[Region 2 Docket No. R02-OAR-2004-NY-0001; FRL-7852-5]

Approval and Promulgation of Implementation Plans; New York State Implementation Plan Revision

AGENCY: Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is approving a request from New York to revise its State Implementation Plan (SIP) for ozone to incorporate revisions to subpart 227-2 "Reasonably Available Control Technology (RACT) for Oxides of Nitrogen (NO_x)" of Part 227 "Stationary Combustion Installations" of title 6 of the Official Compilation of Codes, Rules and Regulations of the State of New York (6NYCRR). The revision relates to the control of oxides of nitrogen emissions from stationary industrial sources. This SIP revision consists of a control measure needed to meet the shortfall in emissions reduction identified by EPA in New York's one-hour ozone attainment demonstration SIP.

The intended effect of this rule is to approve a control strategy which will result in emission reductions that will help achieve attainment of the national ambient air quality standard for ozone required by the Clean Air Act.

EFFECTIVE DATE: This rule will be effective February 14, 2005.

I. What Action Is EPA Taking Today?

EPA is approving a revision to New York's ground level ozone State Implementation Plan (SIP) which New York submitted on February 18, 2004. The SIP revision includes amendments to the following two regulations: Subpart 227-2 entitled "Reasonably Available Control Technology (RACT) for Oxides of Nitrogen (NO_x)" of part 227 entitled, "Stationary Combustion Installation;" and subpart 201-3 entitled, "Exemptions and Trivial Activities," of part 201 entitled, "Permits and Registration," all of which are part of title 6 of the New York Codes of Rules and Regulations. These amended rules were adopted on January 9, 2004. New York submitted the regulations in order to strengthen its one-hour ozone SIP. New York amended subpart 227-2 for the purpose of achieving additional reductions of NO_x emissions in response to emission reduction shortfalls identified by EPA (64 FR 70364; December 16, 1999) for attainment of New York's one-hour ozone standard. New York amended subpart 201-3 to be consistent with amendments to subpart 227-2. EPA has determined that New York's submittal is fully approvable as a SIP strengthening measure for New York's one-hour ground level ozone SIP. The reader is referred to the proposed rulemaking (69 FR 59839; October 6, 2004) for additional details.

II. What Comments Were Received and How Has EPA Responded to Them?

The public comment period on EPA's proposed approval of New York's February 18, 2004 SIP submittal ended on November 5, 2004. EPA received no comments on the proposed approval action.

III. What Role Does This Rule Play in the Ozone SIP?

When EPA evaluated New York's one-hour ozone attainment demonstrations, EPA determined that additional emission reductions were needed for the State's severe nonattainment area in order for the State to attain the one-hour ozone standard with sufficient surety (64 FR 70364; December 16, 1999). EPA provided that the states in the Ozone Transport Region could achieve these emission reductions through regional control programs. New York decided to participate with the other states in the Northeast in an Ozone Transport Commission (OTC) regulatory development effort which lead to six model control measures. The New York rule, which was adopted by the State on January 9, 2004, incorporates a portion of the OTC model rule for additional NO_x control measures. The emission reductions from this control measure will provide additional emission reductions towards attaining the one-hour ozone standard and will be important in attaining the 8-hour ozone standard.

IV. What Are EPA's Conclusions?

EPA has evaluated New York's submittal for consistency with the Clean Air Act, EPA regulations, and EPA policy. The proposed new control measures will strengthen the SIP by providing additional NO_x emission reductions. Accordingly, EPA is approving the revision to subpart 227-2, as adopted on January 9, 2004, into New York's ozone SIP. Because of previous changes to subpart 201-3 independent of today's rulemaking, EPA will take action on the revisions to subpart 201-3, as adopted by New York on January 9, 2004, at a later date.

In revising subpart 227-2, New York deleted the final compliance date applicable to sources because the date had passed, and sources are now expected to be in compliance. EPA believes that the deletion makes it less clear to sources obligated to comply with the May 31, 1995 compliance date in the Clean Air Act and in the previously approved SIP that they are obliged to have complied by that date. Nevertheless, deletion of the date does not eliminate the effective date established by the prior SIP approved rule or the Clean Air Act and thus does not impact on the State and EPA's authority to enforce. In the event EPA needs to take enforcement action, it will base penalties for noncompliance on the final compliance date in effect at the time of the violation.

