System name:

Noncombat Area Casualties.

System location:

Directorate for Information Operations and Reports (DIOR), Washington Headquarters Services, Pentagon, Washington, D.C. 20301.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Names of all U.S. military personnel on active duty who die or become missing or captured in a noncombat area after October 1, 1979.

Categories of records in the system:

Records consist of personal data, e.g., name, rank, Social Security Number (SSN), military service, home of record, date of birth, race, sex, marital status, and cause of death. Automated data will be further substantiated by a complete Report of Casualty (DD Form 1300), which will be submitted for each record in the file.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

Department of Defense Directive 5110.4, 'Washington Headquarters Services, ' October 1, 1977; and Department of Defense Instruction 7730.60, 'U.S. Military Personnel Casualties in Noncombat Areas,' September 27, 1979.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

INTERNAL USERS, USES, AND PURPOSES

The purposes of this system of records are to:

Compile a list of all military personnel who die or become missing or captured by cause of casualty. This list is used by the Office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense (Health Affairs) (OASD(HA)), Office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense (Manpower, Reserve Affairs and Logistics) (OASD(MRA&L)), and other OSD activities; and Automate data currently being reported in a manual format.

EXTERNAL USERS, USES, AND PURPOSES

Provide statistical data to the U.S. Congress on request; and Provide statistical data to the general public when requested.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

DD-1300s are stored in file reference order by service.

Hardcopy files are stored at the Pentagon and computer files are stored on magnetic tape and disk at the WHS/DIOR Computer Center in the Pentagon, Washington, D.C. The remote terminal retains no data.

Retrievability:

Data may be retrieved by name, file reference number, or Social Security Number (SSN).

Safeguards:

Current hardcopy records, e.g., DD-1300s and EAM cards, prior to processing for computer storage, are retained in a locked file located in a limited access area in the Pentagon. Only data currently required by Department of Defense Directive 1300.4 and DoD Instruction 7730.60 are maintained in the automated data file.

The computer facility is operated by the Washington Headquarters Services (WHS), the Pentagon, Washington, D.C. The computer hardware, disks, tapes, and other materials are secured in a controlled and guarded area in the Pentagon. Access is via access list, escort, or controlled remote terminal to the unclassified computer. Access for all system users is password controlled.

All access to the WHS/DIOR computer is via user identification and sign-on password from six (6) terminals connected by hardwire, leased lines and dial-in lines. Computer software ensures that only properly identified users can access the Privacy Act files on this system. Passwords are changed periodically or upon departure of individuals knowing them.

The on-line system will be implemented on a DEC PDP-15 computer, in the software environment of an Operating System, Data Management, and Software and Development System designed and developed by the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency (DARPA), a Department of Defense Agency. The Data Management System (DMS) operates in a dedicated mode with no other applications operating at the same time. In addition to the sign-on password, DMS allows a user to access only those specific files authorized that user. Only personnel concerned with the day-to-day maintenance of the resident files will be given the password and user identification information needed to access to all fields in the data base. Any combination of fields and data within fields can be used to select individual records.

The computer site is adequately secure for storage of unclassified data. The terminals to be used are located in a limited access area where observation and use by unauthorized individuals can be prevented.

Retention and disposal:

Records are permanent.

System name:

Grievance Records.

System location:

Directorate for Personnel and Security, Washington Headquarters Services (WHS), Department of Defense, Room 3B347, Pentagon, Washington, D.C. 20301.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Current or former Federal employees who have submitted grievances in accordance with 5 USC 2302, and 5 USC 7121, or a negotiated procedure.

Categories of records in the system:

The system contains records relating to grievances filed by Office of the Secretary of Defense (OSD) employees under 5 USC 2302, and 5 USC 7121. These case files contain all documents related to the grievances, including statements of witnesses, reports of interviews and hearings, examiner's findings and recommendations, a copy of the original and final decision, and related correspondence and exhibits. This system includes files and records of internal grievance and arbitration systems that OSD may establish through negotiations with recognized labor organizations.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

5 USC 2302, and 5 USC 7121.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

INTERNAL USERS, USES, AND PURPOSES

This information is used by the Office of the Secretary of Defense (OSD) in the creation and maintenance of records of summary descriptive statistics and analytical studies in support of the function for which the records are collected and maintained, or for related work force studies. While published statistics and studies do not contain individual identifiers, in some instances the selection of elements of data included in the study may be structured in such a way as to make the data individually identifiable by reference.

EXTERNAL USERS, USES, AND PURPOSES

These records and information in these records are used:

a. To disclose pertinent information to the appropriate Federal, state, or local agency responsible for investigating, prosecuting, enforcing, or implementing a statute, rule, regulation, or order, where the disclosing agency becomes aware of an indication of a violation or potential violation of civil or criminal law or regulation.

b. To disclose information to any source from which additional information is requested in the course of processing a grievance, to the extent necessary to identify the individual, inform the source of the purpose(s) of the request, and identify the type of information requested.

c. To disclose information to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee; the issuance of a security clearance; the conducting of a security or suitability investigation of an individual; the classifying of jobs; the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to requesting the Agency's decision on the matter.

d. To provide information to a congressional office from the record of an individual, in response to an inquiry from that congressional office, made at the request of that individual.

e. To disclose information to another Federal agency or to a court when the Government is party to a judical proceeding before the court.

f. By the National Archives and Records Service (General Services Administration) in records management inspections conducted under authority of 44 U.S.C. 2906.

g. To disclose information to officials of the Merit Systems Protection Board, including the Office of the Special Counsel; the Federal Labor Relations Authority and its General Counsel; or the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, when requested in performance of their authorized duties.

h. To disclose in response to a request for discovery or for appearance of a witness, information that is relevant to the subject matter involved in a pending judicial or administrative proceeding.

i. To provide information to officials of labor organizations reorganized under the Civil Service Reform Act when relevant and necessary to their duties, exclusive representation concerning personnel policies, practices, and matters affecting work conditions.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Paper records maintained in file folders.

Retrievability:

These records are retrieved by the names of the individuals on whom the records are maintained.

Safeguards:

These records are maintained in locked metal file cabinets, with access only to authorized OSD Personnel employees.

Retention and disposal:

These records are disposed of 3 years after closing of the case. Disposal is by shredding or burning.

System manager(s) and address:

Director for Personnel and Security, Washington Headquarters Services (WHS), Department of Defense, Room 3B347, Pentagon, Washington, D.C. 20301.

Notification procedure:

DEFENSE ADVANCED RESEARCH PROJECT AGENCY

REQUESTING RECORDS

Records are retrieved by name or by some other personal identifier. It is therefore especially important for expeditious service when requesting a record that particular attention be provided to the Notification and/or Access Procedures of the particular record system involved so as to furnish the required personal identifiers, or any other pertinent personal information as may be required, to locate and retrieve the record.

BLANKET ROUTINE USES

Certain blanket 'routine uses' of the records have been established, that are applicable to every record system maintained within the Department of Defense, unless specifically stated otherwise within a particular record system. These additional blanket routine uses of the records are published below, only once in the interest of simplicity, economy and to avoid redundancy, before the individual record system notices begin rather than repeating them in every individual record system.

ROUTINE USE - LAW ENFORCEMENT

In the event that a system of records maintained by this component to carry out its functions indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether federal, state, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE WHEN REQUESTING INFORMATION

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to a federal, state or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to a component decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE OF REQUESTED INFORMATION

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

ROUTINE USE - CONGRESSIONAL INQUIRIES

Disclosure from a system of records maintained by this component may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

ROUTINE USE WITHIN THE DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to other components of the Department of Defense if necessary and relevant for the performance of a lawful function such as, but not limited to, personnel actions, personnel security actions and criminal investigations of the Component requesting the record.

ROUTINE USE - PRIVATE RELIEF LEGISLATION

Relevant information contained in all systems of records of the Department of Defense published on or before August 22, 1975, will be disclosed to the Office of Management and Budget in connection with the review of private relief legislation as set forth in OMB Circular A-19 at any stage of the legislative coordination and clearance process as set forth in that Circular.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURES REQUIRED BY INTERNATIONAL AGREEMENTS

A record from a system of records maintained by this Component may be disclosed to foreign law enforcement, security, investigatory, or administrative authorities in order to comply with requirements imposed by, or to claim rights conferred in international agreements and arrangements including those regulating the stationing and status in foreign countries of Department of Defense military and civilian personnel.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO STATE AND LOCAL TAXING AUTHORITIES

Any information normally contained in IRS Form W-2 which is maintained in a record from a system of records maintained by this Component may be disclosed to State and local taxing authorities with which the Secretary of the Treasury has entered into agreements pursuant to Title 5, U.S.Code, Sections 5516, 5517, 5520, and only to those State and local taxing authorities for which an employee or military member is or was subject to tax regardless of whether tax is or was withheld. This routine use is in accordance with Treasury Fiscal Requirements Manual Bulletin Nr. 76-07.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO THE OFFICE OF PERSONNEL MANAGEMENT

A record from a system of records subject to the Privacy Act and maintained by this component may be disclosed to the Office of Personnel Management concerning information on pay and leave, benefits, retirement deductions, and any other information necessary for the Office of Personnel Management to carry out its legally authorized Government-wide personnel management functions and studies.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE OF INFORMATION TO NARS (GSA)

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service of the General Services Administration in records management inspections conducted under authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, EDUCATION, AND WELFARE

All systems of records relating to compensation, employment or retirement, or extracts therefrom, maintained by this Component may be disclosed as a routine use to the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare for the purpose of comparing such record with records of programs administered by and in the possession of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare in order to verify information where such verification is required by law or regulation or to identify violations or potential violations of law, whether criminal, civil, or regulatory, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto.

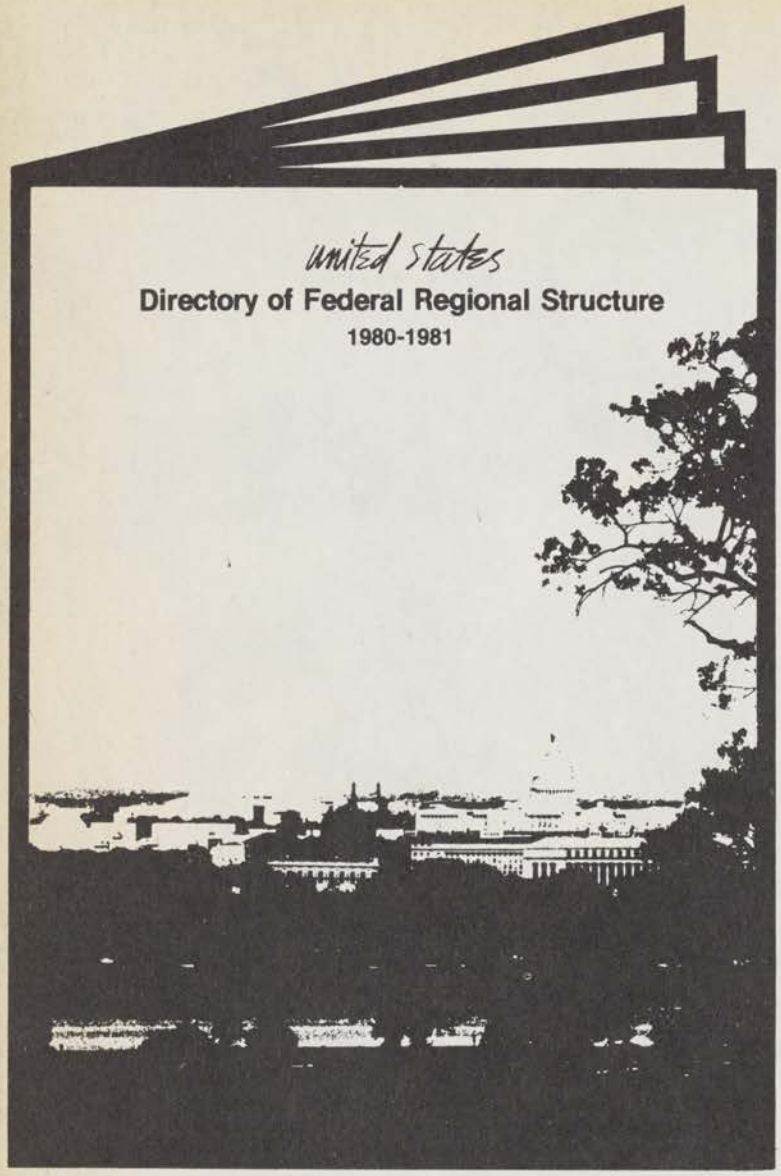
In addition, CBPOs and CCPOs can request - by mail or the DOD Automatic Digital Network (AUTODIN) data from the Central Data Base at Randolph AFB, TX. CBPOs and CCPOs do not have direct remote acceto the Central Data Base. Official mailing addresses of CBPOs and CCPOs are in the DOD directory inthe appendix to this systems notice. The three APDS processing echelons (Base, Major Command, and Hq USAF) are linked into one vertical system. The CBPOs are linked into major Command and HQ USAF via AUTODIN. Major Commands are linked into HQ USAF via AUTODIN and telecommunications network. Data items are updated by the office and at the level having primary responsibility for the item in question. Data may be retrieved by the office and at the level having a validated requirement for access to it.



Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Air Force active duty and retired military personnel. Air Force Reserve and Air National Guard personnel. Air Force Academy cadets. Air Force Civilian Employees. Certain surviving dependents of deceased members of the US Air Force and predecessor organizations; potential Air Force enlistees; candidates for commission enrolled in college level Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps Programs; Deceased members of the Air Force and predecessor organizations; Separated members of the US Air Force, the Air National Guard (ANG) and Air Force Reserve (USAFR); ANG and USAFR Technicians; Prospective, pending, current, and former Air Force civilian employees, except Air National Guard Technicians and nonappropriated fund employees-current and former civilian employees from other Governmental agencies that are serviced at CCPOs may be incat the option of servicing CCPO.

Categories of records in the system:

The principal digital record maintained at each APDS operating level is the master personnel record, which contains the following categories of information: 1. Accession data pertaining to an individual's entry into the Air Force (place of enlistment source of commission, home of record, date of enlistment, place from which ordered to EAD). 2. Education and training data, describing the level and type of education and training, civilian or military (academic education level, major academic specialty, professional specialty courses completed, professional military education received). 3. Utilization data used in assigning and reassigning the individual, determining skill qualifications, awarding Air Force Specialty Codes, determining duty location and job assignment, screening/selecting individual for overseas assignment, performing strength accounting processes, etc. (Primary Air Force Specialty code, Duty and Control Air Force Specialty Code, personnel accounting symbol, duty location, up to 24 previous duty assignments, aeronautical rating, date departed last duty station, short tour return date, reserve section, current/last oversea tour). 4. Evaluation Data on members of the Air Force during their career (Officer Effectiveness Report dates and ratings, Airman Performance Report dates and ratings, results of various qualification tests, an 'Unfavorable Information' indicator, and Drug and Alcohol Abuse data). 5. Promotion Data including promotion history, current grade and/or selection for promotion (current grade, date of rank and effective date; up to 10 previous grades, dates of rank and effective dates; projected temporary grade, key 'service dates'). 6. Compensation data - although APDS does not deal directly with paying Air Force members, military pay is largely predicated on personnel data maintained in APDS and provided to the Air Force Accounting and Finance Center (AFAFC) as described in ROUTINE USES below (pay date, Aviation Service Code, sex, grade, proficiency pay status. 7. Sustentation data - information dealing with programs provided or actions taken to improve the life, personal growth and morale of Air Force members (awards and decorations, marital status, number of dependents, religious denomination of member and spouse, race relations education). 8. Separation and retirements data, which identifies an individual's eligibility for and reason for separation (date of separation, mandatory retirement date, projected or actual separation program designator and character of discharge). At the central processing site (AFMPC), other subsidiary files or processes are operated which are integral parts of APDS: 1. Procurement Management Information System (PROMIS) is an automated system designed to enable the USAF to exercise effective management and control of the personnel procurement personnel required to meet the total scheduled manpower requirements necessary to accomplish the Air Force mission. The system provides the recruiter with job requirement data such as necessary test scores, Air Force Specialty Code, sex, date of enlistment; and the recruiter enters personal data on the applicant - SSN, name, date of birth, etc. - to reserve the job for him or her. 2. Career Airman Reenlistment Reservation System (CAREERS) is a selective reenlistment process that manages and controls the numbers by skill of first-term airmen that can enter the career force to meet established objectives for accomplishing the Air Force mission. A Centralized data bank contains the actual number, by quarter, for each Air Force Specialty Code (AFSC) that can be allowed to reenlist during that period. The individual requests reenlistment by stating his eligibility (AFSC, grade, active military service time, etc). If a vacancy exists, a reservation - by name, SSN, etc - will be made and issued to the CBPO processing the reenlistment. 3. Airman Accessions provides the process to capture a new enlistee's initial personal data (entire personnel record) to establish a personnel data record and gain it to the Master Personnel File of the Air Force. The initial record data is captured through the established interface with the Processing and Classification of Enlistees System (PACE) at Basic Military Training, Lackland AFB for non-prior service; for prior service enlistees the basic data (Name, SSN, DOE, Grade, etc) is input directly by USAF Recruiting Service and updated and completed by the initial gaining CBPO. 4. Officer Accessions is the process whereby each of the various Air Force sources of commissioning (AF Academy, AFROTC, Officer Training School, etc.) project their graduates in advance allowing management to select by skill, academic specialty, etc which and how many will be called to active duty when, by entering into the record an initial assignment and projected entry onto Active Duty date. On that date the individual's record is accessed to the active Master Personnel File of the Air Force. 5. Technical Training Management Information System (TRAMIS) is a system dealing with the Technical Training activities controlled by Air Training Command. The purpose of the system is to integrate the training program, quota control and student accounting into the personnel data system. TRAMIS consists of numerous files which constitute 'quota banks' of available training spaces, in specific courses, projected for future use based on estimated training requirements. Files include such data as: Course Identification Numbers, Class Start and Graduation Dates, Length of Training, Weapon System Identification, Training Priority Designators, Responsible Training Centers, Trainee Names, SSN (and other pertinent personnel data) on individuals scheduled to attend classes. 6. Training Pipeline Management Information System (TRAPMIS) is an automated quota allocating system which deals with specialized combat aircrew training and aircrew survival training. Its files constitute a 'quota bank' against which training requirements are matched and satisfied and through which trainees are scheduled in 'pipeline' fashion to accommodate the individual's scheduled geographical movement from school to school to end assignment. Files contain data concerning the courses monitored as well as Names, SSN's and other pertinent personnel data on members being trained. 7. Air Force Institute of Technology (AFIT) Quota Bank File reflects program quotas by academic specialty for each fiscal year (current plus two future fiscal years, plus the past fiscal year programs for historical purposes). Also, this file reflects the total number of quotas for each academic specialty. Officer assignment transactions process against the AFIT Quota Bank file to reflect the fill of AFIT Quotas. Examples of data maintained are: Academic Specialty, Program Level, Fiscal Year, Name of Incumbent selected, projected, filling AFIT Quota. 8. Job File is derived from the Authorization Record and is accessible by Position Number. Resource managers can use the Job File to validate authorizations by Position Number for assignment actions and also to make job offers to individual officers. Internal suspensing within the Job File occurs based upon Resource Managers update transactions. Data in the file includes: Position Number, Duty AFSC, Functional Account Code, Program Element, Location, and name of incumbent. 9. Casualty subsystem is composed of transactions which may be input at Headquarters Air Force and/or CBPOs to report death or serious illness of members from all components. A special file is maintained in the system to record information on individuals who have died. Basic identification data and unique data such as country of occurrence, date of incident, casualty group, aircraft involved in the incident and military status are recorded and maintained in this file. 10. Awards/Decorations are recorded and maintained on all component personnel in the headquarters Air Force master files. All approved decorations are input at CBPOs whereas disapproved decorations are input at MAJCOM/HAF. A decorations statistical file is built at AFMPC which reflects an aggregation of approvals/disapprovals by category of decoration. This file does not contain any individually identifiable data. All individually identifiable data on decorations is maintained in the Master Personnel File. Such information as the type of decoration, awarding authority, special order number and date of award are identified in an individual's record. Seven occurrences for all decorations are stored; however only specific data on the last decoration of a particular type is maintained. 11. Point Credit Accounting and Reporting System (PCARS). This system is an Air National Guard/Air Force Reserve Unique supported by APDS. Its basic purpose is to maintain and account for retirement/retention points accrued as a result of participating in Drills/ Training. The system stores basic personal identification data which is associated with a calendar of points, earned by participation in the Reserve program. Each year an individuals record is closed and point totals are accumulated in history, and a point earning statement is provided the individual and various records custodians. 12. Human Reliability/Personnel Reliability File: This file is maintained at Headquarters Air Force in support of AFM 35-98 and AFR 35-99. It is not part of the Master Personnel Files but a free standing file which is updated by transactions from CBPOs. The file was established to specifically identify individuals who have become permanently disqualified under the provisions of the above regulations. A record is maintained on each disqualified individual which includes basic identification data, service component, Personnel/Human reliability status and date, and reason for disqualification. 13. Variable Incentive Pay (VIP) File for medical officers: Contains about 125 character record on all Air Force physicians and is specifically used to identify whether the individual is participating in the Continuation Pay or Variable Incentive Pay programs. Update to this file is provided by the Surgeon (AFMPC), the Air Force Accounting and Finance Center and directly from changes to the Master Personnel File. Besides basic identification data an individual's record includes source of appointment, graduate medical location status, amount of VIP or Continuation Pay and the dates of authorization and the dates and reason for separation. 15. Weighted Airman Promotion System: (a) The Test Scoring and Reporting Subsystem (TSRS) provides for: identifying at the CBPO individuals eligible for testing; providing output to the Base Test Control Officer and the CBPO to control, monitor, and operate WAPS testing functions; editing and scoring WAPS test answer cards at AFMPC; providing output for maintaining historical and analytical files at AFMPC and the Human Resources Laboratory (HRL) and includes the central identification at AFMPC of individuals eligible for testing. (b) The Personnel Data Reporting Subsystem (PDRS) provides for: identifying promotion eligibles at AFMPC; verifying these eligibles and selection promotion data; merging test and weighted promotion data at AFMPC to effect promotion scoring, assigning the promotion objective and aligning selectees in promotion priority sequence; maintaining projections on promotion selectees at AFMPC, MAJCOM, and the CBPO; updating these projections monthly; creating output products to monitor the flow of data in the system; maintaining promotion historical and analytical files and reports at AFMPC. (c) Basically, identification data along with time in grade, test scores, decoration information, time in service, and airman performance report history is used to support this program. 16. Retired Personnel Data System (RPDS) is made up of four files - Retired Officer Management File and Retired Airman Management File containing records on members in retired status and the Retired Officer and Airman Loss Files containing records on former retirees who have been lost from rolls, usually through death. The RPDS is used to produce address listings for the Retired Newsletter and Policy letter, statistical reports for budgeting, to manage the Advancement Program, the Temporary Disability Retired List, Age 59 rosters for ARPC, General Officer roster, and statistical digest data for management analysis functions. Data is extracted from the master files upon retirement from Active Duty or Reserves. Data includes: Name, SSN, Grade data, service data, Education data, Retirement data and address. 17. Separated Officer File contains historical information on officers who leave the Air Force via separation, retirement, or death. Copies are sent to Human Resources Lab and Washington offices for research purposes. The data comprises the Master Personnel Record in its entirety and is captured 30 to 60 days after separation from the Air Force. 18. Airman Gain/loss File includes data extracted from the Airman Master file when accession and separation (gains and

Directory of Federal Regional Structure

Revised as of May 1, 1980

The Directory serves as a guide to the regional administrative structure of the departments and agencies of the Federal Government.

