

between the Natural Resources Defense Council, the Department of Justice, and the Department of the Interior for the settlement of a lawsuit challenging the inadequacy of the environmental documentation prepared for the 1987 and 1988 amendments to the RRA rules and regulations. Reclamation agreed to propose new regulations as part of a new rulemaking proceeding that comprehensively reexamines implementation of the RRA, and prepare an EIS considering the impacts of the proposed regulations and alternatives. The FEIS represents a modification of the DEIS based upon public comments.

Six alternatives—including no action and preferred—are presented in the FEIS. They encompass varying levels of regulation to implement the RRA on a westwide basis. This is an EIS in which existing information was used in conjunction with the development of specific assumptions to estimate a range of potential environmental impacts resulting from specific rule changes. While the significance of these impacts on a westwide basis is small, localized impacts could be significant for some alternatives.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

Persons performing tasks and certain required examinations at coal mines which are related to miner safety and health, and which require specialized experience, are required to be either "certified" or "qualified" to carry out these duties. The regulations recognize State certification and qualification programs. However, where state programs are not available, under the Mine Act and MSHA standards, the Secretary may certify and qualify persons for as long as they continue to satisfy the requirements needed to obtain the certification or qualification, fulfill any applicable retraining requirements, and remain employed at the same mine or by the same independent contractor.

Applications for Secretarial certification must be submitted to the MSHA Qualification and Certification Unit in Denver, Colorado. Forms 5000-4 and 5000-7 provide the coal mining industry with a standardized reporting format which expedites the certification process while ensuring compliance with the regulations. The information provided on the forms enables the Secretary of Labor's delegate—MSHA, Qualification and Certification Unit—to determine if the applicants satisfy the requirements to obtain the certification or qualification. Persons must meet certain minimum experience requirements depending on the type of certification or qualification applied for.
