which the information was collected.

(c) The Food and Drug Administration may require any person requesting a disclosure of a record under paragraph (a) of this section to provide:

(1) Information about the purposes to which the disclosed record is to be put, and

(2) A written statement certifying that the record will be used only for the stated purposes and will not be further disclosed without the written permission of the Food and Drug Administration.

Under 5 U.S.C. 552a(i)(3), any person who knowingly or willfully requests or obtains any record concerning an individual from an agency under false pretenses shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not more than $5,000. Such person may also be subject to prosecution under the False Reports to the Government Act, 18 U.S.C. 1001.

(d) An accounting shall be made, in accordance with paragraph (e) of this section, of any disclosure under paragraph (a) of this section of a record that is not a disclosure under § 21.70.

(e) Where an accounting is required under paragraph (d) of this section, the Food and Drug Administration shall:

(1) Record the name and address of the person or agency to whom the disclosure is made and the date, nature, and purpose of the disclosure. The accounting shall not be considered a Privacy Act Record System.

(2) Retain the accounting for 5 years or for the life of the record, whichever is longer, following the disclosure.

(3) Notify those recipients listed in the accounting of amendments or disputes concerning the records previously disclosed to them pursuant to §§ 21.51(d)(3), 21.53(c), or 21.54(c).

(4) Except when the record is exempt from individual access and contest under § 21.61 or to the extent that the accounting describes a transfer for a law enforcement purpose pursuant to paragraph (a)(5) of this section, make the accounting available to the individual to whom the record pertains, in acccordance with procedures of Subpart D of this part.

(f) A single accounting may be used to cover disclosure(s) that consist of a continuing dialogue between two agencies over a prolonged period, such as discussion of an enforcement action between the Food and Drug Administration and the Department of Justice. In such cases, a general notation may be made that, as of a certain date, contact was initiated, to continue until resolution of the matter.

(a) Individuals may consent to disclosure of records about themselves to other persons in several ways, for example:

(1) An individual may give consent at the time that the information is collected for disclosure for specific purposes or to specific persons.

(2) An individual may give consent for disclosure of his records to a specific person.

(3) An individual may request the Food and Drug Administration to transcribe a specific record for submission to another person.

(b) In each case the consent shall be in writing and shall specify the individual, organization unit, or class of individuals or organizational units to whom the record may be disclosed, which record may be disclosed, and, if applicable, for what time period. A blanket consent to release all of an individual's records to unspecified individuals or organizational units will not be honored. Verification of the identity of the individual and, where applicable, of the person to whom the record is to be disclosed shall be made in accordance with § 21.44. Consent documents shall be retained for a period of at least 2 years. If such documents are used as a means of accounting for the disclosure, they shall be retained as provided in § 21.71(e)(2).

(a) The Food and Drug Administration shall make reasonable efforts to assure that a record about an individual in a Privacy Act Record System is accurate, relevant to a Food and Drug Administration purpose, timely, and complete before such record is disclosed under § 21.71.

(b) Paragraph (a) of this section shall not apply to disclosures that are required under Part 20 of this chapter (the public information regulations) or made to other Federal Government departments and agencies. Where appropriate, the letter disclosing the information shall indicate that the Food and Drug Administration has not reviewed the record to assure that it is accurate, relevant, timely, and complete.

§ 21.74 Providing notice that a record is disputed.

Whenever an individual has filed a statement of disagreement with the Food and Drug Administration concerning a refusal to amend a record under § 21.51(a)(2) or with another agency that provides the record to the Food and Drug Administration, the Food and Drug Administration shall in any subsequent disclosure under this subpart provide a copy of the statement of disagreement and a concise statement by the agency, if one has been prepared, of the reasons for not making the amendment(s) requested.

§ 21.75 Rights of legal guardians.

For the purposes of this part, the parent of any individual who is a minor or the legal guardian of any individual who has been declared to be incompetent due to physical or mental incapacity or age by a court of competent jurisdiction may act on behalf of the individual.