Designed to provide the public with practical information about regional offices, the Directory is particularly useful to citizens residing outside the Nation's Capital.

Included in the Directory is a map showing the 10 Standard Federal Regions followed by tables listing the key personnel, addresses, and telephone numbers for agencies with offices in those regions. In addition, maps and tables are provided for those agencies with regional structures other than that of the standard regional system.

Compiled by Office of the Federal Register, National Archives and Records Service, General Services Administration.

losses) occur. This file, like the Separated Officer File, is used for historical reports regarding strength changes. Data includes Name, SSN, and other data that reflects strength, i.e., promotions, reassignment data, specialty codes, etc. 19. Officer and Airman Separation Subsystem is used to process, track, approve, disapprove and project separations from the Air Force and transfers between components of the Air Force. This subsystem uses the Active, Guard, and Reserve MPFs. Data includes that specifically related to separations, e.g., Date of Separation, Separation Program Designator, waivers, etc. 20. The Retirements Subsystem is used to process and track applications for and approval/ disapproval and projections of retirements. This subsystem uses the Master Files for Active Duty and Reserve officers and airmen. Data specifically related to retirements includes application data, date of separation, waiver codes, disapproval reason codes, Separation Program Designator, Title 10 United States Code section, etc. 21. Retired Orders Log is a computer produced retirement orders routine. Orders are automatically produced when approval, verification of service dates, and physical clearance have been entered in system. The orders log contains data found in administrative orders for retirement, including name, SSN, grade, order number, effective dates, etc. The log is used to control assignment of order number, and as a cross-reference between orders, revocations, and amendments. 22. General Officer Subsystem of APDS contains data extracted from the Master Personnel File and language qualification data and assignment history data maintained by the Assistant for General Officer matters. A record is maintained on each general officer and general officer selectee. The general officer files are updated monthly and is used to produce products used in the selection/identification of general officers for applicable assignments. 23. Officer Structure Simulation Model (OSSM) provides officer force descriptions in various formats for existing, predictive or manipulated structures. It functions as a planning tool against which policy options can be applied so as to determine the impact of such policy decisions. The OSSM input records contain individual identifiable data from the Master Personnel Record, but all output is statistical. 24. Widow's File is maintained on magnetic tape and updated by the Office of Primary Responsibility. When required, address labels and listings are produced by employing selected APDS utility programs. The address labels are used to forward the Retired Newsletter to widows of active duty and retired personnel. The listings are used for management control of the program. Contained in the file are the name, address, and SSN of the widow. Additionally, the deceased sponsor's name, SSN, date of death, and status at time of death are maintained. 25. Historical Files are files with a retention period of 365 days or more. They consist of copies of active master files, and are used primarily for aggregation and analysis of statistical data, although individual records may be accessed to meet ad hoc requirements. 26. Miscellaneous files, records, and processes are a number of work files, inactive files with a less-than-365-day retention period, intermediate records, and processes relating to statistical compilations, computer operation, quality control and problem diagnosis. Although they may contain individual-identifying data, they do so only as a function of system operation, and are not used in making decisions about people. 27. Civilian employment information including authorization for position, personnel data, suspense information; position control information; projected information and historical information; civilian education and training data; performance appraisal, ratings, evaluations of potential; civilian historical files covering job experience, training and transactions; civilian awards information; merit promotion plan work files; career programs files for such functional areas as procurement, logistics, civilian personnel, etc., civilian separation and retirement data for reports and to determine eligibility; adverse and disciplinary data for statistical analysis and employee assistance; stand alone files, as for complaints, enrollee programs; extract files from which to produce statistical reports in hard copy, or for immediate access display on remote computer terminals; miscellaneous files, as described in item 26, above.

ferred officers not recommended for promotion; 8914 - twenty to thirty years: regular enlisted members; 8915 - Twenty-five years: female majors except those designated under section 8067(a)-(d) or (g)-(i) of this title; 8916 - twenty-eight years: promotion-list lieutenant colonels; 8917 - Thirty years or more: regular enlisted members; 8918 - Thirty years or more: regular commissioned officers; 8921 - Thirty years or five years in grade: promotion-list colonels; 8922 - Thirty years or five years in grade: regular brigadier generals; 8923 - Thirty-five years or five years in grade: regular major generals; 8924 - Forty years or more: Air Force officers. 10 USC Chapter 901, Training generally, Sections 9301 - Members of Air Force: detail as students, observers and investigators at educational institutions, industrial plants, and hospitals; and 9302 - Enlisted members of Air Force: schools. 10 USC Chapter 903, United States Air Force Academy, Sections 9342 - Cadet: appointment; numbers, territorial distribution; 9344 - Selection of persons from Canada and American Republics; 9345 - Selection of Filipinos. 32 USC Chapter 1, Organization, sections 102 - General policy; and 104 - units: location; organization; command. 32 USC Chapter 3, Personnel, Section 307 - Federal recognition of officers: examination, certification of eligibility. 32 USC Chapter 7, Services, supplies, etc., Section 709 - Caretakers and clerks. 37 USC Chapter 3, Basic Pay, Section 308 - Special pay: reenlistment bonus; 313 - Special pay: medical officers who execute active duty agreements. 37 USC Chapter 7, Allowances, Section 407 - Travel and transportation allowances: dislocation allowance. 37 USC Chapter 10. For civilian employees-5 US Code 301 and 44 US Code 3101.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

The Air Force operates what is essentially a centralized personnel management system in an environment that is widely dispersed geographically and encompasses a population that is quite diverse in terms of qualifications, experience, military status and needs. There are three major centers of Air Force personnel management: Washington, D.C., where most major policy and long-range planning/programming decisions are made; the Air Force Manpower and Personnel Center at Randolph AFB, Tx., which performs most personnel operations-type functions for the active duty components of the force; and the Air Reserve Personnel Center at Denver Co., which performs certain operational functions for the Reserve components of the force. Offices at Major Command Headquarters, State Adjutant General, and Air Force Bases perform operational tasks pertaining to the population for which they are responsible. The structure of the Air Force and its personnel management system, the composition of the force, and the Air Force's stated objective of treating its people as individuals, i.e., giving due consideration to their desires, needs and goals, demand a dynamic data system that is capable of supporting the varying needs of the personnel managers at each echelon and operating locations. It is to this purpose that the data in the Advanced Personnel Data System is collected, maintained, and used. A. ROUTINE USES WITHIN THE AIR FORCE - INTERNAL TO THE PERSONNEL COMMUNITY: HQ USAF, WASHINGTON, DC: Deputy Chief of Staff, Personnel and his immediate staff; Director of Personnel Plans; Director of Personnel Programs; Assistant for General Officer Matters; Assistant for Colonel Assignments; Reserve Personnel Division; Air National Guard Personnel Division; and The Surgeon General, the Chief of AF Chaplains and the Staff Judge Advocate, each of which perform certain Personnel functions within their area of responsibility. Data from the central data base at the AFMPC is furnished Washington area agencies by retrieval from the computer at Randolph via remote access devices and by provision of recurring products containing required management information, including computer tape files which are used as input to unique systems with which APDS interfaces. Although most of the data is used by policy makers to develop long-term plans and programs and track progress toward established goals, some individual data is provided/retrieved to support actions taken on certain categories of persons managed by offices in the headquarters e.g. General Officers, Colonels, Air National Guard personnel, etc. AIR FORCE MANPOWER AND PERSONNEL CENTER (AFMPC), RANDOLPH AFB, TX. Personnel managers at AFMPC use the data in APDS to make decisions on individual actions to be taken in areas such as personnel procurement, education and training, classification, assignment, career development, evaluation, promotion, compensation, casualty and personal affairs, separation and retirement. AIR RESERVE PERSONNEL CENTER (ARPC), DENVER, COLORADO. Personnel managers at ARPC perform many of the same functions for the Reserve components of the Air Force as the managers at AFMPC perform for the active duty force. As with the Washington area, ARPC obtains data from the central data base at AFMPC by retrieval through remote terminals and recurring output products containing information necessary to their management processes. MAJOR COMMAND HEADQUARTERS. Major command headquarters personnel operations are supported by the standard content of APDS records provided them by AFMPC. In addition, there is provided in the APDS record an 'add-on area' which the commands are authorized to use for the storage of data which will assist them in fulfilling unique personnel management requirements generated by their mission, structure, geographical location, etc. The standard functions performed fall generally under the same classifications as those in AFMPC, e.g., assignment, classification, separation, etc. Non-standard usages include provisions of unique aircrew data, production of specially-tailored name listing, control of theatre oriented training, etc. Some commands use APDS data - both standard and add-on as input to unique command systems, which are seperately described in the Federal Register. CONSOLIDATED BASE PERSONNEL OFFICES (CBPO). CBPOs, which represent the base-level aspect of APDS, are the prime point of system-to-people interface. Supplied with a standard data base and system, CBPOs provide personnel management support to commanders and supervisors on a daily basis. Acting on receipt of data from higher headquarters, primarily by means of transactions processed through APDS, they notify people of selection for reassignment, promotion, approval/disapproval of requests for separation and retirement, and similar personnel actions. When certain events occur on an individual at the local level, e.g., volunteer for overseas duty, reduction in grade, change in marital status, application for retirement, etc., the CBPO enters transactions into the vertical system to transmit the requisite information to other management levels and update the automated records resident at those levels. CBPOs too are allotted an 'add-on' area in the computer record which they use to support local management unique requirements such as local training scheduling, unique locator listing, urinalysis testing scheduling, etc. B. ROUTINE USES WITHIN THE AIR FORCE - EXTERNAL TO THE PERSONNEL COMMUNITY 1. HEADQUARTERS USAF/AFMPC INTERFACES: Automated interfaces exist between the APDS central site files and the following systems of other functions: a. The Flight Records Data System (FRDS) maintained by the Air Force Inspection and Safety Center (AFISC) at Norton AFB, CA. (1) Certain personnel identification data on rated officers is transferred monthly to the FRDS. This data flow creates the basic identifying data in the FRDS, insures compatability with the APDS, and precludes duplicative data collection and input generation by the AFISC. (2) Update of the personnel data to the FRDS generates return flow of flying hour data which is used at AFMPC for rated resource distribution management. b. The Master Military Pay Account (MMPA), is the Joint Uniform Military Pay System (JUMPS) centralized pay file maintained by the Air Force Accounting and Finance Center (AFAFC) at Denver, CO. The APDS transfers certain pay related data as changes occur to update the MMPA, e.g., promotions, accessions, separations/retirements, name, SSN, grade. These data provide criteria for the AFAFC to determine specific pay entitlements. c. The AFAFC maintains a separate pay system for Air National Guard and Air Force Reserve personnel called the Air Reserve Pay and Allowances System (ARPAS). (1) APDS outputs certain pay related data to ARPAS as changes occur, e.g., retirements/ separations, promotions, name, SSN, grade. These data form the criteria for the AFAFC to determine specific Reserve pay entitlements. (2) ARPAS outputs data which affect accumulated point credits for Air National Guard/ Reserve participation to AFMPC for update of the Point Credit Accounting and Reporting System (PCARS), a component of APDS. PCARS also receives monthly input from Hq Air University which updates point credits as a result of completing an Extension Courses Institute correspondence program. d. AFAFC provides data on Variable Incentive Pay (VIP) for Medical Officers which is used to update a special control file within APDS and produce necessary reports for management of the VIP program. e. Air Training Command operates a system called PACE (Processing and Classification of Enlistees) at Lackland AFB TX. From that system data is fed to AFMPC to initially establish the APDS record on an Air Force enlistee. f. On a monthly basis, copies of the APDS master Personnel File are provided to the Human Resources Laboratory at Brooks AFB, TX, where they are used as a statistical data base for research purposes. g. On a quarterly basis, AFMPC provides the USAF School of Aerospace Medicine with data concerning name, SSN and changes in base and command of assignment of flying personnel. The data reflects significant medical problems in the flying population. h. A complete printout of APDS data pertaining to an individual is included in his Master Personnel Record when it is forwarded to National Personnel Records Center. i. APDS data is provided to the Contingency Planning Support Capability (CPSC) at six major command headquarters: Tactical Air Command, Strategic Air Command, Military Airlift Command, Air Force Communications Command, United States Air Forces, Europe, and Pacific Air Forces. A record identifiable by individual's name and SSN provides contingency and/or manning assistance temporary duty (TDY) being performed by the individual. Record is destroyed upon completion of the TDY. Statistical records (gross statistics by skill and unit) are also generated for CPSC from APDS providing force availability estimates. CPSC is described separately in the Federal Register. 2. BASE LEVEL (CBPO) INTERFACES: Certain interfaces have been established at base level to pass data from one functional system to another. The particular mode of interface depends on the needs of the receiving function and the capabilities of the system to produce the necessary data: a. The Flight Management Data System (FMDS) receives an automated flow of selected personnel data on flying personnel as changes occur. This data consists primarily of assignment data and service dates which the base flight manager uses to determine appropriate category of aviation duty which is reflected by designation of an Aviation Service Code. The FMDS outputs aviation service data as changes occur to the BLMPS. These data subsequently flow to the APDS central site files at AFMPC so it is available for resource management decisions. b. The Medical Administration Management System (MAMS), currently being developed and tested, will receive flow of selected assignment data as changes occur for personnel assigned to medical activities. MAMS will use these data to align assigned personnel with various cost accounting work centers within the medical activity and thus be able to track manpower expenditure by sub-activities. c. The Automated Vehicle Operator Record (AVOR) is being developed to support motor vehicle operator management. Approximately 115 characters of vehicle operator data will be incorporated into the BLMPS data base during FY76 for both military and civilian personnel authorized to operate government motor vehicles and selected personnel data items (basic identification data) will be authorized for access by the vehicle operator managers. The base Chief of Transportation will be responsible for accuracy of this data and will be the responsible official for actions associated with the Privacy Act of 1974. d. Monthly, a magnetic tape is extracted from BLMPS containing selected assignment data on all assigned personnel. This tape is transferred to the base Accounting and Finance Office for input into the Accounting Operations System. This system uses these data to derive aggregate base manpower cost data. e. A procedure is designed into BLMPS to output selected background data in a pre-defined printed format for personnel being administered military justice. This output is initiated upon notification by the base legal office. The data is forwarded to the major command where it is input into the Automated Military Analysis and Management System (AMJAMS). f. The BLIMPS output (on an event-oriented basis) pay-affecting transactions such as certain promotions, accessions, and assignments/reassignments, to AFAFC, where the data is entered into the JUMPS. C. ROUTINE USES EXTERNAL TO THE AIR FORCE, TO THE OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF DEFENSE (OSD). Individual information is provided to offices in OSD on a recurring basis to support top-level management requirements within the Department of Defense. Examples are the DOD Recruiter File to the Assistant Secretary for Manpower and Reserve Affairs (M&RA), a magnetic tape extract of military personnel records (RCS: DDM(SA)1221) to M&RA, input to the Reserve Component Common Personnel Data System to M&RA, and the Post Career Data File to M&RA. 2. TO OTHER DEFENSE AGENCIES. APDS supports other components of DOD by provision of individual data in support of programs operated by those agencies. Examples are the Selected Officer List to the Defense Intelligence Agency for use in monitoring a classified training program and the Defense System Management School (DSMS) Track Record System to DSMS for use in evaluating the performance of graduates of that institution. An extract file on Air National Guard Technicians is provided the National Guard Computer Center. 3. OTHER GOVERNMENT/QUASI-GOVERNMENT AGENCIES. Information used in analyzing officer/airman retention is provided RAND Corporation. Data on prior service personnel with military service obligations is forwarded to the National Security Agency. Lists of officers selected for promotion and/or appointment in the Regular Air Force are sent to the Office of the President and/or the Congress of the United States for review and confirmation. Certain other personnel information is provided these and other government agencies upon request when such data is required in the performance of official duties. Selected personnel data is provided foreign governments, US governmental agencies, and other Uniformed Services on USAF personnel assigned or attached to them for duty. Examples: the government of Canada, Federal Aviation Administration, US Army, Navy, etc.) 4. LITIGATION. Information from APDS may be used in litigation in the event that the United States, its officers, or its employees are involved in the litigation. 5. MISCELLANEOUS. Lists of individuals selected for promotion or appointment, who are being reassigned, who die, or who are retiring are provided to unofficial publications such as the Air Force Times, along with other information of interest to the general Air Force public. Information from APDS support a world-wide locator system which responds to queries as to the location of individuals in the Air Force. Material for preparing mailing labels is furnished commercial publishing or mailing firms working under contract to the Air Force who print or mail quasi-official publications to specified portions of the Air Force population, e.g., retired personnel, widows, etc. Locator information pertinent to personnel on active duty may be furnished to a recognized welfare agency such as the American Red Cross or the Air Force Aid Society. For civilian personnel--to provide automated system support to Air Force officials at all levels from that part of the Office of Personnel Management required personnel management and records keeping system that pertains to evaluation, authorization and position control, position management, staffing skills inventory, career management, training, retirement, employee services, rights and benefits, merit promotion, demotions, reductions in force, complaints resolution, labor management relations, and the suspensions and processing of personnel actions; to provide for transmission of such records between employing activities within the Department of Defense - to provide individual records and reports to OPM; to provide information required by OPM for the transfer between federal activities; to provide reports of military reserve status to other armed services for contingency planning - to obtain statistical data on the work force to fulfill internal and external report requirements and to provide Air Force offices with information needed to plan for and evaluate manpower, budget and civilian personnel programs - to provide minority group designator codes to the Office of Personnel Management's automated data file - to provide the Office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense Manpower and Reserve Affairs with data to access the effectiveness of the program for employment of women in executive level positions - to obtain listings of employees by function or area for locator and inventory purposes by Air Force offices - to assess the effect or probable impact of personnel program changes by simulation and modeling exercises - to obtain employee duty locations and other employee data for personnel program management purposes - to obtain employee duty locations and other information releasable under OPM rules and the Freedom of Information Act to respond to request from Air Force offices, other Federal agencies and the public - to provide individual records to other components of the Department of Defense in the conduct of their official personnel management program responsibilities - to provide records to law enforcement or inauthorities for investigation and possible criminal prosecution, civil court action, or regulatory order - to provide records to OPM for file reconciliation and maintenance purposes - and to provide information to employee unions as required by negotiated contracts.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Maintained in visible file binders/cabinets, card files, on computer magnetic tapes, disks or computer paper printouts or microfiche.

Retrievability:

Filed by name, Social Security Number (SSN) or other identification number or system identifier. The primary individual record identifier in APDS is SSN. Some files are sequenced and retrieved from by other identifiers; for instance, the assignment action record is identified by an assignment action number. Additionally, at each echelon there exists computer programs to permit extraction of data from the system by constructing an inquiry containing parameters against which to match and select records. As an example, an inquiry can be written to select all Captains who are F-15 pilots, married, stationed at Randolph AFB, who possess a master's degree in Business Administration; then display name, SSN, number of dependents and duty location. There is the added capability of selecting an individual's record or certain pre-formatted information by SSN on an immediate basis using a teletype or cathode ray tube display device. High-speed line printers located in the Washington DC area, at Major Command Headquarters, and at ARPC permit the trvolume products to and for the use of Personnel managers at those locations.

Safeguards:

Records are accessed by custodian of the record system and by person(s) responsible for servicing the record system in the performance of their official duties where authorized, and properly screened and cleared for need-to-know, and by commanders of medical centers and hospitals. Records are stored in security file containers/cabinets, safes, vaults and locked cabinets or rooms. Records are protected by guards. Records are controlled by personnel screening visitor registers and computer system software.