V. Administrative Correction to Section 52.1679 EPA-Approved New York State Regulations

New York submitted part 215 "Open Fires" (state effective date June 16, 1972) as part of the SIP and EPA incorporated it into the SIP (see 40 CFR 52.1670(c)(6)). In a subsequent SIP revision dated August 10, 1979 the State submitted a request to incorporate additional regulations and include current versions of the regulations previously included in the SIP. One of these regulations was part 215.

In EPA's proposed approval of the August 10, 1979 SIP revision (46 FR 19829; April 1, 1981) EPA stated that part 215 had not been changed from the version that was incorporated into the SIP and that no further action was necessary. EPA finalized that rulemaking on November 12, 1981 (46 FR 55690) and created a table of approved regulations in section 52.1679 "EPA-approved New York State regulation." However, part 215 was inadvertently not included in the section 52.1679 table.

As part of today's rulemaking, EPA is correcting this omission and is adding part 215 to the table of approved New York regulations.

VI. Statutory and Executive Order Reviews

Under Executive Order 12866 (58 FR 51735, October 4, 1993), this action is not a "significant regulatory action" and therefore is not subject to review by the Office of Management and Budget. For this reason, this action is also not subject to Executive Order 13211, "Actions Concerning Regulations That Significantly Affect Energy Supply, Distribution, or Use" (66 FR 28355, May 22, 2001). This action merely approves state law as meeting Federal requirements and imposes no additional requirements beyond those imposed by state law. Accordingly, the Administrator certifies that this rule will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities under the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.). Because this rule approves pre-existing requirements under state law and does not impose any additional enforceable duty beyond that required by state law, it does not contain any unfunded mandate or significantly or uniquely affect small governments, as described in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995 (Pub. L. 104-4).

This rule also does not have tribal implications because it will not have a substantial direct effect on one or more Indian tribes, on the relationship between the Federal Government and Indian tribes, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities between the Federal Government and Indian tribes, as specified by Executive Order 13175 (65 FR 67249, November 9, 2000). This action also does not have Federalism implications because it does not have substantial direct effects on the States, on the relationship between the national government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government, as specified in Executive Order 13132 (64 FR 43255, August 10, 1999). This action merely approves a State rule implementing a Federal standard, and does not alter the relationship or the distribution of power and responsibilities established in the Clean Air Act. This rule also is not subject to Executive Order 13045 "Protection of Children from Environmental Health Risks and Safety Risks" (62 FR 19885, April 23, 1997), because it is not economically significant.

In reviewing SIP submissions, EPA's role is to approve state choices, provided that they meet the criteria of the Clean Air Act. In this context, in the absence of a prior existing requirement for the State to use voluntary consensus standards (VCS), EPA has no authority to disapprove a SIP submission for failure to use VCS. It would thus be inconsistent with applicable law for EPA, when it reviews a SIP submission, to use VCS in place of a SIP submission that otherwise satisfies the provisions of the Clean Air Act. Thus, the requirements of section 12(d) of the National Technology Transfer and Advancement Act of 1995 (15 U.S.C. 272 note) do not apply. This rule does not impose an information collection burden under the provisions of the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (44 U.S.C. 3501 et seq.).

The Congressional Review Act, 5 U.S.C. 801 et seq., as added by the Small Business Regulatory Enforcement Fairness Act of 1996, generally provides that before a rule may take effect, the agency promulgating the rule must submit a rule report, which includes a copy of the rule, to each House of the Congress and to the Comptroller General of the United States. EPA will submit a report containing this rule and other required information to the U.S. Senate, the U.S. House of Representatives, and the Comptroller General of the United States prior to publication of the rule in the Federal Register. A major rule cannot take effect until 60 days after it is published in the Federal Register. This action is not a "major rule" as defined by 5 U.S.C. 804(2).

Under section 307(b)(1) of the Clean Air Act, petitions for judicial review of this action must be filed in the United States Court of Appeals for the appropriate circuit by March 14, 2005. Filing a petition for reconsideration by the Administrator of this final rule does not affect the finality of this rule for the purposes of judicial review nor does it extend the time within which a petition for judicial review may be filed, and shall not postpone the effectiveness of such rule or action. This action may not be challenged later in proceedings to enforce its requirements. (See section 307(b)(2).)