Retention and disposal:

Retained in office files until superseded, obsolete, no longer needed for reference, or on inactivation, then destroyed by tearing into pieces, shredding, pulping, macerating, or burning. Preceding retention statement applies to Analog output products of the Advanced Personnel Data System. Data stored digitally within system is retained only for the period required to satisfy recurring processing requirements and/or historical requirements. Files with a retention period of 364 days or less are automatically released at the end of their specified retention period. 'Permanent history' files are retained for 10 years. Files 365 or more days old are defined as 'historical files' and are not automatically released. Retention periods for categories of APDS files are as follows: If cycle in which a program or series of programs creating output is daily, and the created magnetic tape file will be used for processing of next daily, then the retention will be not greater than 10 days. If cycle in which a program or series of programs creating output is daily, and the created magnetic tape file will be used for processing of next daily, which is also used for processing of weekly runs, then the retention will be not greater than 20 days. If cycle in which a program or series of programs creating output is daily, and the created magnetic tape file will be used for processing of next weekly, then the retention will be not greater than 20 days. If cycle in which a program or series of programs creating output is daily, and the created magnetic tape file will be used for processing of next weekly, which is also used for processing of monthly runs, then the retention will be not greater than 30 days. If cycle in which a program or series of programs creating output is weekly, and the created magnetic tape file will be used for processing of next weekly, then the retention will be not greater than 20 days. If cycle in which a program or series of programs creating output is weekly, and the created magnetic tape file will be used for processing of next weekly, which is also used for processing of monthly runs, then the retention will be not greater than 30 days. If cycle in which a program or series of programs creating output is monthly, and the created magnetic tape file will be used for processing of next monthly, then the retention will be not greater than 30 days. If cycle in which a program or series of programs creating output is monthly, and the created magnetic tape file will be used for processing of next monthly, which is also used for processing of quarterly runs, then the retention will be not greater than 90 days. If cycle in which a program or series of programs creating output is monthly, and the created magnetic tape file will be used for processing of next monthly, which is also used for processing of Semi-Annual run, then the retention will be not greater than 190 days. If cycle in which a program or series of programs creating output is monthly, which is also used for processing of annual runs, then the retention will be not greater than 365 days. If cycle in which a program or series of programs creating output is monthly, and the created magnetic tape file will be used for processing of next monthly, which is also used for processing of permanent history, then the retention will be not greater than 999 days. If cycle in which a program or series of programs creating output is quarterly, and the created magnetic tape file will be used for processing of next quarterly, then the retention will be not greater than 90 days. If cycle in which a program or series of programs creating output is quarterly, and the created magnetic tape file will be used for processing of next quarterly, which is also used for processing of semi-annual run, then the retention will be not greater than 190 days. If cycle in which a program or series of programs creating output is quarterly, and the created magnetic tape file will be used for processing of next quarterly, which is also used for processing of annual runs, then the retention will be not greater than 365 days. If cycle in which a program or series of programs creating output is quarterly, and the created magnetic tape file will be used for processing of next quarterly, which is also used for processing of permanent history, then the retention will be not greater than 999 days. If cycle in which a program or series of programs creating output is semi-annual, and the created magnetic tape file will be used for processing of next semi-annual, then the retention will be not greater than 190 days. If cycle in which a program or series of programs creating output is semi-annual, and the created magnetic tape file will be used for processing of next semi-annual, which is also used for processing of annual runs, then the retention will be not greater than 365 days. If created magnetic tape file will be used for processing of permanent history, then the retention will be not greater than 999 days. If cycle in which a program or series of programs creating output is annual, and the created magnetic tape file will be used for processing of next annual, then the retention will be not greater than 365 days. If cycle in which a program or series of programs creating output is annual, and the created magnetic tape file will be used for processing of next annual, which is also used for processing of permanent history, then the retention will be not greater than 999 days. If the program or series of programs creating output is a one time run, and the file will be used for processing as required, then the retention will be lowest possible retention commensurate to job completion. If the program or series of programs creating output is compile card image or SOLT tapes, and the created magnetic tape file will be used for processing as required run, then the retention will be not greater than 90 days maximum. If cycle in which a program or series of programs creating output is as required runs, and the created magnetic tape file will be used for processing as required, the retention will be lowest possible retention commensurate to job completion. If the program or series of programs creating output is test files, and the created magnetic tape file will be used for processing as required, then the retention will be not greater than 30 days. If the program or series of programs creating output is print/punch backup and the created magnetic tape file will be used for processing as required, then the retention will be not greater than 10 days. In addition, for civilian personnel at base level (CCPO), master personnel files for prospective employees are transferred to the active file upon appointment of the employee or in the event the employee is not appointed and will no longer be considered a candidate for appointment, are destroyed by degaussing-master personnel files for active employees are transferred to the separated employee history file where they are retained for three years subsequent to separation and then destroyed by degaussing. The notification of personnel action - Standard Form 50 - is disposed of as directed by OPM - work files and records such as the employee career brief, position survey work sheet, retention register work sheet, alphabetic and Social Security Number locator files, and personnel and position control register are destroyed after use by tearing into pieces, shredding, pulping, macerating, or burning-work sheets pertaining to qualification and retention registers are disposed of as directed by OPM - transitory files such as pending files, and recovery files are destroyed after use by degaussing-files and records retrieved through general retrieval systems are destroyed after use by tearing into pieces, shredding, pulping, macerating, or burning. Those records at AF Manpower and Personnel Center for the end of each fiscal year quarter are retained for five years before destroying by deletion - the separated employee file retains employee information at time of separation for five years after which the employee's record is destroyed by degaussing.

System manager(s) and address:

Deputy Chief of Staff/Personnel, Headquarters United States Air Force. Subordinate system managers are: A. Director of Personnel Data Systems, Assistant Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel for Military Personnel, Air Force Manpower and Personnel Center (AFMPC), Randolph AFB, TX, 78148. He is responsible for overall APDS design, maintenance and operation, and is designated the Automated Data Processing System Manager for all Air Force personnel data system. B. The Director of Personnel Data Systems at each Major Command headquarters for systems operated at that level. C. The Chief, CBPO, at Air Force installations for systems operated at that level. D. The Civilian Personnel officer at Air Force installations for civilian systems operated at that level.

Notification procedure:

Requests from individuals for notification as to whether the system contains a record on them should be addressed to the system manager of the operating level with which they are concerned. Persons submitting such a request, either personally or in writing, must provide SSN, name, and military status (active, ANG/USAFR, retired, etc. ANG members not on extended active duty may submit such requests to the appropriate State Adjutant General or the Chief of the servicing ANG CBPO. USAFR personnel not on extended active duty may submit such requests to ARPC, Denver, CO, 80280 or, if unit assigned, to the Chief of the servicing CBPO or Consolidated Reserve Personnel Office. Personal visits to obtain notification may be made to the Military Records Review Room, Air Force Manpower and Personnel Center, Randolph AFB, TX 78148, the Military Records Review Room, Air Reserve Personnel Center, Denver CO 80280; The Office of the Director, National Personnel Records Center (NPRC), 111 Winnebago St., St. Louis, MO, 63118; the office of the Director of Personnel Data Systems at the appropriate major command headquarters; or the office of the Chief of his servicing CBPO. Identification will be based on presentation of DD Form 2AF, Military Identification Card. Air Force civilian employees must provide SSN, full name, previous names if any, last date and location of Air Force civilian employment if not currently employed by the Air Force - current employees should submit such requests to their CCPO - former employees of the Air Force should submit such requests to the CCPO for the last Air Force installation at which they were employed. Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Maintained in file folders placed in metal file containers or on open shelves. Microfiche placed in rotary power files; computer disk resident data file consists of Social Security Number (SSN) and disk location of the associated image record which includes document data describing document type, date, location, and number of pages in each document.

Retrievability:

Information in the system is retrieved by last name, first name, middle initial and Social Security Number (SSN). Records stored at National Personnel Records Center Center are retrieved by registry number, last name, first name, middle initial and SSN. Information can be displayed via closed circuit television subsystem, produced on a duplicate microfiche, or paper reproduction.

Safeguards:

The prescribing directive for the Military Personnel Records System requires those records to be stored (after duty hours) in a locked building, room or filing cabinets. Access is specifically limited to those personnel designated by the Consolidated Base Personnel Office (CBPO) Chief and those provisions for access and release of information contained in Air Force Regulation 31-6.

Retention and disposal:

Users who are granted access to the microfiche files are screened by computer software. Those documents designated as Temporary in the prescribing directive remain in the records until their obsolescence (superseded, member terminates status, or retires) when they are removed and provided to the individual data subject. Those documents designated as Permanent remain in the military personnel records system permanently and are retired with the master personnel record group.

System manager(s) and address:

Assistant Deputy Chief of Staff Personnel for Military Personnel, Randolph Air Force Base, Texas 78148 is the official responsible for the system of records. Individuals in categories included above may deal directly with agency officials at the respective records location to exercise their rights under the Act.

Notification procedure:

The individual data subject may be notified that a record exists on him by submitting a request to or appearing in person at the responsible official's office or the respective repository for records for personnel in particular category during normal duty hours any day except Saturday, Sunday or national and local holidays. The Saturday and Sunday exception does not apply to Reserve and National Guard units during periods of training. Response to written requests will be provided not later than ten days following receipt of request. The System Manager has the right to waive these requirements for personnel located in areas designated as Hostile Fire Pay areas.

Record access procedures:

The same written notification or personal visit procedures which apply to notification also apply to access.

Contesting record procedures:

The Air Force's rules for access to records and for contesting and appealing initial determinations by the individual concerned may be obtained from the Systems Manager.

Record source categories:

Sources of information contained in the system include data subject's applications, requests, personal history statements, supervisors' evaluations, correspondence generated within the agency in the conduct of official business, medical treatment records, educational institutions, civil authorities, other service departments, and interface with the Advanced Personnel Data System.

Safeguards:

Records are accessed by custodian of the record system and by person(s) responsible for servicing the record system in performance of their official duties who are properly screened and cleared for need-to-know. Records are stored in locked cabinets or rooms.

Retention and disposal:

Copies of performance reports are retained until separation or retirement. At separation/retirement, data subject is presented with field and command record copies of his/her reports. The Headquarters Air Force (HAF) copy is a permanent record that is forwarded to the National Personnel Records Center, Saint Louis, Missouri. In the event member has a Reserve commitment, HAF copy is sent to Air Reserve Personnel Center (ARPC), York Street, Denver, Colorado. However, the following exceptions apply: Officers Field Record: Remove and give to individual when promoted to Colonel, when separated or retired. Destroy when voided by action of the Officer Personnel Records Review Board. When voided by action of the Air Force (AF) Board for Correction of Military Records, forward all copies of report to Headquarters United States Air Force (HQ USAF) when directed. Command Record: The command custodian will destroy the reports when voided by action of Officer Personnel Records Review Board. When voided by action of the AF Board for Correction of Military Records, forward all copies of report to HQ USAF when directed. HAF Record: Remove reports voided by action of the Officer Personnel Records Review Board from the selection folder and file in the board recorder's office until destroyed by tearing into pieces, shredding, pulping, macerating or burning. Remove reports voided by action of the AF Board for Correction of Military Records from selection folder and submit to Board's Secretariat with duplicate and triplicate copies, for custody and disposition. Active duty: airmen grades E-3 through E-6: Airma-Performance Reports (APRs) on separation or retirement are forwarded to the National Personnel Records Center, Saint Louis, Missouri unless data subject holds a reserve obligation - in which case they are forwarded to ARPC. Grades E-7/8: Duplicate copies, those retained in promotion selection folders, are returned at separation or retirement. Permanent copy (field record) is forwarded to the National Personnel Records Center or to ARPC if data subject holds a reserve obligation. Non-EAD USAFR airmen: Air Force Reserve Forces Non-commissioned Officers Performance Report; upon separation, retirement or assignment to a non-participating reserve status, they are forwarded to ARPC for file in the master personnel record and disposed of as a part of that record. Effectiveness/Performance Report Notices are destroyed when their purpose has been served as they are used as control measures in the creation of effectiveness reports.

F05002X0J ED A

System name:

05002X0J-ED-A Community College of the Air Force Student Record System.

System location:

The system is centrally administered by the Community College of the Air Force (ATC/ED) Maxwell AFB, AL 36112. Computer processing for the system is furnished by the San Antonio Data Services Center (SADSC) 8630 Broadway San Antonio, TX 78217. Microfiche for the system are created by the USAF Electronic Security Command (HQ ESC/DADS) Kelly Air Force Base, TX 78243.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

The system may have a record for any person who has a Social Security Number and who has since 1 January 1968 completed a formal course of instruction conducted Air Force schools identified in the current Community College of the Air Force General Catalog. (Note: Such courses do not include pre-commissioning courses and courses conducted exclusively for officers or their civilian cThe system also includes records reflecting Air Force courses completed before 1968 and other educational accomplishments for persons who as enlisted members of the Air Force registered in programs of study leading to credentials awarded by the college. (Note: Both here and where appropriate below, the general term Air Force should be understood as including the regular Air Force, the Air Force Reserve, and the Air National Guard.)

Categories of records in the system:

The college originates and maintains individual academic records and, where necessary to serve Airmen registered in study programs leading to credentials awarded by the college, maintains a variety of source or substantiating records such as copies of registration applications and document control records derived from such applications; civilian college transcripts; college level examination progcopies of educational records originated by other Air Force and non-Air Force agencies external to the college (such as the Federal Aviation Agency, the United States Armed Forces Institute, and the Defense Activity for Non-Support); copies of a variety of Air Force personnel records (such as documents derived from master records maintained by the USAF Military Personnel Center and microfiche records of locator data); and records of credentials awarded to graduates, Is necessary to manage the day-to-day operations and to plan development of the record system. The college also maintains copies and related records of communications from, to, or regarding persons interested in the college, its educational programs, its student record system, and related matters. Copies of and statistical records derived from individual responses to surveys, questionnaires, and similar instruments authorized by HQ USAF may also be maintained as needed for managerial evaluation and planning by officers of the college.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

44 USC 3101.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Records originated in the system serve the purpose of documenting, in terms of credit awarded or acthe college, individual educational accomplishments which satisfy curricular requirements of study programs leading to credentials offered by the college. Transcripts of records originated in the college are at the written request of persons concerned furnished to any recipient(s) designated in such requests. Such recipients typically include Air Force Education Services Centers, other offices wherever Air Force personnel are stationed, educational institutions, and potential or current employers. CCAF transcripts and coriginated in the college are typically used to support educational and occupational counselling, pladmission to other colleges; and related individual affairs. Other disclosures of personal records originated in or maintained by the college may without the knoconsent of persons concerned be made to Air Force officers, enlisted personnel, and civilian employees directly involved in administering or supporting the educational programs offered or records managed by the college; other Air Force officers, enlisted personnel, and civilian employees who provide educational and related services to Air Force personnel; officers and employees of other agencies as may be necessary to comply with proper requests for recoFreedom of Information Act (Title 5 U.S. Code 552, as amended by Public Law 93-502); and to officers and employees of other agencies as may be necessary to overcome extended interruptions in nprocessing (which agencies may include the Veterans Administration, Trinity University, and the UnitAssociation). Similar incidental disclosures of information recorded in the system may be made to employees of civilian contractors engaged by the Air Force to provide services which directly or indirectly support the record system. Contractors thus engaged at this time are Rothe Development INC, Support Contractors INC, Fred Clark Electric Contractors INC, International Business Machines CORP, Storage Technology CORP, TELEX Computer Products INC, ITEL Computer Products INC, SORBUS INC, Cambridge Memories INC, Xerox CORP, Nashua INC, COMDISCO INC, Sperry-Univac CORP, Burroughs CORP, Honeywell INC, General Kinetics INC, American Telephone and Telegraph CO, Southwestern Bell Telephone CO, Stromberg-Datagraphix INC, and Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing CO.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Permanent student records are maintained on and reproduced as necessary from microfiche created by computer processing. Microfiche are maintained in special filing stands and in special three-ring binders. Computer records are maintained on and as necessary reproduced from magnetic media (tape and disk) ware filed in special cabinets and racks in a library facility. Paper records are maintained in file folders, card files, and conventional cabinets, and in special binders and cabinets designed for computer listings.

Retrievability:

Computer records are retrievable by a combination of Social Security Number (SSN) and certain letters of last name. Microfiche records are retrievable by SSN exclusively. Paper records are retrievable by either SSN or name. Note as may be necessary to support managerial studies by the college staff, computer records may also be retrieved in groups where such records bear common information.

Safeguards:

Records maintained in the college are normally disclosed only upon written request from the persons whose records are to be disclosed or upon written request from an Air Force officer or employee responsible to provide educational or related services to Air Force personnel. Disclosures to non-Air Force agencies not requested by the persons whose records are to be disclosed are made only with consent of an officer of the college and as consistent with the Privacy Act of 1974 and the Freedom of Information Act. Except for disclosures within the college as may be necessary to its operations, requests by telephone and other unwritten means will not be honored unless in the judgment of a responsible member of the collis a member or employee of the Air Force acting on behalf of, or is, the person whose record is requested. Special care is exercised to ensure complete identification of the requestor, the person whose record is to be disclosed, and intended use. Other systematic safeguards to ensure integrity of records include secure storage of successive generations of computer master files, existence and long term retention in other Air Force agencies of records which would be needed to rebuild the entire system in the event of catastrophe, and traditional measures to ensure the security of Air Force facilities. All records in the system are during duty hours attended by responsible Air Force personnel and during non-duty hours stored in locked facilities under constant or periodic surveillance by Air Force security police or guards.

Retention and disposal:

Retained in office files until superseded, obsolete, no longer needed for reference, or on inactivation, then destroyed by tearing into pieces, shredding, pulping, macerating, or burning. specific rules for retention of permanent microfiche and corresponding magnetic tape records have not yet been determined. It is anticipated that such recorretained for not less than 30 and not more than 50 years beyond the latest entries on each such record. Transitory computer records

(such as input transaction records and records on successive generations of master files) are typically retained only so long as they may be useful, which may be as little as 48 hours or as much as 60 days. Active master file records are by their nature evolutionary and are typically retired within 180 days of a person:s separation or retirement or 5 years after thon a given record. (The last rule applies to persons who were not enlisted Air Force members when the last entries on their records were made.) Paper records maintained to serve students registered in study programs are retained so long as a registrant remains active in his or her program. Such records are destroyed 1 year after a registrant completes his or her study program or 3 years after the most recent communication from an airman whose program has not been completed. Other records are typically retained only so long as they may serve a useful purpose, which is typically between 30 and 90 days. No rule has yet been defined for retaining records which verify awards of credentials by the college, but it is expected that such records will need be archival.

The FMP describes the relationship of the patient to his sponsor, e.g., second oldest dependent child, spouse, self, etc. May also be retrieved by the individual's name or by other identification or system number such as inpatient register number, laboratory accession number, or pharmacy prescription number.

Safeguards:

Records are accessed by medical records custodians or other person(s) responsible for maintaining the record system in performance of their official duties, by commanders of Air Force medical treatment facilities or by personnel authorized by the medical records custodian(s), i.e., administrative employees, Peer Review and Utilization Review committees, etc. Records are controlled by computer system software including the use of pass words or other user identification system, and by limiting physical access to the computer and computer terminals. Except when under direct physical control of authorized individuals, records will be stored in locked rooms or in locked cabinets. Records are accessed by authorized personnel who are properly screened and cleared for a need to know.

Retention and disposal:

Computer files are retained for variable lengths of time depending upon the type of information involved and the size and mission of the medical treatment facility. Retention time may vary from one day to ten years. Records are disposed of by erasure of the magnetic computer records and destruction of the computer related worksheets on paper, film, or other media by tearing, shredding, pulping, burning or other destructive methods. Identical medical/dental information may be retained for longer periods of time in other medical records systems (such as inpatient or outpatient charts), including the 'Health and Outpatient Records System' (F16805, ASGHB R), the 'Clinical Records and Related Documents System' (F16804 SGHB A), and 'Dental Health Records' (F16201 SGD A).

System manager(s) and address:

Major command and separate operating agency headquarters and Air Force Medical Service Center, commanders of USAF medical centers, hospitals, and clinics, USAF School of Health Care Sciences, Aerospace Medical Division, Brooks AFB, Texas, and the USAF School of Aerospace Medicine, Brooks AFB, Texas. Official mailing addresses are in the Department of Defense directory in the appendix to the Air Force Systems notice.

Notification procedure:

Requests from individuals should be directed to the Systems Manager. Requests should include complete name (including maiden name), sponsor's name, Social Security Number or Service Number of person through whom eligibility is established, category of record desired, year in which treatment was provided, whether treatment was inpatient or outpatient. If the individual establishes eligibility through a sponsor other than self, the request should include the relationship to the sponsor, e.g., spouse, second oldest child, parent, etc.

Record access procedures:

Address requests to systems manager. Official mailing addresses are in the Department of Defense Directory in the appendix to the Department of Air Force's systems notice.

Contesting record procedures:

The Air Force's rules for access to records and for contesting and appealing initial determinations by the individual concerned may be obtained from the Systems Manager.

Record source categories:

Information is obtained directly from the individual whenever practical and possible, from other individuals when necessary, e.g., when the patient is a child or is in coma, from other medical institutions, from automated systems interfaces, from medical records, and from patient interactions with physicians and other health care providers.

NATIONAL SECURITY AGENCY

REQUESTING RECORDS

Records are retrieved by name or by some other personal identifier. It is therefore especially important for expeditious service when requesting a record that particular attention be provided to the Notification and/or Access Procedures of the particular record system involved so as to furnish the required personal identifiers, or any other pertinent personal information as may be required, to locate and retrieve the record.

BLANKET ROUTINE USES

Certain blanket 'routine uses' of the records have been established, that are applicable to every record system maintained within the Department of Defense, unless specifically stated otherwise within a particular record system. These additional blanket routine uses of the records are published below, only once in the interest of simplicity, economy and to avoid redundancy, before the individual record system notices begin rather than repeating them in every individual record system.

ROUTINE USE - LAW ENFORCEMENT

In the event that a system of records maintained by this component to carry out its functions indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether federal, state, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE WHEN REQUESTING INFORMATION

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to a federal, state or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to a component decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE OF REQUESTED INFORMATION

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

ROUTINE USE - CONGRESSIONAL INQUIRIES

Disclosure from a system of records maintained by this component may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

ROUTINE USE WITHIN THE DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to other components of the Department of Defense if necessary and relevant for the performance of a lawful function such as, but not limited to, personnel actions, personnel security actions and criminal investigations of the Component requesting the record.

ROUTINE USE - PRIVATE RELIEF LEGISLATION

Relevant information contained in all systems of records of the Department of Defense published on or before August 22, 1975, will be disclosed to the Office of Management and Budget in connection with the review of private relief legislation as set forth in OMB Circular A-19 at any stage of the legislative coordination and clearance process as set forth in that Circular.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURES REQUIRED BY INTERNATIONAL AGREEMENTS

A record from a system of records maintained by this Component may be disclosed to foreign law enforcement, security, investigatory, or administrative authorities in order to comply with requirements imposed by, or to claim rights conferred in international agreements and arrangements including those regulating the stationing and status in foreign countries of Department of Defense military and civilian personnel.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO STATE AND LOCAL TAXING AUTHORITIES

Any information normally contained in IRS Form W-2 which is maintained in a record from a system of records maintained by this Component may be disclosed to State and local taxing authorities with which the Secretary of the Treasury has entered into agreements pursuant to Title 5, U.S.Code, Sections 5516, 5517, 5520, and only to those State and local taxing authorities for which an employee or military member is or was subject to tax regardless of whether tax is or was withheld. This routine use is in accordance with Treasury Fiscal Requirements Manual Bulletin Nr. 76-07.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO THE OFFICE OF PERSONNEL MANAGEMENT

A record from a system of records subject to the Privacy Act and maintained by this component may be disclosed to the Office of Personnel Management concerning information on pay and leave, benefits, retirement deductions, and any other information necessary for the Office of Personnel Management to carry out its legally authorized Government-wide personnel management functions and studies.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE OF INFORMATION TO NARS (GSA)

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service of the General Services Administration in records management inspections conducted under authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, EDUCATION, AND WELFARE

All systems of records relating to compensation, employment or retirement, or extracts therefrom, maintained by this Component may be disclosed as a routine use to the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare for the purpose of comparing such record with records of programs administered by and in the possession of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare in order to verify information where such verification is required by law or regulation or to identify violations or potential violations of law, whether criminal, civil, or regulatory, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto.

GNSA01

System name:

NSA/CSS Access, Authority and Release of Information File

System location:

Primary System - National Security Agency/Central Security Service, Ft. George G. Meade, Md. 20755.

Decentralized Segments - Each staff, line, contract and field element as appropriate.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

NSA/CSS civilian employees, personnel under contract or appointment and military assignees.

Categories of records in the system:

File may consist of authorizations to obtain keys; authorizations for access to specific sensitive information or areas; delegation of responsibility to authorize or request specific action, work projects or access; notification to report for duty in event of hazardous weather or other emergency; authorizations to officially release various types of communications; assignments to special activities; assignments as Agency representatives to department or other government committees, boards, task groups; assignments to special tasks in event of technical or national emergencies; assignments to duties as fire, safety, security officers, Combined Federal Campaign and blood donation workers; and assignments to other special or volunteer duties or activities.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

Public Law 86-36, Public Law 88-290, 18 U.S.C. section 798, E.O. 12065.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

The purpose of this file is to provide a means to rapidly determine who may have access to information or keys; who is required to report for duty in special circumstances, who has been authorized to release official communications; who has been assigned additional special tasks, voluntary duties or other duties. The file and its segments are used by each authorized staff, line, contract and field officer, employee or assignee to make determinations as noted in the purposes above. Where required, specific information from this file may be made available to appropriate investigatory authorities engaged in national security or criminal investigations or to national defense and intelligence authorities or other governmental entities with respect to specific assignments or when emergency action is required.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Paper records in file folders, paper cards in file boxes, magnetic tapes, disks and other computer storage media, computer listings, microfilm.

Retrievability:

By name.

Safeguards:

For paper, computer listing, cards and microfilm - Secure limited access facilities, within those facilities secure limited access rooms and within those rooms lockable containers. Access to information is limited to authorized individuals only. For machine records stored on magnetic tape, disk or other computer storage media within the computer processing area-additional secure limited access facilities, specific processing requests from authorized persons only, specific authority to access stored records and delivery to authorized persons only. Where data elements are derived from the Personnel Security File-remote terminal inhibitions are in force with respect to access to complete file or data relating to persons not assigned to requesting organization using a remote terminal. Remote terminals are secured, are available to authorized persons only, and certain password and other identifying information available to authorized users only is required. Terminals are not available outside of headquarters area locations.

Retention and disposal:

Retained until individual is no longer authorized access or release authority or assigned to specific additional duties. Computer files are purged and updated to reflect current status.

System manager(s) and address:

Director, NSA.

Notification procedure:

Requests from individual for notification shall be in writing addressed to the Chief, Office of Policy, National Security Agency/Central Security Service, Ft. George G. Meade, Md. 20755.

Record access procedures:

Requests from individuals for access shall be in writing addressed to the Chief, Office of Policy, National Security Agency/Central Security Service, Ft. George G. Meade, Md. 20755.

Contesting record procedures:

The NSA/CSS rules for contesting contents and appealing initial determinations may be obtained by written request addressed to the Chief, Office of Policy, National Security Agency/Central Security Service, Ft. George G. Meade, Md. 20755.

Record source categories:

Applications and related forms requesting access, appointment or authorization, notifications of same, personnel records, personnel security records, and other sources as appropriate and required.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act:

Individual records in this file may be exempt pursuant to 5 U.S.C., section 552a (k) (1) and (k) (5). For additional information see agency rules contained in 32 CFR Part 299a.

GNSA02

System name:

NSA/CSS Applicants

System location:

National Security Agency/Central Security Service, Ft. George G. Meade, Md. 20755.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Applicants for employment with NSA/CSS.

Categories of records in the system:

File contains forms, documents and correspondence providing personal and qualifications information submitted by individual applicants, educational institutions, past employers, references. Records include processing items, status reports, test results, interview reports, reports of reviewing organizations and other related information.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

Public Law 86-36, Public Law 88-290, E.O. 10450, and 5 U.S.C. and appropriate implementing Office of Personnel Management directives in the Federal Personnel Manual.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

The purpose of this file is to support the recruitment, selection, hire and placement of applicants. The file is used to document applicant processing, as a basis for selection decisions by individual agency elements and the personnel organization, and such other related uses as required. The users of this file include those staff, line, contract and field officers and employees as authorized and appropriate. In addition, files may be made available to the Office of Personnel Management, Freedom of Information Act and Privacy Act authorities, Department of Defense and other governmental entities as required and appropriate.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act:

Parts of this system may be exempt under 5 U.S.C., section 552a (k) (1) and (k) (4). For additional information, see agency rules contained in 32 CFR Part 299a.

DEFENSE NUCLEAR AGENCY

REQUESTING RECORDS

Records are retrieved by name or by some other personal identifier. It is therefore especially important for expeditious service when requesting a record that particular attention be provided to the Notification and/or Access Procedures of the particular record system involved so as to furnish the required personal identifiers, or any other pertinent personal information as may be required, to locate and retrieve the record.

BLANKET ROUTINE USES

Certain blanket 'routine uses' of the records have been established, that are applicable to every record system maintained within the Department of Defense, unless specifically stated otherwise within a particular record system. These additional blanket routine uses of the records are published below, only once in the interest of simplicity, economy and to avoid redundancy, before the individual record system notices begin rather than repeating them in every individual record system.

ROUTINE USE - LAW ENFORCEMENT

In the event that a system of records maintained by this component to carry out its functions indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether federal, state, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE WHEN REQUESTING INFORMATION

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to a federal, state or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to a component decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE OF REQUESTED INFORMATION

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

ROUTINE USE - CONGRESSIONAL INQUIRIES

Disclosure from a system of records maintained by this component may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

ROUTINE USE WITHIN THE DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to other components of the Department of Defense if necessary and relevant for the performance of a lawful function such as, but not limited to, personnel actions, personnel security actions and criminal investigations of the Component requesting the record.

ROUTINE USE - PRIVATE RELIEF LEGISLATION

Relevant information contained in all systems of records of the Department of Defense published on or before August 22, 1975, will be disclosed to the Office of Management and Budget in connection with the review of private relief legislation as set forth in OMB Circular A-19 at any stage of the legislative coordination and clearance process as set forth in that Circular.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURES REQUIRED BY INTERNATIONAL AGREEMENTS

A record from a system of records maintained by this Component may be disclosed to foreign law enforcement, security, investigatory, or administrative authorities in order to comply with requirements imposed by, or to claim rights conferred in international agreements and arrangements including those regulating the stationing and status in foreign countries of Department of Defense military and civilian personnel.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO STATE AND LOCAL TAXING AUTHORITIES

Any information normally contained in IRS Form W-2 which is maintained in a record from a system of records maintained by this Component may be disclosed to State and local taxing authorities with which the Secretary of the Treasury has entered into agreements pursuant to Title 5, U.S.Code, Sections 5516, 5517, 5520, and only to those State and local taxing authorities for which an employee or military member is or was subject to tax regardless of whether tax is or was withheld. This routine use is in accordance with Treasury Fiscal Requirements Manual Bulletin Nr. 76-07.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO THE OFFICE OF PERSONNEL MANAGEMENT

A record from a system of records subject to the Privacy Act and maintained by this component may be disclosed to the Office of Personnel Management concerning information on pay and leave, benefits, retirement deductions, and any other information necessary for the Office of Personnel Management to carry out its legally authorized Government-wide personnel management functions and studies.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE OF INFORMATION TO NARS (GSA)

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service of the General Services Administration in records management inspections conducted under authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, EDUCATION, AND WELFARE

All systems of records relating to compensation, employment or retirement, or extracts therefrom, maintained by this Component may be disclosed as a routine use to the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare for the purpose of comparing such record with records of programs administered by and in the possession of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare in order to verify information where such verification is required by law or regulation or to identify violations or potential violations of law, whether criminal, civil, or regulatory, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto.

DEFENSE INTELLIGENCE AGENCY

REQUESTING RECORDS

Records are retrieved by name or by some other personal identifier. It is therefore especially important for expeditious service when requesting a record that particular attention be provided to the Notification and/or Access Procedures of the particular record system involved so as to furnish the required personal identifiers, or any other pertinent personal information as may be required, to locate and retrieve the record.

BLANKET ROUTINE USES

Certain blanket 'routine uses' of the records have been established, that are applicable to every record system maintained within the Department of Defense, unless specifically stated otherwise within a particular record system. These additional blanket routine uses of the records are published below, only once in the interest of simplicity, economy and to avoid redundancy, before the individual record system notices begin rather than repeating them in every individual record system.

ROUTINE USE - LAW ENFORCEMENT

In the event that a system of records maintained by this component to carry out its functions indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether federal, state, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE WHEN REQUESTING INFORMATION

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to a federal, state or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to a component decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE OF REQUESTED INFORMATION

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

ROUTINE USE - CONGRESSIONAL INQUIRIES

Disclosure from a system of records maintained by this component may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

ROUTINE USE WITHIN THE DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to other components of the Department of Defense if necessary and relevant for the performance of a lawful function such as, but not limited to, personnel actions, personnel security actions and criminal investigations of the Component requesting the record.

ROUTINE USE - PRIVATE RELIEF LEGISLATION

Relevant information contained in all systems of records of the Department of Defense published on or before August 22, 1975, will be disclosed to the Office of Management and Budget in connection with the review of private relief legislation as set forth in OMB Circular A-19 at any stage of the legislative coordination and clearance process as set forth in that Circular.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURES REQUIRED BY INTERNATIONAL AGREEMENTS

A record from a system of records maintained by this Component may be disclosed to foreign law enforcement, security, investigatory, or administrative authorities in order to comply with requirements imposed by, or to claim rights conferred in international agreements and arrangements including those regulating the stationing and status in foreign countries of Department of Defense military and civilian personnel.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO STATE AND LOCAL TAXING AUTHORITIES

Any information normally contained in IRS Form W-2 which is maintained in a record from a system of records maintained by this Component may be disclosed to State and local taxing authorities with which the Secretary of the Treasury has entered into agreements pursuant to Title 5, U.S.Code, Sections 5516, 5517, 5520, and only to those State and local taxing authorities for which an employee or military member is or was subject to tax regardless of whether tax is or was withheld. This routine use is in accordance with Treasury Fiscal Requirements Manual Bulletin Nr. 76-07.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO THE OFFICE OF PERSONNEL MANAGEMENT

A record from a system of records subject to the Privacy Act and maintained by this component may be disclosed to the Office of Personnel Management concerning information on pay and leave, benefits, retirement deductions, and any other information necessary for the Office of Personnel Management to carry out its legally authorized Government-wide personnel management functions and studies.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE OF INFORMATION TO NARS (GSA)

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service of the General Services Administration in records management inspections conducted under authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, EDUCATION, AND WELFARE

All systems of records relating to compensation, employment or retirement, or extracts therefrom, maintained by this Component may be disclosed as a routine use to the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare for the purpose of comparing such record with records of programs administered by and in the possession of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare in order to verify information where such verification is required by law or regulation or to identify violations or potential violations of law, whether criminal, civil, or regulatory, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto.

UNITED STATES MARINE CORPS

REQUESTING RECORDS

Records are retrieved by name or by some other personal identifier. It is therefore especially important for expeditious service when requesting a record that particular attention be provided to the Notification and/or Access Procedures of the particular record system involved so as to furnish the required personal identifiers, or any other pertinent personal information as may be required, to locate and retrieve the record.

BLANKET ROUTINE USES

Certain blanket 'routine uses' of the records have been established, that are applicable to every record system maintained within the Department of Defense, unless specifically stated otherwise within a particular record system. These additional blanket routine uses of the records are published below, only once in the interest of simplicity, economy and to avoid redundancy, before the individual record system notices begin rather than repeating them in every individual record system.

ROUTINE USE - LAW ENFORCEMENT

In the event that a system of records maintained by this component to carry out its functions indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether federal, state, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE WHEN REQUESTING INFORMATION

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to a federal, state or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to a component decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE OF REQUESTED INFORMATION

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

ROUTINE USE - CONGRESSIONAL INQUIRIES

Disclosure from a system of records maintained by this component may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

ROUTINE USE WITHIN THE DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to other components of the Department of Defense if necessary and relevant for the performance of a lawful function such as, but not limited to, personnel actions, personnel security actions and criminal investigations of the Component requesting the record.

ROUTINE USE - PRIVATE RELIEF LEGISLATION

Relevant information contained in all systems of records of the Department of Defense published on or before August 22, 1975, will be disclosed to the Office of Management and Budget in connection with the review of private relief legislation as set forth in OMB Circular A-19 at any stage of the legislative coordination and clearance process as set forth in that Circular.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURES REQUIRED BY INTERNATIONAL AGREEMENTS

A record from a system of records maintained by this Component may be disclosed to foreign law enforcement, security, investigatory, or administrative authorities in order to comply with requirements imposed by, or to claim rights conferred in international agreements and arrangements including those regulating the stationing and status in foreign countries of Department of Defense military and civilian personnel.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO STATE AND LOCAL TAXING AUTHORITIES

Any information normally contained in IRS Form W-2 which is maintained in a record from a system of records maintained by this Component may be disclosed to State and local taxing authorities with which the Secretary of the Treasury has entered into agreements pursuant to Title 5, U.S.Code, Sections 5516, 5517, 5520, and only to those State and local taxing authorities for which an employee or military member is or was subject to tax regardless of whether tax is or was withheld. This routine use is in accordance with Treasury Fiscal Requirements Manual Bulletin Nr. 76-07.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO THE OFFICE OF PERSONNEL MANAGEMENT

A record from a system of records subject to the Privacy Act and maintained by this component may be disclosed to the Office of Personnel Management concerning information on pay and leave, benefits, retirement deductions, and any other information necessary for the Office of Personnel Management to carry out its legally authorized Government-wide personnel management functions and studies.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE OF INFORMATION TO NARS (GSA)

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service of the General Services Administration in records management inspections conducted under authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, EDUCATION, AND WELFARE

All systems of records relating to compensation, employment or retirement, or extracts therefrom, maintained by this Component may be disclosed as a routine use to the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare for the purpose of comparing such record with records of programs administered by and in the possession of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare in order to verify information where such verification is required by law or regulation or to identify violations or potential violations of law, whether criminal, civil, or regulatory, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Data is recorded on magnetic records and discs, punch cards, computer printouts, microform, file folders, and other documents.

Retrievability:

The data contained in magnetic records can be displayed on cathode-ray tubes, it can be computer printed on paper, and it can be converted to microform for information retrieval; the data in the supporting file folders and other manual records is retrieved manually. Computerized and conventional indices are required to retrieve individual records from the system. Normally, all types of records are retrieved by Social Security Number and name.

Safeguards:

Building management employs security guards; building is locked nights and holidays. Authorized personnel may enter and leave the building during nonworking hours but must sign in and out. Records are maintained in areas accessible only to authorized personnel that are properly screened, cleared and trained.

Access to personal information is limited to authorized personnel with a need-to-know. Access is restricted to specific applications programs, records, and files to which personnel have a specific and recorded need-to-know. Online data sets (both tape and disc) pertaining to personal information are password protected, areas are controlled and access lists are used. The files are also protected at a level appropriate to the type of information being processed.

Retention and disposal:

Magnetic records are maintained on all military personnel and certain civilians while they are in service or employed by the service and for a period of 6 months after separation. Paper and film records are maintained for a period of 10 years after the final transaction, then they are destroyed. End calendar and fiscal year 'snapshots' of the MMS data base are maintained indefinitely in magnetic form at Headquarters, U. S. Marine Corps.

System location:

Marine Corps Central Design and Programming Activity (MCCDPA), 1500 East 95th Street, Kansas City, Missouri 64131; Marine Corps Finance Center, Kansas City, Missouri 64197.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

The allotment system contains all active allotments and limited (12 months) stop history for each active duty, retired, and Fleet Marine Corps Reserve (FMCR) member who authorized an allotment from his pay and allowances.

Categories of records in the system:

The allotment file contains allotments authorized by the Marines concerned, as provided under instructions issued by the Secretary of Defense.

The B&A automated system is made up of records which contain the following fields (data elements and data sets): Identification Number (Social Security Number (SSN)); Initials of Name (Last, First, Middle); Rank/Category; Last Name and Suffix; Last Pay Date; First Pay Date; Work Date; Amount; Term (in months); Account/Policy Number; Authority/Date/Remark; Bond Owner Name; Bond Owner SSN: Co-owner Beneficiary Flag; Co-owner or Beneficiary Name; Co-owner or Beneficiary SSN; Authority/Date/Remark; Name of Recipient; Street Address/Post Office Box; City and State/Country; Geographic Code (City, State/Country); Zip Code.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

Title 37, U S Code. The authority for continuing deduction for garnishment of pay is outlined in section 459 of Public Law 93-647.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

The purpose of the system is to provide for the payment of allotments and for the issuance, cancellation, of U S Treasury checks and savings bonds as authorized by appropriate directives. The data obtained from the system provides for the control and ultimate disposition of all treasury checks and savings bonds prepared. Allows for the collection of appropriate data, to render an accurate accounting of public funds expended or collected as required by the Navy Comptroller Manual. The allotment file is utilized by the Joint Uniform Military Pay System/ Manpower Management System (JUMPS/MMS) and Retired Pay systems to calculate the monies due active duty, retired, and FMCR members of the U S Marine Corps.

The allotment class, dollar value, and allotee are displayed on the JUMPS Leave and Earnings Statement (LES) as issued. Copies of the LES are distributed as follows:

Original (white) - Disbursing Officer (DO) having custody of the Personal Financial Record.
Duplicate (yellow) - furnished the Marine concerned.
Triplicate (pink) - furnished the Commanding Officer (CO) for retention on the Marine's service record.
For permanent record retention purposes, one copy will be filed at the MCFC in microform.
The total dollar value of active allotments is furnished each retired and FMCR Marine each time a new statement of his account card is prepared.

Verification and/or information concerning a specific allotment may be released (as requested) to the following:

Marine concerned.
Marine's CO
Marine's DO
Recipient of the allotment.
Treasury Department.
Federal Reserve Bank.
Federal Bureau of Investigation.
Naval Audit Service.
General Accounting Office.
Postal Inspectors.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

System name:

Automated Systematic Recruiting Support System (ASRSS)

System location:

The system will be operated at each Recruiting Station, District Headquarters, and Marine Corps Recruit Depot within the Marine Corps. See organizational elements of the U. S. Marine Corps as listed in the Directory of the Department of the Navy Activities.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

All Marine Corps Regular and Reserve recruits.

Categories of records in the system:

File contains information voluntarily provided by recruits as contained on the Application for Enlistment - Armed Forces of the United States.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

Title 10, U. S. Code 301, Departmental Regulations

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Marine Corps Recruiting Stations - Ensure that a member of the Delayed Entry Pool is shipped to Marine Corps Recruit Depot on the appropriate date. Ensure that recruits are not retained in the Delayed Entry Pool longer than the authorized period. Give proper credit, e.g., Meritorious Appointment to Private First Class, to recruits who have referred other enlistees to the Marine Corps. Keep track of recruits who successfully complete recruit training for subsequent assistance as recruiter aides while on recruit leave.

Marine Corps District Headquarters - Monitor the status of accessions by category, e.g., Mental Group; losses from the Delayed Entry Program recruiter performance by 'waiver code.'

Marine Corps Recruit Depot - Ensure that those recruits shipped from various recruiting stations and Armed Forces Examining and Entrance Stations (AFEES) arrive at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot on schedule. Trace recruiter malpractice allegations to the proper source.

Headquarters, U. S. Marine Corps - Monitor accessions by program option/guarantee. Match total accessions throughout the country to demographic data available through the Recruit Market Network. Track Reserve accessions by Reserve unit, Military Occupational Specialty (MOS), and availability for active service training. Respond to Congressional inquiries on individual cases in a timely, accurate manner.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

The file will be stored via on-line magnetic disk with backup on magnetic tape. Backup audit trail record will be available at the point-of-entry.

Retrievability:

Standard reports and ad hoc retrievals are generated from remote terminals using a data base management system. Additionally, updates and record browsing may be accomplished in the interactive mode through keying Social Security Number.

Safeguards:

Records are maintained in areas accessible only to authorized personnel that are properly screened, cleared, and trained.

'Hard copy' or paper output from the system is stored in locked containers.

System software contains user passwords to lock out unauthorized access.

Software contains partitions to limit access to appropriate organizational level.

Retention and disposal:

On-line magnetic records will be maintained for one year after completion of recruit training. Records are then retired to a 'history file' where they will be retained for a period of four (4) years and then destroyed.

System manager(s) and address:

Commandant of the Marine Corps (Attn: Deputy Chief of Staff for Manpower), Headquarters, U. S. Marine Corps, Washington, D. C. 20380.

Notification procedure:

Requests from individuals for information concerning their ASRSS records should be addressed to the Commandant of the Marine Corps (Code MPI-40), U. S. Marine Corps, Washington, D. C. 20380. Requesting individual should supply full name and Social Security Number.

The requester may also visit any Marine Corps Recruiting Station to determine whether ASRSS contains records pertaining to him or her. In order to personally visit a Recruiting Station and obtain information, individuals must present proper identification such as military identification, if a service member, driver's license, or some other suitable proof of identity.

Record access procedures:

The agency's rules for access to records may be obtained from the system manager.

Contesting record procedures:

REQUESTING RECORDS

Records are retrieved by name or by some other personal identifier. It is therefore especially important for expeditious service when requesting a record that particular attention be provided to the Notification and/or Access Procedures of the particular record system involved so as to furnish the required personal identifiers, or any other pertinent personal information as may be required, to locate and retrieve the record.

BLANKET ROUTINE USES

Certain blanket 'routine uses' of the records have been established, that are applicable to every record system maintained within the Department of Defense, unless specifically stated otherwise within a particular record system. These additional blanket routine uses of the records are published below, only once in the interest of simplicity, economy and to avoid redundancy, before the individual record system notices begin rather than repeating them in every individual record system.

ROUTINE USE - LAW ENFORCEMENT

In the event that a system of records maintained by this component to carry out its functions indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether federal, state, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE WHEN REQUESTING INFORMATION

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to a federal, state or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to a component decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE OF REQUESTED INFORMATION

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

ROUTINE USE - CONGRESSIONAL INQUIRIES

Disclosure from a system of records maintained by this component may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

ROUTINE USE WITHIN THE DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to other components of the Department of Defense if necessary and relevant for the performance of a lawful function such as, but not limited to, personnel actions, personnel security actions and criminal investigations of the Component requesting the record.

ROUTINE USE - PRIVATE RELIEF LEGISLATION

Relevant information contained in all systems of records of the Department of Defense published on or before August 22, 1975, will be disclosed to the Office of Management and Budget in connection with the review of private relief legislation as set forth in OMB Circular A-19 at any stage of the legislative coordination and clearance process as set forth in that Circular.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURES REQUIRED BY INTERNATIONAL AGREEMENTS

A record from a system of records maintained by this Component may be disclosed to foreign law enforcement, security, investigatory, or administrative authorities in order to comply with requirements imposed by, or to claim rights conferred in international agreements and arrangements including those regulating the stationing and status in foreign countries of Department of Defense military and civilian personnel.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO STATE AND LOCAL TAXING AUTHORITIES

Any information normally contained in IRS Form W-2 which is maintained in a record from a system of records maintained by this Component may be disclosed to State and local taxing authorities with which the Secretary of the Treasury has entered into agreements pursuant to Title 5, U.S.Code, Sections 5516, 5517, 5520, and only to those State and local taxing authorities for which an employee or military member is or was subject to tax regardless of whether tax is or was withheld. This routine use is in accordance with Treasury Fiscal Requirements Manual Bulletin Nr. 76-07.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO THE OFFICE OF PERSONNEL MANAGEMENT

A record from a system of records subject to the Privacy Act and maintained by this component may be disclosed to the Office of Personnel Management concerning information on pay and leave, benefits, retirement deductions, and any other information necessary for the Office of Personnel Management to carry out its legally authorized Government-wide personnel management functions and studies.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE OF INFORMATION TO NARS (GSA)

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service of the General Services Administration in records management inspections conducted under authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, EDUCATION, AND WELFARE

All systems of records relating to compensation, employment or retirement, or extracts therefrom, maintained by this Component may be disclosed as a routine use to the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare for the purpose of comparing such record with records of programs administered by and in the possession of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare in order to verify information where such verification is required by law or regulation or to identify violations or potential violations of law, whether criminal, civil, or regulatory, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto.

Office of the Judge Advocate General (Code 21) Department of the Navy 200 Stovall St, Alexandria, Va 22332

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Any individual who participated in, who was involved in, who incurred an injury, disease, or death in, who was intoxicated (drugs or alcohol) during, before, or after, or who had an interest in any accident, incident, transaction, or situation involving or affecting the Department of the Navy, naval personnel, or any procedure, operation, material, or design involving the Department of the Navy.

Categories of records in the system:

The records contain all documented evidence relevant to the item under investigation, together with an investigating officer's report, which makes findings of fact and expresses opinions and recommendations, the reviewing authority's actions which either approved or modified the investigating officer's report or returned the entire record for further investigation or remedial action to perfect the record, and, the results of hearings afforded persons who incurred injuries and diseases, to allow them to explain or rebut adverse information in the record. The Judge Advocate General's correspondence to locate and obtain required investigations is also included in the record. Some records contain only a field command's explanation as to why investigation is not required, together with documents pertinent to this lack of requirement. Some records contain only an accident, injury, or death report, prepared for the Department of the Navy by the Army, Air Force, Coast Guard, or other agency under reciprocal agreements, in situations where the Navy or Marine Corps could not conduct the investigation.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

JAG Manual Investigative Records are used internally within the Department of the Navy as bases for evaluating procedures operations, material, and designs with a view to improving the efficiency and safety of the Department of the Navy; determinations concerning status of personnel regarding disability benefits, entitlements to pay during periods of disability, severance pay, retirement pay, increases of pay for longevity, survivors' benefits, and involuntary extensions of enlistments, dates of expiration of active obligated service and accrual of annual leave; determinations concerning relief of accountable personnel from liability for losses of public funds or property; determinations pertaining to disciplinary or punitive action and evaluation of petitions, grievances, and complaints; adjudication, pursuit, or defense of claims for or against the Government; and public information releases. Records of such investigations are routinely furnished to the Veterans Administration for use in determinations concerning entitlements to veterans and survivors' benefits; to Servicemen's Group Life Insurance administrators for determinations concerning payment of life insurance proceeds; to the U.S. General Accounting Office for purposes of determinations concerning relief of accountable personnel from liability for losses of public funds and related fiscal matters; to the Department of Justice for use in litigation involving the Government; to agents and authorized representatives of persons involved in the incident, for use in legal or administrative matters; to contractors for use in connection with settlement, adjudication, or defense of claims by or against the Government, and for use in design and evaluation of products, services, and systems; to agencies of the Federal, State, or local law enforcement authorities, court authorities, administrative authorities, and regulatory authorities, for use in connection with civilian and military criminal, civil, administrative, and regulatory proceedings and actions. Additionally, these records may be furnished to other components of the Department of Defense in connection with the above-stated purposes.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Paper documents stapled together (with real evidence, if any, attached) in paper file folders and stored in metal file cabinets, on shelves, and in cardboard boxes.

Retrievability:

Records are filed in calendar year groupings by surname of individual, bureau number of aircraft, name of ship, hull number of unnamed watercraft, or vehicle number of Government vehicles. Incidents are topically cross-referenced.

Safeguards:

Files are maintained in file cabinets and other storage devices under the control of authorized personnel during working hours; the office spaces in which the file cabinets and storage devices are located are locked outside official working hours.

Retention and disposal:

The records are retained permanently. All naval activities which prepare JAG Manual Investigative Records, or which are intermediate addresses, typically retain duplicate copies in local files for a two-year period.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Blanket 'routine uses' identified in the yearly recompilation do not apply to this system of records.

Records of identity, diagnosis, prognosis, or treatment of any client/patient, irrespective of whether or when he/she ceases to be client/patient, maintained in connection with the performance of any alcohol or drug abuse prevention and treatment function conducted, regulated, or directly or indirectly assisted by any department or agency of the United States, shall, except as provided therein, be confidential and be disclosed only for the purposes and under the circumstances expressly authorized in Title 21 U.S.C. Section 1175, as amended by 88 Stat. 137, and Title 42 U.S.C., Section 4582, as amended by 88 Stat. 131. These statutes take precedence over the Privacy Act of 1974, in regard to accessibility of such records except to the individual to whom the record pertains.

Within the Armed Forces or within those components of the Veterans Administration furnishing health care to veterans or between such components and the Armed Forces.

To medical personnel outside the Armed Forces to the extent necessary to meet a bona fide medical emergency.

To Government personnel for the purpose of obtaining benefits to which the patient is entitled.

To qualified personnel for the purpose of conducting scientific research, management or financial audits, or program evaluation, but such personnel may not identify, directly or indirectly, any individual patient in any report of such research, audit or evaluation, or otherwise disclose identities in any manner.

To a court of competent jurisdiction upon authorization by an appropriate order after showing good cause therefore. In assessing good cause, the court shall weigh the public interest and the need for disclosure against the injury to the patient, to the physician-patient relationship, and to the treatment services. Upon the granting of such order, the court, in determining the extent to which any disclosure of all or any part of any record is necessary, shall impose appropriate safeguards against unauthorized disclosure.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Automated records may be stored on magnetic tapes, disc, drums or on punched cards.

Manual records may be stored in paper file folders, microfiche or microfilm.

Retrievability:

Manual records may be retrieved by name and social security number. Automated records may be retrieved by social security number. Computer programs associated with automated records maintained in this system allow for names and social security numbers to be removed while leaving other data elements intact. When the name and social security number is removed, data is aggregated for use in research, management information and planning.

Safeguards:

Computer and punched card processing facilities are located in restricted areas accessible only to authorized persons that are properly screened, cleared and trained.

Manual records and computer printouts are available only to authorized personnel having a need to know.

Retention and disposal:

Manual records are maintained for two years and automated records are maintained indefinely.

N63285 ADMIN

System name:

Administrative Files System

System location:

Naval Investigative Service (NIS) Headquarters 2461 Eisenhower Avenue, Alexandria, Va. 22331

Decentralized Segments - Naval Investigative Service Offices (NISOs) retain duplicate copies of certain segments of the administrative files. Addresses of these offices are included in the directory of Department of the Navy mailing list.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Past and present civilian, military and foreign national personnel assigned world-wide NIS.

Categories of records in the system:

Personnel Management System - an automated management information and statistical system containing all needed items of personnel information.

Special Agent Career Development Files - a compendium of Civil Service Performance Evaluation and Ratings and all correspondence unique to the NIS Special Agent, including annual physical examinations, which has a bearing on world-wide assignability, promotion and general career assessment.

Weapons Inventory File - an automated file containing the credential number, badge, weapons and handcuffs assigned to each NIS criminal investigator.

Personnel Security Clearance File - an automated file containing the classified material access level and date of last security clearance for assigned civilian and military personnel of NIS.

Personnel Utilization Data File - an automated file designed to provide statistical information regarding the manner by which available NIS manhours are expended in the execution of its assigned investigative and counterintelligence mission. The file is formed by the submission (monthly) of individual manhour diaries. All assigned personnel input to this system; their manhours are categorized by function.

Freedom of Information and Privacy Requests File. Records relating to requests for information pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act and the Privacy Act of 1974, and responses thereto. Duplicate copies are also retained by the Naval Intelligence Command, 2461 Eisenhower Avenue, Alexandria, Va. 22331.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

5 U.S.C. 301; Departmental Regulations

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

The Personnel Management System is used in preparation of virtually all personnel documents and personnel statistical studies. It provides such information as the average grade, the total number and composition of personnel at each NIS component and the past assignments of personnel. It is used on a daily basis by personnel technicians and management level personnel in the formation and execution of staffing actions for the various NIS components, informal verification of employee's tenure and the compilation of necessary statistical studies.

Special Agent Career Development Files - The information in these files is used for within-agency decisions regarding reassignment, promotion, career training and long-range development. They form within-agency repository for both adverse and favorable documents regarding Special Agents. The files have a long-range fuction - that of forming the basis for law enforcement retirement service certification. Though part of the file is duplicated in the Official File maintained by the Civilian Personnel Office, the Special Agent Career Development file is considered priviledged information and its contents are not released outside NIS. Within NIS, the files are maintained and controlled exclusively within the Career Services Division, NIS Headquarters and by assigned personnel to that Division. The files are released for review only to senior management personnel of NIS.

Weapons Inventory File - used to identify and inventory credentials, weapons, badges and handcuffs issued to authorized NIS personnel.

Personnel Security Clearnace File - used to informally verify and authenticate security clearances issued to NIS personnel. The file has a daily working purpose of acting as a check sheet for the updating of security clearances. It further is the file referred to when the director, NIS, is required to certify th access level of certain assigned NIS personnel to other Navy commands as well as civilian contractors.

Personnel Utilization Data File - a statistical file from which an indepth analyses of manhour expenditures are surveyed. The file is highly automated and used exclusively within NIS. The various analyses drawn from the file are used to modify the staffing levels at various NIS components based on actual work level. It further provides a tool to NIS management to gauge the efficiency of all components by comparing their workload with the amount of manhours available.

The records in this system are referred, as appropriate to authorized governmental units, such as Office of Civilian Manpower Management and Civil Service Commission, making various personnel determinations, e.g., retirement, awards, disciplinary action; to law enforcement personnel conducting criminal or suitability investigations; to DoD components, other agencies or industrial firms requiring confirmation of security clearance level; to higher authority for statistical purposes; limited response to credit queries; and medical records to personal physicians.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

The Personnel Management System, Weapons Inventory File, Personnel Security Clearance File and the Personnel Utilization Data File are stored on magnetic tape in an automated system. The Personnel Management System is composed of visible file cards and computer paper printouts; the Personnel Security Clearance File is composed of computer paper printouts and associated Department of Defense security certification documents, the latter being filed in individual file folders; the Weapons Inventory File and the Personnel Utilization Data File are composed of computer paper printouts only.

The Special Agent Career Development files are composed exclusively of paper records in file folders.

Retrievability:

Information is accessed and retrieved by name only in the Special Agent Career Development File. The Weapons Inventory File is queried by either name only or by item number (i.e., badge, credential, weapon, handcuff serial number).

The Personnel Management System is accessed by name and SSAN; retrieval is by individual data characteristic such as GS-grade level, duty-station, special qualifications, language qualifications or it my be retrieved by name only or in conjuction with the SSAN.

The Personnel Utilization Data File is normally accessed and retrieved by location and functional category of employment (i.e., Special Agent, clerical, etc.). The capability exists, however, to retrieve by SSAN. The Personnel Security Classificaton File is a subordinate file to the Personnel Management System. Accession is by name and SSAN. Retrieval is accomplished by computer paper printout in both alphabetical and duty-station format.

Safeguards:

All files in this system are protected by limited, controlled access, safes, and locked cabinets and doors. Futher, visitor control and secure computer software measures (where applicable) are utilized.

Retention and disposal:

Personnel indexed in the Personnel Management System and the Personnel Security Clearance File are deleted from the magnetic tape data storage upon termination of employment. Residual paper records are retained from two to five years.

Personnel indexed in the Weapons Inventory File are deleted at such time as assigned equipment is returned and accounted for. Residual paper printouts are destroyed at least semi-annually.

The Special Agent Career Development Files are semi-permanent and are retained, at least in essential skeletal format, indefinitely.

System manager(s) and address:

Director, Naval Investigative Service, 2461 Eisenhower Avenue, Alexandria, Va. 22331.

Notification procedure:

Requests from individuals should be addressed to the System Manager, above. Individuals submitting requests should provide their full name, date of birth, SSAN and dates of employment or assignment with NIS.

In the case of personal visits, individuals requesting access to files in this system will be required to present reasonable proof of identity to minimally include a drivers' license or similar document at least one of which must bear a current photograph and be able to provide (orally) some element of unique identifying data such as name of spouse or a past duty-station with NIS.

Record access procedures:

Access to files in this system may be gained by written notification or personal visit to the Naval Investigative Service Headquarters at the location specified above. Requests should be directed to the Information and Privacy Coordinator.

Contesting record procedures: The agency's rule for access to records and for contesting contents and appealing initial determinations by the inividual concerned may be obtained from the system manager.

Record source categories:

In the case of Personnel Management System and the Personnel Utilization Data System, the individual employee is the prime source of information both for initial access to the files as well as periodic update. The Personnel Security Clearance File information is obtained as a sub-file to the Personnel Management System. The information for the Weapons Inventory File is obtained from personnel charged with the issuance of various items inventoried therein (with verification by the personnel to whom the items are issued.)

Information for the Special Agent Career Development File is recieved from the individuals supervisors, from various Naval Commands and other Federal and State agencies with whom the Special Agent has had professional contact and from the individual himself. Also, this file contains copies of each physical examination required annually of assigned civilian Special Agents.

Naval Investigative Service Resident Agencies retain copies of investigative reports during pendency and for 90 days thereafter. They also retain evidence custody cards on persons from whom evidence was seized. The number and location of these Resident Agencies are subject to change in order to meet the requirements of the Department of the Navy. Current location may be obtained from Naval Investigative Service Headquarters.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Persons in the following categories who require access to classified defense information prior to August 1972: Active and inactive members of the naval service, civilian personnel employed by the Department of the Navy (DoN), industrial and contractor personnel, civilian personnel being considered for sensitive positions, boards, conferences, etc., civilian personnel who worked or resided overseas, Red Cross personnel. Civilian and military personnel accused, suspected or victims of felonious type offenses, or lesser offenses impacting on the good order, discipline, morale or security of the DoN. Civilian personnel seeking access to or seeking to conduct or operate any business or other function aboard a DoN installation, facility or ship. Civilian or military personnel involved in the loss, compromise or unauthorized disclosure of classified material/information. Civilian and military personnel who were of counterintelligence interest to the DoN.

Categories of records in the system:

Categories of records in the system: Official Reports of Investigation (ROI) prepared by NIS or other military, federal, state, local or foreign law enforcement or investigative body on either hard copy or microfilm. NIS Information reports (NIRs). NIRs document information received by NIS which is of interest to the naval services or other law enforcement or investigative bodies. The information may be of criminal, counterintelligence or general investigative interest.

General Administration Reports (GEN). The investigative purpose of the GEN is to report the results of pre-employment inquiries on applicants for positions as Special Agents with NIS.

Investigative summaries, memoranda for the files and correspondence relating to specific cases and contained in the individual dossier.

Polygraph Data. A listing of persons who submitted to polygraph examination by NIS examiners. The data includes the examinee's name, location and results of the examination and the identity of the examiner.

Case Control and Management documents which serve as the basis for controlling and guiding the investigative activity.

Records identifying confidential sources and contacts with them.

Index to persons reported by 'Name Only'.

Wiretap Data Records. Automated listing of persons who were subjects of wiretapping or eavesdropping operations.

Case Control and Narcotics Data Records. Automated records used only for statistical purposes in accounting for productivity, manhours expenditures; various statistical data concerning narcotics usage and used solely for statistical purposes.

Modus Operandi Files.

Screening Board Reports. These reports set forth the results of oral examination of applicants for a position as a Special Agent with the NIS.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

The information in this system is (was) collected to meet the investigative, counterintelligence and security responsibilites of the DoN. This includes personnel security, internal security, criminal and other law enforcement matters all of which are essential to the effective operation of the department.

The records in this system are used to make determinations of; suitability for access or continued access to classified information, suitability for employment or assignment, suitability for access to military installations or industrial firms engaged in government projects/contracts, suitability for awards or similar benefits; referral to other law enforcement or investigatory authorities for law enforcement purposes; use in current law enforcement investigation of any type including applicants; use in judicial or adjudicative proceedings including litigation or in accordance with a court order; insurance claims including workmens compensation; provide protective services under the DoD Distinguished Visitor Protection Program and to assist the U.S. Secret Service in meeting its responsibilities; Congressional interest including the General Accounting Office; respond to the Freedom of Information and Privacy Acts; use for public affairs or publicity purposes such as wanted persons, etc.; referral of matters under their cognizance to federal, state or local law enforcement authorities including criminal prosecution, civil court action or regulatory order; disclosure to federal intelligence/counterintelligence agencies of matters under their purview disclosure to foreign government organizations of criminal and counterintelligence information necessary for the prosecution of justice, or for mutual security and protection; advising higher authorities and naval commands of important developments impacting on security, good order or discipline; reporting of statistical data to naval commands and higher authority; disclosure to the National Archives; use by other investigative unit (federal, state or local) for whom the investigation was conducted; release to defense counsel, disclosure in course of acquiring the information, input into the Defense Central Index of Investigations; disclosure to victims of crimes to the extent necessary to pursue civil and criminal remedies.

Users of the records in this system include employees of the NIS who require access for operational, administrative or supervisory purposes; DoD criminal investigative, investigative and intelligence units; federal, state and local units engaged in criminal investigative, investigative and intelligence activities; federal regulatory agencies with investigative units, DOD components making suitability determinations; federal, state or local judicial or adjudicative bodies; Congressional bodies, including the General Accounting Office who require access within the scope of their jurisdiction for those authorized purposes enumerated above to the extent that those purposes are within the scope of their authority. Commercial insurance companies in those instances in which they have a legitimate interest in the results of the investigation, but only to that extent and provided an invasion of privacy is not involved.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Paper records in file folders, on cards and on microfilm. Automated records on magnetic tape.

Retrievability:

NIS permanent files are filed by terminal digit number. In order to locate the file it is necessary to query the Defense Central Index of Investigations (DCII) computer using the name of the subject and at least one other personnel identifier such as date of birth, place of birth, social security number or military service number. Files may also be retrieved by a case control number assigned at the time the investigation is initiated. Copies of the files in the NISOs and Resident Agencies are retrieved by name.

Safeguards:

NIS investigative files (permanent and temporary) are maintained and stored in open shelves and filing cabinets located in secured areas accessible only to authorized personnel. Dated files are retired to the Washington National Records Center where retrieval is restricted to NIS authorized personnel.

Retention and disposal:

Retention of completed NIS Investigative files on Personnel Security Investigations (PSI's) is authorized for 15 years unless adverse information is developed, in which case they may be retained for 25 years. PSI files on persons considered for affiliation with DOD will be destroyed within one year if the affiliation is not consummated. Special Agent applicant records are retained for one year if the applicant declines offer of employment and five years if the applicant is rejected for employment. Criminal files are retained for 25 years. Major investigations of a counterintelligence/security nature, of espionage or sabotage, may be retained permanently. Certain of the above records, when found to have possible historical value, may be offered to the National Archives for continued retention. Counterintelligence records on persons not affiliated with DOD must be destroyed within 90 days or one year under criteria set forth in DOD Directive 5200.27, unless retention is required by law or specifically approved by the Secretary of the Navy. Files retained in the NISO's and resident agencies are temporary and are destroyed after 90 days or one year, as appropriate.

System manager(s) and address:

The Director, Naval Investigative Service has ultimate responsibility for all NIS file holdings. Management of NIS permanent files is the direct responsibility of the Assistant Director for Administration. NISO Commanding Officers are responsible for files retained in their NISO subordinate Resident Agencies.

Notification procedure:

All requests relative to the retention and/or releasability of NIS investigative files should be addressed to the Director, Naval Investigative Service, 2461 Eisenhower Avenue, Alexandria, Va. 22331. Requests must contain the full name of the individual and at least one additional personal identifier such as date and place of birth, social security number or military service number. Personal visits by requesters should be confined to the Naval Investigative Service headquarters at the above address. It should be borne in mind that the vagaries of the automated indexing system might preclude a same day response. Persons submitting written requests must properly establish their identity to the satisfaction of the NIS. Where a question exists a signed, notarized statement or other certified form of identification will be required. Individuals appearing in person may present proof of identification in the form of military ID card, valid driver's license, or other suitable form of identification bearing a photograph and signature. Attorneys or other persons acting on behalf of a subject of a record must provide a notarized authorization from the subject of the record.

Record access procedures:

Individuals may make inquiries relative to NIS records maintained on them thru the NIS Information and Privacy Coordinator Naval Investigative Service Headquarters, at the address specified in the previous paragraph.

Contesting record procedures:

The Agency's rules for access to records and for contesting contents and appealing initial determinations by the individual concerned may be obtained from the SYSMANAGER.

Record source categories:

See EXEMPTION.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Any person described as a subject, a victim, or a cross-reference in an investigation completed by or for a DoD investigative element when that investigation is retained by the element and the name is submitted for central indexing.

Categories of records in the system:

Composed of locator references to investigations conducted by or for DoD investigative elements and retained by them. Index records contain the name and other personal identifying information on individuals who were indexed.

Reference to an investigation maintained by one of the investigative records repositories. It identifies the individual by name and personal identifiers, the custodian of the file, the year indexed and the number used by the repository to locate the file.

A record input by either Army investigative activities or DIS reflecting the existence of an investigation in progress. It identifies the subject individual by name and personal identifiers, the location of the open investigation, the year indexed and the number used to locate the investigative file.

Record of a National Agency Check (NAC) investigation in progress. It identifies the subject individual by name, personal identifiers, the case number, the category of the requester of the NAC, and the type of NAC being run.

A record of completed favorable national agency checks (e.g., no records). It identifies the individual by name and personal identifiers, the date the NAC was completed and the agencies that were checked.

Composed of names of persons referenced in files who are not fully identified, but about whom sufficient information exists that meets retrieval criteria. It identifies the individuals by name, custodian agency of the file, year of the index, and the number used by the repository to locate the file. Positive identification is impossible from the index and may well be impossible from the case file itself.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

5 U.S.C. 301 Departmental Regulations
44 U.S.C. 3101 Records Management

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

File tracing information is collected and maintained in the indices so that authorized users may determine the existence and location of DoD investigative records.

NAC history information is maintained for authorized users in granting clearances or access to defense installation, entry into military service or employment in sensitive civilian positions.

Activities listed under the LOCATION caption are the principal users and (with the exception of DISCO) the file custodians. Listed terminal holders (with the exception of DISCO) may release general DCII information to:

Other DoD investigative elements, DoD agencies and elements of the Military Departments designated by the departments.

Accredited representatives of the Secretary of Defense and the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Accredited Federal criminal and civil law enforcement agencies including those responsible for conducting their own investigations as to the suitability for employment or access of current or potential employees formerly affiliated with the DoD.

State and local criminal law enforcement agencies.

Other accredited Federal agencies serviced by the Civil Service Commission but with a need to evaluate the suitability of potential employees formerly affiliated with the DoD.

Congress, including the Government Accounting Office.

The AUTODIN system which transmits formatted data over telecommunications circuits facilitates the collection of transactions from contributors to update the index and to disseminate index information to the requesters.

The Defense Case Control System (DCCS) and the National Agency Check Control System (NCCS) which are described separately in this notice.

It should be noted that information contained in the system is regarded as the property of the submitting activities. DIS can neither monitor, nor assume responsibility for the propriety or accuracy of all the data in the system.

Transfer of information from this records system to other DoD components is regarded as a routine intra-agency use under the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a3(b)(1). The use of the DCII to refer inquiries to other DoD elements, where there is no release of DCII information itself is not deemed to require an accounting.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Master Index data is maintained in direct access storage devices, disk and data cell. It is also contained on magnetic tape for continuity of operations purposes to permit processing at alternate locations in the event of computer failure.

Name Only Index data is maintained on magnetic tape and microfiche. Each contributor is provided his portion on a quarterly basis.

Retrievability:

Master Index records are accessed through name and at least one personal identifier (PID). Personal identifiers are: date of birth, place of birth, social security number and the last four (4) digits of military service number. Inquiries may enter the system in card form or by being keyed in at remote terminals. A non-standard retrieval capability also exists which permits retrieval without PID, or on parts of a name, and produces references to all individuals by that name. It should be noted that in many cases, the subject's SSAN is necessary to make a positive identification.

Name Only Index records are accessed through the name or some portion thereof. Records are retrieved based on an exact match with the name submitted. Inquiries may enter the system only in card form.

Safeguards:

Generalized validation is provided in batch retrieval through program edits to prevent unauthorized access.

User terminals with access to the Master Index are located in controlled access areas. Access to the system is limited to specified time of the day. Terminals are connected via dedicated data circuits which prevent access from standard dial-up telephones.

Activities must be a part of DoD and accredited on the basis of authorized requirements before a new terminal is established or before batch requests will be honored and processed. Terminal holders and activities authorized to batch process requests are responsible for the authority and need to know of individuals and agencies on behalf of which they search the index.

The computer room is located within a building controlled by security personnel at all times. Identification badges are required for entrance. Access to the computer room is controlled by a combination lock on the entrance. Critical backup files are stored in locked fireproof data safes.

Retention and disposal:

Retained for as long as files are retained. When the record repository disposes of the file, they are responsible for deleting all index tracings pertaining thereto, in accordance with established procedures. Processing of a deletion transaction flags the computer record which precludes it being given out thereafter. Such flagged records are eliminated from the system during periodic file restructuring procedures.

Open Case Tracings. Retained for as long as the investigation is open. When the investigation is completed, the contributor replaces the open case tracing with a file tracing as described above.

NAC History Tracings. Retained for a period of four (4) years from the date of completion and then automatically deleted unless specific action is taken sooner to delete the record. Should a subsequent favorable NAC be completed, the entering of a new history record will delete the first history record.

NAC Pending Tracings. Retained until completion of the NAC at which time they are replaced by a NAC History or file tracing, unless deleted sooner by the originator.

Categories of records in the system:

Reports of Naval aircraft mishaps submitted by the reporting custodian. Findings and conclusions of the Aircraft Accident Board. Medical Officer's Report. Search and Rescue Report. Life Change Questionnaire. Naval Safety Center investigative reports. JAG manual investigations.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

5 USC 301 Departmental Regulations

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Aviation Medical Officer's Report records are selected and reviewed by Naval Safety Center analysts to identify problem areas and determine, whenever possible, mechanical systems/malfunctions or human errors that may have caused or contributed to a particular mishap in order that appropriate measures can be effected to prevent recurrence. Records and summary data are provided only to those echelons within the Navy which are directly involved in flight safety and the study of trends associated therewith. In those mishap cases where the type aircraft is common to other military services, applicable trend analyses and summary data is usually provided to the respective service. Similarly, if the type aircraft involved in a mishap is common to civil aviation, summary information is provided to appropriate government agencies. Whenever and to whomever re-

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Accidental injury records are used to compile a variety of statistical reports which are routinely published or prepared at the request of Navy forces afloat and shore activities. Individual injury reports are selected and reviewed by Naval Safety Center analysts in order to detect problem areas relating to operating procedure, training and equipment usage and malfunction. Results of these studies which may include individual injury reports are provided to commanding officers and to all echelons within the Navy having responsibility for the allocation of resources or the implementation of the Safety Program. Individual injury records are correlated with data contained in other personnel files in order to detect unfavorable trends within an activity and to recommend appropriate corrective measures. Individual records and statistical summaries are provided on request to all Government activities having a legitimate need for such information. Individual records and summary data are provided to contractors and research activities in connection with projects either funded by or deemed potentially valuable to the Department of the Navy.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

5 USC 301 Departmental Regulations

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Motor vehicle accident records are used to compile statistics which are given wide dissemination within the Navy. Compilations of motor vehicle accident records for particular commands, activities and units are furnished on request to assist in the development of an effective safety program at all levels within the Navy. Accident records of individuals assigned to specific units or records of individuals involved in multiple accidents are provided to commanding officers. Motor vehicle accident records are correlated with data contained in other accident/injury or training files. The significance of this data is evaluated by Naval Safety Center analysts and summary information, specific individual records or composite records provided to all echelons within the Navy having a responsibility for motor vehicle safety. Individual records and statistical summaries are provided on request to all Government activities having a legitimate need for such information.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Magnetic tape. (Central location) File folders/cardex (subordinate commands)

N65196 DODCI.02

System name:

DODCI Student/Faculty/Senior Staff Biography System

System location:

Department of Defense Computer Institute, Washington Navy Yard, Washington, D.C. 20374.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

All faculty members, senior staff members, and guest lecturers currently instructing or managing at the DODCI. All students who are attending or who have completed a course of instructions presented by the Department of Defense Computer Institute: primarily DOD military and civilian personnel as regular students; personnel from other federal, state and local government agencies who have attended courses on a space available basis; military and civilian personnel from foreign governments who requested and were granted authority to attend courses; and personnel from private industry who are under direct contract to a DOD activity who sponsor their attendance.

Categories of records in the system:

Biographic summary forms individually submitted upon request by each DODCI faculty member, senior staff member, guest lecturer, or student. Students record consists of name, rank or rate, civilian grade, organization and division, office phone number, current and previous job titles and positions, number of months with present job title, major duties of present job, formal education completed, objectives for attending DODCI course, computer-related and other technical training and experience, information on usage of computers in present position, influence and authority student has over design of computer-based systems including security and privacy aspects, extent involved in planning and design of teleprocessing systems. Faculty/senior staff record consists of name, rank or rate, current and previous job titles and positions, former major duties, formal education completed, computer-related and other technical training and experience.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

5 USC 301.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Information contained in the student biographical summaries is restricted to internal use within DODCI. Used by Course Managers and functional Department Head to evaluate education level, computer related work experience, and general computer background of DODCI students. Establishes student qualifications to attend a requested course and if course objectives have satisfied personal objectives of students for attending course. Statistical summarization of information contained therein provides basis for modification and revision to course content. Also serves as vehicle to place student into appropriate laboratory and seminar group in courses requiring such a breakout.

Information on faculty/senior staff members contained in the biographical summaries is provided to students as an attachment to their student notebooks. Records are used to identify faculty and senior staff members, areas of data processing and information management expertise for consultationpurposes and as an expertise peamble to the next scheduled lecturer.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

File folders in file cabinet.

Retrievability:

By name for faculty/senior staff members. Course title and name for studets.

Safeguards:

N65196 DODCI.03

System name:

DODCI Course Evaluation System

System location:

Department of Defense Computer Institute, Washington Navy Yard, Washington, D.C. 20374.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

All students who have completed a course of instruction presented by the Department of Defense Computer Institute: primarily DOD military and civilian personnel as regular students; personnel from other federal, state and local government agencies who have attended courses on a space available basis; military and civilian personnel from foreign governments who requested and were granted authority to attend courses; and personnel from private industry who are under direct contract to a DOD activity who sponsor their attendance.

Categories of records in the system:

Individual student evaluation of entire course and random sampling of specific lecture presentations. Includes objectives for attending course; statement concerning realization of personal objectives, numerical or qualitative rating of overall course, lab sessions and/or specific lectures; list of strengths and weaknesses of course; list of lecture subjects of particular benefit or of little use to student; list of lecture subjects which should be expanded or reduced in coverage; and list of topics not covered in course but should be included. Comments concerning course content, sequence, lecture presentation, teaching techniques, audio visual aids, physical facilities and administrative support are solicited and recorded. Categories are posed as questions with ample space to encourage written response of student opinion in a structured but non-restrictive format. These Course Evaluation Forms also contain hard core factual information, i.e., course title, course dates, student name, rank/rate/grade, branch of service, duty station or agency, and present job title.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

5 USC 301.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Use of the student evaluation forms and the information contained therein is restricted to internal use within DODCI. Used to evaluate course, lecture, teaching techniques and individual instructor effectiveness. Provides basis for modification and revision to course content and sequence and lecture content. Provides input to long range plan for course update, additions and revisions. Copy is provided to unit education offices upon request. Student evaluations of all attendees to a particular course are reviewed as a composite group by DODCI faculty members to determine problem areas, trends, and provides a continuous evaluation of course effectiveness.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

File folders in file cabinet.

Retrievability:

Course Title and Student Name.

Safeguards:

Maintained in Scheduling Office which is locked after normal working hours, access controlled by Systems Manager and accessible only to authorized faculty members. Director of Administration, and Director or delegate on demand.

Retention and disposal:

All completed individual evaluations of students attending a specific course are retained in a file folder marked by Course Title and Course Date. Individual student evaluation forms are retained by course for two fiscal years preceeding the fiscal year in progress.

System manager(s) and address:

Scheduling Officer, DOD Computer Institute, Building 175, Washington Navy Yard, Washington, D.C. 20374.

N65196 DODCI.04

System name:

DODCI Lecture-Instructor Inventory System.

System location:

Department of Defense Computer Institute, Building 175, Washington Navy Yard, Washington, D.C. 20374.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Current DODCI instructors.

Categories of records in the system:

Two disk files comprise the system of records. First master file contains instructor's name, functional group assignment code, projected date of departure; list of lectures instructor gives. Second master file contains lecture I.D., title, lecture primary, instructors giving the lecture.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

5 U.S.C. 301

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Provides the ability for functional managers to generate a list of instructors along with the associated lectures in which they are proficient or to specify a lecture title and determine which instructors are capable of presentation. This provides assistance in assigning instructors to course schedules, teams for on-site course presentations, determining lectures which are critical in flexibility of assignment, planning instructor assignments in the order of lecture priority.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Maintained on magnetic disks in a computer data base.

Retrievability:

Instructor's last name, lecture ID number, or functional group code.

Safeguards:

This system of records is maintained on magnetic disks in the computer operations center which is kept locked. Only the manager and assistant manager of the Computer Support office have access to the center during normal working hours and the security watch has access after hours. The mode of access to the computer-based system is via remote terminal and special passwords are required. Appropriate data base language commands (available only to authorized DODCI staff members) must be invoked to gain access to information in the system. Portions of the system can only be accessed by functional managers via controlled key work commands. An accounting log is maintained of all accesses to the system which contains identification of the user, log-on and off, station number, and date/time of last access.

Retention and disposal:

The system data base is retained indefinitely. Revisions are in continuous process, e.g., instructors' names being added upon arrival and deleted on departure, lecture titles added or deleted as they are developed or discontinued, lecture presentation capability expanded or deleted as appropriate.

System manager(s) and address:

Manager, Computer Support Office, DOD Computer Institute, Building 175, Washington, D.C. 20374.

Notification procedure:

DODCI faculty members are informed of existence and purpose of system. Individual instructors can request printout of information in system which pertains to them.

Record access procedures:

The Institutes rules for access to reeords may be obtained from the Systems Manager.

Contesting record procedures:

The Institute's rules for contesting contents and appealing initial determinations by the individual concerned can be obtained from the Systems Manager.

Record source categories:

DODCI functional managers maintain system and periodically revise data base by entering new data and deleting discontinued information. Additionally, the Systems Manager can enter information affecting printout format and contents.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act:

None.

System name:

Navy Automated Civilian Manpower Information System (NACMIS)

System location:

Office of Civilian Manpower Management (OCMM), Department of the Navy and designated contractors; field divisions of Civilian Manpower Management; Capital Area Personnel Services Office - Navy (CAPSO-N); and Navy staff, headquarters and field activities employing civilians, and the Navy Command Systems Support Activity and its designated contractors. The addresses of the activities are furnished in the Department of the Navy directory published in the Federal Register.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Department of the Navy civilian employees paid from appropriated funds and Navy military personnel included in the automated training record segment of NACMIS.

Categories of records in the system:

The system comprises automated and non-automated records describing and identifying the employee (e.g., name, social security account number, sex, birth date, minority designator, citizenship, physical handicap code); the position occupied and the employee's qualifications; salary and salary basis; employee's status in relation to the position occupied and the organization to which assigned; tickler dates for impending changes in status; education and training records; previous military status; functional code; previous employment record; performance appraisal and other data needed for screening and selection of an employee; referral records; professional licenses and publications; and reason for position change or other action affecting the employee. The records are those found in the five modules of NACMIS which are: Training and Employee Development Record System/Training Requirements and Information Management System (TRIM); Personnel Automated Data System (PADS); Navy Civilian Career Management Inventory and Referral System; and local automated personnel Information System (LAPIS).

Authority for maintenance of the system:

5 USC 2951, Reports; 5 USC 301, Departmental Regulations; 5 USC 4103, Establishment of Training Programs; 5 USC 4118, Training; 5 USC 4115, Collection of Training Information; Executive Order 9397, Numbering System for Federal Accounts Relating to Individual Persons; Public Law 92-261, The Equal Employment Opportunity Act of 1972.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Officials and employees of the Department of the Navy in performance of their official duties related to the management and administration of the Department's civilian personnel and civilian manpower planning programs and in the design, development, maintenance and operation of the automated system of records; employees and officials of the Department of Defense where there exists a need-to-know in the performance of their official duties; employees and officials of the Civil Service Commission in the performance of their official duties. The Comptroller General or any of his authorized representatives, in the course of the performance of duties of the General Accounting Office. The Attorney General of the United States or his authorized representatives in connection with litigation, law enforcement, or other matters under the direct jurisdiction of the Department of Justice or carried out as the legal representative of Executive Branch agencies. Officials and employees of other departments and agencies of the Executive Branch of government upon request in the performance of their official duties related to the screening and selection of candidates for vacant positions. Representatives of the United States Department of Labor on matters relating to the inspection, survey, audit or evaluation of the Navy's apprentice training programs or on other such matters under the jurisdiction of the Labor Department. Representatives of the Veterans Administration on matters relating to the inspection, survey, audit or evaluation of the Navy's apprentice and on-the-job training program. The Computer Systems Group Contractor (or other such contractor) and its employees for the purpose of card punch recording of data from employee personnel actions and training documents, or data collection forms and other documents. Employees and officials of the Naval Command Systems Support Activity and their designated contractors for the purpose of systems support. A duly appointed hearing examiner or arbitrator (an employee of another Federal agency) for the purpose of conducting a hearing in connection with an employee's grievance. An arbitrator who is given a contract pursuant to a negotiated labor agreement to hear an employee's grievance involving the disclosure of records. The Senate or the House of Representatives of the United States or any committee or sub-committee thereof, any joint committee of Congress or sub-committee of joint committees on matters within their jurisdiction requiring disclosure of the files or records of the Department's civilian personnel and manpower management program. An appointed complaints examiner for the purpose of conducting a hearing in connection with an employee's formal Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO) complaint. Officials and employees of schools and other institutions engaged to provide training. Employee unions when unions are authorized to canvas employees or at the time of a union election. Designated contractors of the Department of the Navy in performance of their duties with respect to equipment and system design, development, test and maintenance.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Automated records are stored on magnetic tape, disc, drum and punched cards and computer printouts. Manual records are stored in paper file folders.

Retrievability:

Information is retrieved by Social Security Account Number (SSAN), name, or by specific employee characteristics such as date of birth, grade, occupation, employing organization, tickler dates; a combination of data elements contained in the Training Requirements Information Management (TRIM) subsystem, on apprentice program master files; academic specialty or education level. Specific subgroups of employees may be identified through the use of computerized indices. Manual records are retrieved by name.

Safeguards:

The computer facility and terminal are accessible only to authorized persons that have been properly screened, cleared and trained. Manual and automated records and computer printouts are available only to authorized personnel having a need-to-know. In the case of EEO data, output from the central Office of Civilian Manpower Management file is authorized only by the Department of the Navy Director of Equal Employment Opportunity or his Deputy. Output from the activity minority census files must be authorized in writing by either the head of the activity or the activity's deputy EEO officer.

Retention and disposal:

For TRIM and the apprentice programs the computer magnetic tapes are permanent. Manual records are maintained on a fiscal year basis and are retained for varying periods from 1 to 5 fiscal years. For the Department of the Navy's centrally-administered programs, files on selected candidates are maintained for 5 years (from date selection process is completed). Records of non-selected candidates are retained only for that period of time sufficient to permit appropriate review (usually less than 60 days). For PADS, computer magnetic tapes are retained permanently. Magnetic discs are erased after use. Computer printouts are destroyed after 3 months. Input documents (NAVSO12280/11) are destroyed after data is converted to machine readable form. Input punch cards are retained for 2 weeks. For career management computer magnetic tapes and discs are erased 5 years after they are created; manual records are destroyed 2 years after the employee has been dropped from the career inventory. Manual records are destroyed upon separation of the employee from the activity. For LAPIS, records are maintained in an active status until a separation action on an employee is completed. Historical records for LAPIS are maintained for a maximum of 5 years.

Training and Employee Development Record System

System location:

Office of Civilian Manpower Management (OCMM), Regional Offices of Civilian Manpower Management (ROCMM's), Capital Area Personnel Services Office - Navy (CAPSO-N), and Navy Staff, headquarters and field activities employing civilians. Mailing addresses are provided in the Department of Navy directory published in the Federal Register.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Navy civilian employees, full-time and part-time, U.S. citizens and foreign national direct hires receiving training supported by the Federal Government, paid from approprated funds. Navy military personnel may be included in the automated training information system, and non-approprated funded personnel may be included in some of the stations' manual records

Categories of records in the system:

Under the Departments' Training Requirements and Information Management System (TRIM), or other locally developed systems, automated and nonautomated records are maintained reflecting information pertaining to the employees' identification, social security number, occupational status (series, grade level, and supervisory status), course identification, course length, category and purpose of training received, date on which training was completed, associated costs, pre-post test results, et.al. input documents for the system include, but is not limited to completed NAVSO Forms 12410/19 and /19A, Training Report, Authorization and Record, keypunched cards. The manual files are maintained in paper folders containing employee's registration and/or record of training documents. Under the Navy's Apprentice, on-the-job Training Program, and similar trainee intake programs, manual and automated records are maintained, reflecting information pertaining to subject employee's identification, date of birth, entrance date to program, dates and nature of personnel actions which occurred during fiscal year, student progress, and statistical data which effects the numbers of apprentices in training as of a given date. At OCMM, nomination forms and documents (non-automated) for the Department of the Navy's centrally-administered education and training programs are maintained. The manual files contain the candidate's nomination documents, training request, enrollment and registration and other documents related to training. Manual files are maintained at OCMM, the ROCMM's, CAPSO-N, and the several naval installations regarding courses conducted on their premises, or for which they sponsor, listing such things as completion dates, and course participants. Additionally, manual files are typically found at the field activities containing information regarding an employee's supervisory status, an indication as to whether or not he/she has participated in supervisory training. Files are often maintained regarding an employee's certification/recertification or demonstrated proficiency in one or more of the Navy's skills areas; an activity-wide annual training plan should also be maintained, as well as individual training plans. Files are also maintained regarding professional licenses held by station personnel.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

Title 5, USC 4103, 'Establishment of Training Programs,' Title 5, USC 4118, 'Training,' Title 5, USC 4115, 'Collection of Training Information' Agreement between the Department of the Navy and the Department of Labor, Bureau of Apprenticeship and Training, 'Registration of the Navy Apprentice Program' - June 1968

Representatives of the United States Civil Service Commission on matters relating to the inspection, survey, audit or evaluation of Navy civilian training programs, or such other matters under the jurisdiction of the Commission. The Comptroller General or any of his authorized representatives, in the course of the performance of duties of the General Accounting Office relating to the Navy's civilian training programs. The Attorney General of the United States or his authorized representatives in connection with litigation, law enforcement, or other matters under the direct jurisdiction of the Department of Justice or carried out as the legal representative of the Executive Branch agencies. Officials and employees of other components of the Department of Defense in the performance of their official duties related to the screening and selection of candidates for the service schools. Officials and employees of other departments and agencies of the Executive Branch of government upon request in the performance of their official duties related to the screening and selection of candidates for programs sponsored by their organization. Representatives of the United States Department of Labor on matters relating to the inspection, survey, audit or evaluation of the Navy's apprentice training programs or on other such matters under the jurisdiction of the Labor Department. Representatives of the Veterans Administration on matters relating to the inspection, survey, audit or evaluation of the Navy's apprentice and on-the-job training programs. The Computer Systems Group Contractor (or other such contractor) and its employees for the purpose of card punch recording of data from employee training documents. Employees and officials of the Naval Command Systems Support Activity, Washington Navy Yard for the purpose of systems support. A duly appointed Hearing Examiner or Arbitrator (an employee of another Federal Agency) for the purpose of conducting a hearing in connection with an employee's grievance involving the disclosure of the records of the Department's Training program. An arbitrator who is given a contract pursuant to a negotiated labor agreement to hear an employee's grievance involving the disclosure of the records of the Navy's Training and Employee Development Record system. The Senate or the House of Representatives of the United States or any member, Committee or subcommittee thereof, any joint committee of Congress or sub-committee of joint committees on matters within their jurisdiction requiring disclosure of the files or records of the Department's civilian training program. Colleges, schools, or other institutions engaged to provide training.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Automated records are stored on magnetic tapes, drums, computer printouts, and on punched cards. Manual records are stored in paper file folders.

Retrievability:

Automated records are retrieved by social security number and name, or by one, or a combination of data elements contained in the TRIM or apprentice program master files. Manual records are retrieved by employee last name, by course control information, or by training program title.

Safeguards:

REQUESTING RECORDS

Records are retrieved by name or by some other personal identifier. It is therefore especially important for expeditious service when requesting a record that particular attention be provided to the Notification and/or Access Procedures of the particular record system involved so as to furnish the required personal identifiers, or any other pertinent personal information as may be required, to locate and retrieve the record.

BLANKET ROUTINE USES

Certain blanket 'routine uses' of the records have been established, that are applicable to every record system maintained within the Department of Defense, unless specifically stated otherwise within a particular record system. These additional blanket routine uses of the records are published below, only once in the interest of simplicity, economy and to avoid redundancy, before the individual record system notices begin rather than repeating them in every individual record system.

ROUTINE USE - LAW ENFORCEMENT

In the event that a system of records maintained by this component to carry out its functions indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether federal, state, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE WHEN REQUESTING INFORMATION

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to a federal, state or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to a component decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE OF REQUESTED INFORMATION

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

ROUTINE USE - CONGRESSIONAL INQUIRIES

Disclosure from a system of records maintained by this component may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

ROUTINE USE WITHIN THE DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to other components of the Department of Defense if necessary and relevant for the performance of a lawful function such as, but not limited to, personnel actions, personnel security actions and criminal investigations of the Component requesting the record.

ROUTINE USE - PRIVATE RELIEF LEGISLATION

Relevant information contained in all systems of records of the Department of Defense published on or before August 22, 1975, will be disclosed to the Office of Management and Budget in connection with the review of private relief legislation as set forth in OMB Circular A-19 at any stage of the legislative coordination and clearance process as set forth in that Circular.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURES REQUIRED BY INTERNATIONAL AGREEMENTS

A record from a system of records maintained by this Component may be disclosed to foreign law enforcement, security, investigatory, or administrative authorities in order to comply with requirements imposed by, or to claim rights conferred in international agreements and arrangements including those regulating the stationing and status in foreign countries of Department of Defense military and civilian personnel.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO STATE AND LOCAL TAXING AUTHORITIES

Any information normally contained in IRS Form W-2 which is maintained in a record from a system of records maintained by this Component may be disclosed to State and local taxing authorities with which the Secretary of the Treasury has entered into agreements pursuant to Title 5, U.S.Code, Sections 5516, 5517, 5520, and only to those State and local taxing authorities for which an employee or military member is or was subject to tax regardless of whether tax is or was withheld. This routine use is in accordance with Treasury Fiscal Requirements Manual Bulletin Nr. 76-07.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO THE OFFICE OF PERSONNEL MANAGEMENT

A record from a system of records subject to the Privacy Act and maintained by this component may be disclosed to the Office of Personnel Management concerning information on pay and leave, benefits, retirement deductions, and any other information necessary for the Office of Personnel Management to carry out its legally authorized Government-wide personnel management functions and studies.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE OF INFORMATION TO NARS (GSA)

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service of the General Services Administration in records management inspections conducted under authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, EDUCATION, AND WELFARE

All systems of records relating to compensation, employment or retirement, or extracts therefrom, maintained by this Component may be disclosed as a routine use to the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare for the purpose of comparing such record with records of programs administered by and in the possession of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare in order to verify information where such verification is required by law or regulation or to identify violations or potential violations of law, whether criminal, civil, or regulatory, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto.

S214.20DLA-L

The data will include summary data on ages, sex, residence, and other demographic parameters.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Records are maintained on magnetic tapes and discs housed in a controlled computer media library.

Retrievability:

Records about individuals are retrieved by an algorithm to be determined by contractor which uses name, enrollment number, Social Security Number, date of birth, rank and duty location as possible inputs. Retrievals are made on a summary basis by geographic characteristics and location and demographic characteristics. Information about individuals will not be distinguishable in such summary retrievals. Retrievals for the purposes of generating address lists for direct mail distribution of health care information may be made using selection criteria based on geographic and deomgraphic keys.

Safeguards:

Computerized records are maintained in a controlled area accessible only to authorized personnel. Entry to these areas shall be restricted to those personnel with a valid requirement and authorization to enter. Physical entry shall be resticted by the use of locks, guards, administrative procedures(e.g., fire protection regulations). Exits used solely for emergency situations shall be secured to prevent unauthorized intrusion.

Personal data stored at a separate location for backup purposes shall be protected at least comparable to the protection provided at the primary location.

Requirements for protection of information are binding on contractors or their representative and are subject to the following minimum standards:

Restrict access to personal information to those who require the records in the performance of their official duties, and to the individual who is the subject of the record or authorized representative. Access to personal information shall be restricted by the use of passwords which are changed periodically.

Insure that all whose official duties require access to, or processing and maintenance of, personal information are trained in the proper safeguarding and use of such information.

Retention and disposal:

Computerized records on an individual are maintained as long as the individual is legally eligible to receive health care benefits from the Uniformed Health Sciences Delivery System. The records are maintained for two (2) years after termination of eligibility.

Records may be disposed of or destroyed only in accordance with DoD Component record management regulations which conform to the controlling disposition of such material as set forth in 44 U.S.C. 3301-3314. Non-record material containing personal information and other material of similar temporary nature, shall be destroyed as soon as its intended purpose has been served under procedures established by the Head of the DoD Component consistent with the following requirement. Such material shall be destroyed by tearing, burning, melting, chemical deposition, pulping, pulverizing, shredding, or mutilation sufficient to preclude recognition or reconstruction of the information.

System manager(s) and address:

Project Manager, DEERS, Defense Manpower Data Center, 550 Camino El Estero, Monterey, CA 93940.

Notification procedure:

Information may be obtained from: Project Manager, DEERS, Defense Manpower Data Center, 550 Camino El Estero, Monterey CA 93940.

Record access procedures:

Requests from individuals should be addressed to: Project Manager, DEERS, Defense Manpower Data Center, 550 Camino El Estero, Monterey, CA 93940, (408) 646-2951.

Written requests for the information should contain full name of individual and sponsor if applicable and other attributes required by previously mentioned search algorithm.

For personal visits the individual should be able to provide a data element required to satisfy the previously mentioned algorithm.

Identification should be corroborated with a driver's license or other positive identification.

Contesting record procedures:

The Agency's rules for access to records and for contesting contents and appealing initial determinations by the individual concerned are contained in 32 CFR 286b and OSD Administrative Instruction No. 81.

REQUESTING RECORDS

Records are retrieved by name or by some other personal identifier. It is therefore especially important for expeditious service when requesting a record that particular attention be provided to the Notification and/or Access Procedures of the particular record system involved so as to furnish the required personal identifiers, or any other pertinent personal information as may be required, to locate and retrieve the record.

BLANKET ROUTINE USES

Certain blanket 'routine uses' of the records have been established, that are applicable to every record system maintained within the Department of Defense, unless specifically stated otherwise within a particular record system. These additional blanket routine uses of the records are published below, only once in the interest of simplicity, economy and to avoid redundancy, before the individual record system notices begin rather than repeating them in every individual record system.

ROUTINE USE - LAW ENFORCEMENT

In the event that a system of records maintained by this component to carry out its functions indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether federal, state, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE WHEN REQUESTING INFORMATION

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to a federal, state or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to a component decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE OF REQUESTED INFORMATION

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

ROUTINE USE - CONGRESSIONAL INQUIRIES

Disclosure from a system of records maintained by this component may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

ROUTINE USE WITHIN THE DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to other components of the Department of Defense if necessary and relevant for the performance of a lawful function such as, but not limited to, personnel actions, personnel security actions and criminal investigations of the Component requesting the record.

ROUTINE USE - PRIVATE RELIEF LEGISLATION

Relevant information contained in all systems of records of the Department of Defense published on or before August 22, 1975, will be disclosed to the Office of Management and Budget in connection with the review of private relief legislation as set forth in OMB Circular A-19 at any stage of the legislative coordination and clearance process as set forth in that Circular.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURES REQUIRED BY INTERNATIONAL AGREEMENTS

A record from a system of records maintained by this Component may be disclosed to foreign law enforcement, security, investigatory, or administrative authorities in order to comply with requirements imposed by, or to claim rights conferred in international agreements and arrangements including those regulating the stationing and status in foreign countries of Department of Defense military and civilian personnel.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO STATE AND LOCAL TAXING AUTHORITIES

Any information normally contained in IRS Form W-2 which is maintained in a record from a system of records maintained by this Component may be disclosed to State and local taxing authorities with which the Secretary of the Treasury has entered into agreements pursuant to Title 5, U.S.Code, Sections 5516, 5517, 5520, and only to those State and local taxing authorities for which an employee or military member is or was subject to tax regardless of whether tax is or was withheld. This routine use is in accordance with Treasury Fiscal Requirements Manual Bulletin Nr. 76-07.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO THE OFFICE OF PERSONNEL MANAGEMENT

A record from a system of records subject to the Privacy Act and maintained by this component may be disclosed to the Office of Personnel Management concerning information on pay and leave, benefits, retirement deductions, and any other information necessary for the Office of Personnel Management to carry out its legally authorized Government-wide personnel management functions and studies.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE OF INFORMATION TO NARS (GSA)

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service of the General Services Administration in records management inspections conducted under authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, EDUCATION, AND WELFARE

All systems of records relating to compensation, employment or retirement, or extracts therefrom, maintained by this Component may be disclosed as a routine use to the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare for the purpose of comparing such record with records of programs administered by and in the possession of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare in order to verify information where such verification is required by law or regulation or to identify violations or potential violations of law, whether criminal, civil, or regulatory, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto.

Section II, DSA Regulation 5705.2, Criminal Investigative Support to the Defense Supply Agency.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Purpose for which collected.

Personnel security investigative information is collected to insure that the acceptance or retention of persons to sensitive DoD positions, or granting individuals access to classified information, including those employed in defense industry, is clearly consistent with national security.

Criminal investigative information is collected on request to identify offenders, provide facts and evidence upon which to base prosecution and effect the recovery of property which has been wrongfully appropriated.

Information contained in ISR's (see description in RECORD-CATEGORY) regarding criminal, personnel security, counterintelligence, or intelligence matters, when received, is disseminated to appropriate Federal agencies or other DoD components.

Criminal and personnel security information is collected during reciprocal investigations conducted for other DoD and federal investigative elements (or in limited instances, criminal information for local, or state law enforcement agencies) for maintenance and use by the requesting activity.

Information regarding alleged security violations is collected on request to establish whether or not a compromise occured and to identify the personnel involved.

Criminal information received by DIS personnel in the course of their duties which is of direct interest to a local law enforcement agency and therefore furnished to that agency orally or by letter.

Users of DIS investigative information are:

(1) DIS personnel in the course of their official duties.

(2) Other accredited DOD investigative components, DOD agencies, elements of the Military Departments designated by the departments and representatives of the Secretary of Defense and the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

(3) Accredited Federal criminal and civil law enforcement and intelligence agencies.

(4) State and local official criminal law enforcement agencies.

(5) Other accredited federal agencies conducting investigations to evaluate suitability for employment or access to classified information.

(6) Congressional committees and the Government Accounting Office.

Specific uses of DIS investigative records are:

To determine the loyalty, suitability, eligibility, and general trustworthiness of individuals for access to Defense information and facilities by the first two categories of users, above.

To determine the eligibility and suitability of individuals for entry into and retention in the Armed Forces by the second category of users, above.

To provide information pertinent to the protection of persons under the provisions of 18 U.S.C. 3056, by the first three categories of users, above.

For use in criminal law enforcement investigations including statutory violations, counterintelligence, as well as counterespionage and other security matters by the first through fourth and the sixth categories of users, above.

In the event that records maintained in this system indicate a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

To provide information in judicial or adjudicative proceedings including litigation, or in accordance with a court order by the first three categories of users, above.

To make statistical evaluations of DIS investigative activities by the first, second and sixth categories of users, above.

To respond to Freedom of Information and Privacy Act access requests, by the first category of users, above.

To provide information in response to Inspector General, and EEO or other complaint investigations and Congressional inquiries by the first, second and sixth categories of users, above.

To determine the eligibility and suitability of an individual for personnel actions in the Armed Forces of the United States, as deemed appropriate by the second category of users, above.

A record such as identification data, from this system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to a federal, state local or foreign agency maintaining relevant information or to business enterprises to obtain employment records if necessary to obtain information relevant to an assigned investigation.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter by any agency of the first, second, third or fifth categories of users, above.

Transfers of information from this record system to other DoD components is a routine intra-agency use under the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a3(b)(1).

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Paper records in file folders, microfilm, magnetic tape or supplementary index cards.

Retrievability:

Investigations are centrally retrievable through the DIS Case Control System (DCCS) or the Defense Central Index of Investigations (DCII) systems described separately in this notice. Reciprocal investigations jurisdictions, may be retrieved only through a limited manual disclosure accounting system

Safeguards:

Completed investigative records are maintained and stored in power files, open shelves and filing cabinets which are housed in secured areas accessible only to authorized personnel who are properly screened and have a need to know. Information contained on magnetic tape is secured in the same manner as the DCII, described separately. Recipients of investigative information are responsible for safeguarding information within the guidelines provided by DIS.

Retention and disposal:

Retention of closed DIS investigative files is authorized for 30 years maximum, except as follows: (1) Files which have resulted in adverse action against an individual will be retained permanently, (2) Files developed on persons who are being considered for affiliation with the Department of Defense will be destroyed within one year if the affiliation is not completed. In cases involving a pre-appointment investigation, if the appointment is not made due to information developed by investigation, the file will be retained permanently. If the appointment is not made for some other reasons not related to the investigation, the file will be destroyed within one year; (3) Information within the purview of the Department of Defense Directive 5200.27, 'Acquisition of Information Concerning Persons and Organizations Not Affiliated with the Department of Defense', is destroyed within 90 days after acquisition by DIS unless its retention is required by law or unless its retention has been specifically authorized by the Secretary of Defense or through the Chairman, DIRC.

Generally, ISR's and reciprocal investigations are retained for only 60 days.

Partial duplicate records of personnel security investigations are retained for 60 days by DIS field elements. Partial duplicate records in criminal and special investigations are retained for one year.

System manager(s) and address:

Director, Defense Investigative Service, 1900 Half St., S. W., Washington, D. C. 20324.

Notification procedure:

Requests should be addressed to Information and Legal Affairs Office, Defense Investigative Service, 1900 Half St., S. W., Washington, D. C. 20324. The full name, date and place of birth, and social security account number are necessary for retrieval of information. More information or a notarized statement verifying the identity of requesters may be required. Information5and Legal Affairs Office, 1900 Half St., S. W., Washington, D. C. 20324 may be visited by personnel making inquiries regarding this system. A check of personal identification will be required of all visitors making such inquiries.

Record access procedures:

Access may be obtained through the Information Office at the address listed above.

Contesting record procedures:

DIS rules for contesting and appealing initial determinations may be obtained from the Assistant for Information at the address listed above

Record source categories:

Categories of sources of records.

Subjects of investigations.

Records of other DoD activities and components.

Federal, state, county and municipal records.

Employment Records of private business and industrial firms.

Educational and disciplinary records of schools, colleges, universities, technical and trade schools.

Hospital, clinic and other medical records.

Records of commercial enterprises such as real estate agencies, credit bureaus, loan companies, credit unions, banks and other financial institutions which maintain credit information on individuals, transportation companies, (airlines, railroad, etc.)

The interview of individuals who are thought to have knowledge of the subject's background and activities.

The interview of witnesses, victims and confidential sources.

The interview of any individuals deemed necessary to complete the DIS investigation.

Miscellaneous directories, rosters and correspondence.

Any other type of record deemed necessary to complete the DIS investigation

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act:

In accordance with subsection 3j(2) of the Act, information maintained by the Special Cases Division of DIS may be exempted from the provisions of subsections (c)(3) and (4); (d); (e)(1), (2) and (3); (e)(5) and (8); and (g). Information maintained by, or at the direction of, this unit includes criminal investigations for which the DIS has primary responsiblity and certain ISR's and reciprocal investigations, and security or counterintelligence information which may be used in criminal prosecution. The withholding of this information will be to allow the DIS Special Cases Division, a criminal law enforcement component, to conduct effective investigations into alleged unlawful activity or crime conductive situations without jeapordizing such investigations. Knowledge of the investigations of the Special Cases Division could enable subjects to take actions to prevent detection of criminal activities, conceal evidence, or to escape prosecution. It could also lead to intimidation of or harm to sources, informants, witnesses and their families. Information from this system will be withheld only to the extent that its release would interfere with such investigations.

Under subsection 3k(1) of the Act, properly classified material contained in DIS investigatory files is exempt from the provisions of subsection (d). This exemption will protect information, the disclosure of which would have an adverse effect on the national defense or foreign policy.

Under subsection 3k(2) of the Act, other investigatory material including certain reciprocal investigations and counterintelligence information is exempt from subsection (c) (3), (d), (e) (4) (G,H andI) and (f) until such time as action is taken regarding allegations, and after that time only to the extent that the information would identify a confidential source who furnished information under an express promise that the identity of the source would be held in confidence (or prior to the effective date of the Act under an implied promise). This exemption will permit the DIS to conduct certain law enforcement investigations effectively and to protect the identities of sources who would not otherwise provide information.

Protective Service: Under subsection 3k(3) of the Act, DIS investigatory material maintained in connection with assisting the US Secret Service (USSS) to provide protective services to the President of the United States or other individuals pursuant to section 3056 of Title 18 is exempt from subsections (c) (3), (d), (e) (1), (e) (4), (g, h and i), and (f). This exemption provision will enable DIS to continue its support of the US Secret Service without compromising the effectiveness of either activity.

Under subsection 3k(5) of the Act, personnel security investigatory material from subsections (c) (3), (d) and (f), is exempt to the extent that the disclosure of such material would reveal the identity of a confidential source as described above. This exemption provision will allow DIS to collect information from certain sources who would otherwise be unwilling to provide information necessary to personnel security investigations.

US Army Investigative Records Repository, Building 4452, Fort Meade Maryland 20755 . DIS Personnel Investigations Center, P. O. Box 1211, Baltimore, MD 21203.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Any person described as a subject, a victim, or a cross-reference in an investigation completed by or for a DOD investigative organization when that investigation is retained by the organization and the name is submitted for central indexing.

Categories of records in the system:

DCII MASTER INDEX

Composed of locator references to investigations conducted by or for DOD investigative organizations and retained by them. Index records contain the name and other personal identifying information on individuals who were indexed.

FILE TRACING

Reference to an investigation maintained by one of the investigative records repositories. It identifies the individual by name and personal identifiers, the custodian of the file, the year indexed and the number used by the repository to locate the file.

OPEN CASE TRACING

A record input by either Army investigative activities or DIS reflecting the existence of an investigation in progress. It identifies the subject individual by name and personal identifiers, the location of the open investigation, the year indexed and the number used to locate the investigative file.

NAC PENDING TRACING

Record of a National Agency Check (NAC) investigation in progress. It identifies the subject individual by name, personal identifiers, the case number, the category of the requester of the NAC, and the type of NAC being run.

NAC HISTORY TRACING

A record of completed favorable, or incomplete, national agency checks. It identifies the individual by name and personal identifiers, the date the NAC was completed and the agencies that were checked.

DCII NAME ONLY INDEX (NOI)

Composed of names of persons who are referenced but not fully identified in investigative files. A Name Only Index record identifies the individual by name and lists the custodian agency of the file, year indexed and the number used by the repository to locate the file. Positive identification is impossible from the index and may well be impossible from the case file itself. DIS has placed no records in this index.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

5 U.S.C. 301 Departmental Regulations

44U.S.C. 3101 Records Management

Memorandum, Secretary of Defense, May 27, 1965

Memorandum, Secretary of Defense, December 3, 1965, subject: Establishment of a Central Index of DOD Investigations.

DOD Directive No. 5105.42, April 18, 1972, subject: Charter for Defense Investigative Service (DIS).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

File tracing information is collected and maintained in the DCII so that authorized users may determine the existence and location of DOD investigative records.

NAC history information is maintained for authorized users in granting clearances, access to defense installations, entry into military service or employment in sensitive civilian positions.

Categories of users:

Components listed under the LOCATION caption are the principal users and (with the exception of DISCO) the file custodians. Listed terminal holders (with the exception of DISCO) may release general DCII information to users of their investigative records or listed in their investigative records systems descriptions in this register.

It should be noted that information contained in the system is regarded as the property of the submitting activities. DIS can neither monitor, nor assume responsibility for the propriety or accuracy of the data in the system, other than that portion belonging to DIS.

Transfer of information from this records system to other DOD components is a routine intra-agency use under the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a3(b)(1). The use of the DCII by terminal holders to advise requesters of the possible location of information, where there is no disclosure of personal information from the DCII, does not require an accounting.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Master Index data is maintained in direct access storage devices, disk and data cell. It is also contained on magnetic tape for continuity of operations purposes to permit processing at alternate locations in the event of computer failure.

Name Only Index data is maintained on magnetic tape and microfiche. Each contributor is provided his portion on a quarterly basis.

Retrievability:

Master Index records are accessed through name and at least one personal identifier (PID). Personal identifiers are: date of birth, place of birth, social security number and the last four (4) digits of military service number. Inquiries may enter the system in card form or by being keyed in at remote terminals. A non-standard retrieval capability also exists which permits retrieval without PID, or on parts of a name, and produces references to all individuals by that name. It should be noted that in many cases, the subject's SSAN is necessary to make a positive identification.

Name Only Index records are accessed through the name or some portion thereof. Records are retrieved based on an exact match with the name submitted. Inquiries may enter the system only in card form.

Safeguards:

Generalized validation is provided in batch retrieval through program edits to prevent unauthorized access.

User terminals with access to the Master Index are located in controlled access areas. Access to the system is limited to specified time of the day. Terminals are connected via dedicated data circuits which prevent access from standard dial-up telephones.

Activities must be a part of DOD and accredited on the basis of authorized requirements before a new terminal is established or before batch requests will be honored and processed. Terminal holders, and organizations authorized access by other means, are responsible for insuring that individuals and organizations to whom they disclose index information have appropriate authority and need to know.

The computer room is located within a building controlled by security personnel at all times. Identification badges are required for entrance. Access to the computer room is controlled by a combination lock on the entrance. Critical backup files are stored in locked fireproof data safes.

Retention and disposal:

Retained for as long as files are retained. When the record repository disposes of the file, they are responsible to delete all index tracings pertaining thereto, in accordance with established procedures. Processing of a deletion transaction flags the computer record which precludes it being given out thereafter. Such flagged records are eliminated from the system during periodic file restructuring procedures.

Open Case Tracings. Retained for as long as the investigation is open. When the investigation is completed, the contributor replaces the open case tracing with a file tracing as described above.

NAC History Tracings. Retained for a period of four (4) years from the date of completion and then automatically deleted unless specific action is sooner taken to delete the record. Should a subsequent favorable NAC be completed, the entering of a new history record will delete the first history record.

NAC Pending Tracings. Retained until completion of the NAC at which time they are replaced by a NAC History or file tracing, unless sooner deleted by the originator.

Requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and 5 U.S.C. 301 (Departmental Regulations) and DoD Directive 5210.7, Department of Defense Civilian Applicant and Employee Security Program and DoD Directive 5210.8, Policy on Investigations and Clearances of DoD Personnel for Access to Classified Defense Information.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Uses

Files are to provide a basis for granting security clearances.

Files are also used to provide information of security clearances for individuals attending official activities of other offices on classified matters.

They also are used to provide security clearances information to other governmental offices where change of employment is being considered.

In the event that records maintained in this system indicate a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a 'routine use' to a federal, state or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as employment records, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, or other benefit.

Users

Director of Personnel and his office.

DIS Security officer and his office.

All Supervisors, Commanders, and Office Chiefs, but only for confirming clearance level information.

Security officials of other DoD elements or governmental agencies when required for clearance verification or pre-employment consideration. consideration.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Individual files are established when an application for employment or assignment to the DIS is first received. As an investigation is completed and adjudicated, a clearance certificate is filed. If the file is unfavorable and the individual is not accepted, the file is placed in the 'dead' file section and retained for one year.

Storage:

Paper records in file folders.

Retrievability:

Filed alphabetically by last name.

Safeguards:

For the primary system building employs security guards (Federal Protective Service). Records are maintained in locked containers in areas accessible only to authorized personnel who have a need to know.

Retention and disposal:

Records are maintained for the period of time an individual is assigned to the DIS and for one year afterwards. Disposal is as classified waste.

REQUESTING RECORDS

Records are retrieved by name or by some other personal identifier. It is therefore especially important for expeditious service when requesting a record that particular attention be provided to the Notification and/or Access Procedures of the particular record system involved so as to furnish the required personal identifiers, or any other pertinent personal information as may be required, to locate and retrieve the record.

BLANKET ROUTINE USES

Certain blanket 'routine uses' of the records have been established, that are applicable to every record system maintained within the Department of Defense, unless specifically stated otherwise within a particular record system. These additional blanket routine uses of the records are published below, only once in the interest of simplicity, economy and to avoid redundancy, before the individual record system notices begin rather than repeating them in every individual record system.

ROUTINE USE - LAW ENFORCEMENT

In the event that a system of records maintained by this component to carry out its functions indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether federal, state, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE WHEN REQUESTING INFORMATION

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to a federal, state or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to a component decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE OF REQUESTED INFORMATION

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

ROUTINE USE - CONGRESSIONAL INQUIRIES

Disclosure from a system of records maintained by this component may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

ROUTINE USE WITHIN THE DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to other components of the Department of Defense if necessary and relevant for the performance of a lawful function such as, but not limited to, personnel actions, personnel security actions and criminal investigations of the Component requesting the record.

ROUTINE USE - PRIVATE RELIEF LEGISLATION

Relevant information contained in all systems of records of the Department of Defense published on or before August 22, 1975, will be disclosed to the Office of Management and Budget in connection with the review of private relief legislation as set forth in OMB Circular A-19 at any stage of the legislative coordination and clearance process as set forth in that Circular.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURES REQUIRED BY INTERNATIONAL AGREEMENTS

A record from a system of records maintained by this Component may be disclosed to foreign law enforcement, security, investigatory, or administrative authorities in order to comply with requirements imposed by, or to claim rights conferred in international agreements and arrangements including those regulating the stationing and status in foreign countries of Department of Defense military and civilian personnel.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO STATE AND LOCAL TAXING AUTHORITIES

Any information normally contained in IRS Form W-2 which is maintained in a record from a system of records maintained by this Component may be disclosed to State and local taxing authorities with which the Secretary of the Treasury has entered into agreements pursuant to Title 5, U.S.Code, Sections 5516, 5517, 5520, and only to those State and local taxing authorities for which an employee or military member is or was subject to tax regardless of whether tax is or was withheld. This routine use is in accordance with Treasury Fiscal Requirements Manual Bulletin Nr. 76-07.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO THE OFFICE OF PERSONNEL MANAGEMENT

A record from a system of records subject to the Privacy Act and maintained by this component may be disclosed to the Office of Personnel Management concerning information on pay and leave, benefits, retirement deductions, and any other information necessary for the Office of Personnel Management to carry out its legally authorized Government-wide personnel management functions and studies.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE OF INFORMATION TO NARS (GSA)

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service of the General Services Administration in records management inspections conducted under authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, EDUCATION, AND WELFARE

All systems of records relating to compensation, employment or retirement, or extracts therefrom, maintained by this Component may be disclosed as a routine use to the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare for the purpose of comparing such record with records of programs administered by and in the possession of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare in order to verify information where such verification is required by law or regulation or to identify violations or potential violations of law, whether criminal, civil, or regulatory, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto.

WUSUO1

System name:

Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences (USUHS) Personnel files.

System location:

A central personnel record file will be maintained at USUHS Personnel/Manpower Directorate, 4301 Jones Bridge Road, Bethesda, Md. 20014. Copies of 171's and curriculum vitae's of applicants and employees will be maintained in the Personnel/Manpower Directorate by the Dean of the School of Medicine, and by the Department Chairperson, having a need for the information. A supplemental file consisting of summary data on each civilian employee will be stored in the computer at Bolling Air Force Base (AFB), Washington, D.C. 20332; for military personnel assigned to USUHS: at Walter Reed Army Medical Center (WRAMC) military personnel office, National Naval Medical Center (NNMC) military personnel office, Andrews Air Force Base (AFB) personnel office and at Public Health Service (PHS) personnel office, Parklawn Bldg., Rockville, Md. 20850. Home phone numbers of key personnel will be provided to other key personnel, and those of students to other students on a need-to-know basis, and only with the express permission of the individual concerned, for an emergency call system. Biographical information on students to be maintained in the Commandant's office.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Records will be maintained on all personnel assigned to USUHS full-time and part-time.

Categories of records in the system:

The type of information which will be maintained on employees is as follows: Identity and demographic information (e.g., Social Security Number (SSN), name, sex, address, birth date, minority status, etc.); Academic and experience background data consisting of: (1) Schools attended; (2) Degrees earned; (3) Work experience, awards, etc.; (4) Letters of reference, performance evaluation, etc.; (5) Time and attendance cards; and (6) Biographical data file.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

Title 10, United States Code, Section 136.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

INTERNAL USERS, USES, AND PURPOSES

The System will be used for documenting the work experience of applicants and USUHS personnel and for notification of key personnel in case of emergency during nonworking hours. Biographical data file will be used for providing background information on USUHS students to lecturers.

EXTERNAL USERS, USES, AND PURPOSES

See Office of the Secretary of Defense (OSD) Blanket Routine Uses at the head of this Component's published system notices.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Material stored in file folders at USUHS, supported by automated copies of pertinent data of each employee's folder which are maintained on magnetic tape and disk at USUHS Personnel/Manpower Directorate, Bethesda, Md. 20014.

Retrievability:

The system will be indexed by name and Social Security Number (SSN). Also, any combination of data in the file can be used to select individual data. Only Personnel/Manpower Directorate personnel will be provided with the password that allows access to the data, and those individuals are authorized access to all data in the file. Records will be available to: The individual concerned. Employees of USUHS on a need-to-know basis. Other agencies of the Government to satisfy requests for routine reports.

Safeguards:

The files will be maintained in securable file cabinets located in a limited access area at the University. The computer hardware, disks, tapes and other material, are secured in locked cabinets in a controlled and guarded area. Access is via controlled dial-in and is password controlled.

Passwords are changed semiannually, or upon the departure of any person knowing the password.

The automated system is operated by USUHS Personnel/Manpower Directorate personnel and only those personnel will be given the password and user identification information needed to access the computer system. Those persons are authorized access to all fields in the data base. While the file is primarily indexed on Social Security Number (SSN), and name, any combination of fields and data within fields can be used to select individual records.

Retention and disposal:

Indefinite files that are retained while the individual is employed and then retired.

System manager(s) and address:

The personnel officer of the University will be the custodian of this file (business address: 4301 Jones Bridge Road, Bethesda, Md. 20014, telephone: 202-295-3080).

Notification procedure:

Inquiries regarding the personnel files should be directed to the System Manager.

Record access procedures:

Information on the procedures for gaining access to and contesting records will be furnished each employee by the Personnel Office upon entry on duty with USUHS.

Contesting record procedures:

The Agency's rules for access to records and for contesting contents and appealing initial determinations by the individual concerned are contained in 32 CFR 286b and OSD Administrative Instruction No. 81.

Record source categories:

Information contained in the file is furnished by the employee, supervisors and references supplied by the employee.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act:

None.

WUSUO3

System name:

Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences (USUHS) Student Record System.

System location:

The file will be maintained in the Registrar's Office, USUHS, 4301 Jones Bridge Road, Bethesda, Maryland 20014.

Supplemental files consisting of student evaluation forms, grades, and course examinations pertaining to their department will be maintained in each department by departmental chairmen, as well as in the Registrar's Office.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Records will be maintained on all students who martriculate to the University.

Categories of records in the system:

Grade reports and instructor evaluations of performance/achievement; transcripts summarizing by course title, grade, and credit hours; records of awards, honors, or distinctions earned by students; and data carried forward from the Applicant File System, which includes records containing personal data, e.g., name, rank, Social Security Number (SSN), undergraduate school, academic degree(s), current addresses, course grades, and grade point average from undergraduate work and other information as furnished by nonGovernment agencies such as the American Medical College Admission Service which certifies all information prior to being submitted to the University.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

Public Law 92-426, Chapter 104, Section 2114.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

INTERNAL USERS, USES, AND PURPOSES

The system will be used for: recording internships, residencies, types of assignment and other career performance data on USUHS graduates; providing academic data to each student upon request, e.g., transcripts, individual course grades, grade point average, etc.; providing academic data within the Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences for official use only purposes; and providing data to the respective Surgeons General when a specific and authorized need requires it.

EXTERNAL USERS, USES, AND PURPOSES

Academic data may be provided to other educational institutions upon the written request of a student.

For other external uses, see Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences (USUHS) Blanket Routine Uses at the head of this Component's published system notices.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Paper records in file folders are stored at USUHS, supported by automated copies of subsets of each student's folder, which are maintained on magnetic tape and disk at the Air Force Data Services Center (AFDSC) in the Pentagon, Washington, D.C.

Retrievability:

The system will be indexed by name and Social Security Number (SSN). Also any combination of data in the file can be used to select individual records. Only personnel in the Office of the Registrar will be provided with the password that allows access to the data, and those individuals are authorized access to all data in the file.

Safeguards:

Current hardcopy records, prior to processing for computer storage are retained in a safe located in a limited access area at the University. The initial source of automated data on each student is transferred directly from the admission system, WUSU04, when each new class is admitted. Only data for enrolled students is transferred. Teaching facility, instructor, course, and grade information are entered by Registrar personnel as they are received. Transcripts, Course Rosters, and Grade reports are produced at the terminal upon request by the Registrar's personnel. Approval special requests for data can be supported by ad hoc inquiry. Any combinations of data can be used to select individual records for special processing.

The computer facility is operated by the Air Force Data Services Center, the Pentagon, Washington, D.C. The computer hardware, disks, tapes and other materials are secured in an alarmed controlled and guarded area. Access is via access list, escort, or controlled dial-in to the unclassified computers, located in the center. Dial-in access for all system users is password controlled.

All access to AFDSC computers is via user identification and sign-on password, whether from a hardwired terminal or dial-in terminal. Computer software ensures that only properly identified users can access the Privacy Act files on this sytem. Passwords are changed semiannually, or upon the departure of any person knowing the password.

Hardcopy files are stored at the University, and computer files are stored on magnetic tape and disc at the Air Force Data Services Center in the Pentagon, Washington, D.C. The remote terminal retains no data.

The automated system is operated by Data Base Management System. In addition to the sign-on password, this system allows a user to access only those specific files authorized that user. Only Registrar personnel will be given the password and identification information needed to access the computer system. Those persons are authorized access to all fields in the data base. While the file is primarily indexed on Social Security Number (SSN), and name, any combination of fields and data within fields can be used to select individual records.

Retention and disposal:

Records will be maintained permanently.

System manager(s) and address:

The Registrar, USUHS, 4301 Jones Bridge Road, Bethesda, Maryland 20014.

Notification procedure:

Information may be obtained from: Mr. Peter J. Stavish, Registrar, USUHS, Bethesda, Maryland 20014. Telephone: 202-295-2295/6.

Record access procedures:

Requests to review individual student's records may be made by telephone or visit to the Registrar's office, USUHS, 4301 Jones Bridge Road, Bethesda, Maryland 20014.

Written requests should include name, Social Security Number (SSN), and dates attended.

Contesting record procedures:

The Agency's rules for access to records and for contesting contents and appealing initial determinations by the individual concerned are contained in 32 CFR 286b and OSD Administrative Instruction No. 81.

Record source categories:

Information is furnished by instructor personnel; the individual concerned; the National Board of Medical Examiners; and the Applicant File System.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act:
